WILL APPEAL CONVICTION

Double Standard Enforcement Of Liquor Laws Is Charged

By ADRIENNE BOSWORTH
Spectator Special Correspondent

A Columbus tavern manager hopes to convince the 10th District Court of Appeals (Franklin County) that a double standard exists for enforcing state liquor laws.

Louis Tsakiries, manager of the 696 Club at 696 N. High-st, plans to appeal his conviction for serving a drunk, claiming the liquor control act is administered unfairly and in violation of the equal protection clause of the United States and Ohio constitutions.

In finding Tsakiries guilty last week, Columbus Municipal Court Judge Dean Strausbaugh ruled the constitutionality issue "not relevant to the case." But defense attorneys William Abraham and David R. Purkey said they will present their case to the higher court.

During the two - day court trial, Abraham and Purkey contended that taverns and carryouts are fair game for enforcement agents while country clubs and state liquor stores are not.

Clio Cook Letter

Key point in the defense's case is the letter written by Ohio Liquor Director Donald Cook and sent only to private and country clubs (D-4 permits) throughout the state last summer. The letter made a polite request for compliance with state liquor laws, asking that clubs not serve alcoholic beverages on Sunday.

Cook and his deputy director, Floyd Moon, in court, both admitted they had received complaints about Sunday drinking at country clubs. Cook said his letter to the D-4 permit holders was sent out after he received the complaints.

However, both men said they did not know whether agents were sent to investigate following the complaints.

Although Cook was ordered to bring to court all records of citations to country clubs and state retail stores in Franklin County, the director said they would be impossible to gather on short notice.

But Moon later described a master file in the enforcement division containing on a separate card the violation record, if any, of each permit holder in the state. Moon reported it took him five minutes to get the citation and arrest record for the 696 Club.

Of 1,800 citations and 1,400 arrests on liquor law violations in Ohio in 1964, Moon said he did not recall any relating to country clubs and state liquor stores, whereas a great number involved taverns and carryouts.

Cook emphasized that it is the department's policy to have steady year-round enforcement on all types of permit holders. But because of limited manpower the department operates primarily on complaints.

"When you received complaints about country clubs, were agents sent?" Abraham asked.

"I don't know," Cook replied.

Asked whether he was personally aware that country clubs were violating the law, Cook said no.

Police Chief Testifies

Gearing the question specifically to Columbus, defense attorneys called Police George Scholer to the stand.

Scholer said he did not know of any arrests for liquor law violation in country clubs or state liquor stores.

The police chief said he did not know why there had been no arrests. "Apparently it has not been brought to the attention of the police. Generally, we operate when there are complaints or when information is brought to our attention."

Asked whether he believed enforcement of the liquor laws was discriminatory, Scholer replied firmly, "No."

Judge Strausbaugh, delivering his guilty verdict, said he did not feel "there has been intentional or unintentional discrimination" in administration of the liquor control act.

He agreed there "has not been universal enforcement," but said he felt enforcement officers "must operate on complaints due to the probable volume of complaints and the probable shortage of manpower."

Following routine procedures, defense attorneys moved for a new trial. The motion was held pending until Dec. 1 to allow time for the trial transcript to be prepared. At that time it is expected the judge will deny the motion, clearing the way for the case to be appealed.

TO HEAD MD DRIVE

SALLY FLOWERS, local TV personality, will head this year's Muscular Dystrophy fund-raising drive. Judge Tom Moody, left, of 1365 Devonshurst-dr, president of the Franklin County Chapter, presents her with a MD volunteer decal. Sunday, Nov. 14, has been set for the door-to-door march in which 3500 women will take part.

Franklin County Red Cross Picks Officers, Board

Paul L. Jones, retired resident manager of General Motors Ternstedt plant, was elected chairman of the Franklin County Chapter, American Red Cross, at the chapter's recent annual meeting.

Jones, 3812 Riverview-dr, succeeds Richard A. Borel, 5282 River Forest-rd, Dublin, who served as chapter chairman for the past two years.

Other officers elected by the board of directors include Dr. Harold H. Eibling, first vice-chairman; David Cheses, second vice-chairman; Kline L. Roberts, third vice-chairman; Mrs. Tahlman Krumm, 65 Meadow-pk, secretary, and John H. Kreinbihl, treasurer.

Newly elected to the board of directors were William O. Anderson, John D. Bateman and David Kass.

Other board members in addition to the officers are J. Richard Argo, John P. Biehn, Richard A. Borel, John W. E. Bowen, Richard J. Brentlinger, Rev. Chalmers Coe, Edward J. Coughlin, Dr. W. Arthur Cullman, Drew L. Davies, M.D., William R. Diehl Jr., William B. Fleming, Howard C. Franz, Robert W. Greer, Mrs. P. Webster Huntington, John G. McCoy, Mrs. Allen R. Rankin, William A. Scheurer, Mrs. R. Malcolm Scovil, Mrs. Calvin Stacey, Fredrick Stecker, Herschel S. Stephan, Mrs. Jack Neal Taylor, Robert D. Thomas, Henry L. Wagner, Carroll Weir and William H. Yahn.

A third honorary board member position was filled with the election of Mrs. John H. Hislop. Two other honorary members are Charles A. Doan, M.D., and Paul R. Gingher.

First Aid Instructor Courses Are Available

Franklin County Chapter American Red Cross announces two first aid instructor courses will be given in the new headquarters at 995 E. Broad-st.

The first course will be held Mondays and Wednesdays from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. starting Nov. 15. The second will begin Nov. 22 from 1 to 4 p.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays. Each course will be for five weeks.

Application blanks can be obtained by calling Red Cross Headquarters at 253-7981 which must be returned by Nov. 12.

YOUNG GETS THE 'CHESTNUT'

'Last Battle' Shaping Up For Central Market

By FRANK RYAN

Battle plans are being drawn by both proponents and opponents of the plan to execute a long-term "subsidy" lease between the City of Columbus and the Central Market Association.

The lame duck Republican City Council is engaged in a last-ditch effort to negotiate and approve a lease before its term ends Dec. 31. Opponents of the measure are contemplating court action, or a possible compromise agreement.

Council's plan became clear Monday night with passage of a resolution directing City Attorney John C. Young to complete negotiations and present a lease agreement for council action. Council's action took the lease signing authority away from Service Director Warren J. Cremean, who has been working with the city attorney's office on negotiations.

Council acted after a letter from Cremean to Councilman Ronald DeVore cited impediments to a workable lease agreement.

In his letter Cremean pointed out that DeVore and Central Market representatives had asked for lease revisions which would extend the proposed agreement beyond the intent expressed in the council ordinance covering the lease.

Commenting on the revisions, Cremean's letter said in part:

"I cannot personally agree that it is in the best interest of the city to incorporate a provision permitting other use of the property under the same lease provisions relative to rental, etc. Also, I believe this office might be severely criticized if we committed the city to purchase in the future this property or assume the mortgage provisions in case of default by the market people."

Commenting on the council action, Young told The Spectator:

"Evidently, I'm merely the one who is supposed to finish negotiations and enter into the lease. What we thought we would do is just short-cut the whole procedure and get it done pretty quick . . . I would presume we could get it done this week some time—as fast as possible."

When the Central Market question was being discussed early in the councilmanic campaign, Young had said of the proposed deal:

"If the only way they (market operators) can survive is by city subsidy, that is not good . . .

From Eastern Spectator Area Sources

Whitehall-Yearling Columnist Is Named

A senior journalism student at Whitehall-Yearling who is also on the publication staffs of the school newspaper, "Ramble," and yearbook, "Aries," is serving as school correspondent for The Spectator.

Her column on the scholastic and social events at the school appears each week in The Spectator.

Kristin Cottingham is a varsity cheerleader and plays clarinet in the school concert band. She has her sights set on college after graduation, for a career in education or business administration.

Kristin's two sisters, Melissa and Robin, are both graduates of Whitehall-Yearling, and her younger brother, Tommy Tinker, is a student at Beechwood Elementary.

Eastmoor Teens Ask Aid For 'Wee Ones'

Eastmoor 'Y' Teens will hold a collection drive for the Peck O' Wee Ones, 4214 E. Broad-st, Saturday, Nov. 13. The teens will collect towels, sheets, baby clothes, especially pajamas, baby food and any other household items. The Peck O' Wee Ones is a home for mentally retarded children. The drive will be conducted on the East Side.

AN EDITORIAL

Ram Seen As Bad Politics

Why the big rush by the lame duck Columbus City Council to ram through the Central Market giveaway lease to allow re-building of a downtown markethouse?

The council resolution directing City Attorney John C. Young to complete negotiations of a lease agreement between the City and the Central Market Association is high-handed politics at its worst.

The plan, of course, is to bring a lease agreement to council in sufficient time to override an expected veto by Mayor Sensenbrenner. To do this, Council set the precedent of substituting Young for Columbus Service Director Warren J. Cremean.

The city attorney told The Spectator that his part in the lease question is —as in all functions of his office — to determine that all is done legally. But, if he agrees to assume duties heretofore reserved to the service director, then he must assume responsibility for more than the legal soundness of any final lease agreement.

Three of the Republican councilmen who advocated use of public funds to subsidize the private enterprise venture were voted out of office. Their "public-be-damned" attitude on the Central Market issue certainly was not worthy of the support given by council holdovers Ronald DeVore, who sponsored the resolution, Mrs. Golda May Edmondston and William P. Hoarmle.

The Central Market question — like the other prime issues of the election campaign — should be settled by the newly elected council, not by the lame duck councilmen who have been turned out by an aroused electorate.

Bexley Council Considers College Traffic, Capital Expansion Plans

Traffic on College-av, congested from parking by Capital University students, and the university's expansion plans concerned Bexley Council at its regular session.

Irate residents appeared to protest the dangers of heavy traffic on College with parking permitted on both sides of the narrow, 24-foot street.

And Virgil H. Dassel, vice-president of Capital's finincial affairs, was informed that plans for using their newly-purchased, former Lex Mayer's showroom were not in keeping with the city's zoning code.

Council also expressed their concern that the university expansion plans were not following the direction that President Harold Yochum had outlined.

The problem of backing onto College-av, in the path of heavy traffic with vision obscured by parking on both sides, were discussed by residents of the street.

They asked that parking be prohibited on one side, or be limited.

And a complaint that driveways were sometimes blocked by autos drew a suggestion from President Charles Kurtz He commented that when he had experienced a similar situation at his home, he found that letting the air out of offenders' tires soon corrected the situation.

College-av will receive immediate attention from Council now that Livingston-av is opened and the true traffic picture may be viewed.

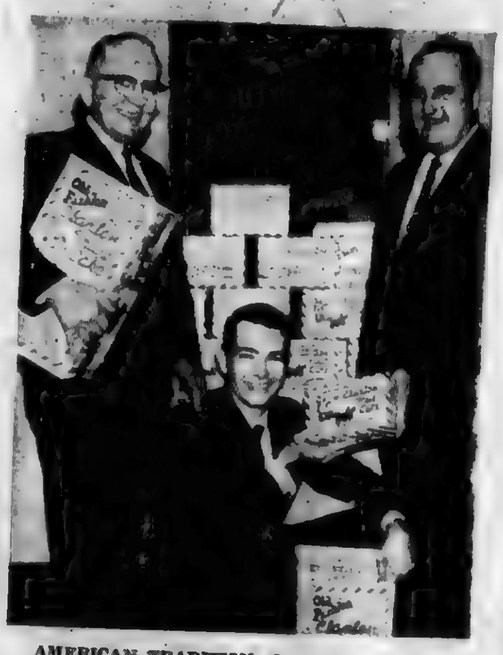
Capital's plan to use the former Lex Mayer showroom —a classroom in front and storage in the rear—are not included in the building's zoning classification.

Dassell was told that the university's proposal should be submitted in writing along with a request for a permit. Council did issue a temporary permit to allow student parking on the lot until permanent approval is given.

Two weeks ago construction on the new campus center was halted until a building permit was obtained from council.

Civitan Fruitcake Sale Starts

Fruitcakes for servicemen away from home, as well as for gifts and family enjoyment, is the seasonal suggestion of Civitan Club of Southeast Columbus.



Members will also package, mail and pay postage on cakes in three pound size or larger for servicemen serving anywhere outside the United States.

Claxton fruitcakes, at $1 a pound, may be ordered in any quantity from club members or by calling the chairman, Thomas Adolph, at Adolph Insurance Agency, 2607 E. Main-st, 235-6867. Proceeds finance community service projects.

Fruitcakes are available for immediate delivery, or they may be reserved for a later date.

The new club, now in its charter year, is headed by Col. Chalmers, retired Army officer. Dinner meetings are held the second and fourth

$980,000 Sewer Job Approved

Award of a contract for construction of the third section of the five-part Big Walnut Sanitary Outfall Sewer was rescheduled for this week after approval by Columbus City Council on a $980,000 appropriation.

Complete General Construction Co., Columbus, submitted the low bid of $958,049 at the Oct. 26 bid opening. The project will extend northeast from Lockbourne-rd for about 6,000 feet.

When completed, the five sections will extend between the new Southerly Sewage

Vandals Wreck Big Walnut Facilities Before Completion

Vandalism at Big Walnut Park, now under development south of Livingston-av, just east of Walnut Ridge High School, hit a new high Monday night, according to a City Parks and Forestry official.

The senseless destruction has already added $1000 to the cost — in terms of labor and replacement materials — of the restroom even before it was completed, and is slowing work on the shelter house, now under construction, and skyrocketing its cost.

Monday night's havoc, according to Roger Wells, landscape architect, was, "all the fixtures in the restrooms — toilets were broken to pieces with hammers or rocks — all the doors were dismantled, and a fire was started in the restroom."

The park, along scenic Big Walnut Creek, could be one of the loveliest in the city, and the facility would be a desirable addition to the community of higher cost homes — providing it can be finished.

"The contractor has to keep a guard on duty," Wells continued, "just to keep them from destroying the shelter house, as they did the rest room, while we're building it. And this is running our cost up even more."

Wells said vandals had torn down the concrete block walls of the restroom and storage are at night, destroying what had been built up during the day.

Development of the park is progressing much slower than had been hoped because of the delays in repairing and rebuilding. And the city will not be able to provide as much in the way of improvements as had been planned if the destruction continues to eat up the funds.

"There has got to be an answer to this problem, but we haven't found it yet," Wells said.

"Park police patrol the area regularly, but there are many city parks to cover; city police help all they can, but they're spread pretty thin, too."

Scholastic Honors

Student-of-the-month honors were added to outstanding scholartic honors earned this month by two Whitehall-Yearling seniors.

Kendall Lewis is one of 15 in central Ohio selected to attend the National Youth Conference on the Atom, to be held in Chicago Dec. 8 to 11.

And Wendy Brummel is a semi-finalist in the National Merit Scholarship Testing Program.

Kendall, who will enter college after graduation to study for a career as an electrical engineer, was named science "student of the year" in Central Ohio last year, and also placed fourth in the state in physics testing.

He has earned honors in science fairs on the local and regional level and has entered a project in the national science fair.

Wendy will attend college to major in classical languages, and is hoping to attain a Ph.D. degree. She is a member of MENSA, international society for persons with IQ in the upper two per cent, and placed third in the state in English in a sophomore testing program.

EASTMOOR TO PRESENT 'ANNE FRANK'

"AGEING" HAS TO HAPPEN fast for high school students to portray some of the older characters in "Anne Frank." Malcolm Sowald, to play Papa Frank in the play, is being fitted with a plastic "bald" head, and a hairpiece. Assisting are, from left, Sharyn Helton, who will play Mrs. Vandaan; Judy Becker, to be Anne Frank and Diane Dildine, in charge of make up. Mark Ellinger, student director is at back. The dramatics class at Eastmoor High will present the play Friday and Saturday, Nov. 19 and 20, 8 p.m. in the auditorium. Tickets, at $1, are available from the cast or at the door. Phillip Wilson is director.

Deadlines Early For Holiday

For all who must plan their advertising and publicity for The Spectator in advance, here's the word about deadlines for Thanksgiving week editions.

Display ad copy: for all-paper combinations, 5 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 18; for individual papers, 5 p.m. Friday, Nov. 19.

Classified ad copy: noon Monday, Nov. 22. (Switchboard will be open until 3:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 20.)

News deadlines: for social and church pages, 3 p.m. Friday, Nov. 19; all other, 10 a.m. Monday, Nov. 22.

The Spectator will be delivered the day before Thanksgiving.

Art Guild's Show Opens Sunday

Bexley Area Art Guild will stage its annual fall exhibit of paintings at Schumacher Gallery in Huber Hall, Capital University, Sunday, Nov. 14 thru Nov. 29.

Reception is planned on opening day, Sunday, 1 to 5 p.m.

Host and Hostesses will be Mrs. Helen Elberfield, Mrs. I. E. Jackson, Mrs. Bernard Ruben, Mrs. David Vogel, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Nowacki and Mr. and Mrs. Byron Kohn.

Exhibit chairman is Mrs. David Reynolds, and her committee includes Mrs. Roth Crabbe, Mrs. John Drake and Mrs. James Merkel.

Ribbons will be awarded in oil and in watercolor, for first, second, third places and three honorable mentions will be made in each category.

The show will be juried by Israel Abramofsky of Toledo, assisted by Paul Perlmutter.

Israel Abramofsky studied at Julian Academy, Paris, with Jean Paul Laurens and Lucien Simon, about 1911.

He has exhibited extensively at Chicago Institute, 1938; Jewish Museum in New York, 1950, and Library of Congress, Washington, D.C.

His work is reproduced in Frank Seiberling's "Looking Into Art" — Rasmusen's "Painting With Monotype" and he is listed in French Encyclopedia of Artists.

His work is included in collections at Luxembourg Gallery in Paris, Museum of Israel, Brooklyn Museum of Art, Toledo Museum of Art, Museums in Canton, Akron and Youngstown, Jewish Museum in New York, Hillel Foundation in Columbus and in many private collections.

Paul Perlmutter studied with Israel Abramofsky in Toledo, Art Students League in New York, with John Sloan, Boardman Robinson and briefly with Max Weber and Hans Hoffman.

He has had shows in Toledo Museum of Art and Bowling Green University, and was awarded, first, second and third prizes for oils and drawings in Toledo's annual area art shows, and first prizes in other Toledo area exhibitions.

Whitehall DE Students Mark National DECA Observance

National DECA Week, honoring Distributive Education Clubs of America, is being observed in Whitehall with a program of scheduled events by the DE Class.

DECA, the only national youth organization operating through public schools to attract young people to careers in marketing and distribution, is celebrating its 20th anniversary.

The national group, with 2000 DECA chapters and a membership of more than 62,00 students, conducts a program of scholarships, awards to outstanding students, and an annual student leadership conference.

Whitehall's DE program, formed in 1957, has graduated more than 175 members, and the school is now the only one in the state with classes for juniors as well as seniors.

For the past two years a member of Whitehall-Yearling chapter has served as regional president, and last year the group was named Outstanding Chapter of the Year in Ohio.

The week's observance has included presentation of awards to last year's employers of DE students for their cooperation in helping the chapter to become Ohio's best and an appearance on Radio Station WRFD last Saturday.

Club members were the guests of Whitehall Kiwanians at their Tuesday morning breakfast meeting and of Whitehall Lions at their Wednesday evening dinner meeting. They will "run city hall,' filling all municipal offices, on Friday.

Members have also distributed posters and bumper stickers throughout the city, and built a display at a local business firm and at the high school.

The chapter launched the observance last week by placing a full page ad in The Spectator.

Mary Mangia is student chairman of the week-long program. William Ruth is coordinator of the senior DE program, and Floyd Sayre coordinates the junior program.

Group R Will Gather At Jeffery Mansion

Group R, Ohio State University Mothers Club, will hve a luncheon Monday, Nov. 15, 12:30 p.m., at Jeffrey Mansion.

A small appliance demonstration will be given by a representative from the utility company.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Ruth Benedict, Mrs Harry Kallman, Mrs. Michael Zelizer, Mrs. N. Gorenstein, Mrs. Freda Levine, Mrs. Bernard Solomon and Mrs. Beltzehoover.

TO MEET TONIGHT

Heritage CCL will meet tonight, Nov. 11 at 8, at the home of Dorothy Mathney to hear Mrs. Lee Varga speak on "Christmas Craft Creations."

Maybe the city is merely prolonging the agony."

Opponents of the lease proposal may challenge Young's right to sign a lease agreement in an area where management is reserved by City Charter to the service director.

It is reported that some city officials would agree to a compromise that would install the present Central market merchants in the city's North Market at 39 Spruce-st.

One source pointed out that the center of population is north of Fifth-av, and asked: "Why not let the existing marketmen fill the space in the North Market which is now 75 percent empty?"

In recent years, one official pointed out, Central Market has been a losing proposition for the city. He questioned the investment of city funds in a new location while continuing to subsidize another losing proposition — the North Market.

BIDS FOR GASOLINE

Sealed proposals will be received by the Mayor of the City of Bexley, Ohio, at his office, 2242 East Main Street, Bexley, Ohio, until 12 o'clock noon, Nov. 30th, 1965, for the purchase of gasoline for the use of the trucks and automobiles belonging to the municipality during the year 1966, in the approximate amount of 25,000 gallons, said gasoline to conform to the specifications set forth and adopted in Ordinance No. 11-36 of said city which specifications are on file in the office of the Clerk of Council for the examination of bidders, or for an occasional order of what is termed "High Test" gasoline.

Deduct and no state any tax not applicable to City.

Envelopes should be plainly marked "Bids for Gasoline."

Each proposal shall contain the full name of every person, firm or corporation interested in the same, and shall be accompanied by a certified or Cashiers' check on a solvent Bank of Ohio in the amount of $100.00 payable to the Auditor of the City of Bexley, Ohio, as a guaranty that if the bid is accepted, a contract will be entered into and its performance properly secured. Should any bid be rejected, such check will be forthwith returned to the bidder, and should any bid be accepted, such check will be returned upon the proper execution and securing of the contract. Otherwise the same will be retained by the City if said conditions are not fulfilled.

Deliveries of gasoline to be on order of the Mayor, from time to time, throughout the said year in the tank now on the City property.

The right is reserved to reject any and all bids.

W. A. Schneider, Mayor
R. C. Linecott, Auditor and Clerk of Council

The Voters Have Spoken

Columbus voters delivered a clear, purposeful message to the officials they elected to office Nov. 2. It was, first and foremost, a mandate for "no nonsense" government.

The electorate was very selective in its choices, and partisan tags were subordinated to the important issue of progress versus stagnation in city government.

Mayor Sensenbrenner has every right to feel that the result in the council races was a vote of confidence in his administration. His main task over the next two years will be to justify that confidence of the people by advancing those programs he so steadfastly championed during the election campaign.

And the three Democrats elected to council must remember that they and the Sensenbrenner Administration won control of council by promising to pull in the same direction. Their one-vote margin on council can work to the benefit of the city only to the degree that they work in harmony.

In endorsing the three Democratic council candidates, we said:

"Given a working margin in council, with the checks and balances provided by an opposition party city attorney and auditor, Mayor Sensenbrenner will have no whipping boy should he fail to give Columbus the type of progressive government it deserves as Ohio's fastest growing city."

The newly-elected councilmen were urged by Sensenbrenner to show initiative, and to vote only for measures they feel to be beneficial to Columbus. We're sure they will have ample opportunity to demonstrate individual talents in total performance over the next four years.

But on the major issues enunciated during the campaign, the three newcomers to council pledged a unified course of action. They must now walk as councilmen the way they talked as candidates.

And there is an important message in the election returns for the holdover members of council. It is a promise that politically motivated obstructionism will reap repudiation at the polls. The voters proved that they can and will separate constructive criticism from personally or partisanly inspired harangues.

The substantial victory margins for the incumbents in the city attorney and auditor races proved again that faithful public service is still the best route to re-election. This message should not escape any officeholder.

Finally, the electorate told those in both the administrative and legislative branches of government to get on with the job of moving Columbus ahead. This was not a request, but a direct order from the boss — the voter. And it is a directive that all elected officials had better take seriously.

Formula For Progress

There is no limit to the good that can be accomplished for the total community when responsible government leadership and civic organizations join forces. An excellent example is the progress over the past year in the area of flood control, water supply and related problems.

For more than a half-century following the devastating flood of 1913, all flood control efforts ended in bitter frustration. Even the most sincere efforts fell short for lack of coordinated, widespread support.

But in 1964, things began to happen in a big way — and fast. The Scioto Conservancy District was poised to unleash a plan of action which had an attractive superficial glitter. But searching investigation by concerned civic leadership and the Sensehbrenner Administration revealed serious flaws in the SCD plan.

If past history had repeated itself, the SCD plan would have been scrapped, and the problem would have returned to its former hand-wringing status of "what to do, what to do?"

But in 1964, those who opposed the prevailing plan did more than condemn a bad plan. They exposed the flaws to public view, and, more important, they came up with a better, workable solution.

Consequently, the U.S. Corps of Engineers was asked to take over two of the most important projects — Alum Creek and Mill Creek; Congressional authorization for funding was secured; the projects were in the appropriations bill recently signed by President Johnson, and we now have a timetable for completion of the dams.

Alum Creek dam and reservoir, with its important water supply feature, will be completed in 1970. Mill Creek will follow a year later.

The cost to Columbus taxpayers will be about $12.6 million for the water supply portion of the Alum Creek project. Federal funds (our own tax dollars coming back) will cover the remaining costs for both projects. This compares to the SCD plan of total local financing which would have carried a $50-million price tag — mostly within Franklin County.

And construction of the projects by the Army Engineers means a much higher quality recreational adjunct than would otherwise have been possible. State and federal financing will be used for the recreation features.

Successful completion of the projects on schedule — or possibly ahead of schedule — will require continued coordination and cooperation between local, state and federal officials and advice and support of the civic groups.

In other words, all we have to do is continue the same successful formula which has worked so well over the past year. And we can do no better than to extend this formula into other areas of concern to the total community.

Baffling Bond Ballots

We can't help wondering how the Urban Renewal Bond Issue in Columbus and the countywide bond issue for the Juvenile Center might have fared had they been the only issues on the ballot.

There can be little doubt that the sweeping rejection of State Issue 1, locally and statewide, had an adverse effect on virtually all "tax" issues. But other factors must also be considered.

First, there are those voters, although small in number, who will say "no" to any bond issue, disregarding merit, cost or any other factor. It is not an intelligent way to cast a vote, but the vote counts all the same.

A larger number of voters follow a philosophy on issues which says "when in doubt, vote 'no'." And, particularly in the case of the urban renewal issue, this segment of the electorate might have been significant.

The urban renewal bond issue would NOT have meant any increase in taxes. But, to satisfy certain legal requirements, the proposal had to show what amount of taxation would be required if the measure were to be financed by a new tax levy.

It's true that the county bond issue for the Juvenile Center would have meant a tax increase. But the amount of increase to the average homeowner (30 cents a year) was so small and the need so great, that we are amazed that the issue lost.

We think bond issues would be better understood by electors if the required legalistic (and often ambiguous) phraseology were balanced with some straight layman language.

There is probably not a political candidate in existence who does not realize the necessity of presenting his message in terms the people will understand. Those who put questions and issues before the voter seem not to have learned this simple, important requirement.

The urban renewal and Juvenile Center improvement questions undoubtedly will be taken to the voters again. We hope the language on the ballot will be clear enough to eliminate voter confusion. Only then will the electorate be able to decide such issues on the basis of merit.

Calling Ohioans

By MICHAEL V. DiSALLE

After the municipal elections, party leaders are attempting to read the political tea leaves for portents of the future. National Republican Chairman Ray Bliss can find many encouraging signs as can National Democratic Chairman John Bailey. The Clarence Brown Republican congressional victory in Ohio's Seventh Congressional District cannot be classified as a great surprise. The election of three Democrats for a clean sweep in the Columbus councilmanic election might be called a surprise.

In Cleveland, Ralph Locher, a Democrat, ran a close but winning race against independent Democrat Carl Stokes while two other Ralphs—Perk (Republican), and McAllister (Independent Democrat) ran far behind. Republicans will find it difficult to secure much solace in the fact that their only county office holder was able to obtain 17 percent of the total vote cast for Mayor in Ohio's largest city.

Add to this the fact that the Cleveland City Council now has 31 Democrats as compared to two Republicans, and the Republican cause can hardly be considered bolstered by the election However, the Republicans did elect John Ballard as Mayor in normally-Democratic Akron, while losing city council by a 10 to three margin. John Potter, a Republican, was elected mayor of Toledo by a rather substantial majority over his endorsed Democratic opponent Ned Skeldon.

Governor Richard Hughes, Democrat of New Jersey, broke a 50- year Republican stranglehold on the New Jersey legislature with a mammoth victory. There, and in Virginia, Democratic victories were scored in spite of the visits of the Republican big guns.

1965 Election Analysis

The Republicans elected an avowed Democrat and Kennedy supporter as District Attorney in Philadelphia. But the major interest still rests with the results in New York. John Lindsay—who very carefully avoided being identified with the Republican party, emphasized his non-support of Barry Goldwater and maintained that any resemblance between him and any Republican living or dead was purely coincidental—was elected Mayor of New York City.

Immediately a talent-hungry Republican Party began to appraise John Lindsay's political future. Talk is being heard of various combinations for 1968 —Lindsay-Hatfield, Romney - Lindsay and other teams. There is no question that Lindsay's election will force his consideration by Republican party leaders. He is youthful, vigorous and handsome in the Kennedy tradition.

What must not be overlooked is that Lindsay beat the only prominent New York Democrat he could have beaten on Nov. 2, 1965. Looking back, experts of both parties feel that Frank O'Connor, Paul Screvane, Bob Wagner or F.D.R. Jr. might have been successful against Lindsay and would have been able to obtain Liberal Party support which instead went to Lindsay. Democrats were successful in every other major race including the New York City Council, and were able to retain control of the lower house of the General Assembly, which in the past has generally been controlled by Republicans.

It must be said that Ray Bliss has made a good start as Republican National Chairman, and has given Democrats cause to view the situation at least with concern if not with alarm. The Republican Party is stronger today because it has added some attractive office-holders to its arsenal of weapons.

How these candidates will look as public officials still remains to be tested. New York City is a tough governmental assignment for anyone. History does not demonstrate that New York City mayors have reached the Presidency. This will especially be the case if the national economy continues to prosper and Lyndon B. Johnson is the Democratic nominee for President.

Letters To The Editor

In Retrospect . . .

To the Editor:

Fornof and his running mates persistently characterized Messrs. Portman, Baumann and Woodland as Mayor Sensenbrenner's "stooges." The voters have rendered their verdict and have found Fornof's running mates guilty of being "stooges" of the intemperate, vituperative and abusive Fornof by reason of their imitating Fornof in their actions in City Council and by their public utterances during the election campaign.

However, I disagree with Mayor Sensenbrenner and Pat Phelan in their post mortem about the defeat of the Urban Renewal Bond Issue being caused by the defeat of Issue No. 1. The defeat of other bond issues here and around the state indicate to me that the people are finally waking up to the fact of the Rhodes-created $1.25-billion bonded indebtedness.

Prospective Democratic candidates for Governor ought to hammer upon this debt which must be paid out of taxes.

Joseph D. Bryan

This One Pleases

To the Editor:

Recently I complained about the article written by John Aubie, Jr., on "Go-Go" in Columbus.

Now this week I just want to say that he did find something good to write about. The article on George Jessel was very interesting and timely.

I would like to see a copy of it go to the boys in Viet Nam so they would know how most of America feels about them.

Praises Sports Writers

To the Editor:

I wish to praise your newspaper for the fine sports coverage you have given the high school football teams.

Every line is appreciated by the parents, fans and most of all by the players themselves. They work hard in their practices and games, but most of all they take more interest in school work.

You would have to be a parent to see the glitter in their eyes when they read their names in print, and are praised for the work they have done.

I know I speak for hundreds of parents in and around Columbus.

Lauds Festival Coverage

To the Editor:

The officers of the Hilltop Community Council wish to thank you for the very fine coverage of our Hilltop Community Arts Festival.

The Spectator is without a doubt the finest of neighborhood papers. It also covers every important civic issue in a fair and complete manner. We feel honored to have such a paper in our community, and to be given such space for our program and work as you have accorded us.

Grateful For Articles

To the Editor:

I would like to praise The Spectator for two articles which appeared Oct. 21—"Guest Pulpit" and "Don't Keep God a Secret" by Janet Michael.

I believe your paper will continue to grow when you can see a need to print such truths.

I look forward every Thursday for The Spectator's arrival on my porch.

To the Editor:

The All-Ohio Chapter of the Ninety-Nines wishes to thank you and your staff for your help in making our Penny-A-Pound Airlift a success.

Many of our passengers said they learned of our project through your fine paper.

Since this was such a success we are seriously considering another Penny-A-Pound for next year.

We airlifted 346 persons, a total of 38,096 pounds or in other words 19 tons of people.

A NOT-SO-GOLDEN AGE

by Jenkin Lloyd Jones
Editor, Tulsa (Okla.) Tribune

It was certainly a feat of journalistic enterprise when Morrill Goddard of the elder Joseph Pulitzer's "New York World" disguised himself as an undertaker's assistant and rode in the carriage of the widow to General Grant's funeral.

And William Randolph Hearst must be given credit for novelty in promoting his "New York Journal," even if he did break up a few marriages. He sent handwritten postcards signed "A Friend" to New York wives suggesting that they read a "Journal" series on wandering husbands.

But the theory, still held by some romanticists, that the bouncing, bell-roaring, fib-telling, hoax-peddling journalism of the turn of the century in New York was a Golden Age is questionable. One of Pulitzer's old city editors dubbed it "bedlam journalism."

Just 70 years ago, the 32-year-old Hearst, fired by the success of his "San Francisco Examiner," arrived in New York with $7 million, a gift from his mother. His chosen foe was Pulitzer, himself a carpetbagger from St. Louis, who had brass-banded three "Worlds" — morning, evening and Sunday — into the circulation leadership of New York in 12 riotous years.

Pulitzer, already half-blind, served up journalism for everybody. His morning paper endeared itself to the uplifters by crusading violently against public graft and private greed. The "Evening" and "Sunday Worlds" slavvered over vice and violence.

A little romancing to push an editorial policy was considered cricket. Once, during a feud with ice-vendors because they were closed on Sunday, Pulitzer's "Evening World" described a heart-breaking return of a mother to her sick child's bedside, conveniently omitting names and address:

> "I was kept away, darling. I couldn't get the ice because . . ." Suddenly the words died on her lips. She knelt by the bed and took the little wasted hand in hers. Then, raising her face she gazed up with dry eyes that yet saw nothing and whispered, "Thy will be done, O God!" For the child was dead!

Hearst, described by his former employe, Ambrose Bierce, as "having a manner that was a combination of Harvard and a faro-bank outlook, was no inventor, but he was a swell imitator. He determined to mix the crusading and sensationalism of the three "Worlds" and double it in spades. Where Pulitzer had patted himself on the back, Hearst hailed himself with calliopes. With great ostentation the young Californian arranged boat rides for slum waifs and rushed coffee and sandwiches to disaster scenes. Hearst writers also were under orders to mention the new comics whenever possible. One sob-sister combined these chores neatly:

> I was the first to reach the injured and dying. "God bless Mr. Hearst," a little child cried as I stooped to lave her brow. Then she smiled and died. I spread one of our comic supplements over the pale, still face and went on to distribute Mr. Hearst's generous bounty.

The power of the two giants was almost unlimited. Pulitzer, who tried to outshoot Hearst in demanding war with Spain, remarked, "I rather like the idea of war — not a big one — but one that will arouse interest and give me a chance to gauge the reflex in circulation figures." But Hearst, who tried to get unpopular employes to break their

THE SPECTATOR SUPPLEMENT

Spectator Endorsed 20; 18 Won

The Spectator Newspapers joined area politicos this year in the time-honored custom of focusing 20-20 hindsight on the Nov. 2 election results. The box score showed 18 of the 20 Spectator-endorsed candidates elected to office.

CLEAN SWEEP IN COLUMBUS

In the hotly-contested race for three Columbus City Council seats, The Spectator was the first major newspaper to endorse the three Democratic candidates. This was at a time when their most optimistic supporters would not predict a clean sweep for James L. Baumann, M.D. Portman and Donald L. Woodland.

All three won by substantial majorities over the three incumbent Republican councilmen.

All other Spectator-endorsed candidates in Columbus won by wide margins, including City Attorney John C. Young, Auditor John C. Price and Municipal Court Judges Alan E. Schwarzwalder and Kenneth L. Sater. All except Schwarzwalder are Republicans.

The Spectator was the only major publication to endorse candidates outside Columbus. This was in keeping with the belief that concern for good government should be stressed in all areas served, regardless of size.

ALL WON IN REYNOLDSBURG

In Reynoldsburg, the five candidates endorsed by the Spectator won impressive victories. They included Mayor George W. Twyford, Ward I Councilman Everett K. Landis and Ward II Councilman Bruce W. Porter, Democrats, and Republican Richard J. Daugherty (council president-elect) and Mrs. Kathryn Clymer, re-elected city auditor. Three of the five races involving endorsements were rated "toss-ups" prior to election day.

6-2 IN WHITEHALL

The Spectator endorsed eight candidates in Whitehall, four from each political party. Six won election to office.

In the mayor's contest, rated "very close" by both sides, The Spectator endorsed Paul J. Haytcher. He won a 255-vote victory over former four-term mayor Walter B. Moling, a Republican. Haytcher thus became the first Democratic mayor for the City of Whitehall.

The three other endorsed Democratic candidates won election, with incumbent Walter Heiber and solicitor candidate James M. Toomey winning by wide margins. Councilman-at-Large Marvin H. Levine won re-election by finishing third in the six-man field.

Two Spectator-endorsed Republican incumbents — Council President Walter J. Siemer and City Treasurer Francis E. (Red) Shaeffer — won re-election by substantial margins.

The two endorsed candidates who missed gaining their first terms of public office were Third Ward candidate John A. Bishop and council-at-large contender Theodore R. Harmony.

Harmony finished only 24 votes off the pace in the citywide race for a council seat — a most creditable performance for his first time before the voters. Bishop, endorsed as "the better of two candidates," challenged a hard-working Democratic candidate in a normally Democratic ward.

And Bishop's candidacy, election results indicate, was not helped by his open support for the soundly defeated recreation bond issue. Both Harmony and Bishop are being encouraged to remain active in Whitehall city affairs.

THE IMPORTANT THING . . .

The Spectator Newspapers will now watch with particular interest the performance records of the 18 endorsed candidates who won approval at the polls.

Endorsing candidates is always more difficult than just picking winners. But calling voter attention to candidates of particular qualifications is a responsible function the Spectator Newspapers will continue to exercise in future elections.

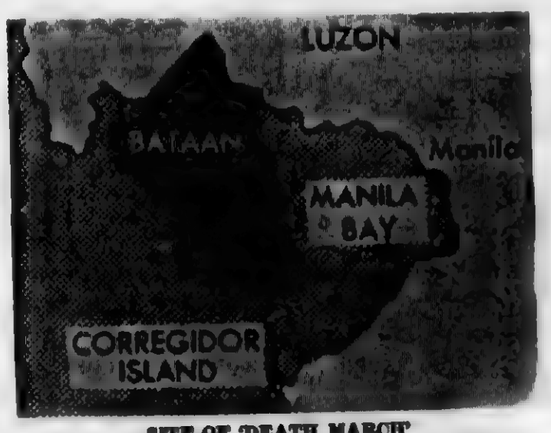
He Won't March In Veterans' Day Parade

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.
Spectator Staff Writer

Winfred Horace Adair served for more than nine years in the United States Army. He holds a Purple Heart and a citation with two oak-leaf clusters from former President Harry S. Truman.

Last week one of his friends asked this soldier to march in the Columbus Veterans' Day Parade today. He asked Winfred Horace Adair to walk, to step lively down Broad-st with other veterans and Adair said "no." He said he would not march. He said he had marched enough.

It was 23 years ago that Adair last marched for his country. It began on a cold morning Apr. 9, 1942, when he and members of the 17th Ordnance Company were penned in on a Philippine Island peninsula called Bataan.



It was a lousy morning. The 17th Ordnance Company had gone without food for at least three days. All of their ammunition was gone. There were no medical supplies. They were eating mule meat then — and wild pigs. Once in a while a water buffalo or a little rice.

Winfred Adair's stomach ached. There he was sitting in the mud in the Philippines — a young kid — a tank mechanic who missed Evansville, Ind., more then he'd ever missed anything before.

WAINWRIGHT IN COMMAND

Lieutenant General Jonathan M. Wainwright was there, too. Wainwright was in command now because General Douglas MacArthur was ordered to leave Bataan and report to Australia. Wainwright couldn't hold out that morning. Some 200,000 Japanese broke through the lines. Wainwright ordered his men to surrender.

Winfred Horace Adair wasn't sure what was going on. There were Japanese all around him now. One spoke English and gave the orders. The 17th Ordnance Company put all of its belongings into one big pile and lined up in columns as they were told.

SITE OF 'DEATH MARCH'

"Looks like we'll do a little walking," Adair said to one of his buddies.

"Yeah . . . where to?"

"I don't know," Adair said, the lines deepening below his red bushy hair.

With Japanese guards on each side of the huge columns of American soldiers, the march began. Slowly, at a normal pace. Walking, on feet with blisters, walking through the jungles of the Philippines not knowing how far they'd have to walk or where they were walking to or why they were walking.

HAD TO LEARN JAPANESE

The Japanese assigned numbers to each man. Winfred Adair was 6782. The interpreter told him the Japanese words for each number. Adair was "San sun, qu — oh, what the hell," he thought to himself.

But he had to learn it. Learning that number in Japanese — 6782 — meant life or death. You see, the Japanese would occasionally call out a number. If a man didn't answer, he'd be shot. Right where he stood they'd shoot him while everyone else kept marching, trying not to think.

Others would fall, from exhaustion, disease. They were shot. Walking all that day and through the night. Men were crying all around Adair. Weeping for home. Adair had lived most of his life in St. Mary's Orphanage in Nashville, Tenn. No parents to think about. That helped — that helped plenty.

"Tell jokes," he told himself. "Don't give up," his mind was swimming. He tried to whistle and he even sang . . . anything that he could think of . . . "Old Folks at home." Anything.

STOPPED FOR SHAKEDOWN

The second day they stopped. The Japanese decided that it was time for a shakedown. No one could sit. Just stand there as the Japanese looked for soldiers who had souvenirs of the war — old pistols, swords. They found some. Those who wanted to take them back to Little Rock or Sacramento were shot too. And the march started again.

Two nights had passed and Adair saw his friends hacking from tuberculosis. Coughing and falling to their knees and being shot.

That third day they arrived at Camp O'Donnell, a deserted Philippine constabulary more than 125 miles from little Balanga where the march began — the "forced hike" as the Japanese called it — the "Bataan Death March."

Winfred Horace Adair fell down in the mud. It was raining. He slept for a day. He had weighed 150 pounds when he entered the Army. He lay there now with 63 pounds on his bones. He had malaria and beriberi.

WINFRED HORACE ADAIR

The Bataan Death March is behind him now. He and his wife, Clara, of Columbus, don't like remembering any part of it. They live at 4386 St. Margaret-ln in Whitehall and they have a son, Terrance, who's in the United States Naval Reserve.

It's been more than 23 years since he marched for his country. He was one of 35 who survived from the 17th Ordnance Company. He still takes pills for his nerves.

You won't see him in the Veterans' Day Parade today.

The word "march" makes Winfred Horace Adair sick in his stomach.

Not-So-Golden Age—

contracts by humiliating them, once erred in assigning a fallen city editor to washroom attendant. The victim promptly stuffed the plumbing with old "Journals."

A few weeks ago "I sat in on a Harvard lecture on constitutional law with a group of young editors and reporters spending a year as Nieman Fellows, improving their scholarship. And I thought of the "good old days" of American journalism.

What these young men will write after they return to their papers may not be half as exciting as Pulitzer's red-lettered account of the naked chorus girl leaping out of socialite James Breese's stag party pie. But they are laboring hard for an understanding of the news — a deeper understanding of most complicated news.

Hearst used to shout at his reporters, "Be sure to make a great and continuous noise!" And Pulitzer would roar, "More ideas! More circulation!" All over America today editors are still seeking more circulation.

But, old maxims to the contrary, a struggle on the plains of Kashmir is more significant than the dog fight at Main and Elm, and a sustained hydrogen fusion, if it is ever achieved, will be a far bigger story than the raid on the burlesque house.

The old press barons were masters of shock and titillation. Modern editors knit their brows over how to be informative AND interesting. Any cub can make you read about the torso in the creek. But how do you present an appropriation bill, or an analysis of De Gaulle, or the significance of a new vaccine—things that may affect every reader—so that the reader will read them?

Here is a challenge unknown to the "bedlameers." Here is a level of reporting and editing that never concerned the wizards of the yellow press.

The giants of journalism are ahead of us, not behind. That's what makes this exasperating business so fascinating.

Appreciates Cook Book

To the Publisher:

It has been several weeks since The Spectator has had its Cook Book Recipe Contest. I have been using the Sunbeam cordless electric mixer that I received as first place winner in the Homemaker division and I can't tell you how much I have enjoyed it.

I have tried some of the recipes in the Cook Book section and am looking forward to trying others.

Your idea for the contest is great and I am hoping you will have one again next year.

Mifflin Backers Happy

To the Editor:

I want to extend to you my heartfelt thanks and appreciation for your cooperation with The Citizens Committee For Better Schools at Mifflin. Our school district was one of the few in the central Ohio area which was able to pass an increase operating levy.

I believe this was possible because The Spectator was so helpful and cooperative.

Watterson Fan Writes

To the Editor:

As a student of Bishop Watterson High School, I would like to commend you on your coverage of our school football team this past season.

It seems that other newspapers write less about Catholic schools, while your paper has excellent coverage.

I look forward to reading about our basketball team in your great newspaper.

Could He Leave Ohio?

To the Editor:

In these pressure packed times a bit of humor is in order and harms no one.

With this in mind permit me to wonder in print whether or not our present governor is paid by the mile.

If so he should be in a position to retire should he decide not to run for re-election.

I have my doubts as to whether he would seek a spot on the 1968 GOP national ticket for the simple reason he might not wish to campaign outside of the "Wonderful World of Ohio."

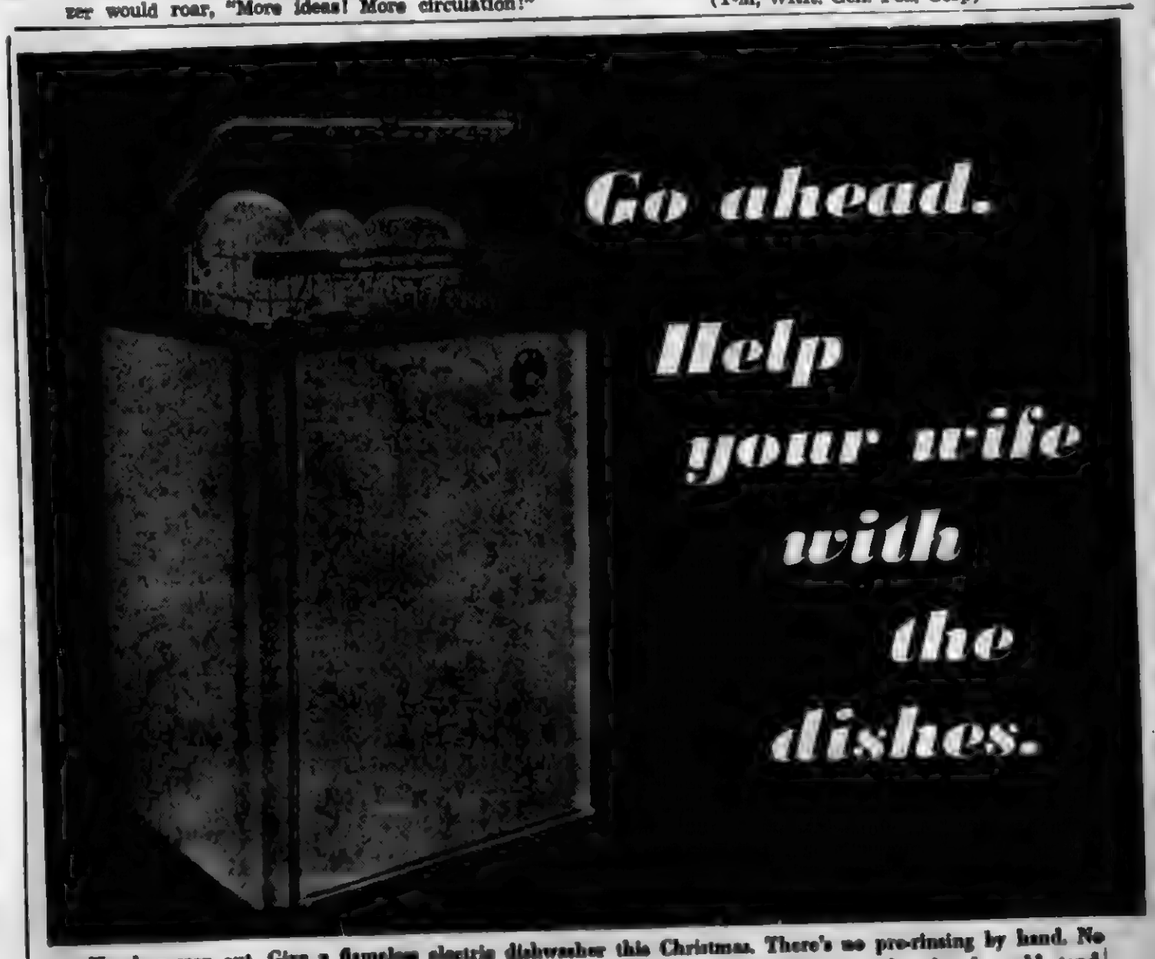
On The Same Wavelength

To the Editor:



I'd just like to say that Adeline Daley's article (Sept. 30) about leftovers was screamingly funny.

She has expressed my sentiments exactly and we both have the same kind of leftovers.

She is obviously an intelligent, witty woman and I'm tickled pink to know that she's a failure when it comes to making delectable dishes from leftovers.

I'm going to throw out all of mine.

Manpower Progress Indicated

Manpower, Inc., net earnings and gross revenue for the three months ending Sept. 30 were the highest of any quarterly period in the history of the international temporary help firm, according to George Dewey, manager of the local office.

The firm also declared a 25 percent increase in the quarterly dividend rate. Gross revenue for the first three months of the fiscal year, which consists of branch office sales and franchise payments from licensed offices, was $15,037,700, up 32 percent from $11,389,600 for the comparable three months of the previous fiscal year.

Net earnings reached $761,200, or 54 cents per share, up 23 percent from $618,800, or 44 cents per share for the same period in 1964.

Combined sales of both branch and franchise offices set a quarterly high of $29,199,850, representing a 30 percent increase over the $22,466,500 sales for the comparable quarter in the previous fiscal year.

At the annual shareowners meeting of the firm, held Oct. 28 in the headquarters office in Milwaukee, the present board of directors was re-elected and the number of authorized shares was increased from 1,500,000 to 2,500,000 shares of the par value of 66⅔ cents per share. A stock option plan for key employes of the corporation was also approved, covering a total amount of 20,000 shares.

At the meeting of the board of directors following the annual meeting of shareowners, the board declared a quarterly dividend of 15 cents per share on the common stock, payable Nov. 23, 1965 to shareowners of record on Nov. 8, 1965. This represents a 25 percent increase over the previous quarterly dividend rate of 12 cents per share.

HERE'S A SKETCH OF THE NEW $2-MILLION BEASLEY MOTOR FACILITY.

Ground Broken For $2-Million Beasley Plant

Columbus Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner led a host of Beasley Ford officials Friday in the ground-breaking of an automobile and truck facility on Columbus' West Side.

MAYOR Sensenbrenner's love of history showed up Friday at the Beasley groundbreaking. A cache of old bottles was found underground where the old Convent was located at 707 W. Broad-st. The Mayor holds a small green bottle that has "City Hall" inscribed on it.

According to Fred R. Beasley, president of Beasley Ford Co., local Ford dealership, the cost of this new sales, service and parts complex at 707 W. Broad-st will approximate $2-million.

It will be constructed on the former site of the Convent of the Good Shepherd. This six-acre plot is believed to be the largest tract of land under a single abstract within a five-mile radius of downtown Columbus.

L. K. Fishinger, vice-president and general manager of Beasley Ford, stated that the new dealership buildings and surrounding sales and service areas will be the "most extensive" Ford dealership facilities in the nation.

"We feel that the Beasley organization, which sells more cars and trucks than any other group of Ford dealerships in the entire country, owes this caliber of facilities to its present and future customers in Columbus and the surrounding territory," Fishinger added.

Enshrined in the 80-car indoor display area will be the wrought iron balcony preserved from the Lucas Sullivant home formerly occupying the W. Broad-st site.

William Henry Harrison is said to have delivered a speech to the Indians from this balcony.

The new buildings scheduled for completion early next summer will incorporate numerous innovations, including additional underground showrooms for both new and used cars and trucks and the most advanced tools and automotive diagnostic equipment available.

SITTING AT the controls of a giant steam shovel are these officials who broke ground Friday for Beasley Ford's new $2-million auto and truck facility at 707 W. Broad-st. They are, from left, Beasley Vice-President L. K. Fishinger, Columbus Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner and Beasley President Fred R. Beasley.

Dedication Is Set For JA Center

A new Junior Achievement community center at 2688 Westerville-rd, will be dedicated Tuesday, Nov. 16, from 7-9 p.m.

Leroy W. Belhorn, president of Columbus Junior Achievement, will wield the scissors for a ribbon-cutting ceremony at 8 p.m.

JA board members will serve as hostess for a public open house starting at 7 p.m.

The new center, Columbus' third, will house 12 JA companies and a branch of the JA bank. It will employ 270 students from North area high schools.

Forty advisors representing local businesses will work with the teenagers.

Overall, 1,300 students from 39 area high schools are enrolled in the Columbus JA program. They are organized into 58 companies and are counseled by 53 advisors.

Paul Fry, JA executive director, said JA's goal is to teach teenagers the values of free enterprise.

Fry's office is located at 214 N. High-st.

Lockbourne Opens Bids

The base procurement office at Lockbourne AFB announced this week the solicitation of invitation for bid (number 33-617-66-22) for altering the flight simulator training building here.

Firms interested in bidding are urged to contact the base procurement office at Lockbourne AFB, telephone 491-8211, ext. 7341. The public bid opening is scheduled for 3 p.m. Monday, Nov. 22, in building T-2, at the base.

Firms interested in obtaining bid forms should contact the above office in sufficient time to allow return of completed bid in time for opening.

ATTENTION NURSES:

Registered nurses interested in obtaining a baccalaureate degree in nursing may now apply for the Navy Nurse Corps candidate program, according to a spokesman for the local Navy recruiting station.

REVIEW PROTECTION

COLUMBUS MAYOR M. E. Sensenbrenner, middle, called upon all citizens to review their insurance protection with their independent agents as security. He is seen signing a proclamation declaring Nov. 14-20 as "Protection Week." At left is Rex Hartzler, director, Columbus Insurance Board. At right is Ferd Pickens, president, Columbus Insurance Board.

Semi-Annual Seminar Held At Fort Hayes

More than 600 years of active military service were represented by Army and Navy personnel gathered at Ft. Hayes recently for the first semi-annual Ft. Hayes pre-retirement seminar.

The seminar was held to explain to the retirees his military benefits, privileges, and entitlements, and better orient him from the changeover and return to civilian life.

Principal speakers were — CWO E. W. Titus, U. S. Army Garrison Personnel Officer; William B. Peterson, Veterans Employment Service, Pat Hone, County Service Representative, American Legion; Joseph E. Sullivan, contact representative in charge of the Columbus Branch, Veterans Administration; and Louis C. Zettler, Civilian Personnel Officer, Ft. Hayes.

Newsletter Predicts Shortage

Skilled and semi-skilled office and plant employes are likely to be in short supply for the foreseeable future, according to the November issue of Nation Wide News and Trends, monthly newsletter issued as a public service by Nation Wide Employment Service and distributed to business leaders in the Central Ohio area.

Civilian replacements for enlisted and commissioned personnel in the defense department will increase, the report states.

Expanding governmental antipoverty programs and educational supports are absorbing a rising number of office workers and administrators, the report points out.

The back-to-school movement, plus private industry and government training programs, the newsletter adds, are absorbing a greater portion of the teen-age population than had been anticipated, as well as those temporarily made jobless by the obsolescence of their skills.

The November newsletter also takes note of the mounting importance of good primary schools to companies selecting headquarters or plant sites, citing Celanese, General Electric, International Paper and 3M among the corporations surveying educational facilities for employes' children in deciding locations.

BUSINESS BRIEFS

YORKSHIRE VILLAGE, a community of new suburban town houses, on Noe-Bixby-rd, opened for inspection Nov. 4. Located in the Yorkshire Community just north of E. Livingston-av, the new condominium apartment village is being built by Columbus developer Ernest G. Fritsche & Co.

Priced in the $19,000 to $24,000 price range, the town houses include central air conditioning, sound conditioning, separate utilities, range, dishwasher, brick-enclosed patios, complete landscaping and maintenance, garages, extra parking spaces and basements.

Eight Students Rank Tops; Win Chicago Trip

Eight Spectator area students were named top ranking science pupils among the 124 high school seniors in the Scholarship Selection test given at the Ohio State University Testing Center recently.

The students were chosen from 106 high schools in the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company service area.

Names of winners and the schools they attend are: Charles David Burkam, Bexley School; David Allen Leighty, Columbus North; Kendall H. Lewis, Whitehall-Yearling; Lowell Patrick McClure, Dublin; David M. O'Dette, Worthington; William H. Parham, Reynoldsburg; William T. Reid, Bishou Watterson, and James E. Staber II, Columbus Academy.

The eight students, along with seven others chosen, will attend the seventh consecutive National Youth Conference on the Atom in Chicago, Dec. 8-11. They will be accompanied by three outstanding high school teachers in the area and an electric company representative.

Football '65 Heads For Record Books

Football '65 goes into the record books after Friday night's action, and the records may not be ready to handle the spirited neighborhood battle in the east. A pair of 7-2 dandies, Hartley and Whitehall collide.

Both Hartley and Whitehall will be coming from defeats, for Hartley it was a 28-8 loss to rival Watterson in the CCL race, while Whitehall fell to Reynoldsburg, 20-18 in a surprise.

"They just wanted it more than we did," summed up Ram mentor Jim Bline. "We couldn't get up for them."

THIS HAD been worry week for Bline who has to face a speedy happy Hartley group that even gave Watterson some fits. The Eagles handled Hartley well on the scrimmage line, but once they squeezed away, they got away.

Steve Grier busted loose for an 18 yard scamper in the first period, Joe Gatto and Scott French added 10 yard gains, and the Eagle defenders are still chasing Mike Cunningham who scored the lone Hawk touchdown on a 65 yard run.

Bline also looks for Jack Ryan's two platooning to give them (The Hawks) some advantage.

RYAN, WITH all the speed in his pocket, figures to have a long night, unleashing it against a defensive wise Whitehall crew. "It's their defense that is strong," Ryan said.

Ryan is also sold on Ram quarterback Mike Allen. "He's a good passer," Ryan said, "we will have to get to him before he lets go of the ball."

ANOTHER PROBLEM Hartley can expect comes from Harv Eader, a slick halfback, who also threatens with the forward pass.

Hartley will be without the services of its biggest man, Ed Hart. Hart suffered a shoulder injury during the Watterson battle.

Pleasant View, the South Suburban League King, goes against a beleaguered Grove City eleven which remains winless in nine starts.

PLEASANT VIEW gained its handsome SSL trophy with a 36-6 win over Franklin Heights. Grove City, in a comparable score, fell 20-6 to Franklin.

The Greyhounds have lost eight and tied one while Pleasant View holds a 6-3 record.

THE SSL runner-up, Franklin Heights meets Miami Trace, losers of only two games this season. The Falcon will face an Ohio State style football offensive as Trace belted over Ready, 22-8 last weekend.

Franklin lost to the Silver Knights, 6-0 this year.

The Falcons hold a 6-2-1 mark and dropped Miami last season, 13-0.

DUBLIN WILL take a 4-4-1 record against Olentangy, which stumbled to Grandview last week 25-7. Carroll is a sure bet to boast its 5-3-1 mark against Amanda.

Realtor Gives 'Slide Show' Of Homes

House hunters may now "shop" available properties at their convenience, in the comfort of their own cars, before consulting the realtor.

Hosfield

A new, automatic slide presentation in the parking lot of Earl Hosfield, realtor, at 924 S. Yearling-rd, projects views on a 50 by 50 foot screen of available homes, together with community facilities pertinent to the location such as schools, churches and shopping centers, on Monday through Thursday evenings from 7 to 9.

Hosfield explained the selecto-matic slide presentation system was installed as a service and a time-saver.

"Prospective buyers can drive in, view the homes we have listed and then, if interested, come into the office during the day for more information and a tour."

The innovation is the latest service offered by the realtor. He offers buyers the advantage of Multiple Listing Service and Home Photo Guide.

A graduate of Ohio State University majoring in real estate, Hosfield made a special study of real estate appraisal and property management.

He has been active in the real estate sales field the past seven years, two of them spent in appraising real estate.

The firm is a member of the Columbus Board of Realtors and National Institute of Real Estate Brokers, an affiliate of National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Gardeners To Make Christmas Corsages

Whitehall Garden Club will meet Thursday, Nov. 18, 7:30 p.m., at Whitehall Yearling High School. A workshop will be conducted by Mrs. Orville Oyer to design and make Christmas corsages for the patients at Alum Crest Home.

All members are asked to bring a Thanksgiving table arrangement for display at the meeting. Hostesses are Mrs. Helen Fee and Mrs. Donald Trimmer.

Hawk-Ram Battle Last Of Season

By BOB WHITMAN

The Hartley-Whitehall neighborhood brawl is the only unfinished business in the area as far as football 1965 is concerned.

Hartley lost a chunk of the Catholic League crown last Saturday with a 28-8 defeat to Watterson. Whitehall stumbled to Reynoldsburg, 20-18; East nipped Whetstone 13-12; Bexley fell to Upper Arlington, 49-8; Eastmoor got its spear into West, 12-6; Gahanna beat Grove City 52-0; West Jefferson downed Academy 24-8; and Walnut Ridge bounced Central, 12-8.

HARTLEY WILL probably be seeing the Watterson middle open up in its sleep. That is where the powerful Eagles clawed for most of their yardage in the CCL title scrap. A Hartley win would have altered the Catholic crown to fit three heads.

Watterson scored against a fired-up Hartley defense with 31 seconds remaining in the first period on a seven yard run by Kevin Ryan. Dick Walker's eleven marched 63 yards in 13 carries for the score.

The Hawks took the opening kickoff and marched to the Eagle 37 before losing the ball on downs. Speed paid off on that drive with a 18 yard run by Hawk halfback Steve Grier.

Watterson's second period touchdown turned the tide. The Eagles got the ball with 52 seconds showing in the half, and put together a 70 yard march in six plays for the score.

The drive included a pair of offensive gems by halfback Ryan. Ryan rambled for 27 yards for a first down on the Eagles 43, and closed the drive with an eight yard run to the three, and a three yard off-tackle drive for the score.

HARTLEY'S SPEED demon halfback Mike Cunningham put the Hawks on the scoreboard with a 65 yard touchdown in the third period. The fleet junior darted through the middle then cut outside as Watterson pursued in vain.

REYNOLDSBURG put one extra point on the board against Whitehall last Friday to crop the Rams.

Whitehall matched Reynoldsburg with three touchdowns but couldn't put the extra points with them. Rick Foltz scored twice on two and one yard runs, and Mike Allen, the dandy Ram signal caller, slammed over from the one.

The Ram defenders couldn't put the clamps on Gene Harshaw, the power-driving fullback, as he scored twice on a one yard plunge and on a 11 yard pass from Gary Shade.

The winning TD came on a pass interception by Mike Herold.

BEXLEY couldn't do anything better than the 19 other opponents that fell to Arlington in a row. The Lions ended their season with a 3-6 record.

Rick Weber scored on a 67 yard pass play in the second period for the lone Lion points.

IN A PAIR of dramatic scoring plays, East stopped Whetstone, 13-12. The Tigers ended their 1965 campaign with a 6-3 record.

Whetstone took the lead on a pass from George Rutan to Rusty Powell that covered 25 yards in the fourth period, 12-6.

On the following kickoff, Chuck Wright returned the ball 80 yards for a Tiger score. Wright then booted an extra point for the win.

George Strickland scored the other East TD on a one yard plunge.

GAHANNA PUT scores across the line in every quarter to bounce Grove City.

Dave Belli raced for three touchdowns on 7, 4 and 4 yard runs while teammate Mike Bokros snagged a pair of passes from quarterback Bob Mach.

Belli powered his way over for four extra point runs.

JAY HILL scored from the one yard line with 57 seconds remaining to sew up the Central Pirates, 12-8.

Jim Waller scored the first Scot touchdown on a four yard run.

The lone Pirate tally came in the first period to put Walnut behind the eight ball early.

WEST JEFFERSON rods over Academy to lift their record 5-4.

The lone Viking tally came in the second period on Al Unetic's one yard plunge.

Randy Yoakum paced the Eastmoor Warriors to victory number four against five defeats in the Warrior finale last week. Yoakum scored on a two yard plunge, and tossed a scoring strike to Jack Parry that covered 55 yards.

FOLTZ FOILED — Whitehall's Rick Foltz looks for the open field but he sees nothing but trouble in Reynoldsburg's Gary Lacy (23) and Mike Herold (20) during the first-half action Friday at Whitehall. The Rams dropped the contest to visiting Reynoldsburg, 20-18 — (Staff Photo By Jack Wittenmeier).

CRIM DROPPED — Arlington's Gus Crim (32) is stopped after a short gain by Bexley's Jim Rosel (43). The Bears stopped Bexley, 49-8, in the grid season's final for both teams. (Photo by Harley Groom)

NOTICE OF ELECTION ON TAX LEVY IN EXCESS OF THE TEN MILL LIMITATION

Notice is hereby given that in pursuance of a Resolution of the Board of Education of the Eastern Franklin County Joint Vocational School District, Franklin, Fairfield and Licking Counties, Ohio, passed on the 16th day of September, 1965, there will be submitted to a vote of the people of said School District at a Special Election to be held in the Eastern Franklin County Joint Vocational School District, Ohio, at the regular places of voting therein, on Tuesday, the 7th day of December, 1965, the question of levying, in excess of the ten mill limitation, for the benefit of Eastern Franklin County Joint Vocational School District for the purpose of current operating expenses.

MAVERICK

With Muddy Shoes

By RICHARD L. PAUGH

There are many things that can ruin a hunting or fishing trip for today's part-time hunter. Having the right clothing and accessories to suit the occasion is a big help in being healthy and happy while adventuring in the wilds. In my humble estimation, the most important comfort-inducer is a pair of good boots. The tricky part of boot-buying is that climate and terrain vary enough to make a single pair of boots right only half the time.

Paugh

Generally speaking, boots are in two classes — rubber or leather. Both have their merits and pitfalls. Rubber or part-rubber boots are ideal for wet or wet snow walking. They can keep your feet free from outside moisture, but if they fit too tight, they cause perspiration. Most rubber boots are made in Japan. They have the benefit of not needing a breaking-in period, if they feel good to begin with chances are they will not grow worse.

It is smart to buy your rubber boots a size larger than your street shoes; the space acts as a bellows and pumps air in around your feet and retards perspiration. It is best to buy full-lace rubber boots so you can vary the tightness to suit the occasion. They will never be as warm as leather but you can't have everything in a single pair of boots.

On the other side of the ledger, leather is a classic sportsman's footwear. The biggest thing to remember is that, no matter what the slick magazines say, there is no such thing as a waterproof leather boot. You'll read all kinds of guarantees and see all kinds of displays but—to my knowledge — none is waterproof.

I don't think there is any doubt that leather is more comfortable and wears better. A good dark leather takes on a beautiful patina as it ages. You should by all means daub (not spray) on a silicone dressing after you have worn the leather long enough to scuff up the surface. This should be done about every sixth time you wear your boots. It does not "proof" them against water but does retard the seepage. The most popular style is the moc toe. It looks good but the added seams make this boot less water-resistant than the plain-toe jobs.

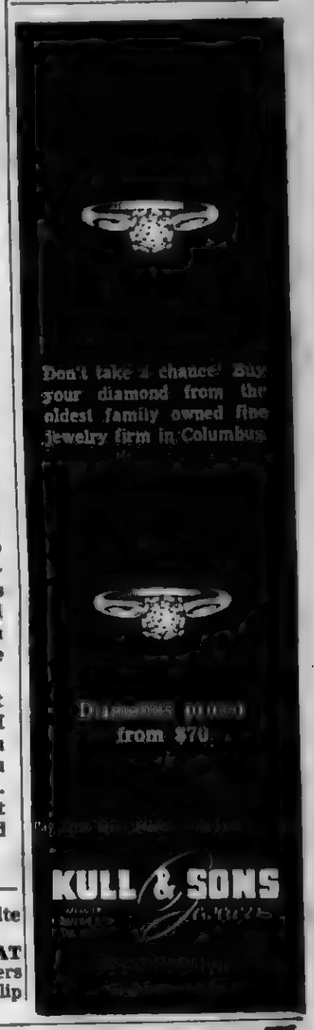
Try not to buy your leather boots at the beginning of the hunting season. First, they are higher in price, and then secondly, you want to have time to break them in to avoid crippling blisters. The best way to do this is to wear them around the yard for early leaf-raking, unlaced at first, then tightening them as they mellow. The first trip in new boots should be less than a day, not into Upper Uganda.

I prefer a composition sole with a medium hob-nail surface. This gives me traction enough to get away from wives and wildcats but still a bit of cushion. I make sure to get my leathers a half-size bigger (rubber boots come in whole sizes only but leathers are half-sized) than my street shoes to accommodate a set of felt innersoles and heavy wool socks. After each trip, I take out the soles and store them separately and dust the boots with foot powder.

Never set your leathers near the heat — it saps out the original animal oils and they'll crack in no time at all. Wellington boots look great but are not as waarm in zero weather and they don't give the arch support that a form-fitting boot does. Don't buy slick-finished boots, chances are they are made of split leather and the stubble will tear the surface. Bright colored leathers look great on the shelf but soon stain and look terrible until you have darkened them.

It's nice if you can find American boots you like, but being imports doesn't necessarily make them bad — I know two very good brands coming out of Canada. If you expect your leathers to last 10 years, as mine have, you should also expect to put between $20 and $25 in them. Rubber boots can be found as cheap as $4, but you get just what you pay for. The better ones, $18 to $22, should last five years or more.

Choose carefully and happy stepping.



SPA(H)RS TB

BILL SPAHR, captain of the '64 OSU grid team, has been named chairman of the local TB Society's '65 Christmas Seal Campaign which opens Nov. 16. "Tuberculosis is in no way a problem of the past," says Spahr. "I urge you to join me in helping to carry the ball all the way to the Society's goal of $212,000."

MRS. RAY TO SPEAK

Bexley Social Club of Bexley Chapter 524 OES will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 18, at the Jeffrey Mansion. The speaker will be Mrs. William Ray, the Mother of the Year award winner for Mother of Twins.

'Fearless' Predictions

Well, this is the last trip to the football grids with only six games in the Spectator area on tap.

Let's see how many "The Fearless One" can call correctly this week. Then, it will be a few weeks before he sees his "friends" for basketball.

Last week, "The Fearless One" picked 18 right and missed six times for a two out of three. That upped his season's total to a 151-55. Notice, that it isn't a .667 percentage yet, but maybe some of his magic will rub off on the appointed teams this week.

Here's the lineup for week ten:

HARTLEY AT WHITEHALL—Going to be quite a neighborhood battle . . . Hartley.

OLENTANGY AT DUBLIN—Shamrocks come up with four-leaf clover . . . Dublin.

MIAMI TRACE AT FRANKLIN HEIGHTS — Trace has the size, but Falcons have the speed . . . Franklin Heights.

GROVE CITY AT PLEASANT VIEW — Panthers just too tough for Hounds . . . Pleasant View.

CARROLL AT AMANDA—Bulldogs will put the bite on . . . Carroll.

REYNOLDSBURG AT WESTERVILLE — Raiders have momentum, will not slip . . . Reynoldsburg.

CLUB MEETS MONDAY

Leawood Garden Club will meet Monday Nov. 15, 8 p.m., at Grace United Church of Christ, Shady Lane-rd. Hostesses will be Mrs. Don Connor, Mrs. Robert Davidson and Mrs. William Hollern. Guest speaker will be Mrs. R. W. Smith, flower arranger, who will conduct an Oriental Workshop.

DiSalle-Corrigan Debate To Be Televised Nov. 23

"Should Ohio Abolish Capital Punishment?" will be the title of a debate between Former Governor Michael V. DiSalle and Cuyahoga County Prosecutor John T. Corrigan to be telecast live on WOSU-TV (Channel 34).

The hour-long feature is scheduled at 9:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 23. It will be taped for later use on educational TV.

The program, inspired by DiSalle's book, "The Power of Life or Death," is sponsored by North Broadway Methodist Church Social Concerns Commission in cooperation with WOSU-TV.

'PORE JUD IS DAID . . .'

. . THAT'S WHAT Harold Lust (left), who plays Jud and Don Torry, as Curley, are singing as they rehearse for the Independent Players fall presentation of Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Oklahoma." The well-known musical opens for a three-night run tonight (Thursday) at the Hartman Theatre. Tickets may be obtained by calling AM. 2-8708 or at the Central Ticket Office, 37 N. High-st, CA. 8-1305.

NAA CONCERT BAND, CHORUS TO PERFORM

THE CONCERT BAND and chorus of North American Aviation, Inc., will present its fall festival of music at Cowan Hall, Otterbein College, Westerville, at 3 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 14. The program will be conducted by Robert F. Kessler, musical director of the band and the chorus. Tickets for the program are available from members of the concert band and chorus, George Novotny, director, North American Recreation Department, or at the door. In addition to the combined concerts, presented twice annually, both groups participate in the Industrial Music Festival held each February at Veterans Memorial Auditorium. The band has also performed during the Columbus Festival of the Arts and for various other functions.

Shakespearean Actor To Play Ohio Wesleyan

Philip Burton, director, actor and teacher of drama, will be featured Friday, Nov. 12, at 8:15 p.m. in Ohio Wesleyan's Gray Chapel as the second major event on the OWU Lecture - Movie Series.

Burton will be assisted by Christian Alderson, actor, in presentation of "A Pageant of Kings." This is a dramatic panorama of English history as Shakespeare saw it, based on eight historical plays centering around the War of Roses.

Admission is by season tickets, which will be available at the door for $5.50. Individual performance tickets are also expected to be available at the door.

Burton, director of the American and Musical Dramatic Academy in New York, has instructed actors in the works of Shakespeare there since 1962. He has also staged Shakespeare in the Library of Congress.

As director and teacher, Burton has worked with a host of great actors, including Richard Burton—whose legal guardian Philip was. Richard, who calls Philip "my director," has declared "Everything I've learned about the theater, I've learned from Philip." Richard is recognized as one of the great modern Shakespearean actors.

'Messiah' Planned

Ohio State University's annual presentation of Handel's "Messiah" will be Dec. 5 at 3 and 8 p.m.

It is sponsored by the OSU School of Music.

One of the soloists will be Harold B. Jones of 154 Franklin-av, Worthington.

UNICEF Greeting Cards Available

This year's Christmas shopping plans can include the purchase of UNICEF Greeting Cards. The time to order is now.

A free full color brochure and order form is available from Mrs. E. S. Preston, 2384 W. Lane-av, and Mrs. Carlton Smith, 77 S. Roosevelt-av, where cards and calendars can be seen and ordered.

Proceeds from these items benefit needy children and mothers in over 100 underdeveloped countries.

Prominent among the 1965 UNICEF designs are traditional holiday themes.

The designs are donated by some of the best international artists.

The 1966 UNICEF Calendar has 54 reproductions of graphic art: lithographs, woodcuts and engravings, most of them in color.

For the first time, it is bilingual, with famous quotations both in English and French.

Postmaster Raps Misuse Of Mailboxes

Postmaster Victor J. Bodish advises that advertising and political circulars may not be placed in mail boxes unless postage has been fully prepaid at the required rate. He said, "Every residential letterbox or other receptacle intended or used for the receipt or delivery of mail is for the sole use of the United States Post Office for matter bearing postage and a proper mailing address."

Placing non-mail matter in mail boxes is a violation of Section 18, United States Code 1702, 1705 and 1708 and will result in collection of the applicable rate of postage from the business, organization or person whose name appears on such matter.

Punishment And Crime

THE POWER OF LIFE OR DEATH. By Michael V. DiSalle with Lawrence G. Blochman, 214 pp. New York: Random House. $4.95.

(Reprinted from the Sunday, Nov. 7, edition of the New York Times Book Review.)

By WILLIAM M. KUNSTLER

A most unusual book. On one level it is a passionate polemic against capital punishment. On quite another, it is the anguished personal narrative of a former Ohio governor — who, despite his intense opposition to the death penalty, felt obliged to enforce it. On either, it is articulate, compelling and intensely moving.

I may be wrong but I think that this is the first time that a governor, with absolute control over life and death, by virtue of his commutation authority, has devoted almost an entire book to this most awesome of human responsibilities. A handful of Americans — the President and the chief executives of most of our states — wield this terrible power and, understandably, only a few have cared to personalize their relationship to it.

Mr. DiSalle is one of that small band. With rare candor, he fully and frankly chronicles those desperate days when, as governor, he was asked to spare the lives of a dozen convicted murderers. In six cases, he commuted the death sentence to life imprisonment; the remaining defendants died in the electric chair.

Most of us are quite familiar with what goes on during the last hours of a condemned man's life. There is the obscenity of the sumptuous meal which, never to be fully digested, is the measure of society's flimsy farewell to its doomed. The slit trousers and the shaven head, the clergyman's perfunctory visit, the short walk to the place of execution, the final agonizing moments — every pathetic stage has been graphically depicted by generations of morbidly accurate death house reporters.

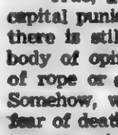
But the men who alone can stay the executioner's hand do not even have the comfort of official ritual to sustain them. On those awful nights when Ohio electrocuted its killers, it was DiSalle's custom to get away by himself. "I wanted to be alone," he explains, "because I felt that I owed the whole human race an apology for being faithful to my oath of office at the expense of my deepest personal beliefs." In some park or church, or on some isolated suburban road, he would wait for the inevitable radio message: "Warden Alvis advises detail completed. . . ."

I don't know enough about Ohio politics to pass judgment on the author's somewhat petulant insistence that his 1962 defeat was due to his commuting the death sentences of "six nonentities." In any event, it is irrelevant to his major thesis that there is no civilized rationale to capital punishment. In this, he is, of course, quite right. Statistics and common sense tell us that the death penalty does not deter crime, that it makes error irremediable, and that it is confined almost exclusively to the poor and the abandoned.

Mr. Kunstler, a civil rights attorney based in New York, has been involved in many capital cases, including that of Jack Ruby.

Its only justification — and a dubious one at best — is that it satisfies the blood lust inherent in most of us. There are some crimes considered so heinous that, notwithstanding all contributive factors, we must have their perpetrators' lives. We may no longer impale, garrote, flay or burn our pariahs but we exterminate them nonetheless — and for the same subconscious reasons that motivated our less delicate ancestors.

True, a baker's dozen of our states have abolished capital punishment for all but a few isolated crimes, but there is still, in the United States at least, a dominant body of opinion that 2,000 volts of electricity, a length of rope or a cyanide pellet will keep our house in order. Somehow, we cannot shake our rationalization that the fear of death acts as a brake on brutality. So we continue to engage in the impossible logic of certifying the worth of one life by methodically destroying another.



Despite his own deep and despairing involvement in this senseless process, Mr. DiSalle is not without a degree of hope. With an occasional bitter swipe at the Republican majority in the Ohio General Assembly for scuttling it, he advocates his own ill-fated legislative program to curb juvenile delinquency, improve the staff and facilities of correctional institutions and create pardon and parole commissions free from political control.

Like so many other master plans, DiSalle's blueprint is at once too simple and too complex. No one can argue with him that crime prevention and the rehabilitation of criminals would not be beneficial. But it is equally apparent that society itself, by ignoring or countenancing the oppression of its poor, its minorities and its friendless, generates the very violence it deplores and fears. At the very least, our social structure deserves as much concentrated attention as the unfortunates it spawns.

We have recently lived through a holocaust in Los Angeles. Would it have been prevented by a comprehensive plan to combat juvenile delinquency in the Watts district, or was it the sprawling ghetto itself which cried out, in utter desperation, "Burn, baby, burn!"? Mr. DiSalle is alive to this nightmare aspect of the American dream — he simply finds, as do most of us, that it is always easier to cut off branches than to dig up roots.

As one firmly believes, that the hallmark of a civilization is the value it places upon human life, I cannot leave Mr. DiSalle's provocative book without a collateral observation. Violence, even on the side of the angels, is beyond the pale of any solvent morality. Capital punishment, with all its systematic horror, is the symbol of man's proneness to barbarity. The end of legalized murder, even on this small scale, may be some proof that homo sapiens is at least prepared to shake the mud from his heels.

Mr. Don R. Bucknam
Advertising Director
Spectator Newspapers
2465 West Broad Street
Columbus, Ohio

Dear Don,

Your slogan, "SPECTATOR MEANS BUSINESS" has certainly a great deal of meaning for us at Firestone at the Great Western Shopping Center located on West Broad Street.

Firestone has always been an advocate of good advertising and each year spends a great amount of money promoting Firestone products, stores, and services in several media. While this national advertising is vital in our advertising program we have found that it is our Spectator newspaper advertising that brings the customers into this particular store.

We discovered increases in our sales during Great Western Shopping Center promotions and pondered the possibility of consistent advertising in the "between weeks". After all, we are open every day, not just once a month. This consistent weekly advertising has paid off for us in increased sales and we credit the Spectator as one of the important factors in our increases.

Your advertising representative, "Poly", is genuinely interested in our business and is very helpful in planning our advertising and seeing that it carries the message we desire when it appears in the pages of the Spectator.

Yes, the Spectator means business for us and with the new format and audited circulation we can look forward to even more business in the future months.

Sincerely,

Ray Benedict

Milk Council Elect Officers

William Allen, president of the board of directors of the Columbus Milk Council, announced officers who will guide the county's health and nutrition education program in Franklin and Delaware Counties for 1966.

They are: president, Kenneth Barber; vice-president, William Morgan; secretary, John Humes; treasurer, Hugh Stickel.

Other members of the 1966 executive committee are Donald Zehr and William Allen.

Lost Chord Club Sets Nov. 12 Meet

The Lost Chord Club of the American Cancer Society will meet on Friday, Nov. 12, at 2300 W. Mound-st. Speech lessons at 7:30 p.m. will precede the monthly business meeting.

Jack E. Kile, speech therapist, will present the program, highlighting the services rendered by the speech therapy and hearing department at the Ohio State University. The Ladies' Auxiliary will be in charge of the refreshments.

Peace Corps Test Set For November 13

Columbus area residents are invited to take the Peace Corps placement test at 9 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 13, in Room 202, 44 N. High-st.

The Peace Corps used the placement test to determine how an applicant can best be utilized overseas. The test measures general aptitude and the ability to learn a language, not education or achievement.

A WRAPUP OF THE WEEK'S NEWS

Some election results are still coming in. For instance, it now appears that the heavy vote for the Democratic candidates for Columbus city council is causing a school dropout problem. Councilman-elect Donald Woodland learned that he cannot hold a public job and be councilman at the same time. So he intends to "drop out" of his present teaching position in the South-Western School district.

Many of the other results have to do with various government bodies trying to get along without the money they had hoped for as bond issues and new taxes were defeated.

The Franklin County Juvenile Court is looking for spare rooms in various public institutions to board the overflow from the detention center. Benson Hall at the TB Hospital and the Columbus Women's Workhouse have been suggested to replace proposed facilities that went down the drain on election day.

Former Columbus prosecutor Earl W. Allison is the court-appointed attorney for Charles Allen Fulton, 15-year-old accused murderer. Assisted by J. Alfred Glascor, Allison will lock horns with Assistant Prosecutor Fred Newsom.

Jury selection started Monday as the trial for the murder of Richard Vice in a Pic-Way Self Service Shoe Store robbery gets under way. The slaying took place Jan. 25.

All that clinking and clanking you hear in the checkout lanes and at cash registers around the city is the sound of new quarters being tested by various users. They're a novelty. They don't sound like quarters but they spend just as well.

For those with a "tin" ear, the new clunkers can be identified by the center layer of copper visible around the edge.

The Union of Ohio State Students, an outgrowth of the former Free Speech Front, is now acting something like the fellow who was described as "a disaster looking for a place to happen."

Members of the Union circulated handbills last week asking students to send in "general grievances, specific incidents you have personal knowledge of," and "statements concerning incidents you are personally willing to testify about."

Can anyone suggest a cause for these folks to get behind?

Before the average voter can understand just what's going on with the re-apportionment of Franklin County, it may be necessary for someone to take a can of brightly-colored paint and mark the districts off right on the streets.

Today even the officials are confused. Some say that areas of the county are left out completely in the Ohio Apportionment Board's plan for carving the county into seven House districts and two Senatorial districts.

Do you know which district you are in? And, do you have an incumbent representative in your district?

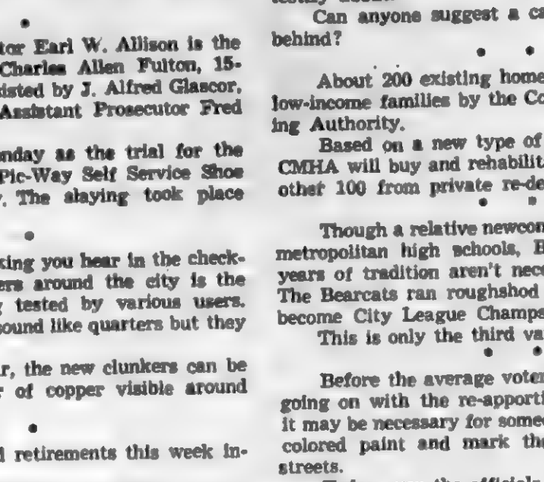
Research Council Formed

Nine educational leaders in Central Ohio have formally organized for educational improvement.

The group has been chartered in Ohio as a nonprofit organization known as Central Ohio Educational Research Council, Inc. Its service area comprises 15 counties in the central section of the state.

The nine representatives are from six different public school systems, one parochial school system, a public university and a private university — all from within the 15-county service area.

The organizers named as the chairman of the board of directors, H. C. McCord, superintendent of Worthington Schools; as vice-chairman, Thomas J. Quick, superintendent of Franklin County Schools; and as secretary-treasurer, W. W. Purdy, superintendent of Urbana City Schools.



Other members named to the Board of Directors are Msgr. C. Bennett Applegate, superintendent of Schools, Diocese of Columbus; R. M. Borst, superintendent of Clark County Schools; R. Henry Campbell, superintendent of Mad River-Green local school district; Thomas F. Gallant, chairman of the Department of Education, Denison University; Harold L. Nichols, superintendent of Newark City Schools; and Arthur E. Wohlers, head of the Division of Educational Organization and Service, School of Education at Ohio State University.

On Nov. 16 the council will hold an area-wide dinner meeting at the Ohio State University Student Union. The meeting will be to explain the organization and future plans of the council and to give details regarding subscriptions and membership.

Personnel from public, private and parochial school and from both public and private colleges and universities will attend.

Affiliation with the council is open to all school systems and teacher-training colleges and universities in the 15-county area.

Send Letter To President

The Veterans of World War I of the USA, Inc., are becoming increasingly alarmed over the lack of patriotism exemplified by the American public in general, and the lack of proper respect shown to our National Anthem and the National Flag, according to a statement released this week.

National Commander Herbert M. Houston said, "The recent movement of draft evasion, draft card destruction, protests against our National Policy against Communism are the products of a lack of patriotic concern.

"We owe a debt of respect to our young men fighting to protect and preserve this land of ours, and to ourselves, and to show the world our belief in the respect of America."

In view of these statements Capitol City Barracks 461 of the Veterans of World War I, USA, Inc., at their regular meeting Nov. 7, unanimously adopted a resolution supporting the stand of the President in Viet Nam. A copy of the resolution will be forwarded to President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Attending Local Meet

The following area educators joined with some 600 other school board members here Nov. 10 and 11 to determine the policies of the Ohio School Boards Association for the coming year.

Those attending, along with the local school district, are: Eugene Phillips, Pickerington Local; William Hackman, Franklin County; Donald Weiser, Canal Winchester Local; Martha Agler, Grandview Heights City; Mrs. Judith Gast, Jefferson Local; Wayne Wilson, Madison Local; Albert Haegele, Plain Local; John Irvine, Reynoldsburg Local; J. Brewster Holding, Scioto-Darby Local; Clarence Berry, South-Western City; Harold Steele, Washington Local; Dr. Ray Jennings, Westerville.

Other representatives are attending for Bexley City, Columbus City, Hamilton Local, Upper Arlington and Whitehall City.

As official representatives of the school boards affiliated with the state-wide group, these voting delegates are being asked to adopt stands on issues touching on school finance, teacher employment and district reorganization.

The annual business meeting of the OSBA convened at the Veterans Memorial Building, site of a three-day conference of 3,000 board members, administrators and clerk-treasurers conducted concurrently.

Zebbs Threatens 'War' At School Board Meet

By BETTY DAFT

"No more 'Jim Crow' schools will be built in Columbus," an angry Rev. Arthur Zebbs, coordinator of Columbus chapter of CORE, told the School Board and administration.

His outburst followed Superintendent Harold Eibling's building report for the coming year that included the news that nine new schools will be built.

Three of these, Zebbs protested, will be located in predominantly Negro neighborhoods. Civil Rightists have protested that new buildings in these areas is continuing de facto segregation in schools.

Zebbs continued, "I promise you there will be conflict (if the schools are built). No more 'Jim Crow' schools will be our slogan and we will back it up . . . there will be war."

Columbus now has 23 schools with more than 90 per cent Negro enrollment.

Zebbs' remarks were followed by a plea from School Board President Paul Langdon, "I ask as a fellow Christian that this matter be approached in Christian love." He added, firmly, "The board is on record on the matter of neighborhood schools — I know of no plans to change."

Board members Robert Ramsey and Ed Sloan commented on Zebbs' manner of speaking and then walking out "without the courtesy of listening to the rest of the board meeting."

Earlier two parents had spoken in support of Columbus Schools' neighborhood concept — protested by Civil Rightists as the cause of de facto segregation since schools in predominantly Negro area would, naturally, have a predominantly Negro enrollment.

Mrs. Dale E. Lauffer, 187 Tibet-rd, presented a petition

Jewish War Veterans: 'More Militant Voice'

Dr. Morton J. Sobel, assistant national executive director, Jewish War Veterans, addressed the Columbus Post at its annual Veterans Sabbath held at Agudas Achim. He said "The patriotic voice of American Jewery—oldest veterans' organization in existence—is more militant than others (veterans groups)."

Commanders and members, he said, speak out against such groups as the John Birch Society and Ku Klux Klan. Demonstrations and economic boycott are also employed as protests, he added. Dr. Sobel said the group was "solidly behind the government" in Viet Nam policy, and that the veterans' concern about the situation has prompted plans for a visit to Viet Nam by their national commander and his aide.

Whitehall Principal Denied Gahanna Post

Joseph Spanovich, principal of Kae Avenue School in Whitehall, and councilman-elect in Gahanna, will not be able to assume his council seat because of the city's charter provision forbidding anyone engaged in "Public Employment" to serve on council. James Butler, Gahanna solicitor, presented this opinion as interpretation of the clause. Council will have to fill the vacancy after they assume office the first of the year.

Gahanna School Levy May Be On Dec. Ballot

A second school issue may be added to the ballot in the Dec. 7 special election for Gahanna voters. Jefferson Local School District (Gahanna) has requested the board of elections to resubmit the 5.3 mill operating levy defeated at the polls in November. The levy represents 2.3 mills for renewal and three additional mills needed, according to Calvin Leader, executive head of the school district, for continuation of present programs. The Dec. 7 special election is for the proposed new vocational high school district.

HARVEST TIME IN OHIO

A TRIP to teacher's farm on a bright, beautiful fall day when corn was being harvested was a thrilling experience for the 180 first graders at Etna Road School. School buses took the youngsters to the farm of Miss Lois Clark near Groveport for a busy morning — there were cornpickers to watch, tractors to inspect, such interesting things as hickory nuts and cornstalks to examine, and a small lake to walk around. Whitehall May Set Fire Lanes

In one of the quietest, quickest meetings of the year, Whitehall City Council adopted three of only eight proposals listed for the Tuesday night agenda.

Passed were resolutions to appropriate property for the planned extension of Etna-rd from Country Club-rd west of Hamilton-rd, and to authorize engineers to prepare plans for proposed improvements to the city's Orton Davis Park.

Also adopted was an ordinance extending for three years a mutual fire aid agreement between Whitehall and Madison Township fire departments.

The item most discussed by councilmen was a proposed ordinance authorizing the city's safety director to establish fire zones in commercial and residential areas, set standards and include penalties for violations.

The item was tabled for further study. The chief concern of council is whether the city can secure the cooperation of affected businessmen. Past efforts in this area have been to no avail because the city cannot enforce its ordinances on private property.

Tabled indefinitely by council was a resolution calling for installation of street lights along the south side of Main-st from Country Club-rd to the city's east corporation line.

Also tabled by council was a salary ordinance designed to provide pay increases for the mayor's secretary and a bookkeeper in the income tax department. Reportedly the council clerk's position will be added to the measure before expected passage by council.

An expected measure not considered at the Tuesday session was a proposal to increase the pay of councilmen by $50 a month. Reportedly, the

.25-Caliber Pistol Is Found In W-J

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

A quick-thinking West Jefferson woman put a .25-caliber pistol in the hands of Madison County Sheriff authorities Monday night — the same type of gun used to kill service station attendants Joseph Scowden on Oct. 2 and Claude Quesenberry on Nov. 11.

Sheriff's deputies say that preliminary ballistics checks indicate that the pistol is not the same weapon used in the two killings but they have not finished investigating the case.

Two Georgesville teenagers, who claimed they found the pistol, tried to sell it Monday in Ada's Market on W. Town-st in West Jefferson at about 7 p.m.

The store's owner, Ada Brown, recognized the caliber and called West Jefferson Police Officer Dick Clark. Clark and Madison County Sheriff's Deputy Jim Hockenberry apprehended the youths about an hour later.

Ada Brown said she has seen the boys before. They walked into the store Monday and asked to see the woman's son, 17-year-old Bob Ramsey. They asked Ramsey to purchase the pistol for $10.

Ada said her son wasn't interested in buying it and ordered the boys out of the store. That's when she called the police department.

Ramsey left, too, heading home. The boys approached him again on Main-st in West Jefferson and made another sales pitch. That's when the boys were nabbed by Clark and Hockenberry.

According to the boys, the pistol was found on Plain City-Georgesville-rd, about a half-mile from W. Broad-st, where Quesenberry, 41, of Lafayette, was found shot to death in the Kocolene Serv-

New Schools Slated

A new junior high, an elementary in the far southeast, new classroobs at Eastmoor Junior and Senior Highs, and additions and remodeling at three elementaries are East Columbus' share of the city schools' gigantic $11 million building program for 1966.

Also planned for city-wide use is a new school with special facilities for the instruction of deaf children, to open in the fall of '67.

Construction on the new schools will start in early spring, with the elementary slated for completion in the fall of 1966, and the junior high one year later — fall of '67.

Work on all additions and remodeling projects will get under way as soon as schools are closed in June, and are scheduled for completion by next September.

New building includes:

Yorktown Junior High, to be built on Livingston-av between the proposed Outerbelt and McNaughten-rd, will house approximately 800 students.

Yorktown and Sherwood Junior High now under construction just north of Livingston-av on the Shady Lane Elementary site, are expected to relieve Walnut Ridge Junior-Senior High. Completion of the two junior high facilities will make it possible to convert Walnut Ridge into a senior high only.

Necessity for the school construction is an indication of the tremendous growth of Columbus' far southeast.

Yorktown will include special facilities for industrial arts and vocational training, a gymnasium, an auditorium and counseling and office facilities in addition to classrooms.

Oakmont Elementary, to be built on Oakmont-dr, south of Livingston-av between the proposed Outerbelt and Brice-rd — will have 12 classrooms, a multi-purpose room, and offices.

Campus Priests Use 'Folk Mass' To Reach Students

An experiment in religion involving college students has proved exceptionally successful, according to Fr. John Weber, pastor and superior of the Newman Club at 1946 Iuka-av.

Priests at the Catholic campus center near OSU recently added folksinging to a weekly Mass. They also have started monthly parties and teenage rock 'n' roll dances at the center.

Sunday sermons, also geared to the college student, include topics such as "Racial Discrimination in the Fraternity - Sorority System."

"We are trying to reach the students in a voice they can easily understand," Fr. Weber said. "This kind of program probably would not work in most parishes, but here it creates unity and understanding because the students can identify with the music.

"We must give people religion in a form they are familiar with," he said. "Understanding, not formality, is the important thing."

Newman Club's "Folk Mass" is conducted once each week on varying days.

Popular folksongs such as "Blowin' in the Wind" are sung with new words appropriate for Mass. Fr. Richard Dahl and Richard Lisak, a parishioner, accompany the singing on guitars.

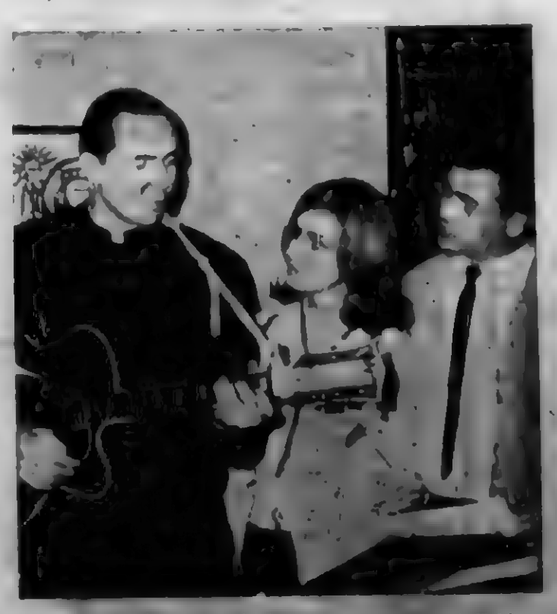
An example of the "Folk Mass" singing is:

"How many years must My people exist/Before they know they are one?/How many times must their blood be shed/Before they know that it is Mine?/How many times must you break My Bread/Before you give Me to eat?/The answer, my friend, is living in all men."

The original song, made popular by folksingers Peter, Paul and Mary, has the following words:



"How many years must a mountain exist/Before it is washed to the sea?/How many years must some people exist/Before they are allowed to be free?/How many times can a man turn his head/And pretend that he just doesn't see?/The answer, my friend, is blowin' in the wind.

Fr. Weber said he had received a few complaints about the religious experiment, but said they were "insignificant."

He said that similar experiments have succeeded in Africa where many Masses are offered in native languages. He added that he also used religious words for songs like "Wabash Cannonball" when he was a priest at a rural church in the South about 15 years ago.

"This kind of service has been used in isolated cases for many years, and some people here just haven't gotten used to it yet," he said.

THE GUITAR PLAYER is Fr. Richard Dahl. He is accompanying students singing during a "Folk Mass" at the Newman Club.

'LFR' Avoids Public Record Of Expenses, Contributions

By FRANK RYAN

It took an act of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio to strip the cloak of anonymity from the controversial "Let Freedom Ring" series of recorded telephone messages. But, aside from revealing who pays the phone bill, there is little else made available to the public on the whys and wherefores of "LFR."

The payments to the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. are made by William Ohly, 143 Fairdale-av, Westerville, company officals have confirmed. But that is precisely where any "official" information on "LFR" seems to end.

Ohly has steadfastly refused to discuss the matter with reporters. Although at home on at least one occasion when a reporter called, Ohly relayed a message through his wife that he would not come to the phone to talk to the reporter.

Left unanswered is the question of whether "LFR," which this week is promoting respect for law and order, is, in fact, operating in violation of Ohio law.

"May" Be In Violation

Officials at the city, county and state levels seemed agreed that there are areas where the "LFR" operation "may" violate state statutes. But in each instance, the public official interviewed said that any "official" action must begin with the filing of a complaint by a citizen.

The main points of law relating to the taped messages involve questions of public solicitation of funds and the sale of taxable materials. If, for example, "LFR" holds itself to be a non-profit or charitable organization, it must be registered as such in the Franklin County clerk of courts office, or in the Ohio Attorney General's office. Officials of these offices say that no such registration for "LFR" has been filed.

Reportedly, "LFR," here, is part of a nationwide chain which receives the bulk of its scripts or tapes from Dr. William Campbell Douglass, a Sarasota, Fla., physician, and originator of the "LFR" idea.

Let Freedom Ring's purpose, according to a news report quoting Dr. Douglass, is to "disseminate anti-Communist, anti-Socialist, pro-American broadcasts via a telephone tape recording."

The recorded messages have attacked the Peace Corps, the United Nations, the Civil Rights Movement, the PTA, Dr. Martin Luther King, the National Council of Churches and others. Locally, the tapes have attacked Rev. Phale D. Hale, NAACP president, and Rev. Arthur Zebbs, CORE coordinator.

Described As 'Non-Profit'

Dr. Douglass describes "LFR" as a "non-profit corporation." The Ohio Secretary of State's office shows no listing of "LFR" as either an Ohio corporation, or a foreign corporati doing business in Ohio.

An official in the state's Department of Taxation reported that "LFR" can not make a "sale" of any literature or item of more than 30 cents without being subject to the state's sales tax. "If they call it a donation, that is still a sale as far as we are concerned," he said.

The State Taxation Department official also said that a vendor's license for any such sales must be secured prior to sale through the Franklin County Auditor's office. No such vendor's license has been issued to Ohly, an auditor's office official reported.

Several area governmental officials were in agreement that a recent newspaper advertisement placed by "LFR" was a "clear-cut" appeal for public financial support, and as such, subject to state statutes governing public solicitation of funds.

But each agreed that only an offical complaint from outside their offices could result in an investigation of the status of "LFR" in respect to legal requirements to be met.

Location Secret

Although exact location of the recording devices seems to be a well-kept secret, it has been determined that at least three separate units for the recorded messages are in operation. Cost of these is a matter of public record as part of tariff regulations governing rates applied by the Ohio Bell Telephone Co.

Each full unit costs the subscriber a minimum charge of $32.55 monthly, or a minimum of $97.65 monthly for the known three units currently in operation. This does not include the costs of tapes, scripts or other services reportedly furnished from the Florida "LFR" headquarters.

Usually the listener to the recorded message is asked to donate $1 for specific pamphlets or information. Some pamphlets are "sold" for as little as a 10-cent "donation."

But nowhere in the appropriate city, county or state offices can there be found any public accounting of either the amount of funds received by "LFR," or the expenses incurred in its operation.

CHURCH LEADERS GIVE GO-AHEAD

Bus Bill Constitutionality To Be Tested

By ADRIENNE BOSWORTH
Spectator Special Correspondent

Leaders of the major Protestant denominations and Jewish congregations in Ohio are asking their members to authorize a court action to test the so-called fair bus bill passed by the last legislature.

Representatives of the various churches met several days ago and agreed to press for support of the constitutionality test. Ohio's Southern Baptist Convention gave the go-ahead to its executive officers last week. The other denominations have promised a decision by the first of the year.

Legislation to permit public school buses to transport parochial and private school pupils brought the largest and loudest public reaction of the 106th General Assembly.

Public Welfare Issue Raised

The pro-bus bill faction considered the transportation of school children a matter of public welfare and said pupils could not be denied a public benefit because of their religion. The anti-bus bill group termed such transportation a component of the state's educational service and insisted that non-public schools could not have access to facilities maintained by public money.

Although this basic dichotomy was clouded by emotional and political interests, passage of the bill gave sanction to the public welfare argument.

A portion of the Ohio Constitution states "religion, morality and knowledge, however, being essential to good government, it shall be the duty of the General Assembly to pass suitable laws to protect every religious denomination in the peaceable enjoyment of its own mode of worship and to encourage schools and means of public instruction."

Another section of the state constitution requires that "no religions or other sect, or sects, shall ever have any exclusive right to, or control of, any part of the school funds of this state."

Since the 1920's Ohio's attorneys general had ruled that pupils attending private schools were not entitled to the use of transportation facilities provided for public school pupils. But in 1963, Atty. Gen. William Saxbe told the Medina school board that boards of education "had no authority under existing statutes to furnish transportation to private and parochial school pupils . . ."

Everson Case of Consequence

The shift from ruling equal busing as absolutely unconstitutional to the inference that enabling legislation was needed stemmed from a controversial decision of the U. S. Supreme Court in 1947.

This was the "Everson case," which proponents of the bus bill quoted and opponents called a mistake.

Arch R. Everson was secretary of a taxpayers league in Ewing Township, New Jersey. Under state law, the township had been reimbusing parents for transportation costs of their children attending public schools. Later, Ewing Township extended the payments to parents of students attending a Catholic school.

Everson filed suit on the constitutionality of the state law and the case went up to the U.S. Supreme Court. In February 1947 the justices ruled 5 to 4 in favor of the New Jersey law.

Many Articles Needed

This year's Catholic Bishops' Thanksgiving Clothing Drive for the needy overseas is scheduled for Nov. 21 through Nov. 27 in the Columbus Diocese.

Any garment in wearable condition, any serviceable blanket or item of bed linen, all shoes in good repair and every household article of clothing will be gratefully received.

Clothing and material contributed to the Thanksgiving Clothing Campaign is packed, shipped overseas and distributed to those in need by Catholic Relief Services, the overseas aid agency of American Catholics. Distribution is made entirely without reference to race, creed or national origin.

Operating in more than 70 countries, Catholic Relief Services is the world's largest private voluntary relief organization.

During November, reception depots are in use in some 17,000 Catholic parishes throughout the nation.

Letters to local pastors concerning the drive have been mailed by The Catholic Welfare Bureau of the Columbus Diocese.

with 2100 signatures of persons endorsing the concept of neighborhood schools.

Also on the same topic, Mrs. William Prentice, 5204 Bagley-rd, said she represented many residents in the city's far eastern area who opposed any changes in the system.

"All children, whether they be Negroid, Caucasian . . . are human beings . . . and must be treated with dignity and understanding," she read in a prepared statement.

"They must not be used as pawns on a chess board," she continued, pointing to the psychological harm of moving children from their "home school."

Protests have repeatedly been registered against bussing children although the plan is not endorsed by either the school administration or board, or by the Civil Rightists.

A plan for an organization of an intercultural education council, long requested by Civil Rights groups, is in the final drafting stages, Dr. Eibling reported, and will be presented soon.

Deadlines Moved Up

The Spectator will be delivered the day before Thanksgiving — one day earlier than usual.

Advertising and publicity deadlines for the Thanksgiving edition have been moved forward.

Display ad copy for all paper combinations must be at The Spectator office by 5 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 18; individual papers must have material by 5 p.m. Friday, Nov. 19.

Classified ad copy will be accepted until noon Monday, Nov. 22. For the convenience of advertisers, the switchboard will be open until 3:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 20.

Wanted: A Home

The Franklin County Children's Services is faced with an urgent problem. There are infants now at Franklin Village who need "family care."

Last month 15 babies were placed in foster homes. During November, Children's Services expects to have even more infants needing temporary homes. (About 125 more children, of all ages, are now waiting for foster families.)

Many new applicants are needed — people who believe they can give love and security to children not their own, until permanent plans can be made for them. Board and medical care are provided. Couples between the ages of 22 and 60 years, married more than one year and with adequate room for an additional child could be excellent foster parents.

Persons wishing to apply may call Mrs. Lilly at BR. 6-3541.

The Franklin County Children's Services is the agency of the Franklin County Child Welfare Board, and is responsible for dependent and neglected children. Currently 3,742 children are under care. Some 1,000 of these are living in foster homes.

The council pay increase measure, if introduced, will be by unanimous petition of the council, rather than coming from any committee action.

ELECTION LEFTOVERS: Mayor-Elect Paul J. Haytcher is expected to return the middle of next week from a Florida sojourn, and may have some announcements on appointments. While Haytcher has kept a tight lip on possible choices, it is believed that most of his decisions have been made.

Two top appointments are the service and safety director posts. His final decision for these posts may bring a tough assignment to a current Whitehall resident and a new resident of the city.

bids — and an electronics laboratory will be added to Eastmoor Senior High.

• Eastmoor Junior High will also be enlarged by four additional classrooms.

• Four to six classrooms and a multi-purpose room are planned at Courtright Elementary.

• East Columbus School will be enlarged by four to six classrooms and minor remodeling is also planned.

• The multi-purpose room at Fair Elementary will be converted into two classrooms, and a new multi-purpose rooms will be constructed.

Construction on the Alexander Graham Bell School for deaf children, not slated for opening until the fall of '67, will get under way in the early spring.

The building will be located on the Medina Junior and Huy Elementary School sites.

Basic instruction will be offered, in keeping with Columbus Schools' policy of returning handicapped children to normal classrooms as soon as possible.

The entire 1966 building program of nine new schools, seven additions to present buildings, 10 additions and remodelings, and seven site expansion projects, is financed from the $34,650,000 bond issue approved by voters in the fall of 1964.

The $11 million expansion and building plan is second in size only to last year's record high $12,650,000 program.

Ziggy Coyle Toots Horn On New Plan

Ziggy Coyle, president of Coyle Music Centers of Columbus and Delaware, announces a new plan designed to give every child an opportunity to participate in the world of music.

Coyle

In the past, most parents have been hesitant to make the investment in a musical instrument without knowing for sure that the child will continue and retain interest.

With the new plan, as announced by Coyle, it is now possible to provide an instrument for the young child on an unlimited trial basis. The instrument may be returned at any time should the child lose interest but all nominal monthly payments are applied toward purchase price if the child continues.

In the past the Coyle firm has offered a short-term trial plan but after 14 years experience in the music education field they have found that most parents were not ready to make such an important decision at the end of a two-month period.

With the new plan available only in Central Ohio at the Coyle Music Centers, a parent can now give the child as many months as necessary before making final arrangements to purchase the instrument.

DiSALLE TO DEBATE

'Should Ohio Abolish Capital Punishment?'

"Should Ohio Abolish Capital Punishment?" This is the subject of a debate between former Governor Michael V. DiSalle and John T. Corrigan, Cuyahoga County Prosecuting Attorney, to be presented live Tuesday, Nov. 23, at 9:30 p.m. on Channel 34, WOSU-TV.

The hour-long feature was inspired by DiSalle's anti-capital punishment position in his newly released book "The Power of Life or Death."

The program, which is sponsored by the North Broadway Methodist Christian Social Concerns Commission, will be moderated by Robert W. Kotzbauer, who heads the committee and is a State House reporter for The Akron Beacon Journal.

Last spring, 61 state representatives asked to have the question of capital punishment placed on the state ballot. Since about 90 representatives are needed, the issue was shelved.

Of the 50 states in the Union only five (Alabama, Hawaii, Maine, Minnesota and Wisconsin) have abolished capital punishment. Michigan, North Dakota and Rhode Island have modified their law.

Michael V. DiSalle will take the side against capital punishment and John T. Corrigan will argue for it.

GUEST PULPIT

Why Preach From House To House?

Oftentimes people ask why Jehovah's Witnsses do not confine themselves to preaching in their own churches as other preachers do instead of calling from house to house. The reason for their home visits is tied with the worship of their God, Jehovah.

Since "there are many 'gods' and many 'lords'," the true God has a personal name to distinguish him from all other gods. "Thou alone, whose name is Jehovah, art the Most High over all the earth."

Read Cor. 8.5)

And referring to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, God said to Moses: "But by my name Jehovah I was not known to them." Jesus made this name known to his followers: "I have made your name manifest to the men you gave me." Jehovah's witnesses today likewise make known Jehovah's name: "Ye are my witnesses, saith Jehovah, and I am God." (Exo. 6:3; Ps. 83:18; Isa. 43:10-12; John 17:6; I

Jehovah's first creation was his Son: "the faithful and true witness, the beginning of the creation by God," "the firstborn of all creation." (Col. 1:15; Rev. 3:14). Before coming to earth He was known as the Word or Logos, and "apart from Him not even one thing came into existence." (John 1:1, 3).

Far from claiming to be equal with his Father, he said: "I cannot do a single thing of my own initiative" and "the Father is greater than I am." (John 5:30; 14:28). In view of the foregoing, Jehovah's Witnesses reject the doctrine of the trinity as being unscriptural.

To guide and protect man God provided an "anointed cherub that covereth," a guardian angel. This cherub became ambitious to be worshiped like Jehovah God and so turned traitor and caused man to disobey God. (Gen. 3:1-6; Eze. 28:13-19; Matt. 4:9). This immediately raised the question: Whose fault was it that man sinned? Had Jehovah God made man weak and yet required of him perfect obedience if he would live? So the Devil contended, boasting that he could turn all men away from God. (Job, chapters 1 and 2)

Jehovah's name and supremacy thus became involved. To prove his supremacy, to prove the Devil a liar, to prove that he could put men on earth who would remain faithful to him in spite of all that the Devil could do, Jehovah permitted the first human pair and the Devil to live. He knew that some of their offspring would remain faithful to him and thus witness to his supremacy. From Abel on, Jehovah has had witnesses on earth. (Prov. 27:11; Heb. 11.)

Today he has more witnesses on the earth than ever before — 1,075,523 last year in 194 countries of the world, including 98,610 in 11 countries behind the Iron Curtain. And all of these witnesses regularly call from house to house to explain Jehovah's side of this issue of supremacy. Thus, and thus alone, are they "Jehovah's witnesses."

We Took Our Own 'Old Time' Movies

ADELINE DALEY

Now I know how Fay Wray, King Kong and some of the film stars of yesteryear must feel when they see themselves in their old movies on television — either depressed or embarrassed.

For some of our old home movies — those early classics, produced and directed by my husband and in which I play many a starring role — were re-released the other night, only because one of my kids found them in the bottom of a drawer where they were well-hidden.

My main objection to the films being shown was that they have a way of dating you, like framing your high school diploma and hanging it in the front hall. My kids, for one, do a good enough job of making me feel ancient without my being photographed in a Betty Grable hairdo.

Brian, at least, tried to console me during the screening by commenting that I didn't look a day over 29. Which would have been comforting to hear, except that I was 25 at the time. Nor did it help my image to be seen cavorting before the camera in dresses down to my ankles — which happened to be the "New Look" in 1951 (if you can remember back that far).

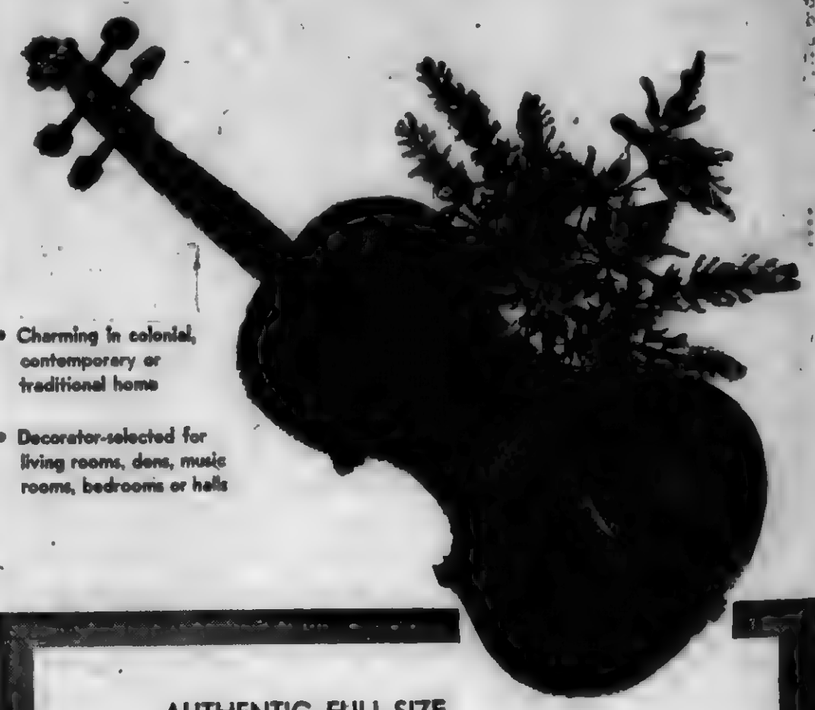
Coincidentally, 1951 was the same year that my husband, Eric von Stroheim, purchased his camera equipment. And like most camera neophytes he shot more footage during the first few weeks than all of the celluloid used in "Birth of a Nation."

Like all great directors, my husband is famous for a unique style. DeMille is noted for his bath tub scenes and Alfred Hitchcock is the master of suspense, and my husband shoots people while they are eating — with a camera, that is.

Mostly because he hates pictures of relatives and friends waving their arms before the lens, and also because I insist he photograph family functions — birthday parties, reunions, holidays — in which we all seem to do nothing but eat.

I'm inclined to agree with the kids who maintain that his command must be, "Lights, Action, Camera — and Alka Seltzer."

So all in all it was quite a show. The kids felt that it was better than the Kraft cheese commercials they see on TV. Maybe it's too bad that the camera novelty were off and he hung up his megaphone and ham — which forced me into retirement — like Garbo.



However, should the right role come along, I just may be persuaded to return behind the footlights.

Ohio Methodists Climb Toward $7 Million Goal

The Ohio Methodist Crusade for Christian Higher Education edged close to the half-way mark toward a goal of $7 million at the end of the first of three weeks of canvassing.

Rev. Dr. Raoul C. Calkins of Kettering, the statewide general chairman, said 302 of the approximately 2000 churches in the state have reached or exceeded their goals.

The $7 million will benefit Ohio Wesleyan, Ohio Northern, Baldwin - Wallace and Mount Union colleges; Wesley Foundations at Ohio State, Ohio University, Kent State, Miami, Bowling Green and the University of Cincinnati. In addition, $2 million is to be invested and the income used for scholarships and grants-in-aid.

★ SPECTATOR 1965 BASKETBALL PREVIEWS ★

By BOB WHITMAN

The East Tiger was wounded in the final round of the Class AA Central District Basketball Tournament last season. The first reports from the East camp this winter read like a wounded Tiger is indeed a dangerous one.

East has speed, size, shooting ability and a cage full of other talents that won't be let loose until Dec. 3, when Marion Franklin visits tigerland.

HEADING THE LIST of impressive pre-season credentials is three returning starters and one other returning letterman. Vance Carr (6-2), Luther Curry (6-1), and Gil Matthews, (6-1) all started last year. John Wright (6-0) rounds out the returnees list.

East received the bounty of a transfer crop and the pick of the newcomers from Junior High ball. John Frazier, a transfer student from Chicago Harlan High School averaged 16 points per game last year, and is currently sixth man, standing at 6-0.

Another transferee, Tom Harris (6-1) came to Columbus from Detroit.

A 6-5 SOPHOMORE who played at Champion last season, Randy Smth, is going to be hard to keep out of the starting lineup.

Bob Hart starts his third year as the Tiger trainer. His first season was a high point in his coaching career as East copped the state title, last year the Tigers posted a 14-6 mark.

THIS SEASON Hart is optimistic about his crew, but is wary of the top dog tab put on them by other members of the City League. "It all depends how the boys come along," Hart said, "but I think they are potentially as good as the 1963 team."

That 1963 team, lest anyone forget, ruled the State Schoolboy crop with an iron hand and a fast break.

HART LOOKS for Mel Fowkles (6-3), a brother of Ken who was a standout on the '63 bunch, to supply some bench power. "He is the most improved ability wise thus far," Hart added.

Dick Farrell, a 6-4 senior, also will lend strong reserve fuel to the squad.

Another member being highly considered for playing time, Bob Taylor, a 6-6 senior, will miss six weeks of action due to a broken finger.

A Catholic League co-championship, a 17-4 record, and a state ranking that reached 21 at one point during the 1964-65 season will be a tough act to follow for the Hartley Hawks, and they might do it.

HARTLEY WILL be starting the 1965 season with two lettermen-starters from last year's team, Doug Parker (6-4) and Steve McGrew (5-11). The Hawks are considered prime challengers in the Catholic race. DeSales, with four returning starters and one of them a 6-7 center, is the top pick in the league this winter.

"I think Watterson, Ready and us are unknowns," head coach Dick Geyer said, "but just looking at the league you would have to say DeSales is the team to beat."

The Hawks will be operating with a new coach and will have lost some pretty good talent. Geyer, the St. Charles boss last year, moved to the Hartley helm, but missing from last year's squad are Tom Schlager, Frankie Tafoya and Les Thomas.

SCHLAGER AND Tafoya were all league picks.

To work with Parker and McGrew will be faces that Parker has seen every day of his life. There will be a trio of Parkers in Hartley togs. Brothers Denny and Rod are also sure bets to make the starting five.

Denny stands 6-1 and according to Geyer is the most improved of the bunch. Rod is a 6-2 sophomore, probably won't nail down the starting berth until after Christmas.

A pair of returnees from last season's varsity, Dave Rogers (6-4) and Bob Collins (5-11) are both making stabs at wearing one of the top five uniforms.

COLLINS IS being pushed by Jack Geist, 5-10 senior, a transfer student from Aquinas.

Another contender, Tom Lieb, a 6-1 junior, is making things tough for Rogers. Lieb was a standout for the reserves last season.

GEYER FIGURES to have overall team speed with McGrew and Denny Parker a pair of slick ball handlers triggering a fast break. "We have to get the rebound first," Geyer added.

Hartley's rebounding last winter was aided by jumping Jack Thomas and forward Tom Schlager along with Doug Parker. This year only one third of that crew is back.

Like the song, color Eastmoor green, but don't color them out of the 1965 cage picture.

The Warriors have two returning lettermen and one of them started on the regional runner-up basketball squad last year. Gary Cochan, a 6-2 senior is the lone starter back.

HE WILL BE joined by letter winner Glenn Powell and varsity member Wyman Hawkins to form Red Courtney's experience circle.

Courtney bemoans the lack of size as another problem that the Warriors will have to lick, but claims to have quickness of both hands and feet.

That quickness is the basic ingredient for effective defense, and Courtney figures that the defense will have to carry on to compensate for the lack of height.

Newcomers up from the reserves include Lance Grear, Eric Walz, Bill Wood Randy Yoakum, Bill Hoy, Dan Kernberg, and Ron Counts.

OTHERS THAT figure in EM's basketball plans are Marty Komives, Jack Parry, Jerry Casson, and Rich Lech.

Courtney is still undecided on starting prospects because of the experience. "We will work around Cochran," he said, "and he and Powell are the most sure of their jobs."

Gone from last year's group are four starters that led the Warriors into the "sweet sixteen." Ron Bollie, Jerry Groves, Steve Howell and Doug Cramer all graduated.

GAHANNA WILL also be inexperinced, but with two veterans from last year's 8-11 team at 6-3, the Lions will be rebound-wise.

Mike Shaffer and Fred Browning are returning starters for the Gahanna outfit, and, according to coach Jack Schmidt, will be team standouts.

Gahanna's last game in the tournament last season showed Shaffer and Browning both handling the boards against a bigger Hartley quintet. In fact, it took a last-second fielder to sideline Gahanna.

THE STRONG points of the Gahanna team this winter will be defense and depth. Gahanna will have only one senior in the bunch, that being Shaffer.

Schmidt looks for London and Grove City to be title favorites this year. "London because of experience and speed and Grove City because of height and attitude," he said.

Members of the 1965 Gahanna team that will be battling for spots with Browning and Shaffer are Larry Barth, Mark Blackman, Tom Blankenship, Chuck Bosse, Clark Coleman, Bob Lawhead, Bob McGuire, Steve Morrison, Steve Schneider and Scott Warden.

Morrison stands 6-4, and Lawhead and Bosse are 6-2.

Savvy-Shy Warriors Prep For Mat Action

New Eastmoor wrestling coach Bob Barnett has the quantity (60 prospects out).

Now all the Warrior mentor has to do is rough out the quality.

AND THAT might not be a small order for Barnett, whose '65-'66 mat cupboard looks a bit bare at present with only two returning lettermen to fill the shelves.

Eastmoor will miss four departed grapplers who helped the Warriors come up with a second straight "Cinderella" showing in the District last March after a so-so regulation season.

Missing this winter will be 138-pounder Pete Johnson (19-1-1), 145-pounder Mike Sullivan (19-2) and 112-pounder Roy Leonard (20-1).

ALL THREE were members of The Spectator's All-Star wrestling squad last spring and Johnson and Sullivan both notched District titles in their individual weight classes.

Another departed starter from the '64-'65 squad is Vince Rutledge, who grappled at the 127 spot.

Barnett will have to mold his '65-'66 edition around his two returning vets — heavyweight Steve Gutridge and 120-pounder Pete Prendergast.

THE WARRIOR mat coach will have to lean heavily on that pair, plus Dan Callihan (112), Rick Newpoff (175) and Larry Mixon (165) — the only other E-M grapplers with much wrestling savvy.

Joe VonElda is a likely starter at either the 133 or 138 class but that's about it in the personnel department for Barnett at this point, the Warrior coach carefully looking over his new boys for the diamond in the rough.

Local Anglers Make 'Honorable' Catches; Doc Has Right Medicine

Paul Kazee of Columbus and Frank O'Bryant of Grove City are listed among those qualifying for "honorable mention" in the Ohio Huskie Muskie Club during the past two months.

Kazee landed a 43 in., 16½ pounder at Harrus Lake while O'Bryant hooked a 36½ in., 12½ pounder at the same site.

To qualify for regular membership in the club, muskellunge must be 40 inches in length, or over, and be 20 pounds in weight, or over. Thirty-inchers qualify for honorable mention.

A Dr. Dunmire of Barnesville, O., proved to be a real "sport" at Piedmont — returning a 30½ in. prize.

The good doctor was repaid for his sporting attitude, later landing a pair of muskies measuring over the 32 in. mark.

GOES TO SAWYER

Airman William E. Moerch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Moerch, Jr., of 651 Erickson-av, Whitehall, has been assigned to K. I. Sawyer AFB, Mich., after completing Air Force basic training. The airman, a 1963 graduate of Whitehall Yearling High School, will be trained on the job as an administrative specialist with the Strategic Air Command.

HOW ABOUT THAT DEPT.

Don't Feel Bad, Jimmy-- We Just Break Cameras!

WLW-C sports director Jimmy Crum has a footnote to add to his list of memories.

Jimmy's trials and tribulations of piecing together an OSU football game were reviewed in last week's Spectator edition ("Bits and Pieces").

BUT THE likeable TV personality provided an encore this week in the process of filming a practice session of the Little Buckeyes, a local little league football eleven.

Mounted upon a blocking sled with camera in hand, Jimmy and the sled took the brunt of the gridder's forward charge. The sled took the charge undamaged. Jimmy didn't.

In keeping with the tradition of every good photographer ("It's OK to break your leg, but don't scratch the camera"), Jimmy escaped with his equipment intact but not an ankle, which sustained a pretty bad sprain.

A TRIP to OSU trainer Ernie Biggs helped matters nicely but Jimmy didn't spend too much time on the duchy ankle the next day.

We're letting the Channel Four sports director off easy. The story circulating around the TV station has Jimmy getting tackler by one of the minature gridders!

Nine Gahanna Opponents Got A Belli-full Of Lions' Dave

By JACK WITTENMEIER

Ever have a Belli-ache?

Nine Gahanna opponents did this past grid season and all nine would readily agree that it wasn't much fun.

THE "BELL" in this case is the Lions' fullback Dave, and, just for the record, it's pronounced "BELL-EYE."

Maybe the pronounciation wouldn't be so important — except that you might be hearing the name in the future.

Gahanna coach George Troutman next July wouldn't mind hearing the name on his 1966 roster but — alas for George, hooray for Lion opponent — big Dave hung up the cleats a couple of weeks ago.

AND THAT little job was done rather impressively — an adverb which has been associated with the name Belli since early September.

In his high school finale against Grove City, big (6-1, 210 lbs.) Dave carried the mail 25 times for 227 yards (9.1 yards per carry) and three TDs, adding four two-point conversions for good measure.

That's pretty impressive itself but add the fact that the two - time All - League Lion fullback outrushed the entire opposition effort in six of nine games this season and it's easy to see why Troutman reports "quite a number of inquiries" from major colleges for Dave's services next time he laces up his grid shoes.

"ALL HIS records are school records," Troutman added, pointing out that Dave's three - year rushing total (2309 yards) and point total (190) don't appear soon to be eclipsed.

Incidentally, the Lion fullback also holds the total offense record with his rushing efforts alone! "Dave caught one pass all season," Troutman chuckled. "Our quarterback just spotted him open."

Of that career total, 1343 yards came against '65 opponents in 243 carries for a 5.3 average. Belli's 16 TDS and 12 successful conversion attempts put him out front in both the Mid - Eight and District scoring derby.

"HE LED US to two consecutive Mid - Eight championships," the Lion coach added happily. The Gahanna "workhorse" was never more valuable than in the clutch situations — tallying the lone TD in a 6-0 squeaker over Groveport with 2:30 remaining to play and adding a six-pointer and the winning conversion in a two-point win over loop co-champ London.

Although his effort against Hilliard (only team to beat Gahanna this fall) was below his 140-yard average (113 yards in 23 carries), Belli convinced Wildcat coach Norm McElheny who tabbed the three - letter senior as "definite All-State talent."

And, although his off-tackle slant was most vital to the Lions' offensive thrust, fullback Belli got no rest when the Lions went to defense — stationed at a defensive end spot.

"WE LED THE District in defense this season," Troutman pointed out, "limiting the opposition to 57 points. Dave had a lot of responsibility out there (end) and gave us a tremendous job."

Well - liked, a good student and a member of several school clubs, Dave's next job will come in the spring when he switches cleats for baseball spikes.

A two - letter pitcher, Belli compiled a 1.06 ERA last spring plus a 5-1 record which earned him an honorable mentioned All-Mid-Eight tag and an invitation from the Mets to work out at Zanesville.

SUMMING UP his big fullback, Troutman concluded, "He just loves the game of football and lives it from one Friday night to the next."

Dave is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lidvinnio Belli, 4203 N. Hamilton-rd, Gahanna.

THE LITTLE BUCKEYES recently wrapped up their third consecutive Ohio Valley Conference title and now are hopeful of returning for an encore to the Key West (Fla.) Bowl game which they won last season. Little Buck players include (front row, from left): Charlie Fowle, Gene Lynx, Ed Collins, Rich Hunter, John Moltenberry, Gary Defourny and tri-captain Mike Mack. Second row: backfield coach Ron Allen, Dave Ross, Terry Cashin, Vince Passero, tri-captain Stu Brownstein, John Todhunter, Jim Kuhn, Chuck Kloman, Steve Korpieski, backfield coach Bob Irwin. Third row: coach Tom C. Krieger, Phil Mirvis, Guy Dunn, Bob Burns, tri-captain Bill Vest, Ken Bush, Dick Plagman, Jim Fausnaugh, Greg Lachowsky, end coach Bern Eichner. Back row: guard and center coach Tom Ellifritz, Jim Wile, Jim Bontadelli and defensive captain Gary Ballen, Greg Hale, Dennis Bernhard, Jerry Garriott, Chuck Kleiecka, Steve Flowers, and Mike Egger.

CANDY SALE ON TAP:

Little Buckeyes Wrap Up 3rd OVC Title, Eye Bowl Encore

The Little Buckeyes, winners of a third straight Ohio Valley Conference championship, are now preparing and planning to defend their Key West, Fla., Bowl title.

Under the direction of Buckeye Athletic Director Tom C. Krieger, the Little Buckeyes have amassed 1,173 points (three seasons), yielding only three touchdowns.

BUCKEYE quarterback Bill Vest led the conference in scoring with 69 points.

Coach Krieger attributed his team's success over the years to the quality type youngsters who have come out for the squad, the great team effort, desire given by each player and the splendid job of coaching by the coaching staff over the years.

This year's staff included guard and center coach Tom Ellifritz, backfield coaches Bob Irwin and Ron Allen, end coach Bern Eichner and tackle coach Doug Bedell. Bedell entered the service at mid-season.

ANOTHER great loss this season was that of three-year veteran and tri-captain Stu Brownstein by way of injury but he stayed on — missing no practices or games, giving great inspiration to the team effort.

In preparing for their return to Key West, Fla., to defend their bowl title, the Little Buckeyes will hold a candy sale.

"I surely hope the good people of Columbus open their hearts to help these youngsters," Krieger said. "Last year contributions from interested and civic-minded persons helped us a great deal.

"With the big hit they (Little Bucks) made last year in Florida by their good manners, behavior and good appearances along with this year's fantastic season, they deserve the right to return and defend their title."

Jewish Center Sports Roundup

The opening dates for the boys basketball program are Nov. 27 and 28.

The Pioneer League, composed of fifth and sixth grade boys will meet on Saturday nights. The Junior Jets, Colts, and Pony Leagues will play on Sunday afternoons.

Registration has been large, so parents are requested to enroll their sons at once. The Boys' Basketball Committee has voted to limit the team sizes, and is putting it on a first come first serve basis.

The girls of S.T.P. occupy first place of the girls' volleyball league. The gals of Emma Lazarus run a close second.

Epsilon A defeated Capital 18-6 to gain first place of the Teen football league.

Standouts in the game were: Joe Goldhammer, Mark Rinkov, Steve Gutter, Berly Oser, M. Masser, M. Unger, and J. Engelman.

Pegasus downed Epilsons B, 22-8 with Steve Gold turning in a fine quarterbacking job. Steve Michaelson, Jay Worly, Bob Zieve and L. Tieman also turned in good performances.

Pops Dworkin defeated Heart of Ohio, 12-0. Gary Bloomenthal scoored twice.

Bexley Nabs Five Berths On All-BAC

Co-champions Bexley and Delaware split dominance of the first-ever Buckeye Athletic Conference all-league team last week with five berths apiece.

The Lions placed quarterback Rick Weber, end Fred Grimm, guards Chris Harbold and Dave Herwald and tackle Karl Petzinger on the squad. All five are seniors.

The Lions also nabbed four honorable mention slots with sophomore halfback Colby Crail, junior guard Doug Felger, sophomore back Jim Moriarty and junior back A. J. Myers listed in that capacity.

Area High Gridders 'Call It A Season'

Football 1965 slid into memory last Friday night, on a night that many might want to forget.

Whitehall had plenty of reason to forget as the Ram offensive machine couldn't get started in falling to neighborhood buddy Hartley, 24-14.

But to the rest, the miserable playing conditions were almost in script for the last November night of football. Carroll dropped Amanda, 20-14, Franklin Heights lost to Miami Trace, 8-6, Reynoldsburg throttled Westerville, 22-0, Olentangy nipped Dublin, 12-8, and Pleasent View spanked Grove City, 26-6.

AFTER EIGHT unsuccessful plays following the kickoff, Whitehall punted dead on the nine. Hartley's Scott French took the handoff from John Brandt and winged his way 91 yards to put Hartley on the scoreboard on its first play from scrimmage.

The rest of the game followed that opening scene as Whitehall couldn't contain the Hawks speed. Mike Cunningham busted loose in the second period for 70 yards and the touchdown. He also squeezed loose once again but slipped on the wet ground.

HARTLEY ROLLED up a 24-8 lead going into the fourth period when French busted over from the one yard line.

Whitehall's only serious threat was the passing of Mike Allen. Allen completed eight of 16 passes including one touchdown pass to John Bankes in the fourth quarter.

Hartley busted through the Ram line two more times that didn't get on the scoreboard. As time ran out at the end of the half and the game Hartley had the ball inside the five.

REYNOLDSBURG'S Gene Harshaw plunged his way through the Westerville defense for all three of the Raiders scores last Friday.

Harshaw marked from one, three and 12 yards out.

All of the Reynoldsburg points came in the final half.

Carroll put togather 20 points in the second period to dash hapless Amanda Clearcreek.

OLENTANGY CAME from behind to ditch Dublin on Ed Kennedy's 68-yard touchdown run in the last period.

Don Burton scored the lone Dublin touchdown in the third

PLEASENT VIEW'S ED Bowers and Greg Rundels put the long run on the board to whip Grove City.

Bowers marked twice from 59 and 20 yards out and Rundels bounced over on a 41 yard run.

The Greyhounds only points came on a one-yard run by John Sexton in the second period.

GARY FINLEY hit the end zone on a one-yard plunge in the third period of play, but it wasn't enough in the end for Franklin Heights.

Miami Trace countered with a touchdown in the final round but added the extra points.

Lions Land Six Players On All-Mid 8

Gahanna and London, 1965 co-champions of the Mid-Eight League, split all-league domination right down the middle last week — each eleven landing six berths.

The Lions gained spots for senior end Mike Bokros, tackle Nelson, Bobb, guard Barry Hennis, linebacker Jerry Serafini, quarterback Bob Mach and fullback Dave Belli. All six are seniors.

The champs also did well in the honorable mention category, placing six more gridders there in end Mike Jones, tackles John Marsch and Garry Shadwick, guards Terry Luft and Steve Miller and back Doug Young.

FARM TRIP IS CLIMAX OF FIRST GRADE STUDY PROJECT ON HARVEST

"A TRACTOR is like a horse — it doesn't do any harvesting work itself, but just pulls the machinery that does." John Porter discussed the mechanics of harvesting in a knowledgeable manner.

"HERE COMES THE CORN PICKER!" The 190 Etna Road School first graders were well prepared for their trip to the farm of Miss Lois Clark near Groveport — learning about corn farming and the different types and functions of harvesting machinery was part of a study unit that preceded the long-awaited day. "A trip to teacher's farm," is an annual fall event at the school.

Bexley High School

Lions' Roar

By MARCY DEATON and LANCE LISLE

The Bexley High School football players have become co-champions in the newly formed Buckeye Athletic Conference. They share the title with Delaware. Finishing their season by defeating Grandview 14 to 16, the Lions had two victories and one loss.

The Bexley newspaper "Torch" has again received the All American rating awarded by the National Scholastic Press Association. This rating is reserved for only the most outstanding papers in the country. The "Torch" has received the rating for 12 out of the last 13 semesters. The "Torch" was commended for outstanding news coverage and excellent balance of news and feature articles.

Phil Spohn, advertising manager; George Beverly, photographer; Tammy Crow and Julie Dobos, typists; Beth Cooper, Ron Cohen, Brenda Craft, Sonny Dargusch, Judy Hagler, Ann Huwaldt, Penny Main, Jeff Schuster, Shelly Schwartzburg, Sue Young, Laura Wright, Marcy Deaton, Rosalie Garner, Debby Greene, Marcia Kaplan, Kurt Krauss, Pam Millman, Louis Poberezkin, Barbara Putchat, and Ellen Rubin, staff members.

C. Robert Myers, Bexley choir director, has selected the members of boys', and girls' ensembles for this year. In the girls' ensemble are Fredi Bleich, Janet McCleary, Jo Ann Friedman, Jean Grevenow, Diana Harnett, Sharon Pree, Kris Kramer, Kathy Smith and Muguet Smith. In the boys' ensemble are Phil Levoff, Bill Cohen, Fred Grimm, Tom Myers, Bob Karr, Ron Cohen, Ken Becker and Steve Benedict.

Bexley's novice debaters participated in a tournament at East High School, Nov. 6. Rob Solomon is president of the Debate Squad. Other members are John Ludlum, Craig Honts, David Lubin, Marcy Deaton, Harriet Baker and Howard Van Wert.

Girls' intramural and interscholastic sports activities for the 1965 fall season are again being offered by the Girls' Athletic Club. Badminton, tennis, table tennis, horseshoes and hockey included for the 1965-66 school year are as follows:

THE SPECTATOR SUPPLEMENT

Nov. 18, 1965 — The Spectator — Metro—5

Letters To The Editor

Thank Voters

To The Editor:

On behalf of all Democratic candidates who ran for office in Whitehall, I want to express my thanks to all citizens who offered work and encouragement during the campaign and their vote on Election Day.

Those of us elected to office will always strive to justify the faith shown in us by the voters. Those of us who were not elected this time will continue to stand ready to serve the city whenever and wherever we can.

I congratulate the Republicans elected to office and assure them of wholehearted cooperation from the mayor's office in any matter that will be of benefit to all Whitehall citizens.

Paul J. Haytcher
Mayor-Elect

To the Editor:

My sincere thanks to the citizens of Groveport who by their vote on November 2 so overwhelmingly elected me their mayor for a new term commencing Jan. 1.

It will be my pledge to continue to serve all the citizens of Groveport to the best of my ability as long as I hold this office, striving at all times to keep Groveport first. Your criticisms, whether good or bad, will always be welcomed.

Robert F. Baer

To the Publisher:

This is to express my deepest appreciation to those who voted for me in the Nov. 2 municipal election.

Likewise, I should like to thank the scores of persons who worked so hard to make our victory possible.

While there is satisfaction in victory, I am mindful of the fact that the election brings with it heavy responsibilities in providing effective government for the people of Columbus.

I should like also to commend The Spectator for its coverage of the campaign and the manner in which it enlightened its readers as to the issues. The Spectator's indorsement of my candidacy will serve as a reminder of the responsibilities involved and the confidence placed in us.

M. D. Portman

Thanks, Whitehall voters, for your support. I shall continue to do my duties to the best of my ability for the benefit of all Whitehall citizens.

Francis E. Shaeffer,
Treasurer
City of Whitehall

To the Editor:

The results of the election are that of the 11 levy and bond issues in the county, only four were approved. In view of a state-wide negative reaction on the part of voters, we are happy that the Hamilton Local School operating levy was approved.

We wish to thank all of the persons who supported our schools at the polls on Tuesday.

D'Alan E. Huff, superintendent
Hamilton Local Schools

To the Editor:

My sincere thanks to those citizens of Columbus who manifested their confidence in me through their votes in my recent campaign for the position of Columbus city auditor.

I very much appreciate the efforts put forth by the fine people with whom I had the pleasure of associating during my campaign. Also, my congratulations to Mr. John Price on his election victory.

Hugh J. Dorrian

Grateful For Support

To The Publisher:

I wish to thank you for your endorsement of me for the office of city auditor.

It is my belief that your endorsement for any public officer is a great help in formulating public opinion in his favor.

I am duly appreciative of this honor.

John H. Price

To the Editor:

Just a note of thanks from a proud community for your excellent presentation of the facts on the Bexley School levy. Thanks to the many fine people in our community we were able to pass our levy by a 58 percent vote.

We all owe you a debt of gratitude for your endorsement.

'A Man's Truest Monument . . .'

By JIM BRUNEY
Spectator Staff Writer

A few days after the funeral, in November, 1963, Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner began setting up the John F. Kennedy Room, just off the entrance to his office in City Hall.

It was a time when the people were numb with shock and grieving.

The Kennedy Room was not the creation of a martyr-mourner. Standing in it one realizes that the loss was as personal to the Mayor of Columbus as to any other American.

But the room is a tribute to a living Kennedy.

The mayor's admiration for the living President is unquestionable:

"The important thing is that he didn't HAVE to do what he did. He was a member of a powerful, wealthy family — he could have led a life of quiet luxury. But he sought the toughest job this country has to offer.

"He loved people. And he had the good fortune to realize that all people, regardless of race, creed or color, are God's children.

"He was one of the most outstanding people who ever lived."

Of the some 250 books and magazines on Kennedy or the assassination, some are the ones that choked the newsstands during the painful weeks following his death.

Some of the portraits are the ones that were given away with so many gallons of gasoline or pounds of potato chips.

But these things are not ends in themselves. They are part of an effort to "cut out" a wedge of time — to preserve the background against which a nation wept.

These two men, the Mayor of Columbus and the President of the United States, were not close acquaintances. Kennedy paid a brief visit to Sensenbrenner's office — a few feet from his future memorial — in the fall of 1959. Sensenbrenner, as a delegate to the Democratic National Convention, was re-introduced to Kennedy in the summer of 1960.

Their backgrounds were not the same. Sensenbrenner was reared in a small-town rural area and educated at Ohio University. Kennedy was upper-class New England and Harvard.

Their similarity lies in their attitudes toward people. Both liked people. Neither ever considered anyone "unimportant." And both achieved their positions through popular, rather than partisan politics.

And the people have responded to the mayor's tribute. Many of the objects in the room are made by local people. —a spray of roses and a Kennedy rocker made from candy by a group of children; a replica of the president sculptured by a senior citizen; and many portraits, including one by a former member of a Boy Scout Troop, of which Sensenbrenner had been Scoutmaster. The young man, now a flier, was reported shot down over North Viet Nam a few days after the mayor received the portrait.

It takes no masterpiece of judgment to mourn a loss.

And that's why the Kennedy Room in Columbus City Hall seems more important than other, larger memorials.

Twenty, thirty, forty years from now — how many of the Kennedy memorials will be left? They will be torn down and replaced, or rebuilt. And they will be re-dedicated to some new fallen martyr, more fresh in the memory of the public.

But the Kennedy Room is not a gravestone, or a bridge or a library. It is the dedication of a man to the principles of a living leader.

To quote a 19th century poet:

"A man's truest monument must be a man."

Mayor Sensenbrenner likes to spend time with people. Visitors to his office will find that he will, more often than not, take time to show them through the Kennedy Room.

And he will be showing them a piece of himself.

ONE RECENT CONTRIBUTION to the room was this portrait of Kennedy, done by a young man who had been a member of a Boy Scout Troop of which Sensenbrenner was scoutmaster. Three days after receiving the portrait, the mayor learned that the man had been shot down while flying a mission over North Viet Nam.

Collector's Item

By RONALD D. WINGET

The Grant Memorial half dollar was struck in 1921 to commemorate the centenary of the birth of Ulysses S. Grant. Designed by Laura Gardin Fraser (wife of James Earle Fraser, designer of the Buffalo nickel) the coin bears the initial "G" rather than "F," so it would not be assumed that is was the work of her husband.

Although 250,000 pieces were authorized, many were not sold and as a result were melted. There are two varieties; one with a small incused five-pointed star in the field of the obverse (heads) side; the other has no star.

The coins with the star were minted first, and the star has no special meaning except to satisfy a desire of the commission handling the coins to have two varieties.

Profits from the sale of the coins were used to erect memorial to Ulysses S. Grant in Georgetown and Bethel, O., and to build a highway between New Richmond and Point Pleasant, O. These were places associated with his youth.

The total mintage reaching the public for the no-star variety was 67,405 with the star 4,256. The star variety sold at issue for $1.50 while the second variety brought only $1. Today variety I brings $65 while variety II has a $20 price tage. A few proof specimens exist of the star variety.

In addition to the half dollar, gold commemorative dollars were also struck. A total of 10,000 pieces were authorized and $10,016 were struck. The with-star variety was slightly greater with 5,016 and the no-star with 5,000. None of the gold dollars were melted.

Still Reason To Weep

The tragedy of President John F. Kennedy's assassination is even greater today than it was on that fateful Nov. 22 two years ago. We have gained so much from his death, but have learned so little.

Many of the things John Kennedy could not do in his brief three years as President were accomplished because of his death. Legislative programs were enacted as a memorial to his service and to his martyrdom by a nation united in grief.

But have we compounded the tragedy of his death by honoring the man while ignoring the very principles for which he died? "Ask not," he said, "what your country will do for you — ask what you can do for your country."

Few of us outside the military are called upon to match the sacrifices made by any man who assumes the presidency. But how many of us are so quick to condemn national leadership and policies, yet so slow to accept the most elementary responsibilities of citizenship?

How many of us are there who want to solve the national and international problems — our way — yet will not make the effort to cast an intelligent vote in local elections?

How many of us could not weep in remembering the sight of little "John-John" Kennedy — who celebrated his third birthday with a salute to the flag-draped casket of a father who would never again lift him into loving arms?

It would be better for us to weep because our own three-years-olds are not infused with such a love and respect for the flag of our country. And to recognize the lack of such love in too many of our 13-year-olds and our 23-year-olds.

John F. Kennedy left us more than the sum of his service and devotion to duty. He left us an example worth following — a challenge worth whatever personal effort might be involved.

Those of us who truly mourn the loss of John F. Kennedy will ultimately determine the quality of his place in history — for each of us must be a part of the hero we want him to be.

Burlesque Will Never Score

It comes to The Spectator's attention that burlesque is about to rear (ahem) its head on the Columbus scene.

Now, naturally, the writer of this editorial has never seen a burlesque show and therefore has not been sufficiently corrupted to recognize real evil when it is at hand. But, a poll of the news staff produced someone who has seen such a show.

This person assures us from first-hand observation that Columbus will survive long after the latest burlesque house has closed its doors for lack of community and cultural patronage. This front-and-center veteran assures us there is very little to be seen at a burlesque show that cannot be uncovered by a visit to some current attractions offering belly dancers and "a-go-go" girls.

In fact, the source notes, burlesque is tame by comparison to the flicks offered by a number of local "art" theaters. The writer, similarly ignorant of art films, is prepared to believe this from a ginger sampling of film advertisements in one of Ohio's greatest home newspapers.

Armed with this second-hand intelligence, and with a first-hand familiarity with the wholesomeness of Columbus and its environs, The Spectator confidently predicts that locally the cries of (forgive the expression) "take it off" will never reach the stentorian proportions of "Goodby, Woody!"

A Worthwhile Service

In considering almost any infirmity that can befall man, the most important element of recovery is early diagnosis. Such is certainly the case with diabetes.

The Central Ohio Diabetes Association is sponsoring a diabetes detection campaign in conjunction with Diabetes Week, which runs through Nov. 21.

The F. & R. Lazarus Co. and major shopping centers throughout the Greater Columbus area are offering clinic space for the testing. Major objective is to discover cases of diabetes in those people who have not yet shown discernable symptoms of the disease.

The testing program will continue through Saturday. Locations and times are listed in a story in this edition of The Spectator. Further information may be obtained by phoning the Central Ohio Diabetes Association at 291-8670.

The diabetes detection program merits public appreciation and support. Specific individuals may well have cause to be particularly glad they participated.

About Red-Blooded Youth...

There's a whale of a difference between lip service and action — a difference dramatically displayed at Ohio State University last Wednesday and Thursday.

The occasion was a "Support Our Soldiers" blood donation drive. The 1200-pint quota was easily oversubscribed, and many potential donors were directed to the Red Cross Blood Center when facilities at OSU became taxed to the limit.

The drive was begun by three university students as a demonstration of support for our fighting men in Viet Nam.

The response was the more heartening because the donations were more symbolic than actual.

There is no shortage of blood for our Viet Nam forces, so the blood collected locally will be used by area hospitals. But its life-saving quality will be just as important to the local civilian populace.

The important point about the OSU "Bleed In" is that it was the type of demonstration which coupled a firm belief with positive action. It took only three university students to get the ball rolling. They were quickly joined by many campus organizations and faculty members.

If these efforts were only symbolic of the support for our Viet Nam soldiers, they were more tangible evidence of the prevailing spirit of true Americanism among OSU students — and, we believe, of the vast majority of students on all American campuses.

"You Hear A Kind Of Flapping Sound?"

Calling Ohioans

By MICHAEL V. DISALLE

The fiscal policies of the Rhodes administration were based on a distortion of fact and are being propelled by the hot air of propaganda twisted to take advantage of a currently favorable national economic climate. These fiscal policies will not meet the future needs of Ohio regardless of the course of our economy — any more than they are adequate to meet today's needs.

In a recent outpouring of press releases the Rhodes administration reported on 1,000 days of claimed achievements. Laying aside the truth, falsity or distorted quality of the claims, there was no mention of the fact that during those 1,000 days the state's debt obligations were being increased at the rate of $1.5 million per day.

The total of $1.5 billion includes almost $500 million in interest. This interest will be paid out of tax funds — which in effect will be a wasteful expenditure of public funds.

For the Rhodes administration this serves two functions:

1) They continue to shout "no new taxes" while in fact they levy millions of dollars of additional taxes.

2) They engage in promises of new schools and institutions at a wholesale rate which will provide many opportunities for ribbon-cutting and corner-stone-laying. The responsibility for raising the funds to staff the new buildings even at inadequate levels will be left to future administrations.

The 'Farce' 1000 Days

The public little realizes that bond issues cannot be used for operating costs of these new state facilities. Campaigns in support of the bond issues carefully avoid the distinction.

A sound fiscal policy based on a pay-as-you-go basis is possible in Ohio. A rich and prosperous state does not need to borrow. It can build its necessary institutions and provide staffing if the planning program is sound.

Ohio, under the Rhodes administration, has been notoriously weak and disorderly in its planning. The governor, carried away with his need to impress each audience, makes offhand promises that later must be incorporated into bond-financed programs. No thought need be given operating programs; the buildings will not be ready for occupancy before the next election.

Do the people who have so generously supported the bond campaigns realize what the cost will be for new personnel to staff even $200-million worth of new construction should these structures be ready in the next two years? Comparisons could also be made in the highway program, where needed maintenance programs are already being neglected.

Of course the cry will be that new jobs will produce the revenue necessary to do all that is necessary. If the claims that are now being made with reference to production of new jobs were true (and they are not), the additional revenues would still be insufficient. All one has to do is witness the current cutting of essential state programs to realize that the necessary job is not being done.

Cleveland has already witnessed the difference between promise and performance in the financing of its new state university and community college.

This situation will become worse, not better. It is unfortunate that the people of Ohio will have to wait for the actual experience before they realize they are being sold an incredible bill of goods.

Letters To The Editor

Slams Dennison 'Land Grab'

To the Editor:

I understand that the Columbus Public Schools, the Columbus Recreation Department and Doctors Hospital are the scheduled recipients in another land grab engineered by the Department of Urban Renewal in the Dennison Avenue Project.

Since the people of Columbus have supported the schools, hospitals and recreation department most generously over the years, it is difficult to understand why property owners are forced to give up their properties at confiscatory prices and lose their businesses to these two public agencies and the private Doctors Hospital. Why haven't these city agencies negotiated for any needed real estate in the long-accepted and traditional American principle of the right of eminent domain? Why does Doctors Hospital, being a private agency, have any more right to these properties than I do as a private citizen?

Just as in the case of the OSU North project, powerful agencies and institutions are bulldozing their way through to gain real estate cheap, regardless of the violence of the ruthless processes of Urban Renewal do to the U.S. Constitution and the traditional interpretation thereof, and the suffering and financial loss sustained by individual and helpless property owners.

In the OSU North land grab, the 10th District Court of Appeals recently rendered a decision in the case of one property owner on High-st that no proof of slum existed. In view of this decision the entire Dennison Project should be investigated. Any heads of city agencies and board members of private institutions who are knowingly partners to the crime of separating Columbus property owners from their holdings should be thoroughly ashamed of themselves. In the interests of maintaining good relationships between public and private agencies and the Columbus populace and in the light of the smashing defeat an outraged Columbus public dealt this socialistic scheme called Urban Renewal on Nov. 2, responsible officials, public and private, should desist immediately from their ill-advised plan to grab Dennison area real estate against the will of the owners and at unfair prices.

Columbus property owners are being increasingly demoralized by the cynical parting shot of the exponents of socialism: If you don't like your price offer, take it to court! If it costs an owner of business property far in excess of $10,000 "to take it to court," how can individual property owners, especially home owners, ever afford the arrogant retort of the Columbus Department of Urban Renewal — "Take it to court!"

John F. Kennedy

A man of riches, yet humble still;
A man of strong and iron will.
A family man, and moral too,
Whose love for his country was always true,
A man you say—who can he be?
A man we called John Kennedy.

A leader, yes, but more by far—
His life was like a guiding star.
He taught us all a way of life,
In grave uncertainty and strife.
A leader you say — who can he be?
A leader we called John Kennedy.

A symbol of love for the common man,
An example of strength, a master plan.
Believe with faith in all we do,
Have courage enough to see it through.
A symbol of love—who can he be?

A symbol of love John Kennedy.
Gone is the man, now in his grave.
Gone is the leader, so strong and so brave
But in our memory there always will be
A symbol of love—John Kennedy.

Has Theory About Stench

To the Editor:

I wish to thank you for removing some of the blame of the stench of Columbus from Inland Products, Inc.

If you have ever driven down Frank-rd in the evening, any time between 6 p.m. and midnight you can see the real culprit. It is the city itself. Rising like a giant powder puff from the chimney is a great amount of smoke (?) going straight up the river valley and spreading over Columbus.

I do not work for either party involved, but I wish the city would burn something besides human residue.

PUT ANOTHER NICKEL IN . . .

In this day and age when every problem, be it water shortage or socialism, is described as a "creeping" menace, I feel it my duty to warn my fellow men of the threat of "creeping robot-ism."

Learned science fiction writers have for years been pounding out stories depicting a time when robots would become such an integral part of our society that they would achieve a point of near-domination over their less-efficient human masters.

And I think they already have gained and unnoticed foothold.

If you want a graphic demonstration of the seriousness of the situation, take your last two nickels (it is important that they be your last two) and walk to the nearest coffee or pop machine.

Put the nickels in the slot and watch the big shiny monster sit there and not only refuse to part with any of its precious refreshment, but also fail to come up with one of the two nickels when you push the panic button.

If that's not a display of smug superiority I'll eat my Dixie cup.

The problem doesn't stop there.

That big fat fink is controlling your diet.

Suppose, for instance, you're a person who doesn't like peanut butter-flavored candy.

You're in bad shape.

When you approach your friendly neighborhood candy machine with 10 cents clutched in your hot little fist, you will notice that of the six slots, five contain Peanut Scrunchie, Peanut Butter Blob, Chock-Fulla-Peanut Butter, and similar horrors.

Thank heavens, though, there is one plain, old-fashioned chocolate bar offered.

You can spot it right off—it's the one under the little red sign that says "sold out."

The situation reached some sort of peak (or ebb) in recent months when scientists at Battelle were given the task of creating "silverless" dimes and quarters. The search for the right metal alloy was prolonged by the fact that they had to come up with one the vending machines would accept.

It should be noted that the search for a new coin alloy was the result of the general coin shortage — for which the vending machines were largely to blame.

The machine in our building did provide one of those rare victories for the underdog human team.

One day it started selling 10-cent cups of coffee for a nickel. Word spread around the place, and after three hours of land-office business, it had a nervous breakdown and had to be carted away.

For my part, I'm putting my hopes for the future in a new invention.

They've installed one down at the corner store. It's called a saleslgirl.

It sells you an undamaged product of your choice, smiles, says "Thank you" and gives you the right change . . .

City Council Gets $26.2 Million '66 General Fund Budget

By FRANK RYAN

A proposed $26.2-million 1966 General Fund budget for Columbus is about $1.4 million more than expected final expenditures for 1965.

More than $1 million of the requested fund hike would cover various salary increases authorized earlier this year by council.

Total city expenditures, including Self Sustaining and Trust Fund Budgets, was figured at $50,600,000. Funds for this area are derived almost exclusively from service charges. Major programs affected are sewer, water, electricity, airport, engineering, traffic control and off-street parking.

The city income tax supports more than half of General Fund expenditures. Other principal income sources are property tax, traffic fines, earnings on investments and license fees.

In his budget message to council, Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner termed the proposed expenditures "a reasonable financial plan (which) recognizes the need to continue many fine improvements started in 1965."

COUNCIL REPORT

Contingency 'Possible'

While the budget, prepared by Finance Director John P. Stanley, does not now anticipate a "contingency" fund, the possibility of later creation of such was included in the report to council. "It is likely," the budget message read, "that the estimate of income will be increased during the year, thereby providing an opportunity to create a contingency fund."

The report to council defined the 1966 budget as having been shaped by major decisions made this year. The salary increase decision reflects an additional $1,108,000 for 1966, and will up salary increments and longevity payments by an additional $341,000.

The addition during 1964 of 100 new policemen, 60 of whom were added in August, will increase 1966 Police Department payroll costs by $240,000. An additional $152,000 over 1965 costs will be added in programs dealing with recreation, park maintenance, housing code enforcement, planning and health services.

Economy Areas Outlined

The report also covered economy measures "already discussed with the council." This section of the report included the following information:

"Substantial savings in the Division of Sanitation and the Garage have been projected on the basis of the purchase of 40 new garbage trucks. We have also indicated to the council that savings can be made by leasing the incinerator on Short-st.

"It is also anticipated that the closing of Central Market will permit reduction in staffing for the Markets Division, and the installation of another automatic elevator in City Hall will permit savings in the Division of Lands and Buildings."

The projected savings in these areas were listed at $304,320.

An additional $228,680 of the increased General Fund budget was "offset," the report said, by shifting the cost of fire protection at the airport to the airport fund.

Council has scheduled three hearing dates on the 1966 budget proposal. City departments will be invited to offer any suggestions for change at 1 p.m. hearings on Nov. 29 and Dec. 6. A public hearing has been set for Dec. 13.

Councilman Ronald DeVore, chairman of council's finance committee, expressed the hope that the entire budget hearing for city departments could be handled at the Nov. 29 meeting.

Senior Citizens To Hold Dinner

Senior citizens of Whitehall will hold a Thanksgiving dinner Thursday, Nov. 18, 3 p.m. at Senior Citizens Headquarters.

Whitehall-Yearling High School

RAM-blings

By KRIS COTTINGHAM

On Oct. 21, Whitehall's economic classes presented a fashion show. The show was sponsored by a pattern firm which was represented by Miss Charmain Reeb. Double-take fashions was the theme of the presentation.

Grey, red, white, beige, blue, and orange seem to be the colors this year. The "total look," the "London look," and the "French look" were featured.

A demonstration on how to economize on accessories and double and redoubled necklines was given by Miss Reeb. The look this year appears to be young, neat, bright and fashionable with a touch of sophistication.

A new organization has recently been introduced at Whitehall. This club is the Quill and Scroll Journalist Honorary Society. Under the supervision of advisor, Pat McMillin, the chapter will be led by Willa Hsueh, president; Wendy Brummel, vice-president; Carol Winner, secretary; and Teri Hiatt, treasurer.

To be admitted into the society, a student must be a senior in the upper one-third of his class, and he must have contributed some outstanding performance to the school's publications. Initiation into the society is held throughout the year.

The Senior Choir has elected its officers for the 1965-66 school year. They are Sue Gradwohl, president; Della Brown, vice-president; and Gloria Stultz, secretary-treasurer.

Officers chosen to lead the National Honor Society are Kendall Lewis, president; Rhonda Hopkins, vice-president; Carol Winner, secretary; and Jane Lavendar, treasurer. Wendy Brummel and Willa Hsueh are the other two members of the society.

Camp Fire News

The "Etna Road Bluebells" of Whitehall, organized four weeks ago, had a Halloween Party. Their leader is Mrs. George Thorpe and the group sponsor is Mrs. Glenna L. Shy. The Bluebells are Nancy Carroll, Becky Fletcher, Della Haddox, Diana Keller, Branda Shy and Linda Kay Thorpe.

The "Bluest Blue Birds" had their first meeting Nov. 10. Leader for the group is Mrs. Philip C. White. The members of the group are: Twila Aljoe, Sue Meckley, Maribeth Hoffman, Patricia Darnell, Debby Terrell, Judy Mauk and Sandy Kelley.

Any third grade girl interested in joining the group is welcome. Meetings are held on Wednesday right after school, at 4599 Norton-ln, Whitehall.

Mass Sung For Sr. Mary Peter

Requiem High Mass for Sr. Mary Peter Dunphy, OP, was sung Nov. 8 in the chapel of St. Mary of the Springs Motherhouse.

WHO ARE YOU?
A hairstyle that reflects your personality is the one in which you feel comfortable and the one that inspires the people that matter, to admire you. Sometimes it takes us a while to find out what you are really like but it is worth while for you to come back a few times to give us a chance to know you. We honestly believe that the most important reason why our patrons are so faithful is because we help them to reflect the image that draws people and experiences to them that they enjoy.

We know there are hairdressers whose skills are equal to ours but we can't think of any other Cosmetologist or Hairstylist who can use those skills to assure your comfort and happiness quite so well as we do.

FOLLOW THE DIRECTIONS ON THE BOTTLE . . .
We hear it so often, "I followed the directions exactly. Why do you suppose it came out so awful?" The answer has to be that it's just not that simple — whether it's permanent waving, or haircolor, or giving yourself a facial. For that matter, haven't you noticed the heavenly difference between a professional manicure and the way you do your own nails?

It stands to reason that simple directions on the bottle will only achieve professional results once in a while by accident.

Even if you are lucky enough to have your home treatment turn out reasonably well other awful things might happen. For instance one of our patrons did her own haircolor last week. Her hair looked pretty good but Oh! You should see her bathroom!

FRENCH WOMEN use about 80 pounds of cosmetics, shampoos, sprays, makeup, etc. per head per year, according to a recent survey.

HEAD UNDER THE DRYER
A woman's idea of keeping a secret is refusing to tell who told it to her.

He is also chairman of the Case Work Policy Committee of the Jewish Family Service of Columbus.

BARNETT Recreation Center

Halloween Parties

A total of 1,347 boys, girls and parents participated in the elementary Halloween party, which was co-sponsored by the Eastern Optimists Club. The staff of Barnett Center and the Columbus Recreation Department wishes to thank the Eastern Optimists Club, and the adults and teenagers in the community, who aided in making the afternoon a success.

The Teen Halloween dances were attended by 450 teenagers who danced to the music of R.J.S. and the Tareytons and The Shades. R. J.S. and the Tareytons also played for the elementary party.

Arts And Crafts

There will be two arts and crafts classes every afternoon from 3:30 - 5:30. One class is for boys and girls ages nine and over; the other is for ages six to eight. Paper crafts, painting, and handwork will be offered. Both classes will also be open Saturday morning from 9 to 10:30.

Two new classes will be added to Barnett's program on Monday evenings from 7:30 till 9:45 and a crafts class will also be offered for teens. This class will include sculpture, mosaics, collages, jewelry decorating, etc. On Thursday evenings from 7:30-9:45, a drawing class for teens will be offered that include the basics of drawing with charcoal, watercolor, tempera and oil paints. MRS. ROBERT KIRSCHNER, 78 N. Everett-av, left is chairman of the Autumn Harvest Smorgasbord, being planned by the CWF of Scottwood Church. She and Mrs. Richard Heintz, 1888 Birkdale-dr, CWF president, go over plans for the Nov. 20 event.

Nothing Up Her Sleeve . . .

MRS. HERBERT BLOCK shows her surprise as Rick Moling plucks a handful of feathers from her sleeve. Also with a few tricks up her sleeve is Mrs. Robert Schwingel, president of Fairmoor PTA, who is announcing the annual Fun Frolic which will take place this Saturday, Nov. 20, 1:30 to 6:30 p.m. at the school. In addition to the magician, Rick Moling, there will be a fun house, [illegible] walk and games for all ages. A roast beef dinner will be served in the lower auditorium during the activities.

Engagement Announced

Mrs. Ruth Eiserman, of Cheyenne, Wyo., is announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of her granddaughter, Miss Cheryl Lynn Kirkpatrick, to Mr. David Joseph Eyster. Miss Kirkpatrick is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Kirkpatrick of Cheyenne, and Mr. Eyster is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Denton D. Eyster, 2770 Eastminster-rd.

Miss Kirkpatrick, a graduate of Cheyenne Central High School and Lawrence Beauty School, is employed at the Western Beauty Shop.

Mr. Eyster, a graduate of Central High School was formerly associated with the Marte Pontiac Co. and is now serving in the USAF at Warren AFB in Cheyenne.

The wedding will take place on Nov. 27 at Grace Nazarene Church in Cheyenne.

1-2-3-4-5-6-7-8! Cartoons In Store For Small Fry

Once again the Esquire Theatre will be the Broadway of the younger set when Temple Israel Sisterhood has its annual Children's Theatre Party there. Friday, Nov. 26, is the date, and children should arrive promptly at 1 p.m.

"Knights of the Round Table" along with eight cartoons will be the featured movies. To add to the merriment, chairman Mrs. David Forman and her vice-chairman, Mrs. Daniel Weckstein, have gathered together favors for everyone, prizes, and a new bicycle for the lucky big winner.

Tickets cost $1 and may be purchased from the following captains: Mrs. Jerome Baskin, Mrs. Michael Bloch, Mrs. Gerald Friedman, Mrs. David Glickman, Mrs. Alan Katz, Mrs. Ronald Robins and Mrs. Neil Rosen or any of their numerous workers.

In order to maintain cheerful tranquility, members of Young Folks Temple League and Sisterhood will be on hand. To get tickets for your children or for an orphan or underprivileged child, contact the above [illegible].

Group Asks Sale Items

Golda Meir Chapter of Pioneer Women is having a rummage sale on Monday, Dec. 6, at 952 E. Main-st.

All profits from this sale will help support the work of Pioneer Women in the care of underprivileged children in nurseries and kindergartens throughout Israel. Ten new kindergartens and nursery schools are being opened, all of them in the development towns.

Rummage of all kinds is needed, such as clothing, dishes, bric-a-brac, and other usable items.

Mrs. Sanford Betker, chairman of the project, asks the cooperation of all members and friends.

Contact Mrs. Max Bernstecker, 237-8228 or Mrs. Arthur Rovick, BE 1-3554 for pickup.

Scottwood Women Prepare For Harvest Smorgasbord

The women of Scottwood Community Church, 3330 Scottwood-rd, will hold their annual Autumn Harvest Smorgasbord and Bazaar Saturday, Nov. 20, from 4 to 7:30 p.m. in Fellowship Hall of the church. Planned to provide continuous serving for convenience of guests, the event features the perennial favorites in meat and main dishes, plus a wide variety of salads, desserts, and pastries.

The Bazaar, under direction of Mrs. George Cale, will offer many original and useful items made by the women's circles of the church, and a special "mystery room" plus a secret gift center have been designed for children's interest.

A popular feature repeated from last year will be the Pastry Counter where unusual baked goods may be purchased, complete with a signed receipe by the contributor who prepared it, according to Miss Caroline Weinreich, chairman of this committee. There will be rolls, breads, and coffee cakes in addition to cookies of all kinds.

There will be no need for guests to wait in long lines before being served. They are to be given a number as they arrive, and can either be seated until called to the dining area, or enjoy the various features connected with the Bazaar. Parents with small children will be assisted in carrying plates for the youngsters. Ticket chairman is Mrs. C. R. Houck.

Will Tour Foundation

Tuesday, Nov. 23, B'nai B'rith Women Zion Chapter, will journey to Ohio State University B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation, 46 E. 16th-av, for 12:30 p.m. dessert meeting.

Mrs. Leon Gross, program chairman, has arranged a musical program to be presented by two student members of Hillel. Those participating will be Burton Krone, pianist, a graduate student majoring in physics and Miss Ellen Gross, violinist, a sophomore in the College of Education, majoring in languages and a member of the Ohio State University Symphony Orchestra.

Rabbi Harry Kaplan, director and Rabbi Martin Kowal, assistant director will extend greetings to the members. A tour of the Foundation will be conducted.

Members desiring transportation may call Mrs. Harry Bender at 235-5990.

ATTENDS BOARD MEET

Mrs. Martin Marx, vice-president and Mrs. Murray Edison, recording secretary of B'nai B'rith Women, Ohio State Association were in Cleveland Nov. 14 attending an executive board meeting of the organization.

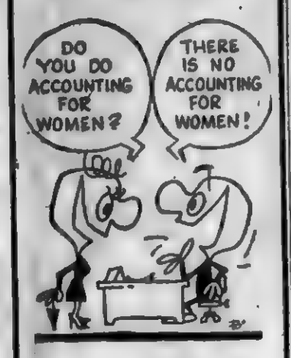
Over 2000 Twig Members Preparing Monday Bazaar

The "Holiday Fair" is the decoration theme of the 44th annual Christmas Bazaar sponsored by the Twigs of Children's Hospital. This year's Bazaar will be held on Monday, Nov. 22 from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Veterans Memorial.

A large variety of homemade articles for the whole family will be offered by the women representing some 80 Twigs. From the "Blue Ribbon Bakery" you will find a large assortment of cakes, pies, cookies, candies, breads, and nuts.

Lunch will be served by Twig 59 in the "Country Kitchen" featuring sandwiches, desserts and beverages. A hot dog and soft drink stand will be operated by Twig 108. Shopping bags will be available at the Information Table.

For the convenience of people shopping on their lunch hour the Twigs are providing a free shuttle bus service from Broad-st at the Palace Theatre and Town-st just west of High between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m.



Over 2,000 Columbus women have been working hard all year to make this the greatest Bazaar, the largest one day project of the Twigs, for Children's Hospital.

Capital Alumnae To Gather Monday

Capital University Alumnae Chapter of Columbus (CUAC) will meet Monday, Nov. 22, 8 p.m., at the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company, 215 N. Front-st.

The program, "Christian Sparkle," will be presented. Hostesses are Mrs. Paul R. Lindquist and Mrs. Gordon Moessner.

East Side, West Side, All Around The Town....

YOU CAN THANK THE BRITISH FOR IT

Columbus has been infiltrated by an English idea that promises to be as habit-forming as the Beatles.

In with the tide about a year ago it came, made a gigantic hop to California and surf boards took a back seat.

And today "Slot Racing" has a half-Nelson on local boys from six to 60.

Mushrooming over the city are raceways where for a quarter "drivers" can buy fifteen minutes of track time.

Seven or eight copper strips on the figure-eight layouts provide the runways for the model racing cars, built either to one twenty-fourth or one thirty-second scale.

Each driver or pilot controls his racer from one of the slots around the table edge, regulating the speed of his vehicle with a rheostat.

It all sounds simple, but those who are hooked by the sport which promoters claim makes bowling practically ante-Diluvian, approach the board with the studied calm of Ben Casey with a scalpel.

The cars, powered by motors rated anywhere from one one-thousandth to one five-thousandth horsepower, hit speeds up to 250 miles an hour.

Although racers spend endless hours customizing their models to "soup them up," purists believe the speed lies within the drivers' skill.

Time lost on the banked curves must be made up on the straight stretches, and putting a car that has careened off course back in its slot takes precious seconds.

Only a rank amateur would come to the track without his own car and rheostat and rent equipment from the house.

Many think this fact is the secret of the success of slot racing.

Driving is almost an anti-climax to the building and rebuilding of the models. (One can buy an assembled model, but such behavior is comparable to a French chef confessing Campbell makes better soup than he does.)

Even the packaged kits are but a stepping stone to the real "pro."

The pilot who has slot-racing engraved on his heart cannot stand to let a car alone.

He'll probably begin by changing tires (firm fronts and soft rears are for those in the know) and installing magnesium wheels and low friction bearings.

Then he'll strive for a lower center of gravity by redistribution of weight, and he probably won't be happy until he has rewound the armature to hop it up.

By this time, the racer bears little resemblance to the car the manufacturer was once so proud of (one is advertised as the "black widow with a poisonous heart") but the "customizer" isn't in the home stretch yet.

By this time the body may be well beat up and the purchase of a high-impact body is a natural.

Actual racing is done by the drivers either racking up as many laps as possible in a set time ("Enduros" by teams can go for 24 hours) or racing the clock for a given number of laps.

Tricks to the trade are numerous with fine points hotly debated. While some use castor oil on their treads, others swear by a Three-In-One. Still others scorn lubrication and defiantly sand paper their wheels for utmost traction.

Since the sport caught on last year a dozen or so trade magazines have started publication, elaborate tool kits have hit the market and with a single table and eight racing lanes operators are grossing as much as $10,000 a month.

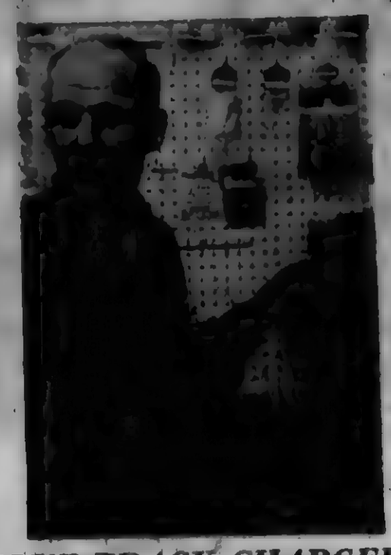
Although most of the local establishments boast only one set of tracks (usually in conjunction with another business) one New Jersey set-up includes 72 racing lanes, occupies 16,000 square feet of floor space and offers posh refreshments and murals of chorus girls.

In Cleveland one track provides fog and dry ice as driving hazards.

Want to give it a spin?

You can try it out for the price of a drive-in ticket, buy your first car for the cost of a seat at homecoming but if you go all the way, don't look for any change from a twenty when you complete your first custom model.

And "first" is the right word.



Hurtling around at 250 miles an hour is aging, and in the slot racing world, cars are expendable.

The most durable part of the sport is the enthusiasm of the driver.

It's even contagious.

If you want to know more go try it for yourself. I've got trouble with my new four-wheel drive and must get the bugs out of it before Friday's big race.

Prosecutor Will Seek New Trial In Fulton Case

By CHUCK HASTLE

The jury was out 10 hours. They reported back that they were hopelessly deadlocked on the issue of first degree murder in the trial of Charles A. Fulton, 16. Fulton admitted shooting Richard Vice, 21, last Jan. 25, but said he didn't mean to do it. Prosecutor C. Howard Johnson said immediately that he will seek a new trial on the first degree murder charge which carries with it a mandatory death sentence unless the jury recommends mercy.

The jury unanimously concluded, however, that Fulton did commit armed robbery. He will be sentenced for that crime after the murder issue is settled.

This maid could have had it "made," some would say But "cleaning up" at the expense of someone else was not for her.

Mrs. Sarah Bringer, who cleans at the Nationwide Inn, found $5335 in cold cash as she spiffied up a room. She took it to the manager who saw that it was returned to the Argentine policeman who had just checked out of the room.

The policeman has his money back and Mrs. Bringer has both her self respect and rewards from the money loser and the motel management.

A WRAPUP OF THE WEEK'S NEWS

MARK FARM-CITY WEEK

AN ALL-OHIO Thanksgiving dinner was presented to Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner by Clyde McBee, left, Columbus, chamber of Commerce, and Dr. Marvin G. Smith, chairman of OSU's Department of Agriculture and Home Economics and chairman of the Farm-City Week committee. The Friday, Nov. 12, ceremony is being duplicated in several major Ohio cities marking Farm-City Week, Nov. 19-25. Adding a humorous note to the presentation was the discovery, in the basket of Ohio-grown products, of a bag of "Fornof" brand greenhouse tomatoes.

BUSINESS BRIEFS

THE COLUMBUS DIVISION of North American Aviation, Inc., awarded subcontracts amounting to $49,148,100 during the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1965, according to John H. Campbell, Division Director of Material.

Campbell added that 4,160 suppliers participated in the Division's fiscal 1965 procurement activities and that, of the 2,745 small business suppliers receiving purchase orders during this period, 1,624 employed less than 50 people.

A further breakdown of the subcontract awards reveals that the Columbus Division awarded $10,649,003 in subcontracts to firms situated in the state of Ohio, including $5,839,095 worth of business awarded to firms located in Franklin County.

Garage Superintendent Sold On Merits Of Rustproofing Process

Columbus, like many other cities, uses an enormous amount of salt to clear winter ice and snow. The salt does its job well, but not without its ill effects, too.

"Rusting of city-owned vehicles has cost the taxpayers thousands of dollars in the past," according to City Garage Superintendent William Harlor. "And much of this can be blamed on salt."

Harlor is determined to do something about it. Since January, 1965, he has specified that a special rustproofing process be applied to every new vehicle the city buys.

To date, about 400 new cars and 40 trucks and garbage packers have been rustproofed with a process called Ziebart. The city customarily keeps its vehicles five years, or 60,000 miles. After that, maintenance costs are too high. While many of these vehicles are mechanically good, they must be sold at a lower figure because of severe rust.

Harlor believes the city's venture into rustproofing now will pay dividends when trade-in time comes. He quotes Detroit city officials who say that every dollar spent for the process returns $10 in maintenance and resale savings.

Investment In Millions

Columbus operates a fleet of 563 passenger cars, 622 trucks, and 73 police motorcycles, plus 720 assorted units such as plows, sweepers, street flushers, and salt spreaders. This represents an investment ranging between $4 and $6 million.

Ziebart is a rust-inhibiting petroleum wax-base product. It is sprayed at high pressure through holes drilled in hidden panel areas and underneath the vehicles. It was developed 11 years ago by a German immigrant, Kurt Ziebart, an auto body repairman.

Ten patented spray tools are used to apply the compound to hidden parts of a car where rust starts. The compound hardens to the consistency of beeswax and remains pliable through a wide range of temperature.

The U. S. Post Office Department this year applied the rust inhibitor to 14,000 postal vehicles and expects to save more than $1 million a year in vehicle maintenance. The process also is being considered by the Army.

ENTERTAINS PATIENTS

The Achbar Grotto Chorus recently entertained patients at Columbus State Hospital with their choral renditions and "country" music. They also visited the Franklin County Home to sing for visitors there.

CORSAGES ARE 'GREEN'

NEW OFFICES OPEN

FIRST CUSTOMER at the new office of Park Federal Savings and Loan Association located at 8 E. Broad-st was James N. Esteph, 5452 Newport-rd. He is being waited on by Mrs. Marie Smith, teller. The facility replaces the old Park Federal office at 20 E. Long-st, which is now closed. In the background is a mural imported from France.

Suburban Names Vice-President

A motor truck maintenance apprentice with Suburban Motor Freight, Inc., less than 20 years ago, Jack L. Stewart, of 4546 Starret-ct, has been affirmed for the newly created position of executive vice-president by J. Ralph Riley, president.

Stewart was attending commence classes at Ohio State University in 1946 when Suburban Motor Freight gave him part-time employment. His garage experiences led him to an assignment in the home office, and from there he was elevated to superintendent of terminals operations. He was vice-president in charge of marketing for the past three years.

A member of Suburban's board for six years, Stewart represents the Columbus-based national line of the Regular Common Carrier Conference of the American Trucking Associations.

Stewart's interests include the Christopher Club of the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce and the YMCA.

Great Western Elects Officers

Abe Dworkin, manager of Kay Jewelers, has been elected president of the Great Western Business Association for 1966.

Other officers who were elected at the recent general election were: Charles Ohler of W. T. Grant Co., vice president; Terry Smith of Paint Town, secretary, and Dan Haines of Economy Savings and Loan, treasurer.

Members of the Executive Board for 1966 include Charles Berns, J. C. Penney; Hoffman Mitchell, Mogol's; James Goudy, Ohio National Bank; Jim Ulishey, F. W. Woolworth; Ray Benedict, Firestone; Frank Krake, Gray Drugs; Charles Deitrich, Glick's and E. C. Lipps, Woolco Dept. Store.

The purpose of the shopping center's business association is to plan the various promotional and traffic-building activities for the coming year.

Variety . . .

By I. F. HOWELL

Nov. 21 will mark the 345th anniversary of the writing and signing of the first American state paper.

It was The Compact, signed by 41 Pilgrims aboard the Mayflower before the landing on Plymouth Rock. It was the first charter in all history providing for "a government of the people, by the people, and for the people," more than two centuries before Abraham Lincoln invented and first used the expression.

"In the name of God. Amen. We whose names are underwritten . . . having undertaken . . . a voyage to plant the first colony in the northern parts of Virginia . . . do . . . covenant and combine ourselves together into a body politic . . . to enact just and equal laws . . . for the general good . . ."

The Mayflower Compact was the seed of our popular constitutional liberty. Its fruition was its most eloquent expression, more than a century later, in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution.

Jamestown had been founded a few years earlier, but under laws enacted in England, with no other specific arrangement for government. Virginia was destined to take a most significant and noble part in the struggle for our liberties as Americans. But the Pilgrims were the first to declare the intent.

Text of the Mayflower Compact may be found in the 1910 edition of the Harvard Classics, volume 49, page 63.

It says here . . .

As a nation we are gaining a sense of history. May we never forget our origins, and may we always defend our heritage of faith and freedom.

MAVERICK

With Muddy Shoes

By RICHARD L. PAUGH

Did you know — there is a group of hobbyists (mostly citizens) that number over 3,000 at this writing which meets six times each year?

They gladly pay dues of $3 a year and travel many thousands of miles just to enjoy the privilege of meeting and seeing each other's possessions.

Their official title is the Ohio Gun Collectors Association.

THEY COLLECT guns — old guns, new guns, flintlocks, cap and ball, blunderbusses, Kentuckies, foreign, American, hunting guns, oddities, cartridges, gun books, military weapons, Civil War relics, gun parts and accouterments.

Paugh

They have been meeting since early August, 1937. The membership list contains some of the most famous people in the gun world. It is recognized as the largest group of its kind in the free world. (In the world that is not free, no one has guns.)

The meeting is closed to the general public. Millions of gun dollars are placed on open tables without fear of pilferage. The only way a non-member may enter the exhibit is to be invited in by a member. that member is responsible for his guest's actions.

The members may trade, buy and sell back and forth, knowing their fellow barterers are trustworthy.

THE LAST gun show, held in Columbus on Nov. 6 - 7, as usual, was at maximum capacity. They covered 700 tables —each six feet long — with their wares. Three meetings each year are held at Vets' Memorial in Columbus, two at Canton City Auditorium, and one at the Toledo Sports Arena.

No other towns in Ohio have facilities large enough to accommodate them. The new memberships are soon to be limited due to the capacity crowds.

In order to become a member, it is necessary to get the signatures of two members in good standing. They are very careful to accept only people of high character.

THE REASON for doing this story on OGCA is to point out a problem we now face in this complex life. That is— how may these fine people from all walks of life enjoy their sport if we are to pass restrictive gun legislation?

Surely it must be apparent that these honest citizens will be the ones to give up their liberty, not the night-creeping kooks that use firearms to take life and property.

It has been proven that there are more arms in the hands of the citizen population of these United States than there are citizens. It would take a hundred years to get them all listed and then 25 percent of them would never admit to owning a gun, feeling that the constitution gives the right to possess them without harassment.

AT THE GUN meetings, you can see medieval armament, Colonial weapons, early Ohio-made squirrel rifles, WW II Nazi relics, Indian tomahawks, edged weapons from every corner of the world, the Gyrojet Rocket handgun which fires a bullet by rocket energy, Russian weapons of the latest vintage and even the guns being used right now in Viet Nam.

It is a complete education to spend a day amongst the weaponry displayed there.

Muller Bedford, OGCA's first president, is still active and in attendance at every meeting. It is not necessary to live in Ohio to be a member and the roster shows addresses from every state and province of North America. Millionaires rub elbows with manual laborers.

I HAVE seen an early Colt Dragoon (about $5,000) change hands for a check written on the back of an envelope. The commoner guns are sold by the piece or by the barrel. All trades and sales are carefully listed so the buyer or seller knows whom he is dealing with.

All meetings are carefully watched by OGCA's own vigilante committee and by hired off-duty policemen. The door is carefully guarded by uniformed officers. If a gun is misrepresented to a buyer, the seller is banned for life from future meetings. Justice is swift and sure.

The OGCA is a perfect example of people who successfully regulate their affairs without harassment from governmental authority.

Leading the Crusaders will be captain Jim DeBerry, a 6-3 forward-center from Hilliard, who made the all-Ohio Conference team in 1963-64.

DeBERRY SAW action in only three games last year because of a knee injury and has been given better than a 50-50 chance of seeing at least some action this season.

With six lettermen lost, the most experienced player after DeBerry is Tom Koehler, a 6-3 sophomore center from Grove City.

Koehler appeared in more than 20 minutes a game last season, scoring 158 points and pulling down 114 rebounds.

INCLUDED AMONG the remaining six lettermen is another local cager — 6-2 forward Jim Doughty from Eastmoor.

Likely to see plenty of service at one of the guard spots is Paul Hunt, up from the Junior Varsity team this season.

Hunt, a product of South High, was the Jayvee's most valuable player last season.

AMONG THE Crusaders' top frosh prospects are Jim Stuck (6-4, Linden - McKinley), Doug Cromer (6-3, Eastmoor) and Bruce Baxter (6-3, Worthington).

Included in Cap's 22-game schedule this season will be a holiday tourney (Dec. 29-30) with Wilmington, the Quantice Marines and Lockbourne AFB joining the host Crusaders in their Alumni Gym.

'Fearless' Predictions

Dear Fans.

OK — OK, so I slipped up a few more times this past season!

So my football forecasting was lousy (155-57) compared to last year's (158-88). Nobody cooperated this season.

BUT, DON'T forget — all you fans will get the opportunity of following my "new" system (only the CIA, 007 and my only friend — the janitor here at The Spectator understand the process) all through basketball season.

It's guaranteed to produce "can't miss" results. The rough edges are being polished now and everything will be in order next week at this same time and station.

"Fearless"

P. S. — WHOEVER sent me the rope with the noose on the end — forget it! Forecasters, like cats, have nine lives and I've still got seven left!

Bexley Tree-Lighting Ceremony Set Sunday

Bexley's traditional Christmas tree, on E. Broad-st at the Drexel-av circle, will be lit Sunday afternoon, Dec. 5, 4:40 p.m. Santa Claus will officially arrive, and have a gift for each grade school child. Mayor William A. Schneider will light the tree, and Bexley High School Band and Choir will present a selection of Christmas carols. The event, sponsored by Bexley Celebrations Associations has, for many years, ushered in the Yultide Season in the city. The entire community is invited.

Services Are Planned For Thanksgiving...

Here is a wrap-up of Thanksgiving services planned locally:

UNION SERVICE

St. Paul's Episcopal Church, 767 E. Broad-st, will entertain the Broad Street congregations at the Union Thanksgiving service this year at 10:30 a.m. Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 25. Rabbi Nathan Zelizer, of the Tifereth Israel congregation, a newcomer to the fellowship of

Recreation Program Set For Bexley Kids

A program of fun for Bexley children, starting next month, has been planned by the city recreation department, to begin Dec. 6 in the Bexley schools.

Planned programs will be conducted each Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday immediately after school — at Montrose, under the direction of physical education instructor Catherine Bennett, and at Maryland, under the direction of Connie Hawkins.

Tentatively scheduled are a girls' modern dance class on Mondays, a lower grade students' session of organized play on Wednesdays, and boys' basketball on Tuesdays. Gene Millard, Bexley High basketball coach, will assist in the basketball program.

At Cassingham School, Robert Ringer will direct a Saturday afternoon program for Cassingham students. Sessions will be held from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. each Saturday, and daily during Christmas vacation.

Bexley High will be open from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. each Saturday, and during Christmas holidays. The program will begin Dec. 4 under the direction of Carleton Smith, and is open to Bexley students only.

Students or parents wishing additional information may call Bexley Recreation director Joel S. Poetker, CL. 8-5755 or 237-1448.

SBA Conference Held For Whitehall DECA

Roles are reversing between high school students and their elders in Whitehall.

Parents rather than offering advice, are instead listening attentively while their Distributive Education sons and daughters discuss the factors that spell success or failure to business ventures.

And the students' remarks are not idle opinion — their information is solidly backed by Dun and Bradstreet reports, and by facts issued by the Small Business Administration — an agency of the Federal Government.

SBA conducted its full, day-long conference on "Starting a New Business," at the high school Tuesday—the first time the comprehensive program has ever been presented at a school.

Seventy students heard the SBA staff of legal counsel, financial specialist and two management experts outline the success factors of business in a changing economy — organization, financial, site location and management.

J. H. Taylor, chief of management, SBA, explained the

Thanksgiving 1965: For Some It's Bleak

BY JOHN AUBLE, JR.

"What we going to do for food?" she asked. There was a girl about three standing near her and a boy playing with an empty potato chip bag. The woman was talking to her husband, who was sitting there looking out the window, trying hard not to listen to his woman because he could not answer her.

She stood up now and put one hand on her hip, right above a pocket half torn off her plaid wool skirt. "Did you hear me? What we going to do for food? These kids has got to eat, you know."

The man's eyes fell and he thought to himself about other Thanksgivings . . . Thanksgivings that weren't all turkey and gravy but this was going to be the worst ever. There was a half-pound of wieners in the ice box and a head of lettuce.

"Leave me alone, woman," he said sharply and walked to the door. "You'll get your food . . . more food than you've ever seen before.

"Enough to make you fat. Then maybe when you're fat you won't ask me about food . . . not when you're fat and ugly."

Then he was gone.

And as he walked out of his house, which is in South Columbus, a school teacher sat in a quiet classroom reading a story about Thanksgiving . . . that first Thanksgiving that school teachers like to tell their children about. The story of the Pilgrims. The children, fourth-graders, sat there and listened and tried to believe every word the teacher said.

At city jail in Columbus the police officers were sitting there figuring out the Thanksgiving menu which would be served to the prisoners tomorrow. There is turkey and . . . "that's enough," a police lieutenant said. "Let's not publicize this menu. We've got enough bums trying to get in here for a free meal without publicizing it."

And the lieutenant was right, because there are people in this city who know that the city jail recognizes Thanksgiving and these people get themselves arrested to eat there free every year. They eat there free and they don't mind the bars in front of them because the food makes up for it, somehow.

The school teacher looked up from her storybook and made a "gobble-gobble" sound for the benefit of the youngsters who smiled at this woman because she sounded like a turkey . . . like a Thanksgiving turkey.

Then she went on to tell her children how all the Indians came to the big feast and how they all ate and smoked with the Pilgrims and how everyone was full and happy and peaceful.

Downtown, at the County Welfare Bureau, a man wearing a sagging green sweater heard his name called and he walked up to the receptionist's

NAACP Probes Rental Practices Near University

BY TOM SEELAR

An undercover investigation of alleged racial discrimination in North Side housing is being conducted by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

"Testing" of rooming houses and apartments began last week, according to Abraham Davis, president of the University Area NAACP. Davis, 341 W. Ninth-av, said the group attempted to keep the investigation secret "so that we could catch the landlords off-guard."

He said the Columbus NAACP is helping coordinate the investigation which at present is centering on the University area. Complaints about discrimination in Upper Arlington and Worthington also will be investigated, he said.

According to Davis, the investigation is handled in the following manner:

- A white person inquires about renting a room or apartment.
- If the landlord says he has a vacancy, the white person leaves. Soon a Negro approaches the same landlord and inquires about rental.
- If the Negro is turned down, another white person makes a rental check to make sure that the available room was not rented in the time between the first and second steps.

Davis said the NAACP tries to match white and Negro persons with similar personalities, clothes and ages so that landlords are forced either to rent to the Negro or to discriminate "solely on the basis of color."

He described the group's findings as "shocking," but added that he could not reveal specific details until after the investigation has been completed.

Information gathered will be taken to OSU officials with a request for immediate university action, according to Davis. "If the university doesn't do something about this, we will have to take further steps," he said.

He would not explain what he meant by "further steps."

The university has taken an official stand against all discrimination on the basis of race, religion, creed or national origin. But Davis said the policy is only "token." He said the university actually assumes a "neutral" position on discrimination.

Proposed Vocational School Seen As Must For Total Education

By BETTY DAFT

Stark evidence that our high schools are failing to provide all students with an education that will lead to a productive, employable future has been viewed with increasing gravity locally as well as in the nation.

In Ohio high schools, 81 percent of students are enrolled in a college preparatory program leading to a profession—in which only seven percent of the state population is working.

And in an area student survey, only half the juniors and seniors in Canal Winchester, Reynoldsburg Local and Jefferson Local (Gahanna) Schools indicated they were college-bound, and only 40 percent in Whitehall and Madison Local.

These graduates, turning to business and industry educated only with a college-preparatory course, often find their training unsalable.

This, in an age of modern technology, where there is an ever increasing demand for more craftsmen and professional technicians, has prompted county educators to Whitehall opened its season against Gahanna last night (too late for deadline) with the tallest team in the three years under coach Phil Allen.

The Rams have big timber in Mike Tarleton at 6-4, Jim Dildine at 6-5, and John Bankes at 6-3.

THAT TRIO will start along with Lewis Anderson, a 6-1 transfer from Central, and Harvey Eader, a 5-8 guard.

Eader, Dildine, and Tarleton lettered last season for the 7-11 Rams.

Allen figures to pay the price for the big boys as he says that one of the Ram limitations is "the big boys are slow." "Thus we have only fair team speed," he added.

WHITEHALL DOES have good rebounding and reserve power this year with Stan Robinson, Bill Foulke and Rick Foltz figuring in the '65-'66 Ram plans as first line replacements.

WALNUT RIDGE

Walnut Ridge can be considered a dark horse in the City League this winter, but not a long shot.

The Scotties will open their 1965-66 basketball season Friday night, against traditionally tough Middletown, with five returning lettermen.

HEADING THE LIST of letter winners is Pat Beveridge, a 6-5 senior center who averaged 16 points last season and collected a second team All-City League berth. Besides Beveridge, other leading Scot scorers Rick Houchen and Mike Tanner are back. That trio started last year.

Two first line sub lettermen Bob Wetzel and Dick Weber will give the Scotties added experience.

HOUCHEN won't be playing until after Christmas due to a football injury, but five boys from last season's reserve squad are waging a battle for his position: Paul Gillispie, a 6-1 junior, Joe DeWeese, a 6-2 senior, Mark Olson (6-2), Chuck Crook (6-1) and Joel Goldhammer, a 5-10 junior.

Others wrestling for a position on the 1965-66 edition include Marc Trimmer, a peppery 5-5 transfer student, Jack Ressler (5-10) and Dave O'Conner (5-8), a senior who is out for the first time.

FIGHTING THROUGH a rugged non-league schedule should be tough enough for the Scotties, but that added to the burden of the always tough City games should make them plenty mean by tournament time.

That schedule includes basketball brand names such as Middletown, Dayton Roosevelt, Portsmouth and Zanesville plus neighbor East in the League and a always strong Linden.

To meet that list of rogues, Walnut will offer a fair bit of height, headed by Beveridge at 6-5 and a host of others over the six foot mark.

SCOT MASTER JACK Moore has in Beveridge one of the better cagers in the area, and feels that his experience will be a great asset to the team's chances this season.

"Our spirit and enthusiasm are running high," Moore said, "and we hope to pull a few surprises before the season is out."

SEVEN AREA GRIDDERS NAMED TO ALL-CITY SQUAD

Weber MVP, Felger Captain For Bexley 11

Rick Weber, Paul Davis and Doug Felger walked off with top honors at Bexley's recent grid awards assembly.

Quarterback Weber was named as the Lions' "most valuable player," halfback Davis was picked the "most improved player" and guard Felger was selected 1966 Bexley captain.

Chris Harbold, Dave Herwald, Jim Moriarty, A. J. Myers and Karl Petzinger led the Lions in tackles during the past season.

Hartley Lands Five On All-CCL Squad

Bishop Hartley landed five berths on the Watterson-dominated All Central Catholic League grid squad last week.

The Hawks garnered spots for seniors Scott French, Bud Astley, John Kuskowski and Joe Gatto and junior Jerry Dill.

CCL champion Watterson picked up eight berths on the 22-man squad.

JEWISH CENTER SPORTS

Led by the fine quarterbacking of Steve Gold and a hard rushing line, an underdog Gray squad defeated their Scarlet counterparts last week 16-3.

After the kickoff, the Gray team went to work. Gold hit Rick Lewis and Joe Blazer with short passes, and then lofted a 25-yard touchdown pass to Capital's Beryl Oser.

GRAY'S SECOND TD was also scored by Beryl Oser, on a story book, 50-yard pass from Joel Goldhammer. The extra point was good on a Lewis-to-Gold pass. The other Gray points came on a safety.

Mark Gorchoff scored three points for the Scarlet team on a field goal.

Bob Stern, Steve Gold, Joel Goldhammer, Beryl Oser, Steve Gutter and Mark Gorchoff played outstanding football.

GRAY SQUAD, Beryl Oser, Joe Oser, Joe Blazer, Joel Goldhammer, Joe Engelman, Rick Lewis, Bob Stern, Steve Gold, Brian Friedman, Mike Callif, Jeff Berg, Steve Weiner.

Beery Paces Whitehall Mat Hopes; Vet-Shy Scots Eye Rebuilding Job

By JACK WITTENMEIER

(The high school wrestling season opens early next month. Here are more previews of area grappling teams).

WHITEHALL

Four returning lettermen don't exactly tag an area wrestling team as "loaded" but when one of them is Steve Beery — optimism is likely to run a little higher.

Beery, a junior competing once more at the 120 slot, should key Ram grappling hopes this season as brand new coach Dale Faust hopes to guide his charges to bigger (improvement on the CBL runnerup spot) and better (improvement on a 4-3 dual mark) things this campaign.

BEERY, THE only area wrestler to be selected on The Spectator's All-Star wrestling squad for the past two seasons, piled up a fine 14-1 mark last season.

That mark most probably would have been more impressive had not Beery missed a good chunk of the season — sidelined with mononucleosis.

Not included on Faust's squad of 35 hopefuls are a pair of '64-'65 wrestlers who will be missed this campaign — Wes Seymour (138) and Randy Catalina (133).

SEYMOUR WAS "honorable mention" on the All-Spectator squad last spring.

Besides Beery (went to state tourney as both freshman and sophomore) at 120, the Rams show seasoned performers at 112 (junior Mike Decker), 127 (Spike Ludwig) and 138 (junior Randy Nichols).

Except for the heavyweight slot where Faust has three juniors battling for the starting nod (Ken Flowers, Dave Mowrer and Scott Graeler), a tentative lineup of prospects looks likely to nab the following starting slots: 103—junior Bruce Upperman; 133 — junior Gene Ochsendorf, 145 —junior Mike Case; 154 — junior Ken Schmitt, 165 — senior Herb Seymour and 175 junior Dave Graff.

THE RAMS are scheduled to open their '65-'66 mat season Thursday, Dec. 2, at Circleville.

WALNUT RIDGE

Nobody can claim to have lost so little but so much as Scottie mat mentor Rick Cermelj this season.

The W-R mat skipper parted with all but two of his 11 '64-'65 starters but will especially feel the loss of two of the area's top grappling performers last year — 133-pounder Steve Roberts (21-0) and heavyweght Dave Walters (13-2).

BOTH, INCIDENTALLY were District champs and first-team members of The Spectator's All-Star wrestling team last spring.

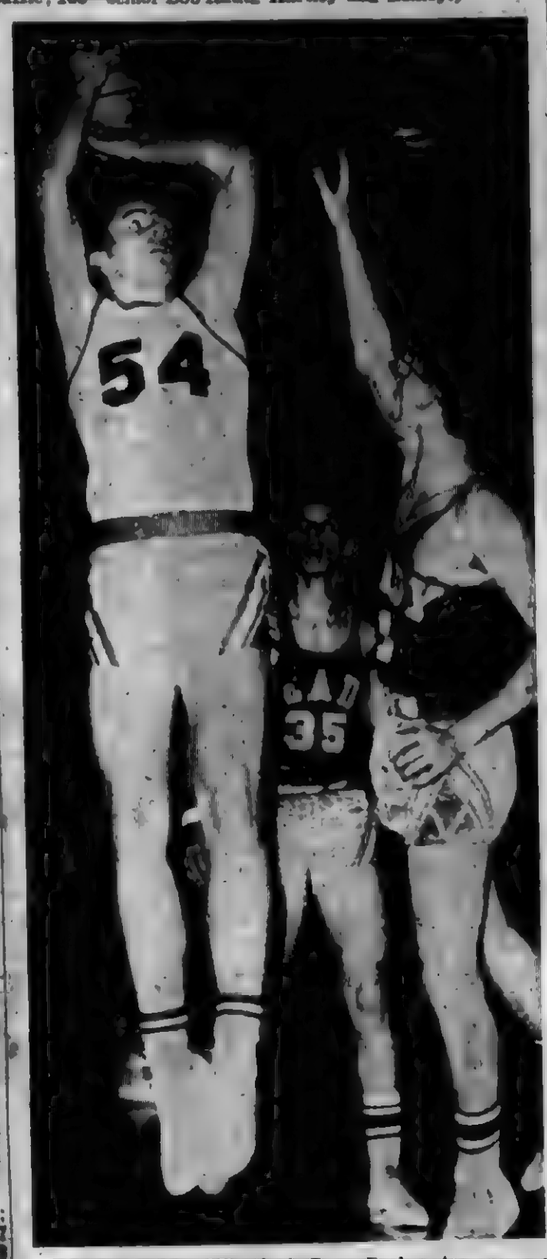
Only lettermen back to bolster Cermelj's upcoming squad are 175-pounder John Cruse (14-5, honorable mention All-Star team) and Terry Roberts (103).

The Scotties, normally a power in area wrestling circles, slipped to a fifth place City Meet finish and sixth place District close last season.

CERMELJ can't be too optimistic about a better effort this campaign.

"We've got some real good quality wrestlers but we're awfully young. I'll be expecting a lot from my sophomores this year but this will have to be a building year for us," the Highlander mentor commented.

Cermelj has a small (for Walnut Ridge) squad of 28 out this season.



BESIDES his two lettermen starters, the Scottie mat mentor looks for this probable lineup when W-R opens its new season by besting Circleville and Groveport in in a triangular on Saturday, Dec. 18:

(Next week — preview on wrestling squads at East, Hartley and Bexley.)

COMPLETES COURSE

A/3C Marvin W. Smith, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin W. Smith, Sr., of 112 Santa Maria-ln, has been graduated at Amarillo AFB, Tex., from the training course for U. S. Air Force inventory specialists. Airman Smith, a graduate of Whitehall Yearling High School, is being reassigned. He attended the American Institute of Banking.

DOUG DUO — Hartley's Doug Parker, top scorer at Saturday's Mission Carnival at Watterson, aims two more points at the Hawk bucket — soaring high over Ready opponents Jim Zuber (35) and Jack Ries (at right). Parker dropped in 19 points in pacing the Hawks to the Mission title.

UA Dominates All-CBL

Central Buckeye League champion Arlington dominated the 1965 All-League grid team with six berths last week as center Dan Love, guard Henry Finelli, end Jim Mosier and backs Chip Neale, Gus Crim and Skeet Hopkins were named to the 16-man squad.

Worthington picked up two spots in tackle Frank Lowery and end Gary Kester.

DON'S BATTING .1000!

DON BUTTS, 3115 Saxon-ct, could hardly ask for a better deer hunting batting average. In his second season of hunting, Don bagged this eight-point, 150-pound buck at Rapid River, Mich., last week. Don substituted quality for quantity this year — felling a five-point, 165-pound buck in his initial deer hunting try last year at the same site. Accompany Butts on both his successful hunting excursions up north was Ronnie Kimberly, 1701 E. Whittier-st.

Foltz, Allen Top Award Winners At Ram Fete

Whitehall's Rams, who recently completed a successful 7-3 grid campaign, were honored at a school football banquet last week.

Rick Foltz, Mike Allen and Wes Seymour were named honorary tri-captains for the 1965 season.

FOLTZ, ALLEN, Seymour plus Randy Rhoades and Jim Heaton were named to the All-CBL squad while teammates Mike Fleming, Harvey Eader, John Bankes, Tom Barton, Gary Stimmel and Tom Kleinline were awarded honorable mention berths.

The "GO" Trophy (presented by Lynn's Drug Store) went to Rick Foltz while Mike Allen was named "most valuable player."

Foltz, Count Fuller, Ray Armbruster and Mike Gillespie were awarded "Physical Fitness" trophies also.

FOLTZ AND Gary Stimmel shared "hatchet men" honors (most tackles per game) — each gridder named three times apiece.

Other individual week winners were Wes Seymour, Dan Dersam, Tom Barton, Randy Rhoades and Harvey Eader.

Jack Fouts of Ohio Wesleyan University was the guest speaker at the banquet, held at the Holiday Inn.

THE EASTERN FRANKLIN COUNTY JOINT VOCATIONAL HIGH SCHOOL
SPECIAL ELECTION DECEMBER 7

It takes special training for jobs in today's space-age industries — training, not readily available in our high schools. You can change that —and give our children a break— by voting for the proposed Joint Vocational High School.

The Joint Vocational High School will be a specialized education center for youths and adults in Canal Winchester, Reynoldsburg, Whitehall and Madison and Jeffersen Townships. They can take courses to acquire the technical knowledge and work skills to compete successfully for steady jobs.

The school will offer:

• Well - rounded programs of courses, worked out in consultation with Columbus industry, to develop skilled workers.

• Vocational and technical training opportunities not now available at our high schools.

• Extra classroom space in our high schools because of pupils attending the Joint Vocational High School.

• Tremendous savings (almost 50%) to you in total cost of construction and operation because of federal and state participation.

Special courses will be offered in agricultural, business, trade, distributive and industrial fields that could boost later earnings between $3,000 and $4,000 a year.

But you must act Dec. 7 by voting for the Vocational School.

GOD'S UNSPEAKABLE GIFT

This story has been told many times, but is worth repeating again. At the close of a church supper the group formed a friendship circle. Since it was Thanksgiving time, the pastor suggested that each one tell what he was particularly grateful for that year. One by one each told of his special blessing. When it came the turn for a little palefaced girl she hesitated a moment and then said, "I am thankful that I am thankful."

We have so many things to be thankful for and many of these we just take for granted. The freedom that we enjoy is a priceless possession. To know that I can leave my home and drive to Columbus, cross the Scioto River, without guards to question me about where I'm going.

Rev. Holland

God has blessed our country with fertile soil that makes great farms. We have an abundance of food. Our rivers and streams have been a great asset to our economy. All around us we can see the handwork of God.

As I write these lines I am thankful for our great heritage. To read about our forefathers gives us courage for the present, strength in our weakness and a determination to make our world better. A look at their many trials will help us from pitying ourselves and getting into a state of indifference.

As we drive through our cities and countries it should give us a feeling of gratitude to see our beautiful church buildings. These just didn't happen. We are free to attend these churches. There were times people were burned at the stake and went through great persecution for their belief in God.

The Apostle Paul had a heart of thankfulness. He saw in Christ a priceless gift. To receive this gift is to have pardon, peace and eternal life. To have pardon from our sins is to receive the Son of God who revealed the love of God in his life and death. Others have received this gift and have received joy and peace in their heart. A man might be thankful for food, clothing and shelter, but no man can offer worthy heart-thanksgiving for this great gift until he has personally accepted it. After receiving it he then knows of its worth. It is openly expressed by those who feel it.

To sing our hymns of grateful praise, to offer gifts to His cause and to be obedient to Him are means in which the redeemed and spiritually enriched may show their gratitude for this unspeakable gift.

Local Catholic Clothing Drive To End Saturday

Representatives of St. Pius X parish organizations are assisting with the annual Catholic Bishops' Thanksgiving Clothing Collection being held November 21-27. During this period, anyone wishing to donate usuable clothing may bring it to the collection point on the first floor of the school addition.

The drive stresses the continuing need for usable clothing, shoes, blankets, and bed linens for the millions of impoverished people in Latin America, Asia, and Africa. According to Msgr. Carroll, pastor of St. Pius X, the clothing is distributed in 79 countries by the Catholic Relief Service on the basis of need, without regard to race, religion or color.

At the completion of the drive, members of the parish Rosary Altar Society, Holy Name Society, Home and School Association, Catholic Youth Council, St. Vincent de Paul Society and the local council of the Knights of Columbus will sort and pack the items for shipment overseas.

Clothing contributed should be clean daytime wear of any size. Shoes for the drive should have low heels and be tied in pairs.

Boxes Sent To Service Men In Viet Nam

Thirty-five service men in Viet Nam will open Christmas boxes this year, thanks to a project of the Reynoldsburg Methodist Church.

Wilma Hoffman and Judy Corley reported that the boxes have been filled with gifts, cookies, soap, popcorn, magazines, paperback books and toiletries.

The Methodist Sunday School has 1088 enrolled and the church membership is 1493.

Thanksgiving—

counter. He was glad to hear his name called out because he had been waiting almost all morning to find out about his welfare check which hadn't arrived in the mail yet.

"I'm sorry," the Negro desk clerk told him "You won't be able to see anyone today."

"What about my case worker . . . can I talk to my case worker?"

"She's out in the field today. I'm sorry, there's no one here who can help you now."

The man paused, then walked away from the counter. He jammed his hands into his pocket and his face went sullen as he looked at the floor. "I hope she's out in the field today," he muttered. "I just hope she is and that she stops at my house."

The clerk looked away.

"Every week it's the same story . . . my check . . . always late. I just hope she's out in the field and stops at my house. I'll tell her a thing or two," he said because he knew that it took that check before he could think about Thanksgiving.

The clerk looked behind her at another girl. "Why do they have to get nasty about it?" she asked, puzzled.

Down the street, a man stood with a boy of about seven, presumably his son. It was cold in Columbus and they both shivered and moved their feet back and forth.

A woman carrying a shopping bag was walking past them and the man tried to stop shivering as best he could and stepped toward her.

"Could you help us, ma'm?"

"What do you mean, 'help you'? Help you, how?"

"A dollar, ma'm. Just a dollar for food."

"I-I, don't know . . . " the woman said, hesitantly.

"Show the lady your Thanksgiving dinner," the man said to the boy.

The kid opened his hand. He held a yellow jelly bean.

And back at the school the teacher had finished reading her Thanksgiving story and it is hard to imagine that, some day, some of these children who believe in that story with all their hearts will wish they had never heard it before.

'LFR' Sponsor Identified

By FRANK RYAN

A new but unrevealing twist has been added to this week's presentation of the "Let Freedom Ring" telephone recording. The hitherto anonymous voice follows the "LFR" call by saying "This is William Ohly speaking."

According to Ohio Bell Telephone Co. officials, William N. Ohly, 143 Fairdale-av, Westerville, leases equipment used for the telephone broadcasts.

Ohly has refused to discuss the controversial taped messages, or his purpose in sponsoring the local "LFR" series of recordings. A woman who identified herself as Ohly's wife when a Spectator reporter called, said she knew relatively little of his "LFR" activities.

She said that Ohly no longer served as a paid recruiter for the John Birch Society, and that neither she nor Ohly currently are members of the society. She re-confirmed what she had previously told another reporter; that Ohly would not answer any questions about his participation in "LFR."

Senate Investigates

The telephone broadcasts were the subject of a U.S. Senate commerce subcommittee meeting last week. "LFR" originator, Dr. William Campbell Douglass, Sarasota, Fla., told the committee that identification of "LFR" sponsors would be an "invasion of privacy and a restriction of liberties."

Douglass said identification would expose "LFR" sponsors "to crackpots in their areas." His remark prompted the subcommittee chairman Sen. John O. Pastore (D-R.I.) to comment that "it's a matter of debate who the crackpot might be."

The local voice of "LFR" reports this week on what he terms the "Negro revolutionary movement." He calls for understanding to "break the back of the Communist conspiracy."

Targets of attack this week include the Civil Rights movement in general and, more specifically, Dr. Martin Luther King, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), the National Council of Churches (NCC) and the news media.

"The biggest troublemaker," the "LFR" message says, (is) Nelson Rockefeller's good friend, Martin Luther King." The broadcast charges the ACLU with being "in the forefront of the Negro revolutionary movement," and says the news media "has carefully hidden from the American people the Communist nature of most of the Civil Rights groups."

The voice identified as William Ohly charges that the NCC "has become a malignant race-agitating force that is financed by unsuspecting Protestants."

Brandeis Study Programs Open To Members, Friends

Mrs. M. J. Papurt, president of the Columbus Chapter, Brandeis University National Women's Committee, has announced that three study group programs are under way, and that all members and friends are invited.

The Wednesday Study Group met last night and heard Mrs. B. W. Abramson review the works of the noted Greek author, Nikos Kazantzakis.

The Saturday Study Group, which has chosen the topic of "The Golden Age of the Jews in Spain" will meet for the first time on Saturday, Nov. 13, at the home of Mrs. Norbert Kruger, 175 N. Edgevale-rd, with Mrs. Aryeh Silverberg, a graduate of Hebrew University, Jerusalem, as discussion leader. The meeting will begin with a tea at 1:30. Mrs. Fred Roland is chairman.

Mrs. Sidney Levoff and Mrs. Sherwood Walker, co-chairmen of the Mr. and Mrs. Study Group, have announced that Mrs. Pep Sinton will discuss Donald L. Michael's new book, "The Next Generation," at the opening fall meeting of the husband-and-wife group, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Skilker, 405 S. Merkle-rd, Tuesday Nov. 16, 8 p.m. Not limited to family teams, members may bring friends as well, or feel free to attend without their spouses.

The Columbus Chapter of Brandeis University National Women's Committee is one of 125 chapters in the country which is solely responsible for the maintenance and support of the library at Brandeis University. It is the largest "Friends of a Library" movement in the world, and is now engaged in purchasing books for the new Science Library dedicated this month on the Brandeis Campus at Waltham, Mass.

In this endeavor they are partners with the Ford Foundation, which has made available a matching grant for all funds raised by the National Women's Committee for the new Science Library.

St. Pius X Women Filling Yule Baskets For Needy

A Christmas party with charitable overtones will be the theme for the Rosary Altar Society of St. Pius X parish, Reynoldsburg, at the Wednesday, Dec. 1, 8 p.m. meeting in the school addition.

Program chairman Mrs. William Davis announced that a social evening of cards, gifts and prizes will follow a brief business meeting, and she invites all women of the parish. Everyone should bring a 50 cent gift for the grab bag gift exchange and staples to help fill Christmas baskets for the needy.

Preparations will be completed for the Yuletide party being held later in the month for the 35 residents of a state-sponsored home in the Reynoldsburg area. Team 6 from the Huber Homes area will be the Friendly Visitors for this party. Members who volunteered to select personal gifts for individual ladies at the home should bring these items, gift wrapped and tagged, to this meeting. All other women are asked to bring handkerchiefs, writing paper, envelopes, soap and cosmetics to fill Christmas packages for them.

Mrs. Gary McCaw and Mrs. Charles Smith will be in and other items being contrib- evening, assisted by members of Team 9, who will also provide the refreshments.

A brief board meeting is slated for Monday, Nov. 29, 8 p.m. The remainder of the evening will be devoted to sorting and packing clothing and other items being cotrib- uted by people of the Reynoldsburg area to the Catholic Bishops' Thanksgiving Clothing Drive, Nov. 21 - 28.

Decorating Ideas Swapped At Meet

Thanks Given For Country

Students at Whitehall-Yearling High School reaffirmed the "Faith of Their Fathers" in a Thanksgiving assembly held this morning.

Thanksgiving for home, church and schools—backbone of the nation—was the theme in a program designed to emphasize that the faith and courage of the Pilgrims were still evidenced by men fighting to preserve the American way.

Spotlighted pictures of the Four Freedoms, preserved during World War II and still being defended, were presented by a Cuban refugee, a Negro, a Chinese boy and an American.

The high school choir, directed by Richard Neikird, presented "Give Me Your Poor and Your Tired," and sang the Thanksgiving proclamation.

Terri Hiatt, activities committee chairman of the program's sponsoring Student Council, gave the opening speech of Faith And Courage, and Ernest Peters, council president, read President L. B. Johnson's official proclamation.

THANKSGIVING FOR our country was the patriotic theme of Whitehall High's assembly. Terri Hiatt and Ernest Peters, president of the Student Council, had featured roles in the program emphasizing home, church and school as backbones of our country.

Education—

urge a vocational dimension be added to total high school education, for those students who are interested.

Such technical training is estimated to add $3,000 to $4,000 to an annual income.

On Dec. 7 Ballot

Voters in five districts—Canal Winchester, Reynoldsburg Local, Jefferson Local, Madison Local and Whitehall—will be asked Dec. 7 to approve a 1.4 mill operating levy and a .6 mill bond issue to provide a specialized education center for all their 11th and 12th grade students.

Extension programs would also be offered to adults in the evening, to include apprentice training in any area that calls for journeymen, and if the need is evident, a Junior College Technical Program for high school graduates.

Voters' share would be little more than half the cost. The federal government has already allocated $1.4 million of the approximately $3 million construction cost, and the state will contribute $248,498 of the estimated $510,571 annual operating expense.

By establishing a joint vocational district voters would, in effect, divide their share of the cost while multiplying many times the benefits to their children.

Enrollment in each district is inadequate to offer a broad enough program to meet the many demands; the cost of facilities of the scope possible in a joint school would be prohibitive in individual districts.

Students participating would remain enrolled in his "home school," would take part in the school's music, dramatics and athletic programs, and be graduated from his own school.

Required academic courses would also be taught at the vocational school, making all those who are graduated eligible to enter any college or university.

An important "fringe benefit" for each participating school would be the extra classroom space because of pupils attending the vocational school.

Approximately 160 occupational opportunities will be offered from the 40 units in four general areas—agriculture, business education, distributive education and trades and industry.

Landscaping and horticulture are among agriculture units, business education includes stenographic training, office machines, accounting and data processing, and distributive education is designed to train leaders in the field of distribution, marketing and merchandising.

Trades and industry provides a wide scope of units including machine trades, auto mechanics, radio, television, electronics, cosmetology, auto body, sheet metal, dental assistants, commercial art and many more.

The district would be operated by a joint board of education—two appointed by Franklin County and Whitehall School Boards.

Robert Dumont, supervisor employment and placement, Western Electric, is chairman of the Joint Vocational School Advisory District.

Serving with Dumont are:

Frank Harvey, president, The Fashion; Robert J. Keltner, office manager, Motorists Mutual Insurance; Walter Kramer, general manager, Timken Roller Bearing; George Reiser, chief of data processing, State Department of Liquor Control.

Dan Rohyans, president, Dan Rohyans Ford; Dean Simeral, associate director public affairs, Ohio Farm Bureau; Howard Warwick, proprietor, Warwick's Landscaping and Garden Store, and Paul R. Weisenstein, dentist, and research instructor at Ohio State University Dental College.

Eductors serving on the committee include superintendent Thomas J. Quick, Franklin County; Robert Crabbs, Whitehall City Schools; Robert Heischman, Reynoldsburg Local; Calvin Leader, Jefferson Local; C. Andrew Miller, Canal Winchester Local and Philip Williams, Madison Local.

Also serving are these members of the Eastern-Franklin County Joint-Vocational District: James Spadafore, executive director; James Dougan, president, Board of Education; Wayne Davis, vice president, and Willard Brenning, William Hockman and Kenneth Foley, clerks.

One school board member from each of the five districts is also serving on the advisory committee. They are Robert Wood, Canal Winchester; Russell Yoder, Jefferson; Wayne Wilson, Madison; John Irvine, Reynoldsburg, and Mrs. Ruth Kosar, Whitehall.

Police Brand Corners As Troublesome

Francis C. McWilliams, captain of the traffic bureau of the Columbus Police Department, has branded James and Broad and Barnett and Livingston as high-accident intersections for the Nov. 1 through Nov. 15 period.

Enforcement will be tightened from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the James and Broad corner with special emphasis on proper turning and stopping for the red light.

Police will watch from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the Barnett and Livingston corner, especially for assured-clear-distance and lane changing violations.

TENTATIVE PLANS FOR DEVELOPMENT OF WHITEHALL CITY PARK

It looks like a rosy spring ahead for Whitehall families who have wistfully eyed the slow progress of improvements to the city's Orton Davis Memorial Park.

And "by early spring" is the promise for development of the first of three segments of the park.

Council's recent resolution authorizing the city engineer to procede with drawings and plans, and to gather cost estimates for the necessary sewers and for twq shelter houses, has cleared the way for development of the first phase of the park plan.

Included in immediate plans will be two shelter houses, with an additional one or two to be added when the second and third phases are completed.

Marshy land was drained, and storm sewers and a drainage ditch installed last spring to eliminate the perennial problem of standing water in the park.

And the engineer has completed drawings and plans for the extension of Etna-rd through the center of the park.

City organizations also are working toward early completion. In addition to the Kiwanians' donations for playground equipment, Eastern Columbus Jaycees Wives have contributed $100 for charcoal grills.

GriffithsTally 74 Blessings In 63 Years

By BETTY DAPT

Blessings are counted by the number by Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Griffith, 1053 Harrison-av, this Thanksgiving Day.

And their large family, scattered throughout the Columbus area, will be on hand to help count—63 years of marriage and 74 living descendants.

Every available surface in their home is lovingly crowded with pictures of their three living children, 19 grandchildren, 47 great-grandchildren and five great-great-grandchildren.

These, and their triumphs over hardship and heartaches are the riches for which they thank their God—the same God who Mr. Griffith served during 45 years of active church mission work.

Memories have faded of the time long ago when Mr. Griffith fell from a ladder and was critically injured that doctors despaired for his life, and the long hospital stay and the months in a wheelchair.

Remembered instead is that he did regain his health, resumed the operation of his business, the A. O. Griffith Sheet Metal Co., and was active for many years before his retirement after 55 years.

PINK ROSES, one for each of their 63 years of marriage, presented by Lou Viereck (at right) were among the tributes that made their wedding anniversary memorable for Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Griffiths, 1053 Harrison-av.

Never Located Son

Also smoothed by the years, although never forgotten, is the pain of their life's great tragedy—the loss of their only son, Ralph, whose mysterious disappearance 50 years ago while delivering newspapers in the South Side was never solved.

It was many years ago that the Griffiths finally ceased their heart-breaking journeys to view bodies of young boys, wondering each time if one might be their son.

Faith helped heal the hurt of that loss, and love for their grandchildren helped fill their hearts.

The Griffiths' three daughters, all the grandchildren, great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren thoughtfully space their Thanksgiving visits from Sunday through Thursday, so the folks will not become overly tired.

Their daughters are, Mrs. Earl G. (Mildred) Ellis, 391 Piedmont-av; Mrs. Lawrence H. (Thelma) Lowery, 1952 Oakwood-av, and Mrs. Ethel Clark, 5745 Sinclair-rd.

Announces Bond Rate Increase

City National Bank has announced a new high interest rate paid to savings customers. The bank began Monday, Nov. 22, to offer investor saver bonds that earn a guaranteed rate of 4½ per cent from 90 days to 5 years.

John G. McCoy, City National president, said that the bond program is another banking innovation for this area. The 4½ percent is the highest permitted by government regulation. McCoy said that the bank has been developing the investor saver program during the past two months. He said it was designed to provide every possible advantage for the savings and investing public. Only three east coast banks have similar programs.

The City National announcement came at a time when local savings and loan associations and other local banks were announcing rate increases to 4½ percent. The savings and loan increases will be effective Jan. 1, 1966, while City National's bond program is effective immediately. Federal regulations were relaxed a year ago to permit banks to pay a maximum of 4 per cent interest on regular savings accounts and up to 4½ percent on special certificates of deposit.

In addition to paying the highest possible guaranteed return, the bonds can be cashed 90 days after purchase, and interest is added quarterly. They are insured up to $10,000 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.; can be assigned to other owners; and used as gifts or as loan collateral. McCoy noted that when held to their five year maturity, the bonds return a 25.1 per cent profit.

The bank has available three different types of 4½ per cent bonds, designed to meet special customer needs. A savings bond, which sells at a reduced amount and matures at a set value, starts at $19.99 and builds up to $25 in five years. Growth bonds are purchased at $500 and up, with interest added quarterly. The third type has been named income bonds and can be purchased at $1,000 and up. A check for the earned interest is mailed to the customer monthly, quarterly or semi-annually.

McCoy said that the new 4½ per cent bonds should be the most attractive program ever presented to thep ublic looking for a safe, sound and profitable way to save and invest. All 15 City National offices now have the new bonds available.

C&SOE CLUBBERS MEET

Food Stamp Program Explanation Is Slated

The Food Stamp Program, which is anticipated to begin here Jan. 3, 1966, will be explained to food merchants of Franklin County, in meetings to be held at the following places: auditorium of the Central YMCA Tuesday, Nov. 30, at 8 p.m.; Cooke Recreation Canter Monday, Nov. 29, at 8 p.m.; and at Beatty Hall, Southside YMCA, Dec. 1, at 8 p.m.

The briefing will be conducted by Paul E. Fulmer, officer in charge.

Invitations to attend these meetings are being mailed to retail food dealers listed in the yellow pages of the telephone directory. Any merchants who have not received an invitation, due to nonlisting or inadvertent omission, are also invited to attend one of the meetings.

Administering the program is the U. S. Department of Agriculture, in cooperation with the State of Ohio Department of Public Welfare.

Authorization of food merchants — both retail and wholesale — is being handled by the USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service, while certification of eligible families is being handled by the Franklin County Welfare Department.

Families now receiving aid from the Franklin County Welfare Department will be certified for participation in the Food Stamp Program by their caseworkers.

The State of Ohio Department of Public Welfare determines the eligibility of the families and tells them the amounts they will need to invest in the program — an amount that generally depends on the family's size and income.

Eligible persons pay that amount, in cash, for food coupons, and receive free, enough additional coupons to enable them to buy substantially increased food supplies.

Recipients spend their food stamp coupons, just as they would money, in any authorized retail store. They can buy any food for human consumption, which they choose, except for certain imported items. Since this is a food program, non-food items such as alcoholic beverages, tobacco products, pet foods, vegetable seeds, and the like, cannot be purchased with food coupons.

Grocers may redeem the coupons at local banks or through authorized food wholesalers. Banks redeem them through the Federal Reserve System.

Surveys were conducted to determine the effectiveness of the Food Stamp Program, first introduced in May 1961, on a test or pilot basis.

These findings show that, during the survey periods, food sales, in dollars, increased an average of eight per cent. Meats, dairy products, and other grocery items, shared in the increase, as did both large and small stores.

TO RETIRE

MILDRED M. TELFER, 381 E. Gates-st, an employe in plant accounting for Combia Gas of Ohio, Inc., will retire Dec. 1 after 44 years of service. Born in Pickaway County, Mrs. Telfer moved to Columbus and attended Columbus schools. She was graduated from South High School. Former church organist at South Methodist Church, she also has been a member of the church choir for many years, and is a past president of the Wesleyan Service Guild. Mrs. Telfer is active in the University Mothers Club and the Women's Republican Club.

MUSEUM TO CLOSE

The Ohio Historical Museum, N. High-st at 15th-av, will be closed Thursday, Nov. 25, Thanksgiving Day. Hours will be 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 26 and 27 and 1 to 5 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 28.

JA CENTER OPENS

First Federal Ups Interest

First Federal Savings and Loan Association will increase its rate on savings accounts to 4.25 percent, effective Jan. 1, according to an announcement by Richard I. Eidson, president.

"In addition to the new rate," Eidson said, "the dividends will be compounded quarterly, which also permits our depositors to earn more on their money. We feel that the present money market is such that our present depositors, as well as future ones, are entitled to higher dividends on their savings here."

Eidson

Eidson also pointed out that accounts at First Federal can be opened in any amount, no minimum balance is required, and deposits in any amount are accepted at any time.

In addition to the downtown office at 65 E. Guy-st, managed by Paul J. Solomon, vice-president and cashier, First Federal has a Hilltop office at 2680 W. Broad-st, managed by Nelson Greene, vice-president and secretary, and a Bexley office at 2450 E. Main-st.

Willard C. Eidson is chairman of the board.

Park Federal Hikes Interest

An increase in the annual dividend rate on savings accounts to four and one-fourth percent is announced by Park Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Fergus

Carl F. Fergus, president, said the new rate will go into effect Jan. 1. Park Federal will pay its first dividend at the new rate on Mar. 31, the end of the first quarter. The current annual dividend rate is four percent compounded quarterly.

There are two main reasons for the Park Federal dividend hike. According to Fergus, they are:

1. Increased competition reflecting a general rise in interest rates by government and financial institutions.

2. The necessity for attracting enough money to finance the approaching housing boom.

Fergus explained that the need of federal and state governments for funds to finance broad programs coupled with the necessity of banks to acquire funds for underwriting economic growth have made institutions more competitive for private funds.

They are paying higher rates to attract more money. Savings and loan associations hope to meet this competition.

Jerry Feddersen

Local Man Heads OPRA

Jerry Feddersen, of 4489 Sandy Lane-rd, recreation supervisor with the Columbus Recreation Department, was installed recently as the president of the Ohio Parks and Recreation Association at the association's annual conference held in Cleveland.

The OPRA is the professional association of recreation and park personnel and those concerned with the improvement of park and recreation programs, services, and facilities throughout the state.

Feddersen, who has been serving with the Columbus Recreation Department for 15 years, succeeds Mel Rebholtz.

OFBF Honors Lausche, Moon

The Ohio Farm Bureau Federation recently presented distinguished service awards to U. S. Senator Frank Lausche and A. F. Moon of Sidney.

"These awards are presented to persons who have been leaders in agriculture," commented Frank Sollars, OFBF president.

Senator Lausche made an address to delegates at the annual meeting.

March Of Dimes Chairmen Named

Chairmen for the 1966 March of Dimes Campaign were named today by Ohio Treasurer John D. Herbert, campaign director.

Robert H. Snedaker, Jr., 2230 Hadleigh-rd, will head up the special gifts division.

Vice chairman of the special gifts division is Raymond L. Dodez, 4529 Tetford-rd.

Herbert also announced the appointment of three men for the public employes solicitation. In charge of state offices will be Robert T. Leidorf, 1321 Duxberry-av.

Joseph M. Clifford, 886 Thomas-ln, was named to county office solicitation.

Gordon Serrott, 1636 Melrose-av, will have charge of city offices.

The March of Dimes traditional January campaign raises funds for birth defects research and treatment.

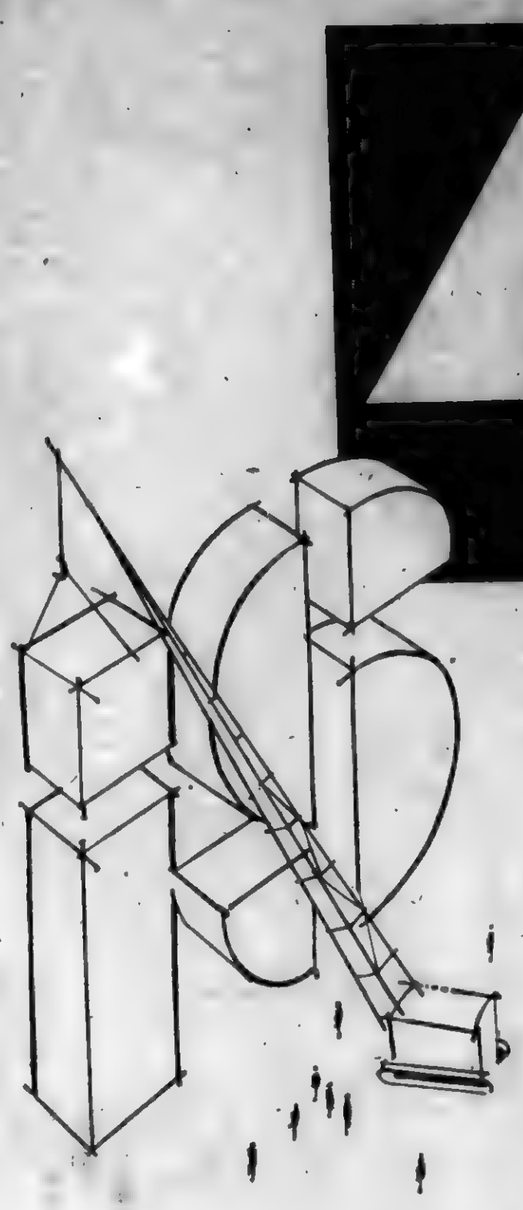
The Birth Defects Special Treatment Center at Columbus' Children's Hospital, opened in 1960, was the first March of Dimes Center.

William Martin Is Division V-P

Appointment of William A. Martin of 4142 Squire-ln, as division vice-president, manufacturing, has been announced by E. W. Forth, president of American-Standard Industrial Division, Detroit, Mich.

Martin

Martin joined American-Standard in mid-1964 as manager of the division's Columbus plant, the position he held at the time of his new promotion.



In his new position, Martin will be responsible for manufacturing activity at the division's Dearborn (Mich.), Columbus, Buffalo (N.Y.) and Kewanee (Ill.) plants. Mr. and Mrs. Martin plan to relocate in the Detroit area.

FUNDS DISTRIBUTED

State Auditor Roger Cloud today announced the distribution of $21,761,311 in auto license revenues to the counties and municipalities of the state. The combined payments to the counties and municipalities, exclusive of the equalization fund, included the following distributions, by county: Fairfield, $151,146; Franklin, $1,535,314.50; Madison, $62,937; Ross, $118,989.

Look Under The Rock

With friends like the "Let Freedom Ring" sponsors, America will never have to look far for enemies. This hate-tape phone message gimmick is as good a tool of subversion as any the Commies have devised to weaken our country.

Consider for a moment some of the groups under attack by "LFR." They include The Peace Corps, The Civil Rights Movement, the National Council of Churches and the Parent-Teacher Association, and the war in Viet Nam, which it calls a "stageplay."

All of these groups, say the hate-tapes, are part of the grand plan for Communist conquest of the United States. Hogwash! But these groups do have at least one thing in common — an almost exclusive membership of American citizens.

We don't argue with the known fact that Communists use infiltration as a primary means of internal subversion. But we will never subscribe to the "LFR" theory that the only way to get rid of termites is to burn down the house.

"LFR" has done a good job of copying the favorite tactic of the John Birch Society, which it supports, and which, in turn, adopted its basic plan of operation from the Communists. The idea is to package the "Big Lie" in a thin shiny covering of truth.

Example of the pitch: Communism is all wrong. We are against Communism. Therefore, we are all right. Again, hogwash!

The basic difference between the "LFR" people and those they attack is that the latter operate in full view of the public and, in fact, represent a broad cross-section of the public. "LFR," the recent PUCO ruling notwithstanding, remains virtually anonymous.

William E. Henry, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, recently told a Congressional committee that the FCC could act to regulate the "LFR" phone broadcasts. But he told the committee he did not feel that FCC action would be necessary because the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. had instructed its Bell System affiliates to identify the "LFR" subscribers. But, in Ohio, at least, all this has accomplished is to tell the public to whom the phone bill is sent — nothing more.

There are those who argue that "LFR" is not in the public domain because people call the telephone number voluntarily. It could as well be argued that radio and television station operators are excused from public responsibility for what they broadcast because the public voluntarily turns on its sets.

It's time for the FCC to kick over the rock under which the "LFR" creature is hiding. Let's see if it can survive in the light of informed public opinion.

Let Market Veto Stand

Mayor Sensenbrenner has given the lame duck Columbus council a last chance to take itself off the hook in its foolish pursuit of the Central Market give-away scheme.

The mayor has vetoed council's ordinance to give the market operators everything they want in the way of a contract — and substantially more than the same council had originally intended to give. Sensenbrenner's veto should prevail.

Council's "directive" to City Attorney John C. Young was to complete negotiations with the market interests and then sign the resultant lease. This was a farce, pure and simple. The ordinance left nothing to negotiate, because it capitulated to every demand of the Central Market Association.

Young, himself, has indicated plainly enough his lack of enthusiasm for the "task" assigned him by council. He terms the matter a fight between the administration and council. And it's an "open secret" at City Hall that he does not expect the matter to reach the stage where he must sign or refuse to do so.

Should council persist in attempts to channel tax dollars into this private enterprise venture, its concurring members will be remembered by the voters in any future attempts for elective office. And their act will prove to be nothing more than a futile gesture of contempt for the electorate. A simple $10 lawsuit can easily block ratification of any lease until convening of the new council in January.

Republican Councilman Ronald Sedgwick was the lone member of council to place principle above petty politics when last the market lease deal came to a vote. The remaining members of council will have a final opportunity on Monday to submit to the will of the electorate by upholding Mayor Sensenbrenner's veto.

Hit Repeat Violators

A Cleveland motorist faces manslaughter charges after having snuffed out the lives of three of five children he ran down. Nothing decided by the courts in that city will undo the damage that has been done.

But some traffic court judges in Cleveland should be spending some sleepless nights in contemplation of the part they may have played in the tragic event. The death-dealing motorist had 38 previous arrests to his name — 18 for breaking traffic laws.

And he has never had a driver's license!

What has all this to do with the local traffic enforcement picture? Simply this:

To date this year, 56 people have lost their lives in Columbus traffic accidents — 24 more than the death toll for all of 1964. And we still have the Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's highway slaughters to encounter.

The sad fact is that the Columbus Municipal and area mayor's courts have not gained wide attention for cracking down on repeat traffic offenders. Perhaps more serious attention to repeated so-called "minor" traffic violations would minimize the number of crippling and death-dealing tragedies.

It's something that deserves the thought of anyone who deals with enforcement of traffic laws.

Calling Ohioans

By MICHAEL V. DISALLE

It hardly seems that two years have passed since Nov. 22, 1963, and yet at times it appears that it has been an eternity. On that day most of us were busily engaged in our everyday pursuits, more or less oblivious to the fact that President John F. Kennedy was touring Texas. Then came the almost incredible, unbelievable news that a young man, head of the nation, husband and father of a young and popular family had been shot down while parading through Dallas.

The first reaction was that it could not be true, or that it certainly was a superficial wound, and that he soon would be with us, sparking, prodding us into a glorious vision of a new world where hope of peace and happiness would abound. The television reported that Ken O'Donnell would not say whether the President was alive or dead, then we knew he would never again laugh, that we would never again see the twinkle in his eyes and hear him tell of his hopes for the nation.

Torrents of memories rushed over us, some increasing a sadness that seemed more than we could bear, others giving a strength that made it possible.

Memories of Jack Kennedy in 1952 as we joined together in urging Adlai Stevenson to accept the Democratic nomination for President . . . 1956, as we nominated Kefauver for Vice-President, and then attempted to console him with the thought that he was being spared for greater things . . . 1956, as he campaigned up and down Ohio in a losing cause . . . 1957, three days before Caroline was born when we addressed a Boston Kennedy testimonial dinner and he talked of his concern for the approaching event. . .

JFK Remembered

1958, as he traveled Ohio in behalf of our candidacy . . . 1959, as he came back to Ohio on behalf of his Presidential candidacy . . . 1960, Wisconsin, West Virginia, Los Angeles and the tough campaign, with that long day's travel from Painesville through Cleveland, Lorain, Elyria, Akron, to Canton — this was the day after the first Kennedy-Nixon debate. He was feeling good about the results, and the people along the campaign trail from 7:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. confirmed it by their cheers and inspiring comments. . .

The election and the loss of Ohio and his kind understanding appraisal . . . 1961, the inauguration in a blizzard that practically immobilized Washington, but a crowd that reacted with great warmth to a short but meaningful inaugural address. How wonderfully alive, handsome Jack and beautiful Jackie looked at the ball that evening.

Many fine visits in 1961 and then a telephone call to join him on Dec. 7, 1961, in Philadelphia at the Army-Navy football game. Again a happy President enjoying a Navy win.

January 6, 1962, a torrent of rain, but the President arrived in Columbus to address a dinner. At this time he was terribly aware and concerned about the world situation, however, the people remember his remark, "There is no city in the country where I receive a warmer welcome and fewer votes than in Columbus."

There is so much to remember that it would be impossible to tell all in this short column. The many happy moments such as being greeted by the President and Mrs. Kennedy and receiving a color portrait of the three of us. Jackie came down to the President's office to be present while he surprised me with a gift that portrayed the first lady in the most beautiful maternity evening gown I have ever seen.

The grief at the loss of Patrick Bouvier. The twinkle in his eyes when he talked of running against his personal friend Sen. Barry Goldwater. He was convinced very early that the senator would be his opposition. I am convinced he would have enjoyed debating his opponent.

His life was taken from us two years ago but we will never lose him or the lift and new life he gave the American people. Americans who were elsewhere have told me of their personal experiences, the hotel maid crying in Ankara, people weeping in the streets of Rome, the usually matter-of-fact British shocked beyond belief, the people of Latin and South America grieving over the loss of a friend they trusted, the people behind the Iron Curtain who saw in him hopes for peace.

Under new leadership our greatest contribution to Jack Kennedy's memory must be our devotion to the dreams he left us, a better world.

LWV Offers Public Service

To the Editor:

We wish to thank The Spectator for the coverage given to public welfare and urban renewal news items. Community understanding in both these areas needs to be developed and you are doing a real community service.

It may interest your readers to know that the League of Women Voters is offering programs on both public welfare in Franklin County and on Metropolitan planning to groups or clubs in the Columbus area. These programs are free of charge, and can be scheduled by calling 866-6792.

A Little Dab Should Do It

To the Editor:

Rubber-based latex paint can be purchased almost as cheaply as motor oil. Or, to put it another way, it's almost cheaper to buy than to make your own whitewash.

Why then, can't Urban Renewal officials avoid "uglifying" neighborhoods even more by using bright paint to cover eyesores? I'm thinking now, especially about the old City Market. One quick coat of paint and the morale of the entire section (as well as the lease-worried tenants) would be improved. In the downtown area, at least, UR could make this small extra effort to promote esthetics. Or, is labor too high? Bet the market tenants would put on their own paint if someone furnished it!

Speaking of esthetics, one can only lament the shortage of public statuary in Columbus. Sure, there are fine examples of this art on the Statehouse lawn, on the Board of Health lawn, in front of City Hall, and at other isolated spots. Why should our finest statuary be found only in the cemeteries?

Also, I'm glad that "Spectator green has gone to war" — or someplace.

Galvy Gordon

King (Rah!) Football

To the Editor:

Football is becoming paramount in our sense of values.

With hysterical fan support, it has become practically a year-round commercial and financial bonanza for football interests and the communications media which vie for financial advantage.

What really important event could develop such unrestrained enthusiasm and outdoor capacity attendance in the foulest weather? What other than football can monopolize six hours of TV time as on Nov. 14 and preempt popular, important and regular telecasts? What other sport has so saturated high schools that instructors say it is difficult to procure academic effort?

Every effort is made to please avid fans by continual repetition of games, plays, scores, comments, interviews, numberless commercials and all the publicity of well-paid network announcers and promoters.

Like the Roman gladiators who bled and died for Caesar and his subjects, high school and college football players risk life and limb for the glory of the old alma mater and the hope of making big-time professional ranks where fame and fortune await the survivors.

Sports are fine but when carried to extremes and false importance they become commercialized, dangerous and boresome.

Paul Wiley

New Councilman Writes

To the Editor:

I would like to express my sincere thanks and gratitude to the voters of Columbus for the confidence they bestowed on me Nov. 2 in electing me to Columbus City Council.

To the many friends who worked so hard in my behalf I am ever grateful. I promise to work earnestly and diligently to the limit of my capacities to help make Columbus the great city it is destined to be.

Donald L. Woodland

Appreciates Support

To the Editor:

I wish to extend my most heartfelt thanks to Mrs. Betty Daft and "The Spectator" for helping us publicize and promote the Bexley School 10-mill levy. I never have taken anyone's help for granted and don't wish to start now. I think what makes this significant is the fact that nearly every other levy failed, which heightens the impact of the passage of this one.

Dedication A Success

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Board of Directors of Junior Achievement of Columbus, and those associated with our organization, I express my sincere thanks to you for the wonderful job that you did in covering our open house and dedication of our new Junior Achievement Center at 2688 Westerville-rd.

We had a very fine turnout to see the 270 teenagers at this location in action.

THE NEW SCIENCE OF TESTING . . .

by Jenkin Lloyd Jones
Editor, Tulsa (Okla.) Tribune

On August 10, 1628, the Gustavus Vasa, flagship of the Swedish navy, left its graving dock at Skeppsholmen in Stockholm harbor for its maiden voyage.

Loaded down with 64 cannon, 1,300 barrels of beer, 350 barrels of bread, 290 barrels of salted fish and 450 men she eased out into the channel, her guns exchanging proud salutes with the forts. This was the ship that would sweep the Poles off the Baltic Sea, and all Stockholm gathered at the waterfront to cheer.

And then the Gustavus Vasa tipped over. Just like that. Some men rushed below to move guns to the upper side but water was already pouring in the gunports. In a moment she went down to the bottom of Stockholm harbor, where she remained for more than 332 years.

There had been, of course, a tremendous investigation in the Swedish admiralty court shortly after the tragedy. But it was cut short. King Gustav Adolf, it seems, had given a lot of advice about how the ship should be built.

Everywhere people kept repeating old errors or groping for solutions that other people had found long before.

And then only yesterday, in 1865 an Englishman, William Froude, demonstrated that the power required for a ship could be estimated from the force required to tow a model. It took him about 10 years to talk the Admiralty into a workable test basin. And immediately the old fallacies began to reveal themselves and the science of naval architecture took a quantum leap forward.

Today at Carderock on the Potomac River, 12 miles northwest of the Capitol, Uncle Sam has a $40-million tank and wind tunnel facility that is saving not only the armed services but commercial ship and plane builders uncounted millions in the prevention of error. The behavior of a ship is known almost as precisely on the day its keel is laid as on the evening after its first sea trials.

The high-speed testing tank at Carderock, on which models can be towed up to 70 miles per hour, is five-eighths of a mile long, 21 feet wide and from 10 to 16 feet deep. It has a measurable tide and the rails on which the test stand operates are curved with the curvature of the earth so there will be no variation in the height above the water.

Nothing is sacred at Carderock. No old Navy man would recognize the new ducted propellers, the fantastic hydrofoils, and the hydroskimmers that will ride two feet above the water and run around at 80 knots.

Carderock is a symbol of scientific advancement. After ages of stupidly repeating the same old mechanical mistakes man has now learned to test. He now retains, polishes and breeds his knowledge. And we are off the pad and climbing into orbit.

Unhappily, in the fields of politics, social science and economics we have no Carderocks. We are still hopefully but idiotically trying theories that failed with the pharaohs. We continue to launch all kinds of philosophical Gustavus Vasas.

So we may blow ourselves off the face of the earth. But, thanks to the eager young men at Carderock, we can at least be assured that the ship that takes us across the River Styx won't turn over.

The Greatest Gift

Beardshear

What does Thanksgiving mean in this, the 20th Century of missiles, capsules, bombs and Viet Nam?

A look in any store window would indicate the day has lost some of its religious flavor.

But what is it that we can be thankful for, for the simple reason of its existence? What is the single most important thing for which gratitude can be shown to whatever Source one likes?

That thing is life.

No matter what is counted as a blessing during Thanksgiving, the most significant and important adventure is one's own life.

And what is greater than the gift of life . . . that dynamic, shifting, shimmering, summation?

I give thanks to exist . . . to be able to eat, drink, have companions, stretch the intellect, work, exercise . . . to be able to laugh, cry, love, hate and sleep.

To be able to read, watch a play, see a movie and get lost in a work of art.

To create, to worship, to give, to receive.

The list is as endless as the varieties of life itself and all these pleasures stem from the single fact of being . . . of existing.

So the first thing worth gratitude during Thanksgiving is the most precious . . . one's own life.

Be it great or small; humble or exalted; rich or poor; happy or sad; productive or wasteful . . . no matter what its condition; no matter if the draught of experience leaves a bitter-sweet taste; free or in bondage; sickness or health; alone or with others . . . if one exists, one has undeniable pleasures for which gratitude should exist.

And in this, the 20th Century of missiles, capsules, bombs and Viet Nam, I take quiet pleasure in being able to watch the sun spit morning into all dark places.

THE KING OF THE CARNIVALS, Floyd E. Gooding, met one of the kings of OSU football this week for an afternoon of gridiron talk at Riverside Hospital.

The Carnival King Talks Football With His Stadium Hero

By TOM SESLAR

Spectator Staff Writer

Floyd E. Gooding of 1970 Elmwood-av, Upper Arlington, could not attend an Ohio State football game this year because of heart trouble. This was the first season in 55 years the veteran carnival king had not visited the Ohio Stadium at least once.

But Tom Barrington, Buckeye star halfback, brought some of the gridiron spirit to him at Riverside Hospital this week.

For about a year and a half, the 70-year-old man has been a hospital patient most of the time.

He is the president of the Gooding Amusement Co., the world's largest carnival ride and concession company. And his second greatest love is Buckeye football.

Nancy DeLong, an OSU sophomore in journalism who works with the Gooding company each summer, knew about her friend's interest in the Buckeye team, so she asked Barrington to visit Gooding. Barrington quickly agreed.

Gooding beamed with enthusiasm as he talked football with Barrington, Miss DeLong and a Spectator reporter.

They discussed this year's team, Saturday's game, long-ago stadium heroes and the chances for a top Buckeye squad next year.

Gooding can see the Ohio Stadium from his sixth-floor room at Riverside. "But I can't quite see all the plays," he said jokingly.

A native of Ashtabula County, he has lived in Upper Arlington for 18 years. The Gooding Amusement Co. has supplied all the rides at the Ohio State Fair for 75 years.

Gooding started in the carnival business at the age of 13 by selling tickets when his uncle, John E. Gooding, owned the company.

Later, young Gooding and his two brothers bought the company from their uncle. In 1920, he bought out his brothers.

The company currently operates more than 100 rides in 10 roadshows that travel throughout a 12 state area.

The company provides amusement for everything from church bazaars to state fairs.

Gooding also owns the Gooding Amusement Park at 8888 Riverside-dr, across from the Columbus Zoo.

In 1964, the amusement business named him the "Showman of the Year."

He realized one of his biggest dreams in 1960 when he opened an ultra-modern factory and office building at 3200 Valleyview-dr.

Because he is so concerned about the safety of his rides, he even air-conditioned the whole plant so that builders can work under the best conditions and devote all of their attention to safe construction.

However, the world of Floyd E. Gooding includes much more than a love of carnival rides and OSU football.

He was the president of the Columbus Boys Clubs board of directors from 1954-64. When he resigned last year because of ill health, the organization gave him the title "President Emeritus."

He also was one of the founders of the Dutch Uncles Club, a group of local businessmen which sponsors numerous activities for underprivileged children including a huge annual picnic at Sunshine Park.

Gooding personally sponsors a "free day" for more than 10,000 underprivileged children each year at the Ohio State Fair.

His other memberships include: Columbus Metropolitan Zoo Commission (oldest member); Columbus Jets (present trustee); Showman's League of America (past president); Masons; Kiwanis and Elks.

As Barrington was getting ready to leave the hospital room, he promised to bring Gooding a football autographed by his teammates.

"That would really be a nice thing to do," Gooding said. "I'll put it in my trophy room."

'No Incentives For Service'

To the Editor:

Few, if any, war veterans will condone or encourage draft dodging, but to get to the cause we must consider the facts as we know them from experience and investigation.

1. Selective Service is full of loopholes and the real draft dodger works them all to get deferments of all kinds.

2. The kid who openly defies the law and burns his draft card is but a small percentage of the real draft dodgers, for the average deferment is actually a draft dodge. But he is not termed that by the bleeding hearts who all of a sudden are beating their gums about draft dodging.

3. These same do-gooders were hard to find when the press, radio, TV, magazines, etc., were calling the veterans of WWI "boozy old bums," "treasury robbers," etc. Unlike the late civil rights marchers on Washington—who were met with open arms and furnished police and FBI escort, the veteran of WWI in the Bonus March was greeted with fixed bayonets and beat and killed in the city streets. The present kids are the children of these same war veterans and heard the facts first hand.

4. Incentive made America great and incentive in the way of veterans' benefits encouraged some to serve. Love of God and country was reason enough for some of us, but now that the war veterans have been relegated to second class citizens, there is no incentive left for our children to fight and to defend American ideals in the rotten jungles of some far off nation, whose loyalty to us is very doubtful.

5. The past several administrations in Washington have made it crystal clear that veterans' benefits have been ended and are now limited to service connection only. For every service-connected one there are hundreds who are equally deserving, who could never prove their claim.

6. The drive to close VA hospitals and offices was entering wedge of destruction. As they propose to put the veteran under the catch-all Social Security, the VA hospitals will be used to house any and all federal personnel, employes or what have you.

Over 300 small inefficient veterans' organizations have by their own conduct doomed veterans' benefits. They refuse to work together.

At present not one of them is actually sponsoring a real service pension such as the Spanish American veteran and his dependents receive. They give lip service to it, but realize that the very life of their organization depends on keeping a service pension, based on one thing only—service in the armed forces in time of war—from ever becoming law.

Examination will show that many of these proposals are a piecemeal revision of disability allowances. (Congress and some organizations call them a pension.

These things are known to the children of the war veterans and as a result they are not anxious to be drafted and come home to these conditions. But the main reason for this rash of open defiance of the draft laws, lies in the law itself. To be fair and equitable the draft must be UNIVERSAL AND NOT SELECTIVE.

In short, there should be no exemptions, for any reason, other than total disability.

"We Did Shoot One Down, But We Were Sure It Was A Stuffed Dove"

Variety . . .

By I. F. HOWELL

The Pilgrims gave thanks for the little they had. But it was much later that a day was set aside for official national observance of Thanksgiving.

Surely a people's gratitude need not be diminished by an honest look at their good fortune and the possibility that it could be replaced by bad. As trustee of our heritage of abundance are we as faithful as we should be in preserving our natural resources? We're thinking of their increasingly rapid depletion.

In an ultimate analysis we should see that all material things come from the land—food, clothing, minerals, all the good things that we use and without which we could not live. Truly the land is our one significant, supporting asset. True thanksgiving is our recognition of that fact.

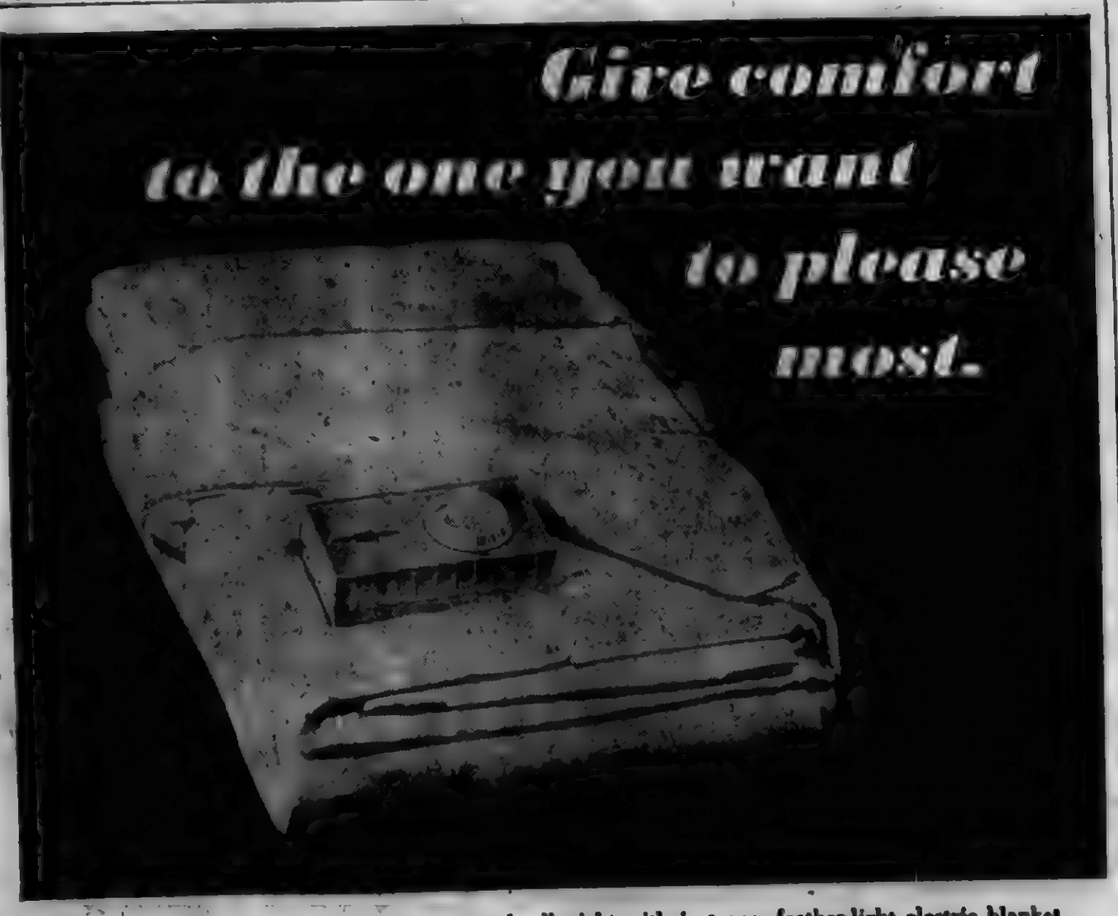
But there is one thing about which few seem ready and willing to speak. We are consuming and exporting our resources more than ever before. We can replace some, such as soil fertility and forests. We can develop new sources of power such as nuclear energy. We can even invent, if necessary, new synthetic lubricants.

However there are only certain amounts of our original resources left — coal, oil, ores, and other usable things. We can always invent new substitutes. But why not make what we have last as long as possible? This, we submit, would be the best way to express our gratitude for them.

It says here . . .

Gratitude for blessings should go hand in hand with wisdom and care in their use.

Marines' 'Toys For Tots' Campaign Slated For Dec. 4



Local Marine reservists will launch their annual "Toys for Tots" campaign this week, Maj. Mark T. Jurkovich, Jr., and Capt. John C. Leite, commanding officers of Company M and Company L, 3rd Battalion, 25th Marines, announced.

The home collection will be made by approximately 10,000 Boy Scouts on Saturday, Dec. 4.

"This will be the 14th drive conducted in the Columbus area," Maj. Jurkovich said, "and if the coming campaign is as successful as those in past years, we expect to make a lot of children happy this Christmas."

A year ago, Marine working with local business and civic groups collected over 70,000 new and used toys for needy children.

While "Toys for Tots" came to Columbus only 14 years ago as an annual Christmas campaign, the toy drive began 18 years ago in Los Angeles as a local community effort of Marine reservists in that West Coast city. As years passed, other Marine reserve units started "Toys for Tots" campaigns in their hometown areas until today Marine reserve units are spearheading toy drives in over 200 cities throughout the United States. Over 45 million toys have been collected since the birth of "Toys for Tots" in 1947.

WIDOW OF RAGGEDY ANN CREATOR DISTRIBUTES DOLLS TO CHILDREN

Local crippled children will help celebrate the birthday of a well-known "girl" who isn't afraid to tell her age. She is Raggedy Ann, the famous doll, who will be 51 years old during the week of Thanksgiving.

The children at the Franklin County Society for Crippled Children Treatment Center today, Nov. 24, will receive a Raggedy Ann doll, gifts of Mrs. Myrtle Gruelle, widow of the doll's creator. Birthday candles will be lighted and games and refreshments will be included in the festivities.

In a special message that will be read to the crippled children attending the party, Mrs. Gruelle wrote:

"It is a priceless gift you give when you share Raggedy Ann's birthday with her. For such occasions are meant to be spent with those you love, and I assure you that Raggedy Ann loves every one of you as you love her.

"There could not be a more appropriate time of the year to celebrate Raggedy Ann's beginnings, more than half a century ago. It provides her with a perfect opportunity to give thanks, in the spirit of this season, for so many kind and loving friends, and to be among the very first to wish you a very Merry Christmas. God bless each of you."

Raggedy Ann was created by the late John B. Gruelle, then a famous newspaper cartoonist and writer, for his own daughter, Marcella, in 1915. He later wrote the Raggedy Ann stories with his daughter as the central character. Raggedy Ann's popularity has grown steadily through the years. The local party is one of a series that will be held at Easter Seal Centers throughout the United States during Thanksgiving week.

Luci Brings Holiday Fun To Battelle

ARC 14 (Aid for Retarded Children) will present "Christmas Fun With Luci" Saturday, Dec. 4, at Battelle Memorial Auditorium. Mrs. Lucille Gasseway, creator of Luci's Toyshop, will present the shows at 12:30, 2 and 3:30 p.m. Tickets are 50 cents and may be obtained by calling 486-4204, 488-7353 or 451-1377. Favorite puppet characters including Stanley Mouse, Dragon and George Giraffe will be on sale at the auditorium during the shows or by contacting any member of the ARC.

Proceeds from the shows will be donated to the Council for Retarded Children. The Council maintains equipment for retarded schools, pre-schools, prevocational training, vocational training and placement.

Officers making arrangements for this year's shows are Mrs. Robert Kidwell, president; Mrs. Robert Biehn, vice-president; Mrs. Robert Noble, secretary; Mrs. Robert Bayer, treasurer. Mrs. Rinehart Wilke, assistant treasurer, and Mrs. Robert Yerke, project chairman.

Gold Stars Plan Parties For Veterans

Columbus Chapter One, American Gold Star Mothers, will meet Thursday, Dec. 2, 1 p.m. in room 201, Veterans Memorial, with Mrs. Russell Forgrave presiding.

Gold Star Mothers will spend Wednesday, Dec. 8, helping the veteran-patients at the Chillicothe VA Hospital with their Christmas shopping.

Veterans will also be remembered in five Ohio hospitals, one in Kentucky, and the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home in Sandusky.

The chapter's Christmas dinner will be held Dec. 11 at the YMCA. Co-chairmen are Mrs. Adelaide Evans and Mrs. William J. Degenhart. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Anna Hatton, 279-2840.

On Dec. 15, the Columbus chapter will have a Christmas ward party in the afternoon for 100 veterans and the department will have a party in the evening.

Group Invites Public To Share 'Meals On Wheels' Celebration

"Meals on Wheels," an incorporated, non-profit, non-sectarian, volunteer organization which provides nutritious meals for aged, handicapped and shut-in persons, is celebrating its ninth anniversary.

The anniversary will be marked with a benefit dinner Monday, Dec. 6, 4:30 to 8:30 p.m. at Willard's Restaurant, 2143 E. Main-st, with proceeds going to the handicapped and aged of Columbus.

The public is invited to this dinner and tickets will be honored at Willard's throughout December except Sundays and Christmas. Hills Cab Company will deliver six or more dinners to one address without charge on Dec. 6 only. Christmas articles and decorations, made by the Wheels, will be on display and for sale the night of the dinner.

In 1964, over 12,000 meals were delivered to shut-ins in Columbus.

Meals are planned by a dietician and delivered to homes of aged and handicapped persons unable to prepare meals for themselves.

These people may be referred to "Meals on Wheels" by a social worker or friends. Doctors and hospitals also recommend patients who need this service.

The cost is maintained at a low level because all meals are prepared at a central location and delivered by volunteer workers of the "Meals on Wheels" organization or by taxicabs.

1958 was the first complete year of operation. In that year over 20,000 meals were served by the volunteer workers to 135 recipients. The people receiving these meals — served in their homes — were shut-ins, unable to prepare their own meals or go out and purchase them. Most were entirely dependent upon the organization for their food as well as the preparation of it.

As a result, patients can be discharged from hospitals earlier knowing they will receive proper food from "Meals on Wheels" during their convalescence.

Aged people who would otherwise be institutionalized can maintain their own homes.

In such basic ways as these does "Meals on Wheels" lessen the burden on tax payers. Recipients are asked to pay for their meals according to the amount of their income.

OHIO FEDERAL'S "WAIVER OF INTEREST & PRINCIPAL" ON ALL HOME LOANS

Your Built-In Provision For FAMILY SECURITY
In the excitement of buying or building your new home, Ohio Federal's "Waiver of Interest and Principal" feature may go unnoticed as a dusty legal phrase. But suddenly, if you're not here, Ohio Federal's "waiver" feature may become very important to your family. Should your untimely death occur, all payments on your conventional home loan . . . both principal and interest . . . are waived for one full year, giving your family ample time to adjust to a new financial situation. Full details at any Ohio Federal office.
This, and other Ohio Federal home loan features such as "No Prepayment Penalty" which permits you to pay as much as you wish on your home loan — as often as you wish — with no penalty, may seem like small details. But it's attention to such details, and including them with your home loan, that have made Ohio Federal "The House That Service Built" . . . for more than 67 years.

COFFEE BREAK

No Thanks -- We've Got 1000 Shots Left

I just turned away another door-to-door children's-photography salesman who was trying to interest me in having some pictures done of Jan, our youngest, and really I feel a little guilty about it.

I suppose it's because I remember the amount of money we spent on innumerable prints of Kathy (our first born) from the time she opened up her baby blue eyes in the hospital until she was almost two years old.

That's when Elaine came along and for some reason we didn't have as many baby pictures taken of her. Or the next one (Patrice) and so on.

In fact, with the law of diminishing returns operating, it has now reached the point that we have settled for fuzzy snapshots of our younger children—when somebody remembers to buy film for the Brownie camera.

I used to order enough nine by 12 portraits of Kathy to supply every relative — distant and close—on both sides of the family. Why, I even bought enough to distribute them to the milkman and the gent who delivered our dry cleaning. But now I feel it's a little late to be posing kids on bear skin rugs when they are approaching draft age.

ADELINE DALEY

I have also cut down on having baby shoes bronzed for immortality. Frankly, I don't think there'd be enough room on our mantel for seven pairs of them, enough to make the mantel resemble a window display in a shoe repair shop.

The same axiom applies to the practice of having baby booties dangling from the rear view mirror of the automobile. To be fair, we have to have the booties of all seven kids represented. I'm afraid that it would obstruct the vision of the driver. And besides, it's illegal.

And as for "baby" locks of hair which one is supposed to clip and put in an envelope, I've simply forgotten to collect them from all of our children. Thus, if I clipped a few locks now, I'd not only have to identify whose hair it was, but also add a footnote, "when she was using Lady Clairol Champagne Beige."

In lieu of the tradition of saving these types of keepsakes, I have decided to settle for other souvenirs—which to me, at least are more significant.

For instance, "The Last Diaper" hung from the clothesline. And eventually my honorable discharge (circa 1977) from the PTA. And when the time ever arrives that my children's bedroom and our living room stay presentable for 24 hours, I plan on having a pixcard made, "Historical Site Ahead."

I may even have some nine by 12 portraits made.

Political, Criminal, Seasonal Guests Visit Area

A WRAPUP OF THE WEEK'S NEWS

By CHUCK HARTLEY

Columbus, center of a great state, crossroads of the middlewest, transportation hub and seat of culture, industry and government, attracted these visitors during the past week:

• Vice-president Hubert H. Humphrey, who addressed the Ohio Farm Bureau annual meeting, praised the Food and Agricultural Act of 1965 as a fulfillment of President Johnson's plan for efficient farmers to earn a better income.

• Sen. Frank J. Lausche, who also addressed the Ohio Farm Bureau meeting, condemned the same agriculture act, saying it was compulsory and "threw a harness around the farmers."

• A robber who held up the Ashville Bank and made off with $53,000. As of this writing, the bandit had not made contact with certain civic officials who were planning a welcome.

• A man from King of Prussia, Pa., who landed his single-engine airplane on Rt. 161 just east of New Albany when he ran out of gas. Except for clipping off a few signs with his wings, there was no damage.

• A family of Cuban refugees, who intend to stay. They are Mr. and Mrs. Andres Clavijo and their three children. They are at 2367 Cranford-rd, Upper Arlington.

• Frank Wilkinson, one of the most familiar names in the files of the House Un-American Activities Committee, who was scheduled to speak at Hagerty Hall, OSU, Monday night. Wilkinson spent nine months in jail for refusing to answer questions of the congressional committee concerning membership in the Communist Party.

• Finally, a large number of plump birds will be visiting dinner tables all over the city Thursday. They do not come willingly and their trip is one-way. But, the holiday for which they provide both a theme and a feast is one of great meaning for all Americans.

Mayor Sensenbrenner vetoed city council's action to permit the city attorney to sign a lease agreement with Central Market operators for land where they hope to build a new market. The lame duck council now in session may override the veto knowing that the 1966 council, with the addition of three new Democratic members, will probably follow the mayor's wishes and uphold his decision.

Good citizens stepping forward this week to fill needed posts for the good of the community include Mrs. John W. Donahey, of 2838 Sherwood-rd, secretary of the Ohio Mental Health Association; Stuart R. Jones, 1988 Edgemont-rd N., 1966 general chairman of the Columbus Day U.S.A. celebration and Leslie L. Diehl, Jr., president of the executive board of the Columbus and Franklin County Council of Camp Fire Girls.

Residents of Columbus can look forward to paying higher real estate taxes next year. The new rate is $37.30, an increase of $4.80 per $1,000 valuation. Upper Arlington's rate increased $5.80 to stand alone as the highest in the county at $44.50. Only Grove City and Westerville rates dropped. Decrease was 60 cents in each case.

The lights in an eight-block area near OSU mysteriously went out and, within minutes, hundreds of young men attacked the Pi Beta Phi sorority house. They mounted the fire escapes and banged on doors.

The boys said they didn't have anything to do with the lights going out. Of course not!

The girls said they didn't like having the boys "attacking" the house. Of course not!

No one called either University or Columbus police. Of course not!

A 'LARGE' GIFT FOR A PUZZLED PARKER

IF HARTLEY cager Denny Parker (30) looks a little surprised at the basketball headed for his outstretched grasp, it might be because the Hawk player is on the receiving end of an "out-of-bounds save" by DeSales' opponent Tom Large (33). Hartley won the Mission Carnival Saturday night at Watterson, downing both the Stallions and Ready. (Staff photo by Jack Wittenmeier)

SPORTING CHANCES

ANYBODY TELLING you the '65 Browns' offense is well-balanced isn't just talking through his hat — net yardage before Sunday's game was 3,148 (1,574 rushing and 1,574 passing)!

Blanton Collier's three-year record with the Browns is currently the best among NFL mentors (29 wins, nine losses, one tie).

The Browns need 69,816 fans at their home finale (Dec. 5 vs. Washington) to exceed last season's total attendance of 479,518 — the latter figure 102 percent of the Lakefront Stadium's seating capacity.

JACK PETTERINI, Capital U. junior gridder and ex-St. Charles athlete, was named last week as the Crusaders' most improved player for the '65 season.

Petterini, a halfback starter, gained 152 yards in 48 carries, caught six passes for 123 yards and scored two TDs before missing the final two games with a broken finger.

WILDLIFE officials report excellent crappie fishing at Griggs Reservoir. Over 40 of the fish (eight to 12 inches) were pulled in at that site on Veterans Day.

BEST AREA — along west shore, in about five-six feet of water near bridge. Best fishin' is reported best below Hayden-rd Bridge (fish eight to ten feet off east shore. Try minnows as bait).

OHIO'S number one sport car driver—Columbusite Dan Carmichael — will pilot his Sunbeam Alpine sports car in the "Race of Champions," Nov. 27-28, at Daytona Beach, Fla.

Carmichael, a 1965 national champion in regular season activity, will drive his championship-winning Sunbeam Alpine in the Class F Production event at Daytona.

THE HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL Bubba Club softball team (48-15) recently held its banquet with Bob Ross (leading batter), Terry Linson (most improved player) and Mike Mentel (most valuable) carrying home the team awards.

Bubba Club, which copped both the Linden Nite and Western Slo-Pitch League titles, had Ross, Mentel, John Meinhardt and president Pug Pepper accept the league awards from LeRoy Wise, director of the City Recreation Department, and guest speaker at the banquet.

'Fearless Predictions'

With our second breath "caught," here we go again with another try at selecting winners of high school contests — this time predictin' who will put the ball through the nets best each week.

Try this week one for size: ("Fearless" picks are indicated by bold face print)

Wednesday

WORTHINGTON at North —Cardinals have more experience than Polar Bears.

Whetstone at MARION HARDING — Presidents are tough to beat in hometown.

Westerville at LINDEN—Never sell the Panther short on opening night.

Eastmoor at DESALES — Stallions have too much back, Warriors lost too much.

Bexley at GROVE CITY—Hounds have more height than usual, but usually don't need much.

UNIVERSITY at Granville —had to flip the coin here.

Mansfield St. Peter at WATTERSON — Both green this year, but Eagles don't lose too often in their own nest.

HILLIARD at Grandview—Bobcats rebuilding this year.

Friday

WEST at Newark — Not tournament time, too early for Newark.

Walnut Ridge at MIDDLETOWN — Even the name scares me.

Brookhaven at WATTERSON — Eagles get nod over neighborhood chum.

WHITEHALL at Reynoldsburg — Rams out to even a football score.

ARLINGTON at Gahanna —Too soon for Lions.

Groveport at CANAL WINCHESTER — Better watch those Indians this season.

Rosary at ST. MARY—Rams real healthy with vets.

West Jefferson at READY —Knights will uphold that Catholic League image.

Saturday

WORTHINGTON at Whetstone — Cardinals try for another City scalp.

Linden at CANTON LINCOLN — Had to toss the coin here and it came down on the edge.

DUBLIN at Olentangy — Shamrocks going to surprise a few this season.

Groveport at LONDON — Raiders have good chance to win the League again.

Mifflin at DESALES—Stallions have field day.

GROVE CITY at Arlington —Another bout that anybody could take.

Springfield Catholic at HARTLEY — Hawks fly high in opener.

LOGAN ELM at Carroll—Bulldogs will put up a good fight.

NEW ALBANY at Watkins Memorial — Anything can happen here.

Tuesday

Ready at WEST — Francis will shoot down Knights before night is out.

DESALES at Brookhaven —Bearcats will want to play City members.

Whetstone at WATTERSON — Toss of coin came down on the Eagle floor.

Dog Licenses Now On Sale

Applications for 1966 dog licenses are being taken at the Humane Society's Animal Shelter, 2770 Groveport-pk.

Licenses may also be purchased at the County Auditor's office in the court house.

The most convenient method of purchasing a Dog License is by mail. When applying by mail, send complete description of the dog (age, sex, breed, color, long or short hair) enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope, with the correct fee (check or money order) of $2 for a male, female, or spayed female, or $10 for a kennel license, to the County Auditor's office at the courthouse.

The license will be mailed. After the deadline, Jan. 20, 1966, a $1 penalty for a dog license or a $5 penalty for a kennel license will be assessed.

MAVERICK

With Muddy Shoes

By RICHARD L. PAUGH

For all practical purposes, Ohio's 1965 deer season is over.

There were 390 reported killed in the four-day shotgun areas — 65 of any size, any sex in the five special northwestern counties and 325 in the southeastern zone where only antlered bucks could be downed.

It is too soon to tell how many licenses were sold for this frolic in the sunshine. My guess is near 10,000.

THE 1964 season saw over 30,000 permits sold to deer hunters that brought down only 1,280 of any size or sex. It seemed a very good investment —for the State of Ohio, a few hundred bucks worth of printed tags that brought in over $155,000. It would have been nice if a few percentiles could have been spent on the deer themselves.

Paugh

Meanwhile back at the present, the top 10 counties of deer hunter success were: Williams — 34, Athens — 31, Washington — 28, Meigs — 24, Muskingum — 23, Gallia — 22, Hocking — 21, Coshocton — 20, — Jackson — 17 and a tie for tenth place between Vinton and Lucas with 15 each.

Only the first and last counties were from the northwest area. The game management folks were disappointed in the poor take up north. They had figured it would be maybe twice 65.

THE BEST success story to come out of the hunt was that of Arlie McCullough of Newark. Two years ago, he downed a beautiful buck that ranked way up in the Boone and Crocket record book, as well as landing him in the top position in the Buckeye Big Buck Club.

This year, he went out and did the same thing. He anchored a 10-point buck that will very probably place well into the records of both organizations.

Our hat is off to what should be one of Ohio's top deer hunters. He doesn't stop to figure the odds—he just goes out and gets one.

DRAWINGS were held at the Division of Wildlife for the 100 shotgun hunters that will travel to the Ravenna Arsenal to watch the annual carnage. Twenty-five will go each Saturday starting Nov. 27.

The Ravenna Arsenal hunt is another sore spot on my thick hide. I've seen the slaughter and come away quite sick.

It was in 1962 that I was invited to witness the mess. Although there were 25 Ohio citizens on hand, they were dwarfed by all the VIP's that had flown and crawled in to bust something — buck, doe, fawn — anything that didn't shoot back.

I'VE ALWAYS been led to believe that the Wildlife of Ohio was the property of the people of Ohio. Consequently, I've felt that these thousands of impounded deer should be captured and turned loose on public hunting lands so the permit buyers in general should be allowed a crack at them.

It would end the motorized carnage I saw with my own eyes.

This kind of reporting got me a letter from the Commanding Officer in January of this year, stating that I was all wrong. Everything was O.K. at Ravenna he said.

A month ago, I wrote asking permission to bring my camera and put on film the happenings at the 20,000 acre impoundment. To date, I have no invitation. I do not expect one.

THIS IS a case where the Federal Government apparently call the shots over our God-given resources.

Franklin County names drawn for Ravenna's hunt were: Nov. 27 — Don R. Holbrook, Frank Savely, Dr. T. E. Reynolds and Jim Angel.

Dec. 4 — Leo A. Hughes, David Q. Sowards, Richard Talbot, Stephen Wert, Marvin Fields, Donald E. Buty, John L. Kibler, Carl W. Cameron and Don A. Deuschle.

Dec. 11 — Frank O'Bryant, Edgar E. Tuttle, John S. Girard, Dennis Somers and Michael G. Blake.

Dec. 18 — James C. Bair, Ray S. DeVault, Stanley Moreland, Isaac Morris and Robert Buty.

APPROXIMATELY 790 cards were received of which 660 were entered in the drawing. It never fails—some clever souls sent more than one and were disqualified completely.

Hartley, B-H, Rosary 5's Top Early Cage Returns

High school basketball got its official start last weekend with three games and a Mission preview.

Brookhaven bested Worthington, 57-53, Rosary dropped St. Charles, 47-40, University spanked Ohio Deaf, 65-46, and Hartley won the annual Mission preview.

The Bearcats rode a 25 for 33 foul mark to its first win of the season against a veteran Worthington crew.

BROOKHAVEN HAD to come from behind to ditch the Cardinals. Worthington, paced by Bob Hill's seven first quarter baskets, jumped into the driver's seat at the first stop, 20-14.

Mike Polasid headed the Bearcats' list with 16 points, and Hill finished up with the game high of 26.

Tom Smithberger netted 21 points in the second straight Rosary win of the year.

ROSARY HAD a fourth period letdown as St. Charles outscored them 19-8, but the Crusaders had a commanding 39-21 lead going into that final frame.

Leo Ross pitched in 10 to aid Smithberger in the scoring department.

University scored its first win of the season against one defeat as Gary Brown dropped in 22 points to lead all scorers.

Jerry Huebner netted 15 in vain for Ohio Deaf.

HARTLEY POLISHED off DeSales, 19-12, in the opening round of the Mission tourney and came back to whip Ready, 28-8, in the championship quarter.

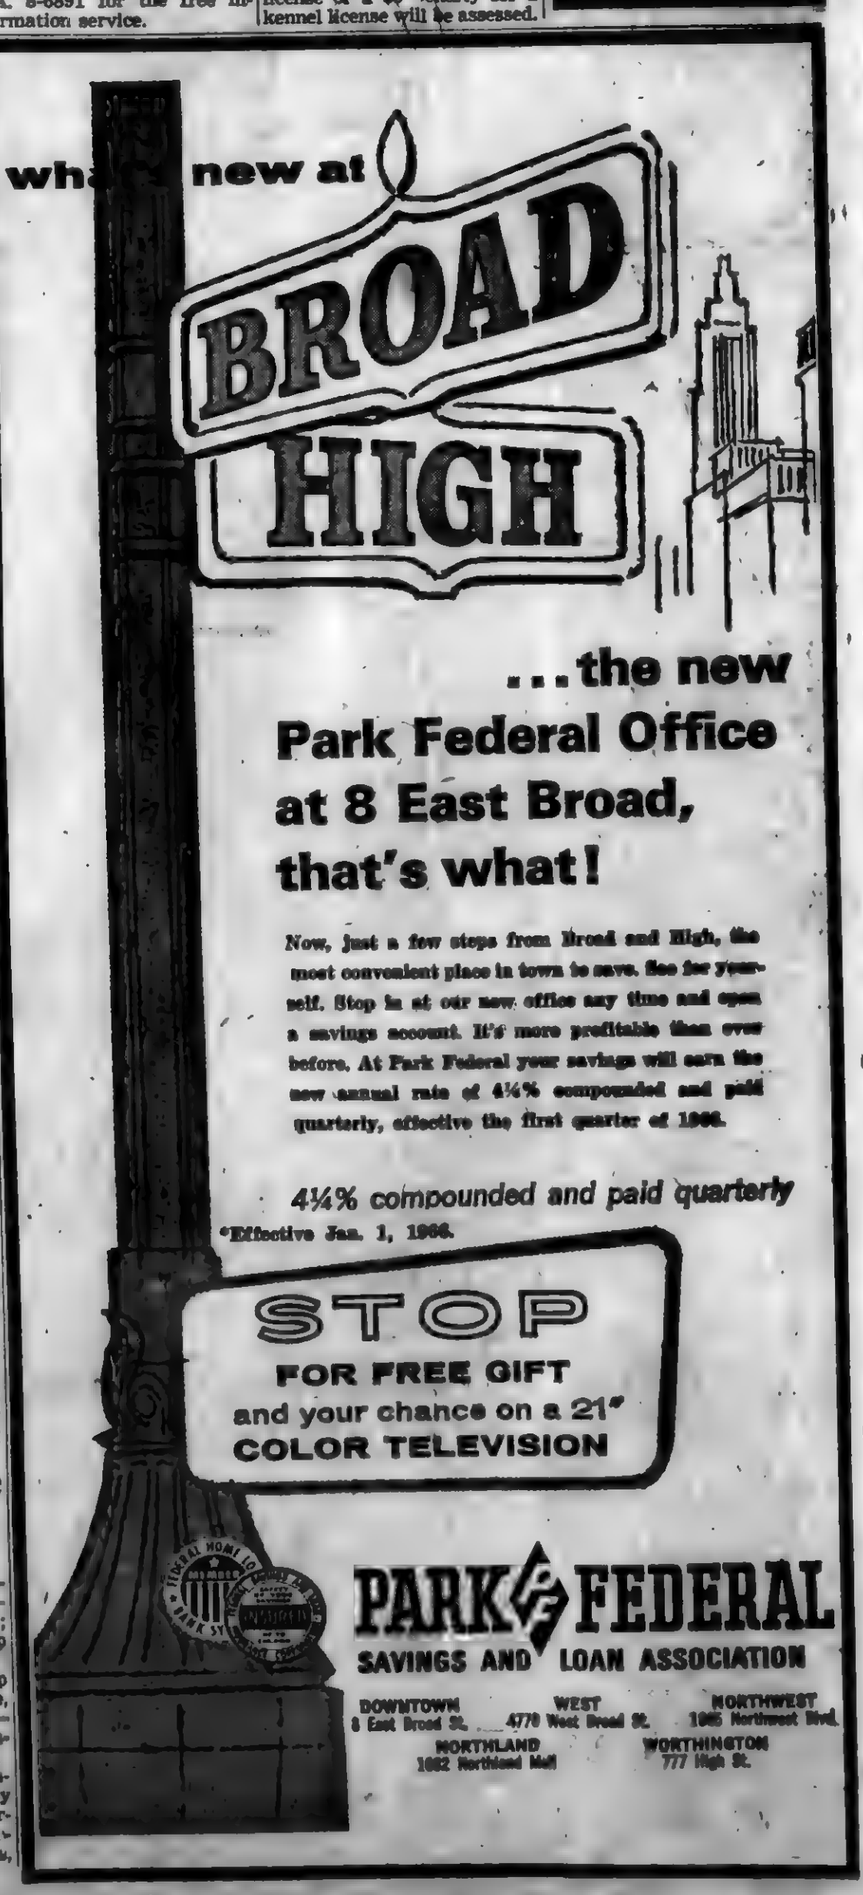
The Hawks' 47-point half was paced by a pair of Parkers—Doug and Denny. Doug took high scorer honors of the night with 19 points while Denny tied with Gene Rogers from Watterson with 10 for the runnerup spot.

IN THE OTHER games, Ready gained the final round by stopping Watterson, 15-13.

Kabel 'A' Winner At Rome Winter Horseshoe Tourney

The Rome Horseshoe Club recently completed its four-week Winter Invitational Tourney at its indoor court in New Rome.

Topping the list of the 78 qualifiers in the tournament were the following class winners:



CLASS A — Wilbur Kabel (won all games, accumulated 77.5 percent), runnerup was Robert Redding (67.9 percent).

B — Mike Gardner, runnerup Donnie Roberts; C — Kenny Dawes, runnerup John Deese.

D — Butch Anderson, runnerup Francis Redding; E — Merriman, runnerup Les Rose; F — Jerry Boesch., runnerup Herb Witter.

G — Ted Harris, runnerup Tony Boesch; H — Waymire, runnerup Herman May; I — Kenny Wilson, runnerup Francis Parks.

J — JIMMY Rhymer, runnerup Mitchell; K — Rudy VanDock, runnerup Hagerman; L — E. Redding, runnerup Sims; M — Waters, runnerup Hodges.

Santa Claus Parade Is Sunday, Nov. 28

Twelve floats, more than 100 costumed characters, and Santa Claus himself will parade down N. High-st this Sunday, Nov. 28, during the 1965 Santa Claus Parade, sponsored by the F&R Lazarus Co.

This year's parade, called "the most colorful ever," by Gordon Keith, who designs floats for the parade each year, will begin at 1:30 p.m. at W. North Broadway and High-st. The parade will proceed south on High-st to Rich-st, west on Rich to Front-st, and north on Front to the entrance of Lazarus Parking Garage number three.

Santa Claus will stop three times to greet children along the parade route and will also talk to children from the second level of Lazarus Parking Garage number three at the conclusion of the parade.

Locations of the scheduled stops and the approximate times Santa will arrive are: Olentangy Village Bowling Lanes parking lot, 1:43 p.m.; the Ohio State University Student Union, 2:23 p.m.; corner of North High-st and Fourth-av, 2:48 p.m. Santa is scheduled to greet children from the parking garage at about 3:40 p.m.

In addition to Santa's big Sleighliner, drawn by eight reindeer, the parade floats will include the Toyland Truck filled with toys, the Clown Tank, the Toy Train, the big Pink Dragon, complete with knight in shining armor, the Fire Boat, the Moon Men and their Space Capsule, the Clown Baby Carriage, the Clown Trolley Car, the 007 Drag Racer, the Rocket Plane and the Magic Butterflies.

Besides the manned floats, this year's parade will include a clown riding a unicycle, clowns riding noisy beetles, parade music and a variety of new, colorful parade characters.

During the 10-minute program at the conclusion of the parade, Santa and a few of his helpers will sing songs and tell stories to children gathered in the parking lot at the corner of Town and Front-st.

SANTA AND HIS HELPERS have been hard at work building floats for the big Santa Claus parade Sunday, Nov. 28. Recently Santa and his number one assistant, Santa Belle, entertained two of their favorite "helpers," Billy Jenkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jenkins, 5659 Buenos Aires, and Lori Smith-e-Incas, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Jamie Smith-e-Incas, 43 N. Ohio. Billy and Lori are helping Santa hang candy canes on a toy Christmas tree.

Marines Ask Aid For CARE

The Marine Corps Reserve and the citizens of Columbus have been offered "a piece of the action" in Viet Nam, according to Maj. R. J. Start, USMC, inspector-instructor of Company L and Company M, 3rd Battalion, 25th Marines, USMCR, Columbus.

This can be accomplished through individual contributions to CARE in the name of the newly established "Marine Corps Reserve Civic Action Fund for Viet Nam."

Columbus Marines are initiating an all-out drive to secure donations to aid the civic action programs of the regular Marine forces in Viet Nam. Any citizen or group in the Columbus area desiring to make donations in support of the program may obtain special envelopes for this purpose by calling CA. 8-1501 or visiting the training center located at 240 N. Sandusky-st.

Money is not being collected by the Marines, Maj. Start emphasized. All donations are tax exempt and are on a voluntary and individual basis to CARE.

This government-approved agency is already operating in Viet Nam and is capable of efficiently handling donations, making purchases and providing transportation to Viet Nam where the needed supplies will be turned over to the III Marine Amphibious Force for use in support of their civic action programs.

Day Of Prayer Early This Year

A Day of Prayer is being planned by all pastors and laity of the Diocese of Columbus, the first Sunday of Advent, Nov. 28.

In the past it has been the custom of the Councils of Catholic Men and Women to participate in a spiritual bouquet for The Pope and The Bishop at the Holy Feast of Christmas.

However, this year it was felt that since The Pope has made his historic visit to the United States, and further with the closing of the Vatican Council deliberations requiring The Bishop's presence in Rome, the laity of the Diocese of Columbus wished to do something more significant.

Accordingly, a Day of Prayer is being arranged with all the parishes participating.

Columbus Day USA Association Meets, Names Officers For 1966

Stuart R. Jones, 1988 Edgemont-rd N., has been named 1966 general chairman of the Columbus Day USA celebration, held annually in Columbus, O., largest city in the world named in honor of explorer Christopher Columbus.

Jones, director of customer relations for Rodenfels Chevrolet, has also been elected vice-president of the Columbus Day USA Association, which sponsors the annual celebration.

The association, in its annual reorganization meeting, elected Will Hellerman to a second term as president. Hellerman is director of community relations for Nationwide Insurance.

Also re-elected were John McKillop, secretary; Edward Lombardo, treasurer, and Robert Levy Sr., chairman, Christopher Columbus Award Committe.

Elected to the association's board of directors were:

James W. Phillips, attorney; Richard Rensple, president of the Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of Ohio; Allen Lundstrum, board chairman and president of Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc.; Harry M. O'Neill Jr., executive vice-president of the Seven-Up Bottling Co.; Stuart Jones; and James Paul, president of Allied Beverage Distributors Co.

Continuing on the board are:

E. D. Bivens, chairman of the Downtown Area Committee and former president of Columbia Gas of Ohio; Gene D'Angelo, general chairman of WTVN radio and chairman of the 1965 Columbus Day festivities; Lino Guzzo, president of Complete General Construction Company and president emeritus of the association; William Hanschmidt, general manager of Lawyers' Title.

Will Hellerman; Herbert Levy, president of the Union Co.; Robert Levy Sr., board chairman of the Union Co.; Edward Lombardo, attorney; David Lieser, executive director of the Downtown Area Committee; John McKillop, assistant to the president of Complete General Construction Co.; Salvatore Presutti Sr., president of Presutti's Villa.

Anthony Salvatore, director of Godman Guild House; Mel Tharp, advertising director, Columbus Dispatch; Don Weaver, editor of the Columbus Citizen-Journal, and William C. Wolfe, vice-president of the Dispatch Printing Co.

In other action, the Association discussed preliminary plans for the 1966 Columbus Day USA celebration. It also decided that the annual celebration should always be held here, rather than be taken to any other U.S. city bearing the same name. Columbus, Ga., had expressed interest in holding the celebration in 1967.

A committee was appointed to study a proposal to enlarge the board to include representatives from other cities named Columbus.

Teenagers To Help TB Seal Campaign

Approximately 300 teenagers from high schools throughout Columbus and Franklin County will be giving up a day of Thanksgiving vacation to help the Tuberculosis Society's 1965 Christmas Seal campaign.

Friday, Nov. 26, at 9 a.m. volunteers from twenty-seven high schools througout the county will gather at the YWCA, 65 S. Fourth-st, to help affix address labels to reminder envelopes needed for the annual Christmas seal campaign.

Debbie Booth, 1810 Grace-ln, Miss Teenage Columbus, has volunteered to help the society recruit workers and has also donated her vacation day to the Society.

Among the high schools represented at "Teenage Round-Up" will be: St. Mary of the Springs, Bishop Watterson, Rosary, Canal Winchester, DeSales, St. Mary's, Bishop Ready, Hilliard, Reynoldsburg, New Albany, Westerville, Arlington, Bexley, Brookhaven, Central, East, Eastmoor, Grandview, Linden-McKinley, Marion Franklin, North, South, Walnut Ridge, West, Whetstone, Whitehall, Worthington, St. Joseph Academy and Hamilton Township.

Parents, have you been thinking of getting an encyclopedia for the family? Before you invest, investigate. Visit your Columbus Public Library to see and compare encyclopedias.

Air Force Group To Hold Convention

The Ohio Air Force Association will hold its annual state convention in Columbus on Dec. 11 and 12.

On Saturday evening, Dec. 11, an awards banquet and reunion begins at 7:30 p.m., preceded by a one-hour hospitality hour.

Sunday, Dec. 12, business sessions and election of officers for the coming year take place, during the daytime.

All convention sessions are being held at the Howard Johnson's East Motel located at 5000 E. Main-st.

Tickets will be available at the door, or advance registrations can be made by mail. Please contact Francis Spaulding, president of Columbus Chapter, 718 Martha-ln, Columbus 13.

Gifts For Viet Nam Collected In Bexley

Bexleyites wishing to contribute gifts to soldiers serving in Viet Nam are reminded that the deadline is tonight, Thursday, 7 to 9.

Gifts may be brought to the high school during these evening hours to be transported by special plane from Lockbourne Air Force Base to servicemen stationed in Viet Nam.

Each gift should be wrapped separately in Christmas wrapping, but a note should also be included describing the contents to insure better distribution among the soldiers.

Suggested items needed by servicemen are toilet articles, soap, playing cards, small games, paper tissues, writing materials, cigars, hard candy and non-perishable food delicacies.

Mrs. George Conrades, 2424 Brentwood-rd, has suggested that people contribute a number of small, inexpensive items, "about 50 cents each," so there will be more remembrances from home.

They will be delivered in time for Christmas, according to a plan suggested in Washington.

Gifts will be flown to Viet Nam and distributed at a selected base or group.

The Bexley project, snowballing from the efforts of Mrs. Conrades, has the approval of City Council, and is intended as a gesture of gratitude to our fighting troops far from home at Christmas.

Chanukah Latke Party Features Israeli Star

Yoel Sharr, internationally known Israeli star of stage, screen and radio, will be the featured performer at the annual Hillel Chanukah Latke party to be held at the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation, Sunday, Dec. 5, 2:30 p.m. Sharr, known as the Israeli Danny Kaye, was recently featurned in a special Israeli concert at Carnegie Hall. He has appeared on television with Art Linkletter, Garry Moore, and Merv Griffen. He plays five instruments in addition to the piano, and frequently utilizes them all in a single number. Sharr has recently made appearances at Harrah's Club, Lake Tahoe; Cafe Sahbra in New York; The Horn in Los Angeles, and The Blue Angel in London. His recordings include the album "Yoel Sharr Entertains at the Blue Angel." Following the concert the B'nai B'rith women will be hosts to the Hillel students at a Latke party. Admission to the concert will be free to Hillel members and Hillel patrons. There will be a $2 admission charge for others.

Thomas Tobin New Master Bexley Lodge

Thomas W. Tobin was installed as worshipful master of Bexley Lodge 704, F and AM, at the lodge's installation meeting. Other new officers are, Ray E. Rinderer, senior warden; Robert L. Henshaw, junior warden; John B. Marshall, treasurer. Paul H. Steen, past master, secretary; Percy H. Howry, senior deacon; Vaughn Droz, junior deacon; David L. Wade, senior sentinel; Vaughn L. Adams, junior sentinel; Carl S. Kendall, past master, tyler; Mitchell S. Vuksanovich, chaplain; Carl E. Wristen, associate chaplain; Stanley C. Smith, past master, education officer; and Kenneth Williams, organist. Fay L. Gullion served as installing officer.

Whitehall Commended For Traffic Markings

Whitehall's program of signposting, and pavement markings at major intersections providing for left-turn lanes, on E. Broad-st, Main-st and Yearling-rd has been commended by the Columbus Automobile Club. In a letter to Mayor William Holzhause, Johannes F. Schwar, technical advisor, Columbus AAA, said "This effort . . . will not only bring your city the benefits inherent to proper signposting and marking, namely smoother and safer traffic operation, but, in addition, will place your city in a position of leadership among our own Ohio cities as well as those across the country." He added, ". . . the example you are setting hopefully will inspire other cities to adopt similar long overdue programs."

SOMEONE ONCE SAID the world is composed of two groups—the "takers" and "those who get taken." Both species, it seems, live in Columbus. Read John Auble, Jr.'s "Anatomy Of A Golden Fleece . . . " on Metro Page 5.

OUR FEELINGS on the Vocational School issue (special election Dec. 7) are expressed on this week's Editorial page.

STROLLING THROUGH THE PARK around here is like paying a visit to a disaster area. Read Betty Daft's account of vandalism in public parks on Metro Page 8.

THE CHRISTMAS Tour of Homes, sponsored by the Worthington Historical Society, will be held tomorrow night. See story on Metro Page 7.

Newton A. Thatcher Should Resign Post

County Treasurer Newton A. Thatcher should resign his office to restore the faith of the taxpayers of Franklin county in good government.

The grand jury's action in indicting two of Thatcher's former employes for embezzlement of $22,000 in tax funds is a shocking commentary on the manner in which the county treasurer has conducted his office.

The indictment charges the public funds were pilfered over a period from 1959 to 1965. Thatcher, when the shortage was first uncovered, insisted only funds from the last tax period were involved.

RELATED STORY ON PAGE 8

Thatcher further insisted that no crime was committed and refused to file charges.

The grand jury's action shows Thatcher, at the very least, does not know what is going on in his own office. His efforts to slough off theft of public funds in order to protect his own office is an unforgivable breach of public trust.

Thatcher should resign and the people of Franklin county should demand it.

THE SPECTATOR
EASTERN
OHIO'S LARGEST WEEKLY NEWSPAPER

Vol. VIII, No. 13 Total No. 377 Columbus, Ohio, Thursday, December 2, 1965 Second Class Postage Paid at Columbus, Ohio 10 Cents

PUBLIC OFFICIALS of five communities are supporting the campaign to urge residents of these areas to vote Dec. 7 to create a joint vocational school. Displaying an architect's rendering of the proposed building is Mayor Bernard Murray, Jefferson Township, and seated next to him is Mayor William Holzhause of Whitehall. Standing, from left, are service director Charles Laird, Reynoldsburg; Mayor Robert Baer, Groveport, and Council President Reno Robinett, Canal Winchester.

VOTERS' APPROVAL SOUGHT FOR SCHOOL

By BETTY DAFT

Councils, civic and business leaders and community groups in five eastern school districts are joining educators in urging voters to approve at Tuesday's (Dec. 7) special election, a proposal to provide a badly needed educational opportunity for their children.

Approval of the .6 mill bond issue and the 1.4 mill operating levy for a vocational high school, would make vocational training part of the high school education for those juniors and seniors in Whitehall, Reynoldsburg, Madison, Jefferson and Canal Winchester School Districts who indicate their interest.

Sixty-nine percent of these students have said, in surveys taken at their schools, that they do wish at least some vocational training.

And more than half of the juniors and seniors of the five affected high schools have indicated that they will not attend college, although most of them are studying subjects designed as a preparation for higher education rather than immediate employment.

Providing voters approve the proposed school — 55 percent majority of all votes in the five districts are needed for passage of the operating levy, and 60 percent for the bond issue — these students will receive instruction in one of four general fields

Area Wages War On Incinerator In Its Backyard

Letters have gone out to 4,500 residents of the Groveport - Marwick - Berwick and Canal Winchester Estates areas asking for contributions to fight the location of one of the proposed county-wide incinerators.

The letters were prepared by the East-Southeast Committee, an organization formed after it was learned that efforts have been made to secure options on approximately 150 acres north of Williams-rd and east of Spangler.

According to Dan Dawson, 3033 Spangler-rd, who is chairman of the protesting committee, most of this acreage is owned by Lot Smith, Robert Ruetsch and Arthur Rohr.

The committee has employed the legal firm of Dunbar, Kienzle and Murphy to represent the 150 residents who attended the organizational committee meeting held recently at Edwards Elementary School in Madison Township.

The attorneys' first action is a letter to the County Commissioners warning them that the Ohio Revised Code has been violated by the securing of purchase options prior to the formation of a county-wide incinerator authority.

The letter states that unless the law is complied with, injunctive proceedings will be initiated.

Dawson reported that Robert Garrison, Columbus broker, has been employed to obtain the options.

A second meeting has been scheduled at Dawson's home for this evening (Thursday) at 7. At that time, committees will be appointed and further battle strategy laid out.

Although the county is supposedly only interested in 150 acres of the approximately 300 acres in the area, local residents fear the city has its eye on the balance of the property. They believe it would be used as a "dump" until, if and when the incinerators are built. (The county has likewise indicated a landfill operation may be necessary at incinerator sites until they could be completed. The most optimistic estimates indicate this interim period would not be less than two years.)

Virginia Homes has evidenced interest in acquiring this property for residential development, a plan much more acceptable to the neighboring communities than a landfill operation or an incinerator.

It has recently become apparent that a number of the communities where refuse is not a particular problem are losing enthusiasm for a plan which will raise disposal costs to $3 a ton.

The mayors' council of the Market Dead, Not 'Buried'

For all practical purposes, the lame duck Columbus City Council's plan to lease land to the Central Market Association for a new markethouse is dead. But it appears that official "burial" of the proposition will be left to the new 1966 council.

Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner's latest veto of legislation designed to effect the controversial lease was sustained by council Monday night. Democratic Councilman William P. Hoermle abstained from voting on a motion to override the veto of an ordinance authorizing City Attorney John C. Young to sign a lease agreement.

In a special meeting Tuesday, council passed the 30-day market lease ordinance. An expected veto by Mayor Sensenbrenner cannot be overridden by council before Dec. 17, and the ordinance is not effective until 30 days after the final council action. This will allow the new council time to rescind the measure before a lease is signed.

The vote on the mayor's veto followed delivery of a legal opinion by Young. He told council members they could authorize him to execute a lease with the Central Market Association.

Young cited rulings from appelate courts in Cleveland and Dayton on cases dealing with council authority to designate lease-signing authority. In effect, the rulings said that councils may act on their own initiative in areas not specifically denied to them by charter provisions.

Young's conclusion was that he could, under instruction from council, sign a lease agreement. At one point in his presentation he pointed out that he "did not want to be brought into the

Bexley Torch Editor Claims Top Ohio-Wide Competition Trophy

The Ohio State Grand Trophy, top prize in statewide competition held during the Journalism Association of Ohio Schools' annual conference held at Ohio State University, was brought home to Bexley high this year by Mimi Deaton, editor of the school newspaper, The Torch.

It is the first time the grand trophy was awarded to a Bexley student.

Another important first prize, the Akron Beacon-Journal trophy for excellence in reporting, was won by Lance Lisle, associate editor of The Torch.

This marked the second consecutive year that Bexley claimed this trophy, won last year by Carl Japikse, now a freshman at Dartmouth.

A second and a third place prize for reporting was also won by Beth Cooper of Bexley High.

Mimi Deaton was Bixley High correspondent to The Spectator last year, the post now held jointly by Lance Lisle and Marcie Deaton. Carl Japikse also wrote a Boy Scout column for The Spectator, and was a summer

Without Gahanna Operating Levy: 'Cutbacks; Schools Won't Open!'

Jefferson School District voters have one more opportunity to maintain Gahanna Schools at their present level of educational services, school officials warn—at the polls in next Tuesday's special election.

The local 5.3 mill operating levy, voted down at the November general election, was placed back on the ballot by stunned school officials who expressed the belief that voters could not have been fully aware of the consequences of its defeat.

The levy — 2.3 mills renewal and three mills additional — would finance only the continuance of the present educational programs in Gahanna Schools, and institute the same programs in the two new schools due to open next fall.

The 2.3 mills up for renewal will expire Dec. 31, and unless it is continued, immediate, drastic cutbacks must be taken. And without the additional three mills the new elementary and junior high schools now under construction, financed from the 1964 bond issue, will stand empty.

School Superintendent Calvin Leader explained what the levy's defeat next Tuesday would mean to the 4059 children now attending Gahanna Schools, and to the 400 additional expected each year:

- "The teaching staff must be cut by 10 — two teachers who will retire the last of December will not be replaced, and eight more must be cut.
- "Class sizes must be increased, become more overcrowded.
- "Equipment cannot be replaced; buildings will deteriorate because funds will be lacking.
- "And the new Goshon Lane Elementary and Stygler Road Junior High will not be opened—we will be unable to hire the needed 25 teachers, purchase supplies or operate the buildings."

And the forecast for the immediate, foreseeable future, is even more alarming.

Gahanna, growing at a phenomenal rate, has increased 184.5 percent since 1960 — by far the largest growth rate of any municipality in Franklin County.

And the end of expansion

Christ Lutheran Christmas Program Is Slated December 7 At The Church

"The Wonder of a Manger" will be the theme as Christ Lutheran Church Women assemble for their traditional Christmas general meeting in the chapel and lounge of the church on Tuesday, Dec. 7, at 8 p.m.

The program will include special music, "Carol of the Drums" by Mrs. Douglas Kyle, Melinda and Douglas, Jr., and Women's A Capella Chorus, directed by Mrs. Richard McGuire, telling the story of Christmas through carols. A color film, "To Each His Gift" will reveal how love and understanding bring the true message of Christmas to a family of Swedish immigrants.

Members of Circles 6 and 9 will serve as hostesses. Mrs. Otto Ebert and Mrs. Ralph Long will serve as greeters. Also assisting Mrs. Charles Lange, the program chairman, are Mrs. Hilmar Grim, Mrs. Robert Bobier, Miss Martha Stellhorn, Ted Kalser and Miss Judy Kastner.

The circle meeting calendar for the month of December is as follows:

Circle 2, home of Mrs. Paul Falter, 2496 Brookwood-rd, Monday, Dec. 13, 8 p.m. Mrs. Elsa Ellis, "The Story of Cook's Christian Training School for Indians in Phoenix, Arizona." Mrs. Urlin Gould, solo, "An Indian Christmas Carol." Assistant hostess, Mrs. Glenroy Barnett.

Circle 3, home of Mrs. Rick March, 2 '69 Bexford-pl, Monday, Dec. 6, 8 p.m. Miss Catherine Wolfe, devotions, and Mrs. Harold Zietlow, Bible study; Mrs. John Hoy, assistant hostess.

Circle 6, Huber Hall, Capital University, Tuesday, Dec. 14, 8 p.m. The film strip "Love at Christmas," will be shown. Hostesses, Mrs. Walter Souder, Miss Sylvia Souder, Miss Marjorie Souder and Miss Clara Ebinger.

Circle 7, church lounge, Tuesday, Dec. 14, 8 p.m. Miss LaVerne Fahle, Bible study; hostesses, Mrs. Earl Master and Mrs. Robert Painter.

Circle 8, church lounge, Wednesday, Dec. 8, 9 a.m. Mrs G. H. Doermann, devotions and Bible Study; hostesses, Mrs. Kenneth Martin, Mrs. John Main and Mrs. Kenneth Paterson.

Circle 9, church lounge, Wednesday, Dec. 8, 1 p.m. Devotions Mrs. Richard Bohl, Sr., Mrs. Marie Stengel, special music.

Mrs. Elsa Ellis will present "The Story of Cook's Christian Training School for Indians in Phoenix, Arizona." Hostesses, Mrs. Lloyd Shupe, Mrs. C. A. Stone, Miss Bernice Weber, Mrs. William A. Schneider, Mrs. Paul Williams and Mrs. A. Victor Woods, Sr.

AUXILIARY TO MEET

American Legion Auxiliary Bexley Post 430, 3227 E. Livingston-av, will meet at 8 p.m. Monday, Dec. 6. A Christmas party will follow the meeting.

Talent Fair Is Saturday

The women of the Community Church of Gahanna will stage their annual "Talent Fair" Saturday, Dec. 4, beginning at 10 a.m. and continuing throughout the afternoon.

A wide range of Christmas decorations and gift articles will be offered for sale and homemade soup will be served in the lunch room.

The women invite the public to drop by the church, 147 N. High-st, in Gahanna any time this Saturday.

'Help A Little One' Urge Kinder Key Caroling Groups

Caroling groups will herald the Christmas season throughout Columbus on Wednesday and Thursday, Dec. 8 and 9, when Kinder Key conducts its annual Caroling Drive. Over 1,000 groups of children and adults will carol and ask for donations for the Kinder Key Heart Laboratory at Children's Hospital. Carol Lawrence and Robert Goulet are lending their support to the drive this year by serving as honorary co-chairmen.

Kinder Key is a non-profit woman's organization dedicated to the support of the heart laboratory. Over 1,230 children have been diagnosed and treated in the laboratory since Kinder Key's first drive 12 years ago. The laboratory is concerned with research, diagnosis and treatment of cardiac problems of children in Columbus and throughout this entire section of the country.

All money collected during the drive goes to the heart laboratory; Kinder Key caroling groups have contributed over $82,000 during the past 11 years. This year the drive is more important than ever, according to Mrs. Vernon Krier, president of Kinder Key, because the organization is striving to collect enough money to completely support the laboratory next year, based on the hospital's current estimate of expenses. The more Kinder Key can contribute the more resources are made available to the new equipment and facilities to diagnose and treat more children.

Any group in the Columbus area is welcome to participate in this project and renew the spirit of Christmas through caroling. If you would like to carol for Kinder Key please contact Mrs. John Borton, 486-1528. "Join a caroling group if you can, place a light in your window on the eighth and ninth to welcome the carolers, and have a big heart — help a little one," urges Mrs. Krier.

TO SHARE CREATIONS

Eastmoor South Garden Club will meet Tuesday, Dec. 7, 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Russell Allison, 2955 Ashbyrd. Co-hostesses will be Mrs. John Ruetty and Mrs. Henry MacRoberts. Each member is asked to bring one or more of her Christmas creations to share with the members.

Box Lunch Auction, Film On Chanuka Party Agenda

The National Council of Jewish Women will hold a joint Section-Branch Chanukah party Tuesday, Dec. 7, 12:30 p.m., at the Jewish Center for the benefit of overseas children. Gaily wrapped box lunches, some containing surprises, will be auctioned off by Mrs. Frank Nutis, Mrs. Millard Cummins, Ship-A-Box chairman, announced that all proceeds will be used for purchasing toys and pre-school equipment for deprived children overseas, some of whom have never seen a doll or a toy truck.

Babysitting box lunches and favors will be provided for 25 cents.

An award-winning film strip, "The Magic Paper," narrated by Mrs. B. W. Abramson, will be shown. This dramatizes Council's overseas fellowship program starring young people who have studied in the United States under fellowship grants from Council of Jewish Women.

Those planning and working on the party include Mrs. Stanley Skilken, Mrs. Jules Vogel, Mrs. Jack Rubin, Mrs. Jack Marks, Mrs. Harold Monett, Mrs. Hugh Flomenhoft and Mrs. Bernard Feitlinger.

Brookwood Presbyterians Plan December Meetings

Circles of the Brookwood Presbyterian Church will meet on Thursday, Dec. 2, as follows:

Brandeis Women Slate 'Old For New' Book Sale

"Pick-Up Day" for donations of old books for the fourth annual new books for old sale of the Columbus Chapter af Brandeis University, National Women's Committee, will be Sunday, Dec. 5. With the co-operation of the Teen-Age Council of the Jewish Center, books will be collected by young people from the various youth organizations in the community. A call to Mrs. Melvin Furman, 235-8095, or Mrs. Goodman Kaplan, 231-2674, is all that is necessary to have your books picked up.

The sale will begin Sunday, Dec. 12, 1 p.m., at the Jewish Center, and will continue for one week, in conjunction with the celebration of Jewish Book Month by the Center.

A sales staff will be on hand daily from 1 to 10 p.m., in the library lounge. All proceeds of the sale will be used to purchase new books for the Brandeis Library. With the announcement of the completion of the new science library, and the second matching grant of the Ford Foundation, the effort of the National Women's Committee to stock the shelves of the library have doubled.

Flower Show Opens Dec. 11 In Whitehall

Rabbi Kaplan Will Address Jewish Communal Workers

Rabbi Harry Kaplan will be the featured speaker at the second session of the fifth annual Institute of Jewish Communal Workers, Monday, Dec. 6, 9 a.m., at the Jewish Center.

He will discuss "The Prophets — Their Teachings — Relevance in Our Time."

The institute is under the chairmanship of Daniel Harrison, with Lazar Brenner, Ben Mandelkorn and Mayer Rosenfeld serving on the program committee. Hersh L. Alderstein is publicity chairman.

The institute is this year a seven-session series, for staff members of Jewish agencies and educational institutions in the Columbus area.

Rabbi Harry Kaplan has been director of B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation, Ohio State University, since 1935.

In addition, he is Midwest regional director for the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundations, and a member of the Hillel National Cabinet.

He is a past president of the University Religious Council, Ohio State University, and of the Columbus Torch Club, and is actively involved on the boards of many community organizations.

The third session in this year's institute will be held Jan. 10, when Rabbi Samuel W. Rubenstein will speak on "Mishnah."

Is Radioman

A/3C Roger A. McBride, whose parents reside at 549 Robinwood-av, Whitehall, has been graduated at Keesler AFB, Miss., from the training course for U. S. Air Force radio operators.

Airman McBride, a graduate of Whitehall Yearling High School, is being reassigned to Clinton County AFB, O., for duty with the Continental Air Command.

His wife, Beverly, is the daughter of Mrs. Ellen Short of 1711 Erickson-st, Whitehall.

Rabbi's Topic Is 'OriginOfPrayer'

Rabbi Samuel W. Rubenstein and Cantor Philip H. Gellman will conduct the Friday, Dec. 3, service at 8:15 p.m. at Agudas Achim. Rabbi Rubenstein's sermon topic will be "The Origin and Purpose of Prayer." Mincha services begin at 4:45 p.m.

Saturday morning services commence at 9 a.m. Rabbi Rubenstein's sermon topic will be entitled, "Life is a Dream."

This Saturday is the Bar Mitzvah of Franklin David Silberstein, son of Dr. and Mrs. Jack Silberstein, 137 S. Merkle-rd.

EASTMOOR

Eastmoor Junior High PTA will meet at 8 Tuesday, Dec. 7. The theme is "Holiday Music." The vocal and instrumental music departments will present a program of Christmas and Chanukah music.

Baptists Arrange 'M' Night

The annual "M" (Mobilization) night service of the Capital City Association of Baptists will be conducted at the Whitehall Baptist Church Monday, Dec. 6, 7:30 p.m. Rev. T. James Effird, pastor of the Whitehall church, will be guest speaker.

The entire program will center around the theme "Toward Mature Discipleship." An attendance goal of 650 has been set for this meeting.

Rev. Jerry R. DeBell, pastor of Walnut Heights Baptist Church and director of the Capital City Associational Training Union Organization states "Thirty-four of the 54 churches and missions affiliated with the Capital Association of Baptists are now training Unions which meet prior to the Sunday evening worship service. The purpose of the "M" night meeting is to inspire these churches to make their training unions more effective in "training church membership.

"It is hoped that during the next 12 months that several of the 20 churches and missions that do not presently have training unions will add this important organization to their church program of activities."

Handel's 'Messiah' Scheduled Sunday

The 80-voice Broadstreet Choir, under the direction of Richard C. Johnston, will give two performances of Handel's "Messiah" on Sunday, Dec. 5, 4 and 8 p.m. at Broad Street Presbyterian Church, 760 E. Broad-st.

Soloists for these performances are Eileen Bellino, soprano, Jean Ellsperman, contralto, Richard Mathey, tenor, and Clifford Harvuot, bass from the Metropolitan Opera Co. An orchestral ensemble of strings, trumpet, and harpsichord will assist, and Mrs. Walter Lange will be organist. The Choir will be joined by The Richard Johnston Choral Ensemble.

No tickets are required for either performance, but a free-will offering will be taken. Ample free parking is available on the church premises.

First, Livingston Churches To Observe Anniversaries

The congregations of the First and Livingston Methodist Churches will join Sunday morning, Dec. 5, in a rather unusual anniversary. They will commemorate the beginnings of the Methodist Church in Columbus 152 years ago and at the same time the 25th anniversary of the reconstruction of First Church building following a devastating fire in 1940.

Dr. F. Bringle McIntosh, Minister of the church from 1937 to 1944, will be the preacher of the morning. His subject will be, "Lead on, O King Eternal." Dr. McIntosh has been brought to First - Livingston upon his retirement from 16 years as president of Ohio Northern University. He has been asked to research and suggest a feasible program for this 152 year old church and the Near East side of the city.

Rev. Roland Perkins, chief minister of First-Livingston will be in charge assisted by Rev. Karl Scheuffler and Dr. Arthur Milne, former ministers of First Church.

At the close of the service opportunity for fellowship and the renewal of old friendships will be had in the parlors of the church. All members of both congregations, and all former members and friends of First Church have been invited.

Rabbi Folkman To Discuss God In Today's World

"God was There—But He Knew it Not!" will be the subject of the sermon to be delivered by Dr. Jerome D. Folkman at the 8 p.m. service Friday, Dec. 3, at Temple Israel, 5419 E. Broad-st.

In announcing the subject of his sermon, Dr. Folkman explained "Many modern thinkers and writers are concerning themselves with the place of God in the modern world. Christian and Jewish theologians are raising questions to which space is being given by paper, journals, and magazines like 'The New Yorker.' In my sermon Friday evening, I will endeavor to confront some of these current theological issues."

The Saturday morning service at Temple Israel will be held at 11 a.m. Rabbi Edward D. Kiner will preach on "Jacob's Dream."

Temple To Have Library Sabbath

Sabbath services at Temple Tifereth Israel are held each Friday evening at 8 and conducted by Rabbi Nathan Zelizer. This Friday evening will be designated "Minnie Cobey Memorial Library Sabbath." Rabbi Zelizer will speak on "Judaism and the Arts." A display of current books of Jewish interest and Jewish art objects will be set up in the social hall where the Oneg Shabbat (Sabbath tea) will be held after the conclusion of the services.

Services on Saturday morning begin at 9:15 a.m. Rabbi Zelizer will speak on "We Cannot Put God on Trial." Cantor Stanley Burstein will chant the traditional liturgy at both services.

McArthur's Height, P-V Defense Next Problems On Raiders' List

By JACK WITTENMEIER

Reynoldsburg's Raiders, packing their basketball bags for a pair of road encounters, will hopefully leave a few items at home this weekend.

Twenty - three turnovers weren't appreciated to any large degree by coach Dick Fishbaugh in Friday's 71-65 opener setback at Whitehall.

"WE LOST it in the second quarter," the Raider cage boss related unhappily. And Dick's mathematics were indisputable, the Rams outdoing the Raiders, 26-15 in that stanza.

Wipe away those eight minutes and Reynoldsburg had a five-point winner.

Although the Raiders matched their Ram foes fairly closely in rebounds (Reynoldsburg had 53) and shooting percentage (36 percent from field, 55 from the foul line; Whitehall fired 35 percent from field), Whitehall got more shots in the air (76 to Reynoldsburg's 60) and that made a big difference.

FOUL TROUBLE, especially Gary Shade's, was also a big Whitehall aid. As Fishbaugh pointed out, Lewis Anderson (Rams' top scorer) got nine of his 19 markers in that deadly second period after Shade tramped to the bench with three personals.

As far as opening night performances went, Fishbaugh was "pleased" with the showing of forward Terry Miller, one of three reserve graduates who saw heavy-duty action against the Rams.

"We had felt Terry wasn't playing up to par before the opener but he did a good job against Whitehall (hit six of nine from field and snared 11 rebounds)."

SCORING - WISE, Shade (leading scorer on the unbeaten reserve squad last season) set the pace with 16 while Miller (14) and Paul Lauderback (11) were other Raiders in double figures.

Fishbaugh is still uncertain about his starting lineup for McArthur and Pleasant View Friday and Saturday nights with only Shade (at guard) and Miller (at forward) likely starters at this writing.

Either Lauderback or Turner will fill the pivot while either John Manifold, Greg Murray or Turner is likely at the other corner spot.

THE REYNOLDSBURG coach lists Donnie Woods, Dick Baserman or Bob Helsel as Shade's running mate at guard.

McArthur, tomorrow night's opponent, can match Whitehall's height advantage (two to three inches per man) and has a high scoring guard in Dick Hale (whom Shade will probably test).

Pleasant View, void of all-leaguers George Fannin (6-6), Ron Ramey (top '64-65 scorers) and standout guard Roy Steinhoff from its 18-3 SSL championship squad last year, will be more favorable in the height department.

BUT FISHBAUGH is wary of the Panthers' defense which P-V coach Bo Brickels strongly emphasizes.

In fact, Brickels — in an interview with The Spectator last week — commented: "It (the defense) is our biggest asset. The kids work hard and believe in it."

Panther opponents apparently became "believers" last season also after P-V won several games while shooting a chilly 27 percent.

BRICKELS describes his defense as "a straight man-to-man with nothing tricky."

Despite the loss of Fannin and Ramey, P-V apparently still has plenty of balanced scoring punch left as evidenced by a 70-52 opener win over Grandview.

Returning lettermen Jim Geddens (6-2 forward), Jeff Coe (6-2 forward) and Carl Salyers (6-3 pivot) scored 17, 13 and 11 points respectively.

THE P-V MENTOR has apparently found a replacement for Steinhoff also in guard Mike Mindigo who gave P-V four of five starters in twin digits against the Bobcats by dropping in 13.

Here's the remainder of Reynoldsburg's '65-'66 schedule:

A COSL PREVIEW:

Lape, Priday Chart Viking Course On Stormy COSL, Non-Loop Seas

By Jack Wittenmeier

(The Central Ohio Swim League season opens next month. Here is a preview of one of the two area entries in that league — Columbus Academy).

Despite eight returning lettermen, including two of the most outstanding swimmers at the COSL "Frosh-Soph" Meet last winter, Viking tank coach Frank McGraw can't afford to predict an improvement on Academy's "bridegroom" role this season.

The reason is Upper Arlington, league champion for the past five years. (Academy has closed second those years).

THE VIKINGS splashed to a fine 13-4 mark last season but will have to really battle to duplicate that effort this time around in a tougher COSL and against some of the state's top swim teams.

Academy's non - league schedule is impressive with such state powers as Canton McKinley, Cincinnati Princeton, Fremont Ross, Lima and Mansfield Malabar turning up on the Vikings' opponent list.

Also included on that sked is an out-of-state foe — Wheeling Central Catholic.

LOOKING OVER the COSL, McGraw commented: "Arlington's definitely the top club again this year and should be an easy first. Both Worthington and Greenfield will be greatly improved and should battle us for the runnerup spot."

McGraw, entering his sixth year at the Viking helm, underlined UA's success as partly due to pure numbers. "Their enrollment goes way over 1000 (three grades) while our total enrollment (four grades) is 150."

Senior letterman back this season are paced by captain Tom Isaac (free-style), Gary McCune (backstroke), Dave Hunt (long distance) and Bill Ashinger (freestyle, individual medley, can compete in all four strokes).

Ashinger did not swim last [illegible]

McGRAW'S junior vets include two of the loop's finest in Herb Lape and Robin Priday, the former voted as the COSL's most outstanding swimmer by loop coaches for the past two years.

Lape and Priday, who won two events each at the "Frosh-Soph" Meet last year, are members of Academy's freestyle relay team which set a new school record.

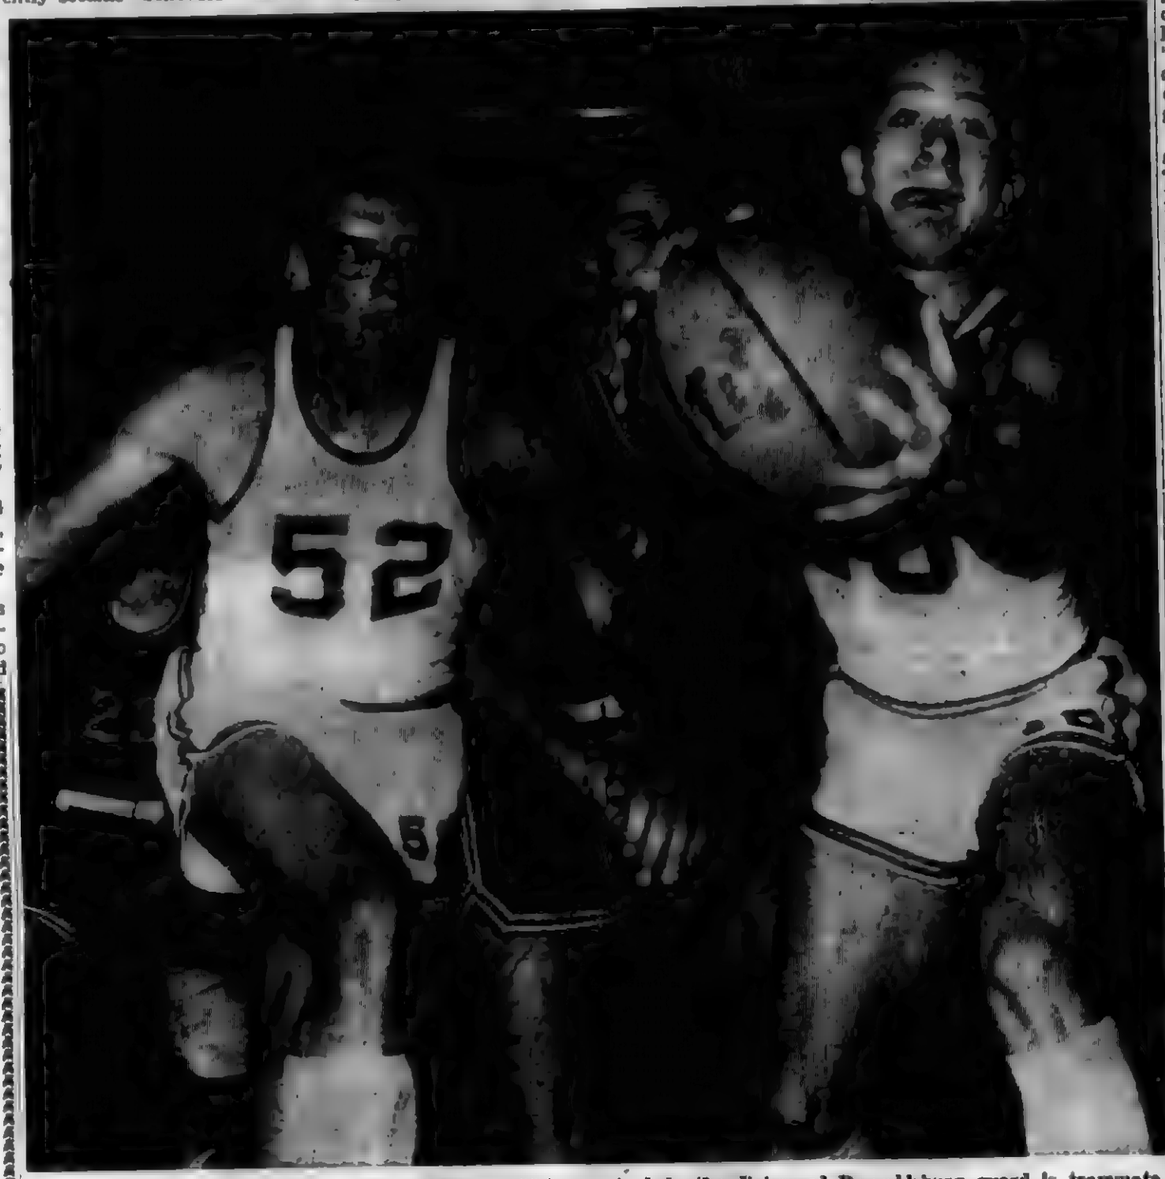
Capable of performing all four strokes, Lape's top job should come in the backstroke event where McGraw figures his junior standout will eclipse the school mark (1:01.5) this season. (Lape's best time—1:01.6).

HERB'S OTHER top times are slightly over two minutes in the 200-yd. freestyle, 4:40 in the 400 and 2:19 in the individual medley.

Classmate Priday (one minute flat in butterfly and :24.1 in freestyle) isn't too far behind.

Other juniors who should pace Viking hopes this campaign are Stu Lazarus (butterfly, freestyle), Bill Rosser (freestyle) and Brad Bradford (individual medley).

NUMBER ONE sophomore looks like Chris Currier, who holds the school record in the 400 freestyle and placed second in the District last year in that event.



Another top soph is Luke McCormick, who specializes in the breaststroke and middle-distance freestyle.

Among non-lettermen, McGraw lists three sophs—Jimmy Lape (backstroke, breaststroke, freestyle), Chris Henny and Tom Hoster—as showing great promise.

McGRAW EXPECTS his Viking swimmers to show strongest in the butterfly, backstroke and distance events, adding that breaststroke events will be an Academy weakness.

The Vikings top two performers in the latter stroke graduated last June.

(Next week — Bexley).

THAT BAD, DONNIE? — Worse things could happen than failing to find the handle on an errant basketball headed out of bounds — but you wouldn't believe it from Raider guard Donnie Woods' expression. Moving in to help the distressed Reynoldsburg guard is teammate Paul Lauderback (52). Raiders dropped opener to Whitehall, 71-65. (Staff photo by Jack Wittenmeier).

Youth Grid Loop Plans '65 Banquet Saturday

The Reynoldsburg Youth Football League will hold its banquet Saturday evening at 6:30 p.m. in the French Run auditorium.

Certificates and awards will be presented to players at the banquet which will also contain the League's annual business meeting.

Plans for the 1966 season will be discussed at the banquet.

Area Students To Report Cage Dope On 'MNI'

Radio station WMNI will continue its Friday night "Scoreboard" show (8:30-10:30 p.m.) through the basketball season.

Taped reports on area results from the following student reporters will be heard throughout the upcoming season:

Indians Call Boosters

Eastside Indians' Booster Club invites all interested persons to attend its club meetings at the Police Auxiliary on the third Wednesday of every month (7:30 p.m.). Next meeting will be in January.

The Indians finished second in the Capital City 98-pound league this past season under the guidance of coaches Don Backus and Al Pimento.

Jewish Center Sports Roundup

The long - tendered arch rivalry between Capital and Epsilons came to a crushing climax last week on the Jewish Center football field, as the Capital crew tromped the fired-up but ineffective efforts of the Epsilons, 14-0.

Capital played its best game of this season and proceeded to win as a result of a total team effort highlighted by the outstanding performance of Rick Lewis, Joel Goldhammer, Joe Engelman and Joe Blazer under the fine leadership of captain Beryl Oser.

AFTER A scoreless first half Capital broke the ice in the third quarter as Rick Lewis threw a short pass to Joe Goldhammer.

In the last quarter of the game (after scoring on a safety) Capital again crossed the Epsilons goal line for their second touchdown via the same scoring combination of Rick Lewis and Joel Goldhammer.

Turkey Bowl players were fortunate to have as referees Doug Van Horn of OSU football fame and our own Ron Golden, former outstanding Eastmoor High athlete.

BADMINTON

THE JEWISH Center's bad-minton players have invited the badminton team from the Spring Street YMCA to join them Wednesday for an evening of competition from 9 to 10:30 p.m.

The Center's badminton group meets every Wednesday from 9 to 10:30 p.m. This is an open program and interested adults may join simply by attending the class attired in proper clothing which must include gym shoes.

Instruction will be provided by Kenny Solomon, physical education director, for those so desiring.

'Veteran' Cupboard Bare At East, Hartley But Bexley's Almost 'Full'

By JACK WITTENMEIER

With the '65 - '66 high school wrestling season slated to open this month, The Spectator concludes its preview of area mat teams with outlooks at East, Hartley and Bexley).

EAST

East's Tigers, seeking to regain their loss of City League mat prestige appear to have a tall hill to scale again this season to reach that goal.

New Bengal mentor Chuck Deyo (replaces Jim Porter) has only three returning lettermen to spearhead East's renewed charge to the top.

AFTER CLAIMING City mat titles in '61-'62 and '62-'63, the Tigers took a back seat to Walnut Ridge in '63-'64 and then finished far down the line last winter as Brookhaven took all the City marbles.

Deyo has some 50 prospects gearing themselves for the Tiger opener (Friday, Dec. 17 at Pleasant View) but missing are top '64-'65 performers like Ernest Bradley (120), Tilton Reed (145), Gary Rispress (154) and Roland Martin (175 and heavyweight).

Martin's (16-1) loss looks especially costly since the Tiger grappler claimed East's lone City Meet win last season besides being a two-year member of The Spectator's All-Star wrestling team.

THE DEPARTED quartet was a vital cog in gaining last year's Tiger grapplers Invitational firsts in the Bengals own tourney and one at Whitehall, plus a District third and a 5-1 dual mark.

The three returning vets provide Deyo with a good start — seniors Clarence Bennett (138) and Jake Holloway (127, 19-3 last season) and junior Ralph Cox (112).

The latter pair were included on The Spectator's team last spring.

ANOTHER LETTERMAN —heavyweight Grady Bobo— is also counted among the missing, the senior matman swapping wrestling for work this season.

HARTLEY

If East's Chuck Deyo has problems, he has a sympathizer in Hartley's Jim Kennedy — another coaching yearling who's suffered greatly in the graduation department.

JEFF CARDOSI, Kennedy's mat predessor at Hartley, fielding an outstanding Hawk squad last winter — leading the CCL entry to a perfect duel mark of 5-0 (in District competition) and a very close second to DeSales in the Central Catholic Meet.

But Cardosi has since donned Army green and three of his top performers countered with cap and gown last June. Kennedy, who has but four returning lettermen this season, could have used the likes of brothers Pat and Paul Burkey (138 and 145 respectively) along with heavyweight John Bayly.

PAUL LOST only once last season (in the District) and Pat bowed but twice while CCL champion Bayly went without defeat until District competition.

Paul was on The Spectator All-Star team while John made honorable mention.

To make matters worse, only two of Kennedy's four vets are available today.

SENIOR JOE Weldon (up from 112 to 120) is sidelined for three weeks with a broken collarbone and 175-pounder Bill Astley is working and its doubtful if the senior vet will donn mat togs this season.

This leaves Kennedy with only seniors Mike Newton (145) and Roswell Brown (127) as seasoned performers at present.

"I guess you could say our whole season is one big question mark right now," Kennedy commented.

THE HAWK mat mentor admittedly will know more after Hartley's upcoming scrimmages but a tentative starting lineup today would look something like this:

BEXLEY

One of the brightest area wrestling forecasts comes out of Bexley when veteran mat boss Ben Tenwalde can fill eight of 11 starting slots with lettermen.

THE LIONS, who closed 3-7, dual-wise, and fourth in the CBL Meet last season, have 42 prospects out and list only Rick Doty (154, honorable mention on The Spectator team) as the only key loss from the '64 - '65 squad.

Pacing the Bexley mat lineup will be the Lion co-captains — senior vets Tom Shaffer and Jim Kelley, reporting to respective 112 and 138 slots.

Tenwalde has seasoned talent available also at 103 - junior Reese Lattimer; 120 - senior Steve Sloan; 145 - junior Doug Felger; 165 - senior Bruce Levin; heavyweight — senior Dennis Walker and 154 - Mark Gitlitz, a transfer from Chicago where he lettered.

A PAIR of seniors and a junior are likely starters at the three other positions not filled by lettermen.

Seniors Steve Gutter (127) and Mike Elin (133) and junior Rick Grove (175) should round out the Lion lineup.

Bexley inaugurates its '65 '66 mat campaign a week from today at Whitehall.

Rams, Bexley Win; Hawks, E-M Fall

By BOB WHITMAN

Last year's area workhouses, Bishop Hartley, defending Catholic co-champion, and Eastmoor, defending Central District co-champion, had sluggish starts last weekend.

Hartley's gallant comeback effort fell short by a painful point in losing 60 59 to visiting Springfield Catholic Central and Eastmoor lost to Catholic League roughy DeSales 61-58.

In other area action, Whitehall dropped Reynoldsburg 71-65, Bexley stopped Grove City, 62-50, Walnut Ridge fell to mighty Middletown, 84-46, and Arlington nipped Gahanna, 42-40.

HARTLEY HELD an uncomfortable edge until Mike Riesser scored on a lay-in with 1:49 remaining in the first half that put Springfield ahead for good.

Hartley knotted the game on the foul shooting of Denny Parker in the third period at 40-40 with 23 seconds left. Then the Hawks fell into another lapse from which they didn't fully recover but shook the devil out of the visitors while trying to come back.

With 2:24 left in the game, the Hawks made a final stab at giving new coach Dick Geyer a victorious welcome. The Hawks, then trailing 58-51, started back in the strange way they won many of their 17 games last year.

A TENACIOUS Hartley press reduced the seven point deficit to a mere thread (58-57) with 1:33 remaining and with the Hawks' ball out. Parker hit the 53rd and 55th points and newcomer Jack Geist slipped through the 57th point.

Reisser had another (his 20th point of the night) to put SCC up, 60-57, with 15 seconds to go. Hawk Steve McGrew dribbled down and zipped the cords for a 60-59 score. Hartley quickly fouled the visitors, who missed the charity toss with 11 seconds remaining.

After a Hawk miss, Springfield had another foul attempt that bounced off with two seconds left, but by that time the Hawks were fresh out of miracles.

SPRINGFIELD netted 20 of 48 shots, compared to Hartley's 25 of 62.

Denny (23 point) Parker's brother Doug dropped in 13 points but left the game via the personal foul route with 2:33 showing.

DESALES' seven point lead at the end of the third period was enough of a leg to stand on even though Eastmoor put up a whale of a four quarter fight.

The Warriors were paced by Gary Cochran's 15 points and Wyman Hawkins' 14 markers. Cochran is the only returning regular from last year's 15-6 record and team that brought home a pack of honors.

DeSales was playing with nine returning lettermen from an 8-11 team, including 6-7 center Gary Wolf. Jack Diedalis, an all-league performer last year, netted 18 in the Stallions' win.

WHITEHALL used height and aggressive defenders to stop Reynoldsburg last Friday night. The Rams turned 23 Raider turnovers into valuable points en route to a 71-65 win.

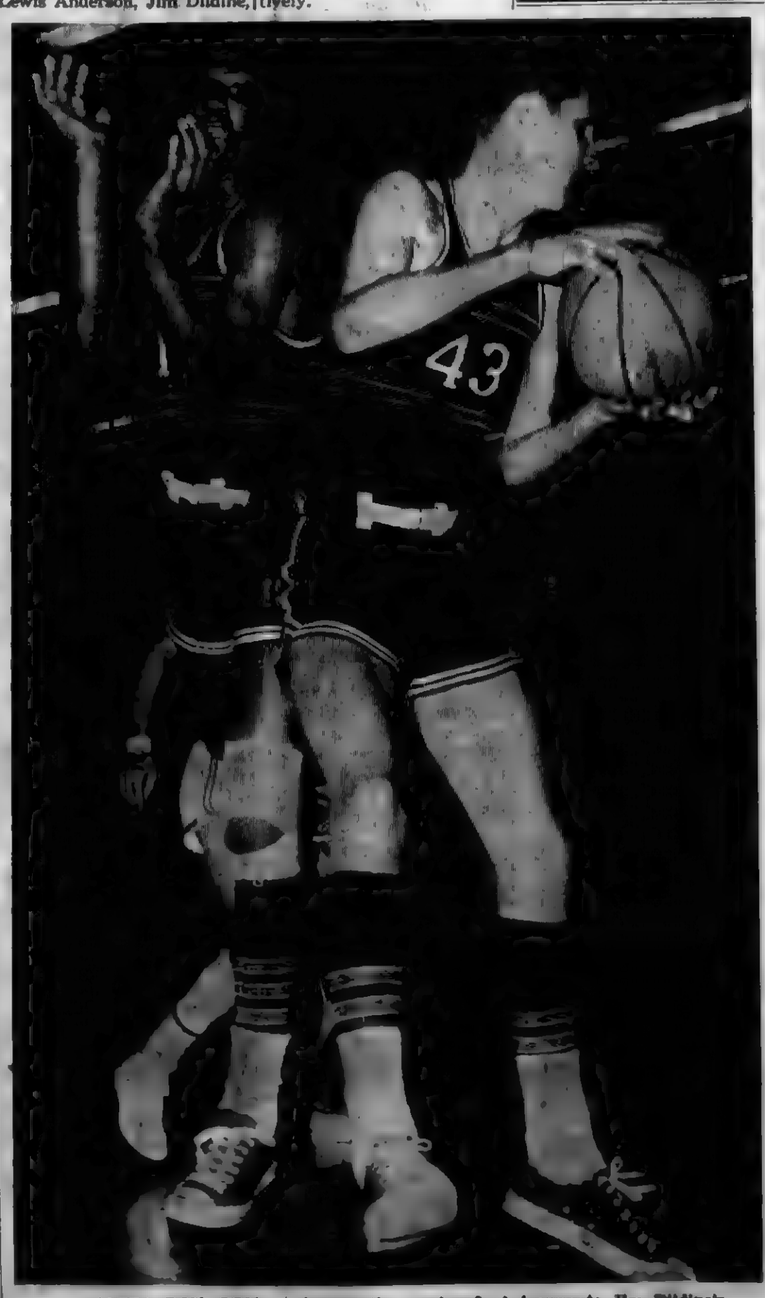
Whitehall was paced by Lewis Anderson, Jim Dildine, Harv Eader and John Bankes'

Whitehall was paced by the scoring of Lewis Anderson, Jim Dildine, Harv Eader and John Bankes, as the quartet all hit twin digits.

Anderson was the point man with 19 points, compared to Dildine's 13 while Eader and Bankes netted 11 each.

Whitehall overcame a 13-11 deficit with a 26-15 second quarter margin, to lead at halftime, 37-28.

MIDDLETOWN and Walnut Ridge played even for the first period (13-13) before Paul Walker's Middies tore loose. The Scotties were paced by Pat Beveridge and Mike Tanner's 12 points apiece.



Gahanna slipped to Arlington even after outscoring them 13-7 in the final period.

Chuck Bosse's 19 points were in vain for the Lions.

BEXLEY OPENED its season in style with a 62-50 win over usually rugged Grove City.

Dave Johnston and Pat Lemmon paced the Blue Lions with 21 and 18 points respectively.

THE SPECTATOR SPORTS

Area Gridders Show Well In Final '65 OC Statistics

Spectator-area gridders did themselves proud in the recently completed Ohio Conference football season.

Three of them — Capital's Ron Paxson (quarterback from Whitehall), Jim Maker (fullback from Eastmoor) and Larry Gornall (end from Eastmoor) claimed spots on the All-Conference offensive team.

MUSKINGUM halfback Rick Harbold (Bexley) nabbed a second-team berth and set a new OC punting record by averaging 43.0 yards per boot (old mark 42.2 set in 1948).

Harbold's best effort, incidentally, was a 72-yard job against Wooster on Oct. 23.

Receiving honorable mention on that all-OC squad was Baldwin-Wallace's fine junior fullback Joe Yore (Hilliard).

HARBOLD, a sophomore, finished fifth in the OC scoring derby with 42 points and fifth in total net yards rushing (630 for 4.8 average).

Cap's Paxson and Otterbein sophomore fullback Paul Reiner (Aquinas) each scored 30 points apiece to tie for 14th place in scoring. (Reiner was the league's seventh top rusher with 540 net yards).

Paxson accounted for 781 total yards (451 passing) to finish tenth in total OC offense while Gornell tied for seventh in pass receptions (23 for 450 yards and four TDs).

ANOTHER area product — Capital's Sherman Lundy (East) took a sixth in loop punt returns, the Otter frosh returning ten for 119 yards (11.9 average).

Bucks Name Bob Schleppi As Co-captain

Former Eastmoor High Athlete Bob Schleppi was selected by teammates as an honorary co-captain of Ohio State's 1965 soccer team at the team's annual banquet last week at the Faculty Club.

A junior halfback Schleppi also received the "most valuable player" award for his outstanding defensive play.

The Buckeye soccer team finished fourth in loop play this past season. Greg Paicanis of Shaker Height was the other OSU co-captain.

Bob is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Schleppi of 2907 Castlewood-rd.

As a producer of farm products, Ohio ranks in the top one-fourth of the states. In terms of sales of farm products, farming is a billion dollar business in Ohio.

Ends Mahaffey, Whitney Gain All-FCL Berths

A pair of senior ends — Steve Mahaffey and John Whitney — accounted for Academy's two berths on the 1965 All-Franklin County League grid team last week.

Centers Stan Lisle and Joe DeVennish and halfback Neil Larrimer received honorable mention on the squad.

FCL champion Reynoldsburg dominated the 19-man team with five berths.

HUNDREDS ON HAND TO WELCOME BEWHISKERED FRIEND

SANTA AND HIS FAN CLUB — Hundreds of his believing fans were on hand to warmly welcome Santa Claus to Whitehall when he landed by helicopter Friday at Robinwood Plaza. And from now until Christmas he will be in his special house at Town and Country Shopping Center during regular center hours, to listen attentively to long lists of Christmas wishes.

It's Yuletide At Capitol Square

Christmas In Capitol Square this year will be a flurry of activity, instead of a static display, according to David Lieser of the sponsoring Downtown Area Committee.

Featured will be puppet shows, carol singing, a Nativity scene and seasonal decorations.

Festivities start at noon today, Dec. 2, and extend through Thursday, Dec. 23. They will take place in the paved mall between the State House and High-st.

Kicking off the program at noon today will be Luci, of "Luci's Toy Shop," who will introduce the puppet show of "The Littlest Angel," and the Columbus East High School Senior Choir.

Each following day, Monday through Saturday, puppet shows will be given every hour on the half hour between 10:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Choirs and glee clubs will sing at noon each day. (See accompanying story).

The Children's Festival Street Scene stars a 46-foot replica of a medieval village street. It is 12 feet high, has lighted windows and is angled like the streets of old. On the street are a detailed Nativity scene and a puppet theatre.

The Christmas trees, lights, festival street scene and Nativity scene can be seen both day and night, seven days a week.

All events are open to the public and are free of charge.

controversy between the council and the administration."

He added, however, that he was duty-bound to answer council's request for a legal opinion, and to base the opinion upon the facts at hand.

Hoermle's vote was needed to provide the 6-1 margin necessary to override the mayor's veto. Republican Councilman Roland Sedgwick cast the vote in support of the veto.

Council President William R. Fornof had indicated early Tuesday that he would support a 30-day ordinance for the lease. He said of the measure: "I think those boys (the new council) should be forced to defeat it."

is nowhere in sight—building developments now under way will add an additional 400 youngsters a year for whom Gahanna Schools must provide educational programs.

At present Gahanna's tax rate is the third lowest of the county's 17 school districts. And with approval of the levy, including the increase, Jefferson District's rate would still be tenth from the top.

The total school operating tax in 1963 of 18.9 mills was reduced in '64 and '65 after the acquisition of the rich Western Electric property raised the village's tax duplicate.

And, with the passage of the levy, the tax would total only 20.8 mills.

"Gahanna people do not want an inferior education for their children," Leader emphasized.

"We re-submitted the levy to the voters because we are entirely confident that, when they fully understand its necessity, they will approve."

Let's Not Have A Boy In Viet Nam Forgotten

Do you belong to a civic organization whose members want to show the American soldier in Viet Nam that those at home are behind him?

Here's your chance.

Col. Frank E. Sullivan, base commander at Lockbourne AFB, announced today that Christmas packages to fighting units in Viet Nam may be sent aboard military craft.

He stressed that the airlift is not for personal mail and gifts for specific individuals. He added that neither can gifts from individuals be accepted. (American Red Cross and the USO can arrange these.)

Organizations, large or small, which want to back the American fighting man in this manner are asked to call the office of information at Lockbourne, 491-8211, extension 7981. The deadline is Friday, Dec. 3.

The gifts will be sent to the field commanders for general distribution among their troops.

The Air Force Reserve and Air National Guard will be utilized in the project to insure that the priority movement of men and equipment in the Viet Nam effort is not impaired.

Berwick Area Homes Hit By Robberies

Eight Berwick area homes were hit by burglars during the weekend, police reported. Included in the ransacking was the home of Municipal Judge Russell Leach. Hardest hit was the residence of Edward W. Miller of 2411 Brookwood-rd, where about $3000 in jewelry and a small amount of cash was stolen. William Dolan of 1371 Crestwood-av, lost a coin collection, nearly $1000 worth of jewelry and $500 in cash. No loss was reported at Judge Leach's home at 1437 Severn-rd. Others reporting losses included George Igel of 2423 Brookwood-rd; Charles Everly, 1398 Crestwood-av; Alvin Rendelbach, 2457 Brookwood-rd; Harold Kelly, 2753 Talisman-ct, and Anthony Farkas, 2714 Talisman-ct.

New Safety Director Namde In Whitehall

A new safety director, to take office the first of the year, is the first appointment announced by Paul Haytcher, mayor-elect of Whitehall.

Selected by Haytcher was Robert A. Strickling of 180 Parklawn, an attorney practicing law at 852 S. Yearling-rd.

Strickling will replace Darrell Todd, an engineer at North American, who has already indicated that he is not interested in remaining as safety director.

Haytcher explained that he felt Strickling is well qualified for the position on three main counts:

"He hasn't been in the political arena," Haytcher said, "and so will be objective, and he has a background of law, business and government."

"And I think it is important," Haytcher continued, "that duties of the office be carried out during the day."

The part time post has, in the past, mostly been handled at night. Todd has agreed that more time should be devoted to the job than can properly be done in the evenings.

Strickland, a graduate of Ohio State University with an A.B. Degree, majoring in political science, and with an LL.B. Degree, served in the U.S. Army in Europe as a staff sergeant.

He has been associated with law firms in Toledo, was utility rate attorney for the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, attorney and business manager for E. S. Preston Assoc. in Columbus, and was associated in the practice of law with Michael V. DiSalle.

He started practicing law in the Whitehall office this year.

Strickling is a member of Columbus and Ohio Bar Associations, attends the Episcopal Church of St. Edward, and is married.

The school journalism department, under the direction of Mrs. Sarah Amos, has consistently been given the All-American National Scholastic rating for the general excellence of The Torch. The newspaper is judged on the quality of content, layout, writing and pictures.

The Bexley yearbook is also recognized nationally for its excellence.

Student staffs of high school newspapers and year books from more than 450 Ohio schools competed at the conference. Journalism faculty at OSN served as the judges.

Mrs. Amos, president of JOAS last year, is now a member of the board of directors. She is a member of Theta Sigma Phi, national professional journalism fraternity for women.

Money To Be Discussed

Adult activities at the Jewish Center, 1125 College-av, include the Institute of Family Relations, to meet at 8:30 p.m. Monday, Dec. 6, at the center.

The first presentation is entitled "Buy Now—Pay Later. The Values of Money."

A panel discussion will be followed by a series of individual group talks. A summary session will be held to share the thinking of the different groups.

The institute will be concerned with the problem of when to pay a child for work, allowances, charge accounts and limits on purchasing.

Panelists include Leon Friedman, president of The Jewish Center, and a representative from the Department of Home Economics at Ohio State.

It is generally conceded that to retire the revenue bonds that would be sold to finance the disposal system it is necessary that 90 percent of the population of the county use the facility.

Columbus, Bexley and Grandview are reported to be especially receptive to the proposal as refuse is an increasing problem in these communities.

THE LAST OF THE BIG SUN-TANS

Remember! Not so long ago I cautioned you about too much suntan. Well, there has been so much more said about it lately — every skin research lab seems to be worked up about it — that you may never see dark brown suntans popular again. Oh, of course, women won't give up suntanning altogether. A little of it is quite becoming and beach life is so delicious. We predict, however, that the fashionable suntan of the future will have a coffee with cream look. I'm telling you about it now because you're going to have to prepare for it all winter with bath oils in every bath and shower oils in every shower, and moisturisers used unfailingly all over.

DOES HE THINK YOU'RE A NATURAL?

Well, you probably are. The image most of us create is that one which expresses best how we feel inside. If it takes hair coloring and false eyelashes to do that it's much more honest than letting him believe something that isn't true at all.

A friend of mine who spent a whole year in Auschwits Concentration Camp says that women who are totally ungroomed—with outer appearances left to run wild—are not only unlovely but present a picture which is untrue. It was impossible to look upon those women and realise their capacity for love and human creative gifts. Whenever you feel a guilty twinge at adopting some new grooming refinement think about that. Fashion, when it is properly used expresses our true personal qualities.

Jaycees Sponsor Viet Nam Christmas Train

Reynoldburg Junior Chamber of Commerce president, Gil Whalen, announced the club will form a committee of youth who are concerned with the quality of life in Viet Nam. Nationally it is known at Youth Enlists Support through America's Christmas Train and Trucks. The program is composed of Jaycees, Young Democrat and Young Republican Clubs. Local Jaycees will do their part to help the Viet Nam effort by adopting the project and have shortened the name to ACTT.

U. S. JAYCEES PRESIDENT James Skidmore discusses the club's national endorsement of the Viet Nam policy with President Lyndon B. Johnson and maps plans for a train load of Christmas presents for the Vietnamese people.

A train will depart Philadelphia Dec. 7 with medical supplies, etc., eventually ending in San Francisco for shipment to Viet Nam on Christmas train may call expected to pass through Columbus Monday, Dec. 13.

Anyone caring to donate new or used items for the Christmas Day. The train is 866-6084 to have his donations picked up between Dec. 7 and 10.

Wanted are: foods, such as sugar, condensed milk and hard candy; children and baby clothing; all types of tools, soap, toothbrush, toothpaste, combs, towels and wash cloths, school supplies and equipment.

The starting date of the train is also Armed Forces Appreciation Day. Whalen urges all residents to fly "Old Glory" on this day to show local appreciation of the armed forces.

People are usually willing to meet each other half way, but their judgments of distance vary considerably.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR:

Taxpayer Says 'Once Vocational School Is In, Price Will Go Up'

Dear Editor:

I am not in favor of the Joint Vocational School promoted for Canal Winchester, Gahanna, Groveport, Whitehall and Reynoldsburg, and it's a very simple deduction.

Although the school superintendent pointed out last week the "school tax rate" dropped from 26.4 mills for 1965 to 24.6 mills for 1966, he failed to mention it will be brought back up with the passage Nov. 2, of the local 2.2 school bond issue. In backing this passage, I agree we need the local operating levy of 4 mills, although it will bring our school taxes up to 30.4. However, add the 2 mills asked for the Vocational School, school taxes alone will be 32.4 mills.

We already have one of the highest school tax rates in the state while our city tax is among the very lowest. The city has budgeted on only 3.5 to 3.7 mills since it became a city.

Although the superintendent indicated the total taxes for the city, township, county and state totaled an additional 11.3 mills, he neglected to show that this added to the 32.4 mills school tax, it will cost local residents $43.70 per thousand per year valuation on their homes. This will make a local man owning a home with a tax valuation of $7,000 paying an annual $305.90 in residental taxes alone. This doesn't include the income tax we have to pay Columbus without any benefit.

It is pointed out that only 1.4 mills is needed for the first five years to operate this $3 million school. Once this school gains a foothold, operating expenses will surely go up with the cost of living and we'll always be faced with another larger debt as time goes by. Besides what is wrong with the vocational classes operating in our school system now? We have been paying for them and if they aren't adequate I'm sure they can be improved for less money.

Heath has a similar program which has bee described by residents there as "not going over." It's a fact one Reynoldsburg student took advantage of the Heath school this year. Are we to spend $3 million plus, for one or two local children at the cost of about $3,000 per child per year? College scholarships could be voted in for less where they could earn a degree in industrial arts. After all, as local businessmen say, the new school probably won't hire a chief pencil sharpener unless he holds a college degree.

Why it is always necessary to build million dollar glass monuments with bronze plaques commemorating the living with the same old line, "It's for the kids," I'll never know. The superintendent said only two or three boys have shown interest in attending such a school. We think our kids are priceless now so why place a tag on their value under the guise of better education. For whom?

Worried Taxpayer

Senior High Staff Joins Support Of Local Levy

Dear Editor:

In November the voters of Reynoldsburg affirmed their desire to furnish their children the education so necessary in today's society by passing a bond issue to build additional elementary and high school classrooms. These classrooms are needed at both levels as can be attested by both administration and faculty. It is significant that this did not increase taxes in Reynoldsburg.

Once again the community of Reynoldsburg is being asked to support the schools. This time it will increase taxes by four mills or four cents per $100 property valuation. The money will be used for operating expenses and increasing teachers' salaries.

In all areas of school operation teachers are asked to perform in a manner that will reflect favorably on the community. Certainly the teachers are proud of the fact that we have done so. Mr. Thompson and the football team and Mrs. Bennett and the Senior Class Play dramatize only the conspicuous. The rest of the faculty members certainly work equally hard in their respective areas. In the academic field, three of our students placed in the National Merit Scholarship Tests, winning national acclaim.

Yet it is a fact, according to the latest Ohio Education Association statistics, that Reynoldsburg starts its teachers having a Bachelor's Degree in Education at the lowest salary in Franklin County. It is also a fact that a teacher in Whitehall, a community without industry, can earn more with a Bachelor's Degree than a teacher in Reynoldsburg can with a Master's Degree.

The faculty of Reynoldsburg High School has performed in a manner that has brought credit to the community. The faculty now asks the community to acknowledge the job we have done and reaffirm its faith in the job the schools of your community are doing. Education is your most important product. Please vote yes on the 4 mill operating levy on Dec. 7.

Joseph Endry, principal
Harry E. Wolford, assistant principal

Former Thatcher Employes Charged With Embezzlement

Two former employes in the office of County Treasurer Newton A. Thatcher were indicted Tuesday by the Franklin County Grand Jury, charged with embezzlement and embezzlement of public funds.

Facing the charges are Edward E. Richey, 50 S. Champion-av, and Thomas M. Butler, 3586 Reading-rd. Both were fired by Thatcher after he conducted an internal audit of his office late last August.

At the time of the firings, Thatcher reported that the two longtime employes had made restitution of the funds. Thatcher claimed the shortages covered only the last tax collection period.

The Grand Jury indictment, however, specifies embezzlement of funds between Sept. 5, 1959 and Aug. 23, 1965. The charge against Butler involves $12,753, and against Richey, $9,904.

The Grand Jury action marked the second time in the past six years that embezzlement has been charged against a Thatcher employe. An employe indicted for embezzlement of $17,000 during 1959 drew an Ohio Penitentiary sentence after entering a guilty plea to the charge.

The two current indictments were the result of an examination of Thatcher's office last September by the State Auditor's office. Evidence presented to the Grand Jury indicated that restitution of the funds was made prior to the audit by state examiners.

A report from State Auditor Roger Cloud's office showed that Thatcher's office had been audited three times between January, 1959 and September, 1965.

A special 1959 audit covered the period from Jan. 1 through Nov. 26, and was precipitated by a report from Thatcher concerning missing funds. The special audit resulted in the Grand Jury indictment covering the 1959 embezzlement.

The second audit, partially overlapping the special audit, covered the period from Jan. 1, 1959 to Jan. 31, 1962. No evidence of embezzlement was reported as a result of the second audit, according to a county official, although the current indictment includes this time period in its charges.

The fund shortages were revealed in an audit conducted last September, and including the period from Feb. 1, 1962 to Sept. 1, 1965.

Governor James A. Rhodes was state auditor when the 1962 special and regular audits were conducted. Chester W. Gobel was state auditor when the last audit was made. He was succeeded on Sept. 20 by the current state auditor, Roger Cloud.

Program Explores Marriage

Discontent, restlessness, tranquilizers and boredom will be the topic for the second session of the Jewish Center's afternoon program "Strictly for Women."

The program on Monday, Dec. 6, 1 to 2:30 p.m., will feature a new look at the dynamics of the modern marriage.

Presentation and discussion will feature Dr. Harry Chovnick, chief of in-patient psychiatry, Columbus State School.

Dr. Chovnick received his training at Columbia Pharmacy College where he became a registered pharmacist, and at the University of Geneva, where he received his medical degree and further psychiatric training.

He has practiced at Nassau Hospital in Long Island, N. Y., as well as at the OSU Health Center.

Mrs. Leonard Bidney is chairman of "Strictly for Women" planning committee.

A specifically designed program for children is also provided while their mothers attend the session.

Brass Company Manager Dies

Private funeral service for William G. Hummell, 59, of 181 Mayfair-blvd, district manager for Anaconda American Brass Co., was held Nov. 20 at the Egan-Ryan Funeral Home.

Cremation followed the ceremony.

He was a retired colonel of the 112th Engineers, a member of the Athletic Club, Whitehall Lodge of Masons, Aladdin Temple of Shrine and the Officers Club of Columbus Defense Depot.

A veteran of World War II, he was a member of American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Survivors include wife, Jane S. and mother, Mrs. Minnie Hummell.

Voters—

with 40 units of specialized instruction.

The school could be ready for use by the fall 1967.

In addition to vocational courses, school officials say, students will study the required English, American history and democracy, will be qualified to enter college if they desire, and will remain enrolled in their "home" high school.

They would participate in their own school's athletics and extra-curricular activities, and be graduated from there.

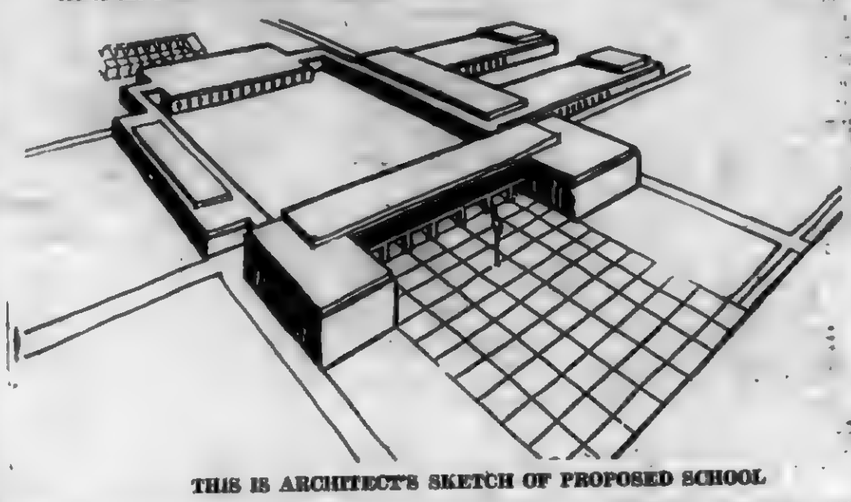
Students would be transferred by bus to a site to be determined by such factors as easy access to all five districts. Currently being studied is the exact route the outerbelt will take, and the location of its access roads.

Nearly half the cost of building and operating the school would be financed by state and federal funds — $1.4 million of the estimated $3 million construction cost has already been allocated from the $6.5 million allotted to Ohio through the Vocational Education Act.

The money must be matched by voters, however, during this school year. If the proposal is defeated next Tuesday the funds will be lost, and be directed to construction of a vocational school elsewhere in the state.

State funds also will pick up $262,100 of the expected $510,000 annual operating tab for the school.

Passage of the bond issue and operating levy would provide the balance.



After their request for federal aid was approved in the fall, proponents of the school chose to place the proposal on a special ballot in December rather than submit it in November election.

Purpose for delaying, they say, is time — vocational education is a new concept, they felt that time was needed to thoroughly inform voters on its value, and they also wished to have enough time for careful study.

If approved, students attending the vocational school would be graduated from high school as professionally trained technicians and craftsmen, ready for employment in fields where the need has already been established.

FRANKLIN COUNTY EDUCATORS serving on the Joint Vocational School Advisory Committee confer on campaign plans to urge voters in five districts to vote Dec. 7 for creating a Joint Vocational High School. From left are, standing, Willard Brenning, clerk; William Heckman, clerk; Thomas J. Quick, superintendent, and Kenneth Foley, clerk. Seated are James Dougan, left, president of the Board of Education, and James Spadafore, executive director of the Joint Vocational District.

THIS IS ARCHITECT'S SKETCH OF PROPOSED SCHOOL

Offer 160 Skills

Approximately 160 educational opportunities would be offered from 40 units in four general areas — agriculture, business education, distributive education and trades and industry.

They include such diversified units as horticulture and landscaping, stenographic training, office machines and data processing, and training of future leaders in the fields of distribution, marketing and merchandising.

The courses of the trades and industry area ranges from dental assistants to machine trades, auto mechanics, radio, television, electronics, cosmetology, auto body, sheet metal, commercial art and many more.

The wide scope of educational facilities, necessary to satisfy the interests of all students in our modern, highly technical society, would be impossible for individual districts to operate. Educators say its cost would be prohibitive to any one of the participating districts.

The district would be operated by a board of education comprised of three members of the Franklin County Board, two from Whitehall, and one each from the other participating districts.

James Spadafore is executive director.

To be eligible, interested students must be 16 by Jan. 1, and in their last two years of high school.

Extension programs would also be offered to adults in the evening, to include apprentice training any area that calls for journeymen. And if the need becomes evident, a junior college technical program for high school graduates could be established.

'Tax Bargain'

Proponents of the school call it a "tax bargain" for voters of the district — for $2 per thousand valuation, they could:

- Buy an estimated additional $3,000 to $4,000 to vocational graduates' annual income.
- Update our free school system, by totally educating those who do not attend college, as well as preparing the percentage of students who do.
- Provide the skilled technicians and craftsmen needed for a healthy economy.
- Encourage students whose aptitudes are in vocational fields to stay in school and complete their education.

No organized opposition to the school has been noted.

WAYNE M. Bosserman, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bosserman, 525 S. Ashburton-rd, received his Eagle Scout Award Nov. 17, at Fairmoor Presbyterian Church. Wayne is a member of Fairmoor Church and a ninth grade student at Eastmoor Junior High School. He plays in the Eastmoor Junior High dance band and is a member of the Student Council. He is a member of Troop 195 and belongs to the Order of the Arrow.

DANIEL A. HARPER, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harper, 532 S. Waverly-st, received his Eagle Scout Award Nov. 17, at Fairmoor Presbyterian Church. Daniel, an eighth grade honor student at Eastmoor Junior High School, is assistant senior patrol leader in Troop 195, member of the Eastmoor Junior High baseball team, and is a junior member of NRA. Daniel attends Christ Methodist Sunday school and church.

Troop 195

Boy Scout Troop 195 of Fairmoor United Presbyterian Church reopened the old Logan Trail in Tar Hollow State Park near Chillicothe, Apr. 24.

Planned as a challenge to all Scout and Explorer hikers, this rugged trail traverses 16 miles of wooded hills in the old hunting grounds of the Shawnee and Mingo Indians.

To date more than 350 Boy Scouts and Explorers have hiked the Logan Trail as a part of their Scouting program. The trail follows a figure eight pattern and leaders may choose a route in length to accommodate their own unit. The North loop of the trail is over nine miles in length and the South loop about seven miles in length.

Overnight camping at the Tar Hollow State Park is available throughout the year, although limited camping facilities only are available during the winter months. Maps of the trail and instructions can be obtained by writing a card to Arthur L. Ireland, 502 S. Waverly-st.

The Logan Trail lies in both Tar Hollow State Forest and the Tar Hollow State Park, in 16,000 acres of rugged, hilly, timber country.

Scouts walking the trail touch three counties on their journey: Hocking, Ross and Vinton.

Start and finish markers are located at Pine Lake, near the public picnic area and parking lot.

A workshop for teachers of kindergarten through third grade will be held in Herbert Mills multi-purpose room at 3:15 p.m., Tuesday, Dec. 7. Margaret Love of the State Department of Education will address the teachers on the subject, "Physical Education for Primary Grades." Most of the time will be spent on practical activities that can be used in the regular classroom.

The junior high monthly faculty meeting will be held in the cafeteria from 4 to 5 p.m., Monday, Dec. 13. Refreshments will be served. Departmental meetings will include: math, English, science, social studies, home economics, industrial arts, music, art, physical education and guidance counselors.

Ohio State University student teachers Sandra Seaman, serving in Mrs. Margaret Correll's third grade class and Carol Rush, in Mrs. Earleen Judy's second grade, will complete their assignment at French Run, Friday, Dec. 10. Principal James H. Smith, Jr., said he was pleased to have them at the school. "They have added a lot to the classes and have planned many programs for the children, he added.

Bill Bendler, instrumentalist with the senior high band, played with the Regional Orchestra in a recent concert in Chillicothe. Bill was chosen because of his fine record with the Reynoldsburg Band and the Columbus Youth Symphony. He is now a candidate for the All-State Orchestra.

Curtain materials are in the process of being made and hung in the Smithfield Court kindergarten classes of Mrs. Elizabeth Burley and Janet E. Knight. Mothers will do the sewing and the fathers will install curtain rods. Principal James H. Smith, Jr., said he would like to take this opportunity to thank the parents for their fine cooperation and help.

The Rosary Altar Society Party for members in the St. Pius X all-purpose room, held its annual Christmas Dec. 1.

All elementary, junior and senior high art teachers were invited to attend a demonstration of silk screen printing Dec. 1, by Bob Moreland of the Ford Process Company in the Franklin County Curriculum Material Center, 46 E. Fulton-st. The meeting was organized by consultants Eleanor Schaefer, James Elliott and Dan Piloseno.

Mrs. Elaine Goldberg's fourth grade pupils in French Run expressed their thanks for the many things they have on Thanksgiving Day by giving to the Heart Fund. The class received a $3 prize for having the most parents join the PTA and decided that it would be especially appropriate this time of the year to give the money to a worthwhile cause.

Kindergarten teachers were invited to attend a group conference on "Christmas in the Kindergarten," in the Jewish Center, 1125 College-av, Nov. 30. Teachers were requested to bring and share ideas for making Christmas a meaningful and joyous experience for the five-year-old.

A reading workshop for intermediate grade teachers was held in French Run Nov. 30. Mrs. Tydvil Thomas, consultant with the Scott, Foresman Company discussed the new basic reading series.

Officials Dismayed At Wanton Destruction In Parks

By BETTY DAFT

Disheartened officials, eyeing the mounting cost of replacing and building new parks facilities — in some cases even before they are completed — warn that the current wave of destructive vandalism is hurting Columbus taxpayers:

• In the pocketbook, with a bill in excess of $10,000 this summer and fall to replace brand new, expensive toilets that have been broken to bits by vandals wielding crowbars or rocks, rebuilding concrete walls put up only the day before and wrecked before the mortar had set, and setting 24-hour guards during construction.

• By being deprived of additional park facilities because the senseless rebuilding is eating up dollars allocated for park development.

• And by the loss of the expected higher property values, that would be enhanced from a community park.

Surprisingly, Bill Walton, acting parks and forestry superintendent, pointed out, the wanton destruction is occurring in residential neighborhoods of higher income level.

The contractor had to place a 24-hour guard on the shelter house at Big Walnut Park on the far southeast while it was under construction, because vandals overnight broke new toilets to pieces with rocks, tore down metal doors and started a fire with debris.

At Woodward Memorial Park, on Rt. 161 in the Northland area, the contractor had to take the same precautions after vandals broke up the lavatories and damaged the building while it was under construction.

The more expensive lavatories of cast aluminum were installed at the new Westmoor Park adjacent to Westmoor Junior High on the Hilltop to forestall their destruction. But these, also, were demolished. (See photos.)

And at Clinton Park, on the east side of the Olentangy just north of Olentangy Village, vandals pushed down an entire concrete wall during the night following the very day it was constructed.

The toilets were jammed full of mud, and obscene words were written all over the shelter house with mud.

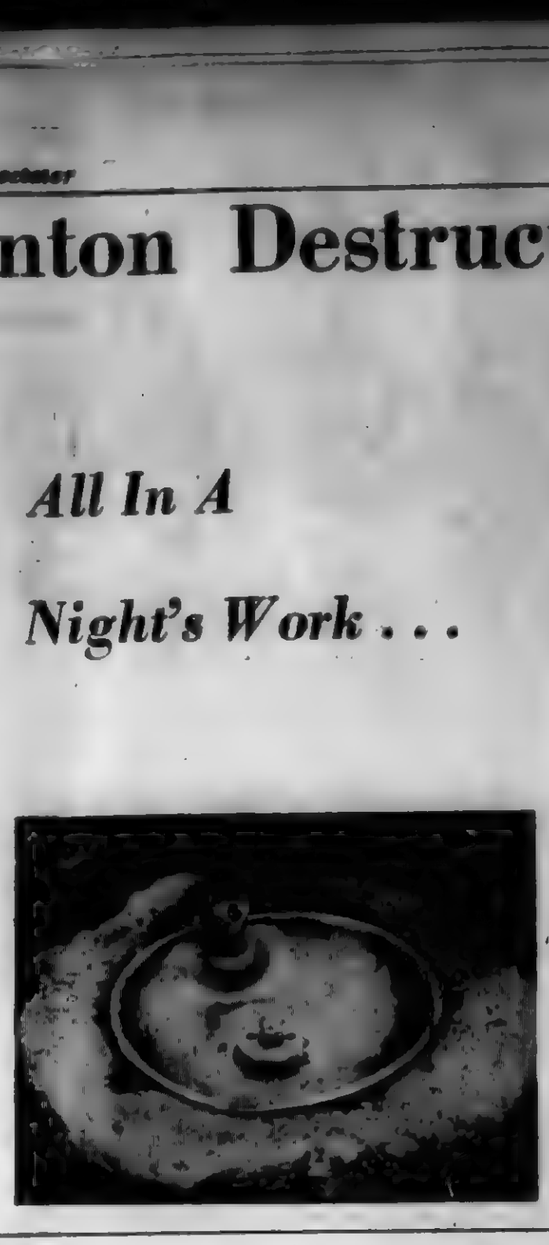
"It's the same everywhere — in all the new sections where we are developing community parks," Walton observed. More new parks are under way or will start soon at Fairwood, Stockbridge and Maybury.

In contrast, "the damage at older, established parks, located in lower economic areas, is much less this year," Walton said. "Through the years there has always been some vandalism at these parks, but most of the expense is confined to replacement of wornout facilities.

"It would almost seem," he speculated, "that this is a status symbol. It's like, 'In my neighborhood we did $10,000 damage — in yours you only did $5,000.'"

It would seem, according to Walton, that the vandals are juveniles.

And on the subject of why they would damage facilities that were intended for their benefit, Walton said:



"A good example is the new swimming pools put in at Windsor Terrace and Lincoln Park this summer. Openings of both were delayed because of destruction, presumably by the very kids who would use the pools."

Also observed by parks officials is the apparent, growing sophistication of vandals — "They are now burning steel doors off — maybe butane torches are being used."

Although every effort is made by park police and by Columbus cruiser patrols to keep an eye on the parks, the forces are insufficient.

Experts deplore the seeming disregard for property values evidenced in juvenile vandals, and return to the idea that the home is where values should be taught.

'STATELINE'

Bulk Of Ohio $5 Million Payroll Is Spent Here

By ERWIN W. FELLOWS

Chief of Research
State Personnel Dept.

One of the major factors in the economy of the Columbus area is the state government of Ohio.

The state employs about 14,000 people working in Franklin County, not counting an approximately equal number at Ohio State University. This represents a payroll of over five million dollars a month, spent largely in Columbus. And we are not considering employes of Franklin County or any other cities and villages within the county.

The aim of this column in The Spectator will be to tell something about what these people are doing and how that affects their neighbors.

In this first column, however, we'll talk about state government in general. Individual employes may come later.

About half of the state employes are getting increases in pay this week and naturally this is getting quite a bit of attention. The average employe's salary is about $350 a month, and increases are as welcome here as anywhere.

Where are all these people working, and what are they doing?

About 4,000 of them work at hospitals, institutions, clinics, or offices that treat or care for the physically or mentally ill, the mentally retarded, the disabled, or the delinquent. Indeed, more people work for the Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction than any other state agency. It is an area in which private enterprise has had only a limited part to play, and most of the lead has fallen on the state. The federal government also contributes financially to most of these programs, and the amount of the federal contribution has been increasing considerably.

Other sizable groups are operating employment service offices, working in state liquor stores, maintaining highways, investigating crimes and accidents, doing research in laboratories — the variety is great. And, of course, a large number are engaged in clerical or administrative work in the central state offices in downtown Columbus. Most of this work isn't so different from what you might find in a large private business — an insurance company, for instance.

It's expected that a public hearing will be held in January to change some of the administrative rules of the Director of State Personnel. The purpose of these rules is to carry out the provisions of the state civil service law. This law covers practically all state employes, except for those in teaching and research work in state universities, and most county employes.

Many cities follow very similar practices for their municipal civil service. The rules of the state personnel director are therefore important, not only to public employes but also to anyone interested in how the government is operated. The exact date and place of this hearing will be announced later. Anyone may attend.

We'll extend an invitation to readers to let us know what they think about this type of column. And, in particular, if you have questions about the state government—especially where personnel are concerned—we'll try to answer them. Write in care of The Spectator.

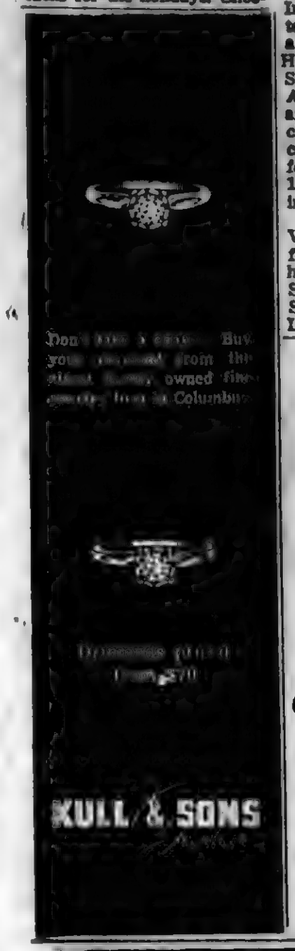
Worthington 'Tour Of Homes' Features Flowers And Finery

A preview of Christmas will be given to visitors taking the Tour of Homes, sponsored by the Worthington Historical Society, Friday evening from 6 to 10.

Eight houses, decorated for the event by Columbus and Worthington florists, will show arrangements and ideas for the holidays. Chosen for their exterior or interior architecture, their furnishings of antiques, or their historical interest, the houses are concentrated in an area within easy walking distance of the business district in Worthington.



Tickets for the tour may be purchased in advance at Snyder's Old Worthington Inn. On the evening of the tour they will also be sold at a Christmas gift shop, 656 High-st, by members of the Study Course of the Society. Admission is $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for students including high school age. Proceeds will go to the fund for the restoration of the 1816 Orange Johnson House in Worthington.

Cooperating florists are Village Flowers by Marny for the Frank G. Corbin home, 721 High-st; Peg Stevens, assisted by Charles Schildknecht, the Clark E. Loofbourrow home, 28 W. Granville-rd; House of Flowers, the Robert E. Tomlinson home, 60 W. South-st; Amherst Florist, the Sydney Fisher home, 560 Oxford-st; Maple Lee Flowers, the Charles R. Lee home, "Bird Song," 38 Short-st; Miracle Flower Shop, the William G. Turner home, 80 W. Granville-rd; Up-Towne Flowers, the Lee W. Garver home, 77 W. South-st; and Sally's Flowers, the Charles W. Smith home, 40 E. South-st.

Alwood Florist will provide a wreath for the Orange Johnson House.

The front room of the early home of Col. James Kilbourne founder of Worthington, at 683 High-st, now the home of Mrs. S. E. Corbin, will be open to tour visitors. On display will be items that belonged to Col. Kilbourne.

Tour chairman is Mrs. James J. Mollica, 123 New England-av.

GRADUATE FROM WEST IN '56?

ALL THOSE WHO were graduated from West High School in January of 1956 are invited to spend the evening of Saturday, Jan. 29, with their former classmates. The 10th annual reunion will begin at 6 p.m. with dinner at Lincoln Lodge, 4950 W. Broad-st, followed by a program and dancing. Urging all to get reservations in are Mrs. Kenneth Wright Jr. (Roberta Wilson) and Mrs. James Bline, (Judy Watson). The cost is $7 per person and reservations must be made by Dec. 15. Bill Spratley is committee chairman and Mrs. Gary Nebinger (Maureen Kremis) is helping with arrangements. Sherwood Waltman is class president.

Area Kiddies Invited To Trim-A-Tree

The Beaux Arts Club will sponsor the annual Trim-A-Tree party Saturday, Dec. 4, 2 to 4 p.m., at the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts. All Columbus area children are invited.

The children will make ornaments to decorate the Gallery Christmas tree which will be in Derby Court during the holidays. The St. Stephens Ballet, under the direction of Alexis Alva, will present an original ballet for the children.

Chairman is Mrs. Norman Brandes, assisted by Mrs. Van Ivy and Mrs. Ralph Reynolds. Reservations should be made with Miss Frances Mills at the gallery.

THE FIRST STEP.. START SAVING TODAY

Many folks simply say they haven't the extra money to open a savings account. But the first step in saving is to resolutely make up your mind that you will save a certain percent of every paycheck . . . let's say 5% . . . and deposit that amount every payday in your savings account. In other words you get by on "what's left over" after you save . . . instead of saving "what's left over."

Once you've started, even with just a few dollars a week, you've made a big step forward. Week after week you'll see your savings grow . . . faster than you thought because they earn regularly. All you've got to do is get started . . . today!

Give Our Children A Brighter Future

(ADULTS, TOO)

VOTE [X] FOR

THE EASTERN FRANKLIN COUNTY JOINT VOCATIONAL SCHOOL

Special Election Tuesday, December 7

Many of our boys and girls face a bleak future. They are being trained for jobs that are rapidly being displaced by modern technology. They need training in new skills. But this training simply isn't available in most Franklin County high schools.

You have an opportunity to change all that Dec. 7 by voting to create the first joint vocational high school in Franklin County. This school will give your youngsters in Whitehall, Reynoldsburg, Canal Winchester and Madison and Jefferson Townships the chance to get the vocational training they need. Adults in these communities will receive the same opportunity.

The Joint Vocational School will be a specialized education center where youths and adults can take courses of study to acquire technical knowledge and work skills necessary for employment. These courses will cover jobs in the agriculture, business, distributive education, trade and industrial fields.

The Big Benefits of the Vocational School are:

★ A well-rounded program of courses, worked out in consultation with Columbus industry, to develop skilled workers for today's highly competitive labor market, ★ Vocational and technical training opportunities not now available in the five districts.

★ Extra classroom space in high schools because of pupils attending the Joint Vocational School.

★ A savings to you of approximately 50% in total cost of building and operating the school because of federal and state participation.

The school is needed because studies show that while 42% of Ohioans work as craftsmen and technicians, only 3% of our students receive training for these jobs. Most Franklin County schools offer limited or no vocational training at all. They concentrate on college preparatory courses, yet most high school students do not go to college.

Because student enrollment in each district is too small to offer a broad vocational program, and since the cost of construction and equipment is too high, it makes good sense for five districts to band together to do the job economically.

What can proper vocational training mean to our children in terms of dollars and cents? An unskilled laborer — if fully employed all year — can earn between $4,000 and $5,000. A fully employed craftsman or technician, on the other hand, can count on $7,000 to $9,000 a year. When you multiply that $3,000 to $4,000 differential over a working lifetime, you're talking about a $150,000 difference. Make sure our children gain the long end of that dollar differential by voting to create a Joint Vocational High School.

Build The Vocational School

The proposed vocational school to serve five school districts in Eastern and Southeastern Franklin County is a sound plan. Voters in the affected districts — Jefferson (Gahanna), Reynoldsburg and Madison Local School Districts and Canal Winchester and Whitehall School Districts — should approve the measure at the Dec. 7 special election.

Voters will decide two issues — a .6 of a mill construction bond issue and a 1.4 mill operating levy. But more important, they will decide the quality of the future for the areas in which they live.

The vocational school plan is an ambitious undertaking. Yet it is little more than the minimum effort required to adequately meet the challenge of our times. And just what is that challenge? Essentially, it is this:

We must strive to bring every qualified student to Graduation Day — and that all-important diploma. And we must bring to the high school diploma a new dimension.

The layman's present view of a high school diploma stresses these two points:

1. It is prerequisite to higher education and a place of status and security among the professional members of society.

2. It is an absolute minimum requirement for attaining anything but the most menial positions in the work force.

But these two points, standing alone, do not begin to describe the potential of a high school diploma. And that, precisely, is what the vocational school plan is all about. It recognizes that economic, ability and future limitations will keep more than half the holders of high school diplomas from entering college.

But the vocational school concept also recognizes the wealth of opportunity awaiting those students who are prepared to become tomorrow's skilled technicians.

America has never seen the likes of the Industrial Revolution of the 1950's and 1960's. Sophistication of research and production has outrun the ability of the nation's educators to meet the demand for well-paid personnel at the sub-professional levels of industry and commerce.

Yes, this is what the vocational school plan is all about. It is geared to keep in school the potential dropout; the student who gains little or nothing from the strictly college preparatory curriculum. (More than 80 percent of Ohio's most recent high school graduates completed curricula heavily weighted toward the professions. But the "professionals" represent only seven percent of the state's population.)

And the vocational plan does much more than minimize dropouts. It makes available a diploma backed by purposeful training and held by a graduate with an added measure of direction in life and confidence in his ability.

To be sure, the plan requires new local taxes. Federal funds have been assured to pay almost half the cost of the needed physical facilities. And state funds will provide a substantial share of operating costs. But those who benefit most will not escape the responsibility of local support for the school.

The plan is neither a "something-for-nothing" scheme, nor a "blank check" proposition. It is, simply, a well developed and urgently needed program.

Voters have two choices: They can approve the program now, or defer it until a later time; they can get what they pay for now, or pay much more for the same product in the future.

Motion Without Action

The so-called "Golden Age Village" to be constructed in Columbus is a good example of motion without action. It is a Columbus Metropolitan Housing Authority (MHA) project being passed off as a political promise kept.

When Gov. Rhodes was a candidate in 1962, he promised construction of a series of "Golden Age Village" projects by the state. The "villages" were to remove 11,000 non-psychotic patients from the state hospitals, or so candidate Rhodes said.

The "grand plan" originally called for removal of 300 patients from Columbus State Hospital alone. But a source there reported almost two years ago that no more than 30 patients would qualify for removal to such a facility.

The state hospital source must have spoken from the knowledge of experience, because the 11,000 figure shouted as a campaign promise has now been casually trimmed to 1,000. And with a waiting list of more than 800 persons for MHA units just in Columbus, it figures to be a long wait for those who have already been kept waiting too long.

But the MHA buildings — even though they will be almost exclusively for use by senior citizens outside the state hospitals — will be under construction during 1966. Coincidentally, that is an election campaign year.

Will the voting public really be fooled into thinking the "Golden Age Village" promise has been kept?

Support Kinder Key

The 12th annual Caroling Drive of Kinder Key will be conducted on Dec. 9 and 10. All proceeds will go toward support of the Heart Laboratory at Children's Hospital.

The laboratory is primarily a diagnostic center for the purpose of detecting rheumatic fever and congenital heart disease in children. Kinder Key did not found the Heart Laboratory, but is responsible for its rapid expansion and generous public support.

Kinder (as in "kindergarten") is the German word for "children," and Key symbolizes the unlocking of new hope for young hearts. And the past record of Kinder Key is a bright testimonial to those who give that children may live.

Money collected in last year's Caroling Drive, $13,580, came within $509.99 of completely supporting the laboratory's 1965 expenses. An estimated $15,000 will be required to operate the Heart Laboratory during 1966. It is little enough for a community to give for what its children will receive.

And if you don't hear the carolers with your ears, hear them in your heart and send your contribution to Kinder Key, 971 Morning-st, Worthington.

"To Go Along With The Roadside Beautification Idea We've Designed An Entirely New Can"

Calling Ohioans

By MICHAEL V. DiSALLE

In 1963, Time Magazine held a glittering reception and dinner for its many cover subjects.

Many who were present were no longer public figures. Many were the subject of much current news speculation. Romney, Rockefeller, Goldwater and Scranton were getting much attention as potential presidential candidates. If any applause meter would have determined the winner, Sen. Barry Goldwater would have been a going-away favorite of that audience.

It was there that I overheard Claire Booth Luce tell the senator that "we will do all we can for you."

Lyndon B. Johnson, the man who was to be the next President of the United States, was getting very little attention. After all, he was just vice-president. It would be difficult to name all the personalities present — Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Gina Lollabrigida, Althea Gibson, Mendes France and many, many others.

It was there I last saw Henry Agard Wallace.

His hair had completely grayed in the 15 years that had gone by. His smile was still pleasant and the black tie and dinner jacket made him look far more conservative than the fighting far-out liberal of the Forties. We chatted briefly about past events — carefully avoiding 1948 and his ill-fated venture as the Presidential nominee of the Progressive Party.

Many Democrats were concerned at the time that Wallace's fourth party entry would make the improbable Truman victory impossible. Perhaps it was this thinking that pulled much of the minority group support from Wallace. — Democrats were urging that a vote for Wallace was in fact a vote for Dewey.

The Passing Of An Also-Ran

What inner compulsions caused Wallace to make his ill-starred run will never be known.

Wallace went it alone, old friends left to be replaced in most cases by new and strange companions. His oldest friend, Texan Howard Young, who had been his Commerce Department solicitor and his closest political associate, broke with Wallace after failing to dissuade him. Young said "Henry Wallace has burned his political bridges before him."

Henry Wallace had a shy, mystic manner about him and a political naiveness that stayed with him throughout his life.

In fact, one of the White House aides under F.D.R. described him as "the most Christlike man I have ever met in politics, and yet one of the most naive."

It was this kind of thinking that drove the White House circle in making the Vice-Presidential substitution in 1944.

The Ohio delegation was, as usual, a contentious group. At the last caucus of the delegation before the first ballot, Wallace still held a slight majority of the Ohio vote.

As Ohio was called to cast its ballot, delegation chairman Ray T. Miller announced a unanimous Ohio vote for Truman.

Jack Kroll of Cincinnati, a Wallace supporter, tried to take the microphone from Miller. While the mild and rather brief scuffle went on, the roll-call continued and Truman was nominated.

Wallace campaigned for the whole ticket in 1944, but subsequent differences with both Roosevelt and Truman, the succession of Truman to the Presidency and the haunting thought that it might have been him no doubt fired the frustrations that caused Henry Wallace's 1948 debacle.

He was kind, considerate and a man of vision in some areas. He received much abuse for his century of the common man, and his prediction of 60,000,000 jobs. The latter is more than an accomplished fact, the former well on its way to realization.

His battle of milk for every Hottentot certainly seems like a necessary goal.

His blindness to the objectives of communism was a destructive weakness, but as was stated by the New York Times editorially:

"On-balance, he rendered a valuable public service."

Letters To The Editor

Questions Election Timing

To the Editor:

Why were we, the bill-paying taxpayers of Whitehall, just recently informed of the surprise of a special election to vote to build an East Franklin County Vocational High School?

Why is a special election to be held, now, especially in view of the fact that we just had a general election less than a month ago?

If this levy fails in Whitehall, and carries elsewhere, are we to be required to pay our share? If it fails elsewhere and carries in Whitehall, do we pay for all of it?

What will be the tax rate in these eventualities?

Where will the buildings be located, in the Columbus area, for a central location? What will be the possibility of the Columbus School District taking over the buildings at our expense, as was done with the Courtright School and as they are now attempting to do in the South-Western School District?

As voters we are entitled to at least some answers and we should know them. We must not be expected to vote blindly in the name of education.

Education is wonderful, and very necessary, but does it require a blank check?

I don't appreciate our school board taking us into a situation like this without having time to consider it from all angles.

The rapidity with which this proposal has been approached makes me think of the old saying, "There is something fishy (sic) in Denmark."

Donald H. Patrick

'We're Legalizing Communism'

To the Editor:

I was impressed with your fine tribute to the late President John F. Kennedy, but I cannot help feeling that if he was martyred to save us from Communism his sacrifice was in vain.

At the very moment we are supposedly fighting Communism 5,000 miles away the federal Supreme Court is virtually legalizing the American Communist party. At the same time we are dancing to Castro's tune by accepting those whom he cannot feed, while ignoring the tortured political prisoners in his dungeons.

Six days after Mr. Kennedy reaffirmed his determination to drive the Castro regime from Cuba he was murdered by an agent for the notorious "Fair Play for Cuba Committee."

To date, despite the voluminous Warren Commission Report his tragic death still remains shrouded in conjecture. When all the principals in the mysterious slaying are gone we may learn the truth, but up to now the resemblance to the Lincoln Assassination is apparent.

Oscar Lapirow.

Acknowledge Spiritual Gifts

To the Editor:

Our material blessings, compared to our spiritual blessings, are relatively unimportant and are the mere fruits of man's labor.

All that we have and all that we are is basically a gift we receive at birth and this gift becomes significant when we experience the "second" birth which is spiritual.

As Christmas approaches once again, perhaps we should recognize that God's presence is not to be confused with the presents we buy and gaily wrap and place under the Christmas Tree.

Christmas "joy" is not to be confused with a liquid detergent that is used to cleanse dirty dishes.

Christmas joy is a detergent that cleans the human heart of greed, pride, fear, worry and all the ills that seem to plague us all from the cradle to the grave.

To the Editor:

On behalf of the members of the Franklin County Chapter of the Leukemia Society, Inc. I wish to thank the people of the community for so generously supporting us during our recent appeal for funds for leukemia research; especially the firemen who so graciously permitted our marchers to use the fire stations on Sept. 12, the wonderful people who took part in the house to house march for funds, and The Spectator for its fine publicity.

John J. Herbert
Chairman

To the Editor:

Our 100 percent victory for the 1965 United Appeal Campaign depended upon a good many factors, one of very one being the interest and demonstrated support of the news media. Again, you always accept the credit you deserve for the substantial participation of your many publications in the campaign which contributed to our achieving the $4,563,000-plus goal.

Please accept the special thanks of all of us in the 1965 campaign organization for contributing your interest, your talents, and the support of your whole organization to the United Appeal.

William S. Guthrie
1965 Campaign Chairman

THE USE OF HEROES

by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Editor, Tulsa (Okla.) Tribune

There was Jim Hawkins, pinned to the rigging, but giving it to Israel Hands with both barrels. There was Deerslayer, tethered to the tree, but regarding the hurtling tomahawks of the Hurons with calm detachment. There was blind Amayas, throwing his sword from the deck of the Golden Hind. And the kids had heroes.

A recent issue of American Heritage carries an album of the late great illustrator N. C. Wyeth. In his quiet studio, Wyeth lived with giants, and his great figures fired the imagination of young America.

Now, heroes are men-above-men, not to be viewed with the unblinking eye of cold history.

But there is an age when the man-cub must have heroes if he is going to grow into any kind of a man. And these must be as mighty as Hercules, as tall as Tancred, as brave as Roland, as wise as Odin and as pure as Balder. For unless a kid has a measure of an ideal man he has no sound way to measure himself.

The youngsters who lay staring at Wyeth's roaring pictures put tiny convolutions in their brains that years later might have meant the difference between covering an advancing buddy or dogging it in the foxhole, between pocketing that dormant account or keeping the books straight.

Unhappily, a lot of the heroes our young Americans are getting today are only half-heroes. Across the television screen stalks the noble drunk, the goldenhearted floozie, the well-intentioned frontier lad, driven to rob banks because no one left him a railroad. Our fearless spy-catchers grab females with the other hand. The incomparable Paladin leers over his hotel key. And Jesse James gets all mixed up with Robin Hood.

As Dr. Max Rafferty, California superintendent of schools, put it recently, "What really bugs me is the blithe arrogance of an attitude that takes for granted the highly dubious assumption that it can improve on history, rewrite literature, ignore grammar and create a new mythology, when in reality these Madison Avenue hucksters are in the same general literary league as Cassius Clay."

To stand in awe of a clear-eyed astronaut is not the same as collapsing in hysteria at the appearance of a Beatle. The girl who thinks Jean Harlow stood taller than Florence Nightingale shrinks in the process.

Lincoln lay on the cabin floor pouring through "Plutarch's Lives." Those lives marched through him to the White House. Lee was steeped in the tradition of George Washington — and through what Lee became, Washington lived again. The great ghosts will be reborn if our children listen to their voices.

I have been looking into McGuffey's fifth eclectic reader, edition of 1879. It abounds with mighty men. It tingles with The Relief of Lucknow, grows pensive with The Burial of Sir John Moore, thrills with The Boston Massacre and cheers for William Tell.

The kid who got through McGuffey not only had a vocabulary, he had some points of reference for triumphant living.

But with the present breed of hero most young Americans are getting, we seem to be preparing them at best for the supply corps, and at worst for shore leave.

Anatomy Of A Golden Fleece . . .

Columbus Police Detectives are searching for clues this week to crack a confidence racket being operated here which robs female senior citizens of their life savings. This special Spectator report of one such incident shows how these criminals operate:

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

Spectator Staff Writer

"Here it is," the girl whispered. She held up a wallet with a gold lock on each side of it. "We're goin' to be rich. It's good money. The best money you ever saw. Bring it to the man in the bank and he'll take it without sayin' hello to you."

The girl was about 20. She stood at Gay and High-sts Friday morning and talked to a 65-year-old woman named Beatrice, whose last name is not important now because Beatrice has been through enough.

"You sure it's good money?" Beatrice asked a man standing next to her. Beatrice didn't really know the man. He had started a conversation with her minutes before. He was about 35 and had told Beatrice how lovely she looked today. Beatrice thanked him.

WANTED TO TALK

They were standing there together when a slender girl came up to them with the wallet in her hand. She looked worried and paced in front of them and finally blurted out with "I don't know what to do. Please talk to me . . . I don't know what to do."

"What's the trouble?" the man asked her, as Beatrice stood watching.

"I've been sent this here wallet from my brother in Mexico. I know I can trust you both. God, I don't know where to go."

There was a string with keys attached that opened the gold locks. The woman opened her wallet and flashed a fist full of bills at Beatrice.

It was more money than Beatrice had ever seen before —more money than she had thought there was in the whole world.

There was a note with the money. "Dear Bro," it read, "Enclosed is $20,000 won at race track in Mexico. Sending to you in large bills to avoid paying income tax. Will contact you soon."

PROTECTS 'BROTHER'

"Don't fool with it," Beatrice said. "Take it to the police."

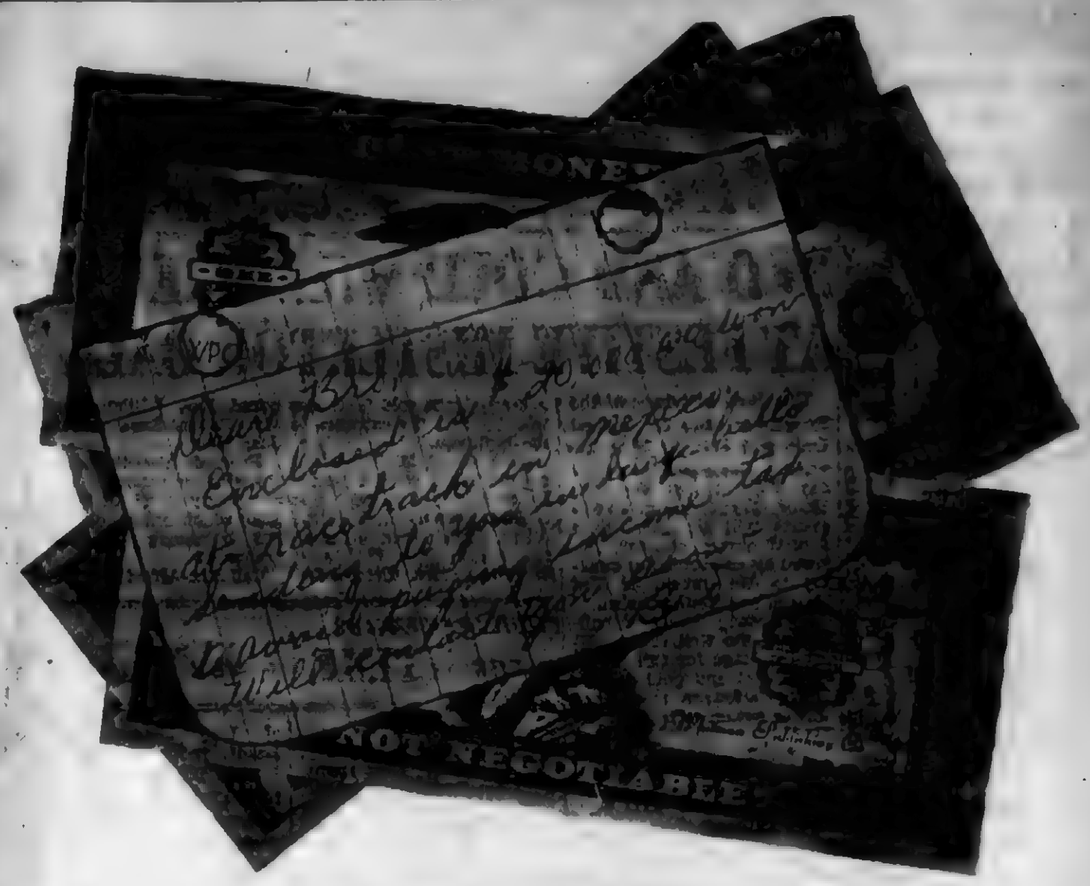
"I can't do that,' 'the woman said. "I can't do that and get my brother in trouble, can I?"

"No, I suppose not," Beatrice said.

"Do you know Werner Von Braun?" the girl asked Beatrice.

Beatrice shook her head no. The girl smiled. "They were very friendly," she said.

"Who?" Beatrice asked.



"My brother in Mexico and Von Braun," the girl said.

Then the girl said she'd call her attorney and find out what to do with the money. She told Beatrice and the man to wait for her.

And as they waited the man began to talk some more to Beatrice. He used words Beatrice didn't understand, and he talked of the great things in the world that money would buy. Big money, like $20,000 . . . money you could spend on big cars, a house and what's that? . . . Your husband likes fishing? Why, a man would fish the oceans of the world with money like that. Beatrice shivered.

The girl came back in a little while and she told Beatrice she had called her attorney and he had said she could keep the money if she didn't say anything

Cuban Refugees To Be Town Meeting Topic

Topic for the Columbus Town Meeting is "What's Behind Castro's Decision to Release Refugees?"

The program will be televised over WBNS-TV from 12 noon to 1 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 5. Radio replay over WBNS will be aired from 9:10 to 10:10 p.m. Sunday.

Speakers will be: Antonio Micocci, staff advisor for Cuban Refugee Program, U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare; Hector Lavernia, past president of The Circle of Cuban Exiles and teacher, Grove City High School; Dr. Leo B. Lott, associate professor of political science, Ohio State University.

Moderator will be John Gray.

Viewers of the telecast may call in questions to the speakers by dialing CA. 8-3881.

Telephones will be answered by volunteers of the Columbus Chapter of the National Secretaries Association.

Members of a Licking County 4-H Club will carry questions to the panelists.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

They're Seeing Red

To the Editor:

I'm so happy to see the Comsymps, pro-leftist, Socialists, pro-Communists squeal!

Your dirty, despicable, slanderous editorial and the slimy cartoon are, of course, very typical of left-wing extremists!

I refer, of course, to your tirade against the factual and absolutely truthful program via phone, "Let Freedom Ring."

All comsymps, leftists, pro-communists are for freedom of speech except, of course, an anti-communist, patriot, or a John Bircher!

Now, Buster, you want to be careful looking under rocks, because you may turn up an Alger Hiss, John Abt, Lee Pressman, or perhaps a Bishop Pike. Oh yes, keep your eye on the red-led March on Washington. You can buy a V.C. flag for $10 to carry. You may turn up some draft card burners and other leftist beatniks.

The John Birch Society takes up lots of space in the Daily Worker, National Guardian, New Masses, and I shall continue to take your smear sheet for precisely the same reason I subscribe to the above mentioned.

I haven't heard much in your paper about all the current communistic schemes such as Job Corps, Peace Corps, this corps and that.

Let me assure you that the John Birch Society is not a meet, eat and retreat organization. The Communists, pro-reds, Socialists, fellow travelers and comsymps hate it and don't you ever forget it, Buster.

I have no connection in any way with the tape, but I can readily say: "Let Freedom Ring."

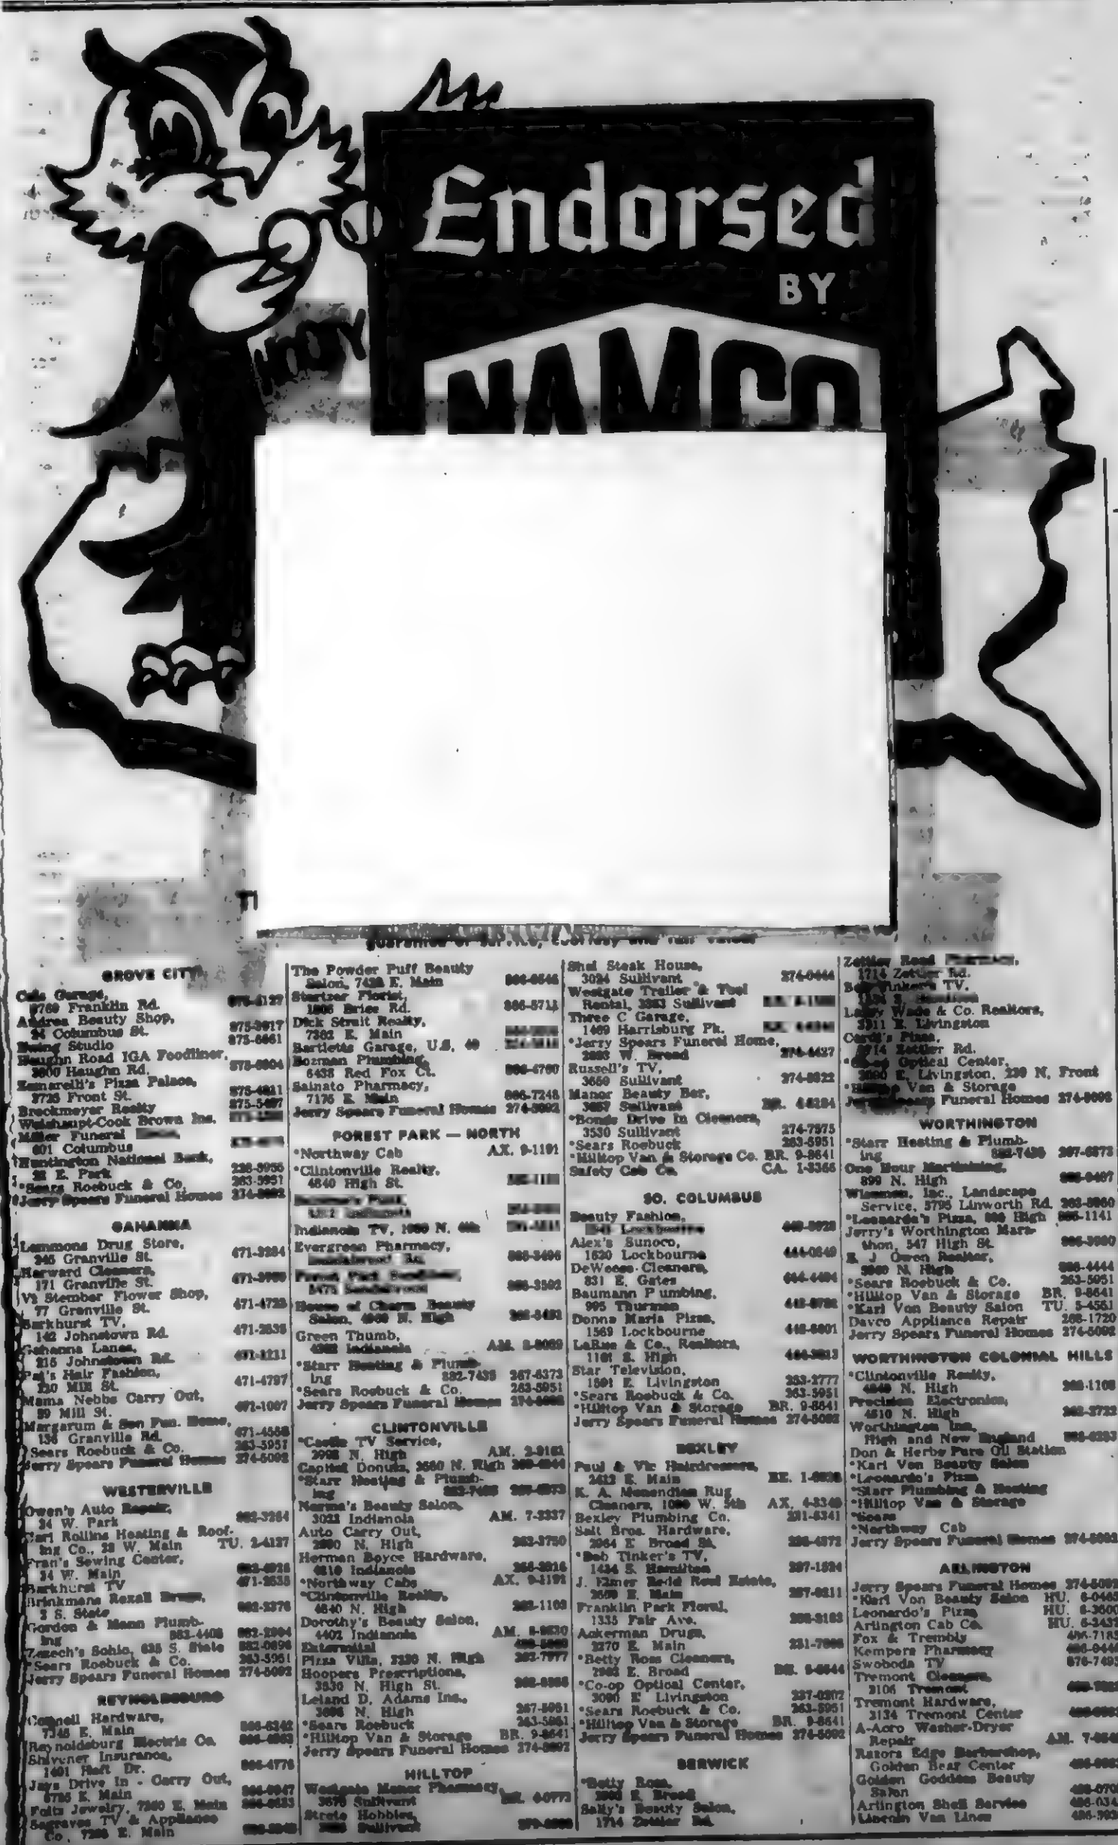
O. V. Stewart

To the Editor:

It interested me very much to see you acknowledge in your paper of Nov. 24 "the known fact that Communists use infiltration as a primary means of internal subversion."

Then . . . "Consider for a moment some of the groups under attack by 'LFR'."

You then exonerate these groups by saying "Hogwash."



I am not an attorney but I never heard of a jury finding a defendant innocent just because a defense attorney told them the charges against his client were "Hogwash." My understanding is the attorney would have to submit supporting evidence for such a finding by a jury.

By your judgment these groups are innocent.

Lastly you say "We will never subscribe to the 'LFR' theory that the only way to get rid of the termites is to burn down the house."

With your demonstration of this method of ridding our country of these termites I anxiously await the next issue of your journal to see what insecticide you would use to destroy all the Communist termites.

Help your wife with the dishes.

How's a way out. Give a flameless electric dishwasher this Christmas. There's no pre-rinsing by hand. No drudgery. An electric dishwasher does it all — automatically — in water much hotter than hands could stand. If you have a small family, use the dishwasher only once a day. Big family or lots of holiday company? Put it to work right after the meal. Then relax with everyone else.

You can get the right model at the right price . . . right now from your favorite electric appliance dealer or plumbing contractor.

RED AND GOLD WILL PREVAIL AT FESTIVE MISTLETOE BALL

The Junior Division of the Symphony Club of Central Ohio will hold its 30th annual Mistletoe Ball on Saturday, Dec. 11, at the Neil House. Members and their guests will sit down to a formal dinner at 8:30, followed by an evening of dancing to the music of Ted Heaton and his orchestra.

The newly decorated ballroom of the Neil House will set the stage for this year's festive red and gold decorations. Christmas rose trees will be set on each table and a lovely large gold flock tree will stand at the entrance to the ballroom.

This year's Mistletoe Ball chairman is Mrs. Stuart Jones and her co-chairman is Mrs. Kenneth Kabelka. Also working on arrangements are: Mrs. Willard Sandbrink, Mrs. Richard Osborne, Mrs. William Meade, Mrs. Robert Snow and Mrs. John King.

Proceeds from the ball are a major contribution to the Symphony Club of Central Ohio which brings to Columbus outstanding symphony orchestras.

Call Mrs. Alfred Long, 451-1310 or Mrs. Harry Martin, AM. 7-9376, for tickets.

Methodists Set Pancake Day

The MOWAC class of West Park Methodist Church will hold its second annual pancake day from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 4, in the church basement. Pancakes with sausage or bacon, juice, milk and coffee will be served. Tickets at $1 are available from any class member or at the door.

Auxiliary Uses Spectator Cookbooks As Favors

WHEN THE OSPE AUXILIARY (Ohio Society of Professional Engineers) met at the Jai Lai recently, each member found at her place setting a recipe clipped from The Spectator Cookbook and attractively mounted on colored construction paper. Seated clockwise around the table are Mrs. E. W. Althar, Mrs. Louis Ranieri, Mrs. John Power, Mrs. Albert A. Mastriani, Mrs. T. L. Underwood, Mrs. J. W. Clark and Mrs. J. P. Schlegel. The 200-plus member group, all wives of professional engineers, meets monthly for a business meeting and to hear a speaker. Dr. M. Eloise Green, home economics instructor at OSU, was guest speaker for this meeting. She spoke on "Facts and Fads About Food."

Royal Crown Cola Showcasing No-Deposit, No Return Bottles

Columbus, because it is considered the nation's best test marketing area, has been chosen by Royal Crown Cola as the showcase for national introduction of the cola drink in no deposit, no return bottles.

Harold Schottenstein, president of Royal Crown Bottling Co. of Columbus, announced that special equipment has been installed in the company's plant at 448 E. Livingston, to package the new bottles.

The bottles are packaged in a special wrap-around carton, lithographed in blue, red and yellow. The package is compact and has been designed for ease of disposal.

Introduction of the new bottle has been discussed by Royal Crown executives for several years, Schottenstein said.

"It affords the consumer the advantage of being able to purchase the popular cola drink without the inconvenience of lugging arm loads of bottles back to the store. It does away with the clutter of empty beverage bottles stacking up in much needed home space," the local bottler said.

Schottenstein points out, and he says, "with justifiable pride," the fact that Columbus was also the first market to offer Diet Rite Cola. In addition the local company introduced the two popular cola drinks in 12 ounce bottles before they became available elsewhere in the nation.

Royal Crown Bottling Co. of Columbus is one of the largest beverage bottlers in Central Ohio. The company, according to Schottenstein, will begin construction on new facilities later this year. The new facility will house administration and sales offices as well as a bottling plant and warehouse. In addition there will be a garage for service, maintenance and storage of trucks and company cars.

The new Royal Crown facilities will be located in the northeast section of Columbus. The present plant was purchased by the Columbus Urban Renewal office and is part of the Children's Hospital redevelopment project.

RECENT GRADUATES of Manpower Inc.'s certified training program are these "White Glove Girls". Seated from left are Mrs. Velma Balbaugh, Mrs. Geraldine Ernalich and Mrs. Anna Maupin. Standing are Mrs. Pearl Jenks, office division manager; Mrs. Kathleen Wollard, service assistant; Mrs. Winona Markin; William J. Coke, assistant vice-president, office services, Manpower, Inc., Milwaukee, Wis.; Mrs. Marilyn Moreland; George Beltzhoover, vice-president, Manpower, Inc. of Columbus; Mrs. Francis Lake, and instructors, Mrs. Kaye Neuman and Mrs. Joan Brink.

Manpower Celebrates Tenth Anniversary, Graduates Class

Manpower, Inc., of Columbus, the local franchise office of Manpower, Inc. international temporary help organization, is observing its 10th anniversary this month.

The local firm was opened in 1955 by Charles L. Stephens, who is also the owner-manager of the Toledo office.

From its beginnings 10 years ago in what Stephens describes as a "little hole in the wall," in the High-Long building, Manpower, Inc. of Columbus has expanded at a rapid rate, necessitating four moves, each time to larger quarters. The location now is 342 S. High-st.

Stephens announced in conjunction with the birthday celebration a special "White Glove Girl" certified training program which began Nov. 8 and "graduated" the first class Nov. 15. The program is available to those Manpower temporary office workers who want to upgrade their business skills through a concentrated course in speed and accuracy typing and special sessions in business grooming.

William J. Coke, assistant vice-president, office services, from Manpower's home office, in Milwaukee, presented certificates of achievement to the class.

"We deal in services, rather than people," Stephens says. "Our customers lease whatever services are necessary to get a particular job done.

"The first years" reminisced Stephens, "we offered only office services such as typing, stenography, general office, and office or accounting machine operators. Then we opened an industrial division to supply warehouse, car unloading, shipping department and light factory services."

More recently a salespower division and technical division have been added. Salespower provides various selling and merchandising services such as interviewing and surveying, telephone solicitation, product demonstration, circular and sample distribution, and "mystery shopping."

The technical division supplies professionally trained draftsmen, time study men, engineers, electronics specialists and similar skilled technicians on a part-time, temporary or project basis.

George Dewey has been general manager of the local office since shortly after its establishment, and heads up the industrial division. Administrative assistant is Pat Clifford; office division manager, Mrs. Pearl Jenks; service assistant, Mrs. Kathleen Wollard, and technical division manager, John Clemens.

Certified training program instructors are Mrs. Joan Brink and Mrs. Kay Neuman. Vice-president of the Columbus corporation is George Beltzhoover.

New 'Top' Restaurant To Be Peak Of Center

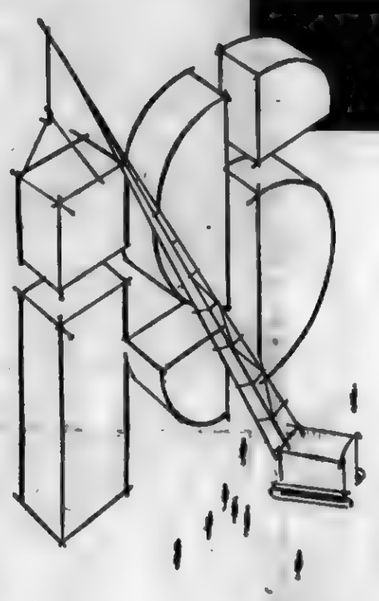
Stouffer Foods Corporation recently gave the 'green light' to begin construction and interior decoration of their new skytop restaurant — the loftiest in town — atop Columbus Center, it was announced by John W. Galbreath, president of 100 East Broad Corporation, owners of the new 25-story office tower at the northeast corner of Broad and Third-sts.

Galbreath said that Stouffers gave the contract to Turner Construction Co., general contractors for Columbus Center. The new restaurant — to be called "Top of The Center" — is scheduled to open in early spring, 1966, and will occupy the entire 24th floor.

Since Columbus Center's 24th floor contains nearly 13,000 square feet of space, the dining area will be divided into a number of smaller, "intimate-sized" rooms — each with its own individual decor — according to Stouffer's architecture-decoration team in Cleveland, headed by James Romweber and Edward Brimm. Overall decor theme is "country French", Romweber said, and the new "Top" restaurant will be divided into three dining areas and a cocktail bar.

Columbus will be the ninth major city in which Stouffers will operate a "Top" restaurant, according to James Stouffer, vice president and general manager of Stouffer's restaurant and inn division. Stouffers operate "Top of the Town" atop the 40-story Galbreath - developed Erieview Plaza office tower in Cleveland — as well as "Top of the Six's" in New York, "Top of the Flame" in Detroit, "Top of the Mart" in Atlanta, "Top of the Rock" in Chicago, "Top of the Marine" in Milwaukee and "Top of the Rockies" in Denver. Their eighth "Top" restaurant, in the 52nd floor of Boston's new Prudential Tower, is scheduled to open later this year. The Cleveland restaurateur also operates Stouffer's University Inn and Restaurant at 3025 Olentangy River-rd in Columbus.

"Columbus has fast become a major U. S. metropolis," Stouffer commented, "and it is in such growing cities we seek to operate."



Galbreath said that Vernon Stouffer, president and founder, had sought Columbus Center's 24th floor — which offers a superb view of Columbus, overlooking the rooftops of all other downtown Columbus buildings except the Lincoln-LeVeque Tower — even before ground was broken Dec. 12, 1963.

"While the bidding for this location was very competitive," Galbreath said, "we felt that Stouffers would help to spread Columbus' fame far wider and more quickly than any other restaurant operator we were negotiating with.

"The rapid rise in national popularity of skytop restaurants has made 'dining in the clouds' a continually enjoyable experience," Galbreath continued. "We had this fact brought forcibly to our attention in Oct., 1964 when Stouffer's 'Top of the Town' was opened on the 38th floor of our new Erieview Plaza building in Cleveland. The public's reception of the place has far exceeded everyone's expectations."

Stanton Added To List Of Governor 'Possibles'

By ADRIENNE BOSWORTH
Spectator
Special Correspondent

As political speculators were weighing the potentials of several well - known politicians for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination last week, the name of James V. Stanton was added to the lineup.

The reaction in Central and Southern Ohio was a quizzical, "James who?"

Jim Stanton, 33, is the president of Cleveland City Council, a post he captured by unclenching the iron fist of Jack Russell, the cigar-chomping stereotype of the spoils politician.

Observers of Stanton's activities in Cleveland describe him with adjectives that project a picture of a combined John F. Kennedy and John V. Lindsey. He is depicted as attractive, able, vigorous and a nice guy who can be tough when he has to be.

Stanton's fans credit him for leadership in such diverse areas as trying to straighten out Cleveland's finances and keeping the Indians in the city.

Won't Accept 'Image'

Although Stanton has not announced as a candidate for governor, he talks like one. He said he intends to participate in discussions of the November 1966 election with party leaders.

If there is an "unbeatable image" associated with Gov. James A. Rhodes and his administration, Stanton says he hasn't seen it.

Rhodes can be beaten, but the "Democratic party has to unify behind one candidate who can project the issues of fiscal policy, education, mental health and other matters in which the Rhodes administration has been deficient," Stanton said.

Neither is he willing to accept the image of the Ohio Democratic party as a disorganized, ineffectual operation. Consolidated for one candidate, the Democratic party "can effect a program that is meaningful to the voters," he said.

Discusses Issues

Preferring to leave specifics of a program to campaign platforms, Stanton spoke of education and mental health as "the realistic issues that effect the future of the state." Touching slightly on the Rhodes' administration's several bond issues and resultant capital improvements, Stanton said, "but nobody says how we're going to pay for operating such things as our new Cleveland State University. The governor has been silent on that subject."

Placing another dig at Rhodes' bonding policies, Stanton said the Democratic party can be "helpful to the future of the state and not let our grandchildren pay our debts."

Some political leaders examining Stanton's credentials question whether a candidate from the "big city up north" can capture the necessary central and southern votes.

Stanton said he considers area "of no significance, as long as the candidate can instill confidence and can do the job."

CENTRAL CHOSEN

Fifteen training programs to develop new work skills in 17 occupations for 665 unemployed or underemployed persons in Ohio were approved today by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz and Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare John W. Gardner. Central High School will train 60 welders in a 12-week course. The cost is $51,155.

about it to anyone. The girl asked the man it he would keep the secret and he said "yes" and Beatrice said "yes," too.

SHARE THE WEALTH

And the girl looked worried again and said she hated to think of keeping all that money around the house and she didn't trust banks.

"Twenty thousand dollars, is more than I'll ever need," she said. "I've got money already. I'd like to share this money with you for being so kind to me."

"What do we have to do?" the man asked.

"Well now," the girl said as she closed the wallet and let it hand at the side of her blue plastic raincoat. "Well now, that's something else again."

A light came on in Beatrice's eyes, because things were rough at home. She had saved $4,700, but that wouldn't last forever.

"Show me your good faith," the girl said. "Show me I can trust you. You both put up some money of your own. "We'll give it to a man I know in a big office building here whom we can trust, and he'll divide it up. With $20,000 we'll each get over $6,000."

The man said it sounded fair enough.

"You sure it's all right?" Beatrice asked this man, whom she trusted.

"I know it's good," the man said. "You know I don't go 'round puttin' up money in good faith unless I know."

This man is no sucker, Beatrice thought. Why, she had seen smart fellows who wouldn't come close to being as sharp as this man is. She could tell character all right.

That Friday morning Beatrice went to a downtown bank and asked the teller for $4000.

"What are you going to do with all that money?" the bank teller said in conversation.

"Get rich, Beatrice said, "but I'm sworn not to tell anybody how."

The man and girl were waiting for her outside. Beatrice put her hand into her pocket and gripped the $4,000. The man was talking again.

They said they'd take the money to the girl's friend in the big office building and that he would divide it up and they'd be right back with her share.

Beatrice waited a long time. She decided to go to the police.

Columbus Police Detective C. D. Smith interviewed her. Detective Smith told her, gently, she had been robbed.

Beatrice exploded in tears. "My husband," she said. "When I get home my husband's gonna take my head off."

STONE MOUNTAIN COMMEMORATIVES

The Stone Mountain half-dollar was issued in 1925 to commemorate the work on the Stone Mountain monument dedicated to the valor of the soldiers of the Confederacy and in memory of Warren G. Harding. President Harding's administration started work on the monument.

Stone Mountain, in northwest Georgia, is one of the world's largest exposed domes of granite, measuring more than seven miles around at the base. In 1916 it was decided to carve a Confederate memorial on the sheer northeast side of the mountain.

Profits from the sale of the commemoratives went to finance the Stone Mountain memorial. A total mintage of 1.3 million pieces reached the public of an original 2.3 million. Exactly one million pieces were not sold and were subsequently melted. They sold originally for $1. On today's market they bring under $10.

DON'T FORGET "TOYS FOR TOTS"

Local Marine Reservists will launch their annual "Toys for Tots" campaign this week, Major Mark T. JURKOVICH Jr. and Captain John C. LEITE, the Commanding Officers of Company M and Company L, 3rd Battalion, 25th Marines, announced today. The home collection will be made by approximately 10,000 Boy Scouts on Saturday, December 4th.

"This will be the fourteenth drive conducted in the Columbus area," Major JURKOVICH said, "and if the coming campaign is as successful as those in past years, we expect to make a lot of children happy this Christmas."

A year ago Marines working with local business and civic groups collected over 70,000 new and used toys for distribution to needy children.

While "Toys for Tots" came to Columbus only fourteen years ago as an annual Christmas campaign, the toy drive began eighteen years ago in Los Angeles as a local community effort of Marine reservists in that West Coast city. As years passed other Marine Reserve units started "Toys for Tots" campaigns in their hometown areas until today Marine Reserve units are spearheading toy drives in over 200 cities throughout the United States. Over 45 million toys have been collected since the birth of "Toys for Tots" in 1947.

Joining the Marine Reservists and the Boy Scouts in this year's "Toys for Tots" campaign are:

FRANKLIN COUNTY DEPARTMENT OF WELFARE
BELLEAU WOOD DETACHMENT, MARINE CORPS LEAGUE
COLUMBUS POLICE DEPARTMENT
COLUMBUS FIRE DEPARTMENT

The Columbus Marine Reservists ask that you give a new or useable toy to "Toys for Tots" when a scout calls at your door on December 4th.

$87.1-Million Budget Sought

By CHUCK HARTLE

Mayor Sensenbrenner this week unveiled an $87.1-million capital improvemets budget coverig a span of six years. Half of the money is scheduled to be used for streets and highways. Other items include sewage plants, a secondary airport, park projects and expansion of the city water system.

A 21-year-old Navy seaman who attended Worthington High School in 1956 and 1959 has discovered the difficulties of returning from the "dead."

S. A. John R. Warren was presumed to have drowned while swimming at Virginia Beach. He was declared legally dead 16 months ago. Last week, Warren re-appeared and gave himself up in Miami. H faces possible charges for being AWOL.

A WRAPUP OF THE WEEK'S NEWS

The visit of a welfare investigator saved the lives of two women and their seven children last week.

Carbon monoxide coming from a faulty gas refrigerator had been causing the nine people to feel drowsy and ill for four days. All of them were nearly unconscious when discovered. The women thought they all were suffering from a virus.

Concentration of fumes was so high that it would have proved fatal within hours, according to city housing inspectors.

The Columbus Recreation Department is preparing to conduct a song-writing contest. The winning refrain will become the official song of the city.

Cold weather over the weekend only sharpened the appetites of the younger set for a good close look at Santa Claus. An estimated quarter of a million people lined High-st Sunday as the annual Lazarus parade puffed along in the blustery cold.

From all appearances, the old gentleman is no less welcome this year than last.

What may prove to be a fatal blow was struck at the proposed relocation of Central Market to city-owned land at Mound and Fourth-sts.

City council failed Monday night to override the Mayor's veto of legislation permitting the city attorney to sign a contract with the merchants to lease the land.

That ends it for this council session. And next year's body, with three new Democratic members, will be less likely to oppose the Mayor's viewpoint.

"The Children's Festival Street Scene" opens today on the west side of the Statehouse. This 46-foot replica of a medieval village will be the stage for many Christmastime activities including puppet shows every hour, noontime carrolling by a variety of local choruses, and a Nativity Scene.

Tuesday will be the official date for the lighting of the Christmas decorations on the State Auto Mutual Insurance building on Broad-st at Washington, a holiday landmark.

OSU's Doug Van Horn has been named to the coaches All-American football team. Considered by Coach Hayes to be one of the most versatile linemen in OSU history, Van Horn has been drafted by two pro teams, Detroit of the NFL and Kansas City of the AFL.

The wind blew and the roof flew. That was the story early Saturday morning when the city was shaken by a teeth-rattling gale. The flying roof from the Howard Johnson's motel on W. Broad-st, left guests in 26-second story rooms more or less uncovered. Fortunately, there were no serious injuries.

The Franklin County Grand Jury has indicted the County Courthouse and Jail on charges of inadequacy and overcrowding.

In a special report following their annual inspection of the facilities, the jurors recommended that new facilities be provided as soon as possible.

The Columbus Metropolitan Housing Authority will purchase 16.5 acres of land at the southwest corner of W. Broad-st and Central-av for a Golden Age housing center.

The land, now part of the Columbus State School, is being purchased from the state for $275,000.

To operate the free chest X-ray cruiser, give tuberculin tests to school children and finance its other operations, the Tuberculosis Society of Columbus and Franklin County is seeking $212,000 from its annual Christmas Seal drive.

• • •

Though it may seem unlikely, Tuesday is election day. Voters in five eastern Franklin County school districts will be deciding whether or not to provide money for a joint vocational high school.

• • •

Mt. Carmel Hospital will receive a $400,000 federal grant to help pay for a 52-bed psychiatric unit. The hospital will come up with an equal amount of money for the project.

Sensenbrenner Appoints Sisson To Zone Board

The appointment of Earl B. Sisson to a six-year term on the Board of Zoning Appeals for the City of Columbus by Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner has been approved by City Council.

Sisson is a graduate of Ohio State University and is a partner in the firm of Sisson-Stern Realtors. He is secretary-treasurer of Estate Equity Corp. and president of Guilford Development Corp.

He is a member of the Ohio Association of Real Estate Boards, the National Association of Real Estate Boards and the Columbus Board of Realtors.

Sisson resides at 2109 Yorkshire-rd with his wife, Nancy, and their two children.

New Gallery Opens Dec. 5

Mrs. Mary Hayes, manager of The Cathedral Shop, 205 E. Broad-st, announced the opening of Columbus' newest Little Gallery. It will be located on the mezzanine of the Cathedral Shop and will be known as "The Loft."

The gallery will show better quality religious sculpture and painting. The first exhibit at The Loft will be "The Grailville Show" Sunday, Dec. 5. This will be the first in a series of efforts to reflect the renewal in religious art.

The public is invited to attend from 2 to 5 p.m. At 5 p.m. the exhibit will be closed, to reopen at 7 p.m. for the clergy and will close at 9 p.m.

For the Dec. 5 opening, Trina Paulus, an artist of the Grailville staff, will be in "The Loft" to discuss the artist's point of view. The discussion will not be carried on at the level of serious art philosophy but in a controversial manner so that one may better understand a time of change.

In the Grailville exhibit are some of Miss Paulus' works which have received national awards.

There will also be prints, wall hangings, sculpture and posters from the art production program at Grailville, which have been designed for family and school use and are most suitable for Christmas giving.

Mrs. Hayes plans a number of exhibits during the coming year and invites the public to attend.

Popular Music Show To Aid Local Performers

A group in the Columbus area has announced plans to start a new outlet for popular music here. The show, entitled, "Sheveree," will debut at the Ohio Youth Center on 17th-av, Wednesday, Dec. 22.

The purpose of the show, according to Raymond Jackson, spokesman for the group, is to provide a stage (and that all-important extra cash) for young rock 'n roll entertainers in the area.

He added that they hope to pull well-known performers from around the state — possibly from the Cleveland-originated ABC-TV show, "Upbeat," and eventually to get some big-name entertainers. Featured will be a group of dancers, made up of local youths.

Admission to the show will be $1.25 at the door. Proceeds will go toward building the show.

Interested groups, and those who wish to try out for the "Sheveree Dancers," are asked to call BR. 9-6804 between 8 a.m. and noon Sunday, Dec. 7.

AREA CAGERS TO GUIDE CRUSADER CAGE HOPES

Hartley's Ryan Named '161' Trophy Winner

Jack Ryan, Bishop Hartley grid mentor and "dean" of area high school coaches, was recipient this week of the Howard Johnson's 161 Trophy—presented each year to the area football coach "who has done the most with the talent available."

Ryan, who served at St. Charles for 26 years before moving over to Hartley two seasons ago, guided his Hawks to an 8-2 mark this past season. Hartley finished 3-5-1 in 1964.

OTHER NOMINEES for the award were John Thompson of Reynoldsburg (Raiders won final FCL title with 8-1-1 mark), Jim Anderson of Brookhaven (Bearcats were City League champs with 7-2 record) and Bob LeBeau of Franklin Heights (Falcons placed as runnerup in SSL with a 6-3-1 mark during "rebuilding" year).

Hartley's wins came over Eastmoor, Marion - Franklin, Hillsboro, Pleasant View, Lima Central Catholic, Walnut Ridge, Ready and Whitehall—the pair of losses coming at the hands of two tough Central Catholic League foes, DeSales and Watterson (combined record of 16-1).

Ryan was chosen by his fellow coaches from the Central Ohio area during a recent meeting of the Ohio High School Football Coaches Association.

"I'M PARTICULARLY pleased to receive this trophy," Ryan said, "because of the method by which the coach is selected.

"Any time your fellow coaches acknowledge your efforts, it's especially meaningful to a coach. I would like to thank Bill Caldwell for this beautiful trophy, my coaching staff at Hartley and a wonderful group of boys who gave a 100 percent effort for me this year."

The trophy presentation was made by Bill Caldwell, assistant manager of the Johnson's Motor Lodge and Restaurant located at routes 161 and 71, at an award dinner Monday evening.

A REPLICA of Ryan's trophy will be on display at the location.

HOLDING WORKSHOP

The Civil Defense Committee of District 12, Ohio State Nurses Association, is sponsoring an all-day workshop on resuscitation today (Dec. 2) at the Southern Hotel. Approximately 200 professional registered nurses and students are expected to attend.

5800 Receive Tests

More than 5800 people were tested for diabetes the week before last in the first diabetes detection campaign ever conducted in Franklin County. The blood test results, now being processed by the Ohio Department of Health Laboratories, will be completed this week.

Persons with "positive" test result will be asked to come to the Columbus City Health Department for more definitive testing and ultimately will be referred to their family physicians for final diagnosis.

The detection program was sponsored by the Central Ohio Diabetes Association in cooperation with the Ohio Department of Health and the Columbus City Health Department.

MAVERICK

With Muddy Shoes

By RICHARD L. PAUGH

The first annual Governor's Awards banquet was held in Columbus last weekend at the Deshler-Cole Hotel.

It was a combined effort of three powerful organizations — Sears, Roebuck and Company, the League of Ohio Sportsmen and the National Wildlife Federation. It was made possible through the Sears Foundation funds and the selection committee of the League and Federation.

Paugh

THERE WERE, in all, eleven awards presented by eleven different dignitaries. It made a very impressive ceremony—part sham and part truth.

Let me state first of all, I give a hearty cheer to the Sears Foundation for its interest in conserving what is left of our outdoor heritage. This shows me all is not yet quite lost to the thoughtless and miserly. However, I will take exception to some of the award recipients.

I believe recognition should not be given for a man who gets paid for doing the job he is hired to do. I say, if he doesn't do it, can him. Several receivers of awards were just plain doing their job.

TWO OUTSTANDING people justly getting recognition are the student from Mansfield, Charles Gramley and the posthumous award to J. Frank Atwood. I agree with a total of five out of the eleven awards — but that's a lousy batting.

If Sears Company really wants to directly benefit the outdoors, it might think more positively. One thing it could do is check out all suppliers of merchandise to make sure they don't use that bubbling brook in the side field for a sewer or cast off their foundry trash through an upright sewer called a smoke stack.

Although only ten percent of its sales is through the famous catalog, these catalogs go directly to rural America and are read religiously. Sears could set aside a section of about ten pages, showing in livid color just what happens to a creek filled with the silt of a too well plowed field or what happens when a farmer uses pellet fertilizer and pheasants pick up a pellet, or what happens to the game on a farm sprayed with perticides and insecticides.

I'M SORRY if I'm being too practical but I thought everyone wanted to talk about saving our land instead of how good his banquet steak was cooked.

Awards at the Governor's Dinner were:

• OUTSTANDING CONSERVATIONIST OF THE YEAR — Fred E. Morr—because of his organizational abilities and his projection toward the future that has greatly advanced the cause of conservation in Ohio.

• WILDLIFE CONSERVATIONIST OF THE YEAR—Sam Glines — for his constant devotion and endeavor to the welfare, preservation and propagation of Ohio's wildlife.

SOIL CONSERVATIONIST OF THE YEAR — OHIO SOIL AND WATER CONSERVATION DISTRICTS — for their sponsorship of programs helping all citizens to understand their dependence on soil and water resources, and their furtherance of the conservation education of farm-youth in these concepts.

WATER CONSERVATIONIST OF THE YEAR—Bryce Brown (Muskingum Conservancy District) for the nation's number one example of Watershed Development and Management.

FORESTRY CONSERVATIONIST OF THE YEAR — Robert E. Paton (director Ohio Forestry Association)—for his great contribution to the forest and forest products beneficial and necessary to Ohio's welfare.

CONSERVATION EDUCATOR OF THE YEAR — Robert H. Finlay (Ohio Dept. of Education) for his dedicated devotion to the youth of Ohio in his program of conservation in Ohio's schools.

• YOUTH CONSERVATIONIST OF THE YEAR — Charles Gramley, student, Mansfield—for his dedicated service through the establishment of food plantings, the construction and maintenance of winter feeding stations, tree plantings and other services beneficial to wildlife.

LEGISLATIVE CONSERVATIONIST OF THE YEAR —Harry L. Armstrong (Ohio House of Representatives)—for his application and determination to include conservation in all legislation affecting National Resources in proposed Ohio laws.

• CONSERVATION COMMUNICATIONIST OF THE YEAR — Don L. Weaver (Editor, Columbus Citizen)—for his love of nature, his constant and persistent aid to the outdoorsman through his writings, editorials and dedication to all of our nation's outdoor welfare.

CONSERVATION ORGANIZATION OF THE YEAR—Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs—for their general awareness and dedication to the cause of conservation in Ohio. (Maverick's note: If this doesn't make you laugh, nothing will.)

• SPECIAL LEAGUE OF OHIO SPORTSMAN AWARD J. Frank Atwood—in posthumous recognition of his years of devotion and outstanding legislative service to the sportsmen of Ohio.

(Maverick has marked (•) the awards he favors.)

Eastern Kiwanians Plan Christmas Fete

Kiwanis Club of Eastern Columbus will hold a children's Christmas party for members at Stoney Creek Country Club, Wednesday, Dec. 15, beginning at 6:30 p.m. A dinner will precede festivities, which will include songs, games, and a visit from Santa Claus with presents for the children. James B. Legg is chairman.

All Invited To Spend 'Evening With Levin'

Meyer Levin, author, journalist and artist, will open the second season of the Gordon Cultural Series of the Jewish Center Monday, Dec. 13, 8:30 p.m. in the center auditorium, 1125 College-av. Levin is the author of "The Old Bunch," "Compulsion," "The Fanatic," "Eva" and the just released "The Stronghold." The series of cultural events was made possible by the late Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Gordon, who created a legacy for the purpose. Everyone in the community is invited to spend "An Evening with Meyer Levin."

Gahanna Woman Killed In Accident

Funeral service for Patty Carter, 43, 283 Empire-dr, Gahanna, who was killed in an auto accident Dec. 3, was held Dec. 6 at the Schoedinger Funeral Home. Interment was in Union Cemetery. Police said Miss Carter attempted to pass a truck and her car spun on the wet pavement and struck two trees. Miss Carter was thrown from the car and sustained fatal head injuries. The accident occurred on Agler-rd west of Stelzer-rd. She was listed as dead on arrival at Riverside Hospital. Survivors include two sisters, Mrs. Hazel Falyers and Mrs. Alkie Conti, four brothers, Luther, Forrest, Don and R. L. Carter.

Junior High Holding Annual Food Drive

The Johnson Park Junior High School Student Council is holding its annual canned foods drive for needy families in the area. The drive started Dec. 6, and will end tomorrow, Dec. 10. Students will turn in donations of canned foods to student council representatives, who will give them to the Salvation Army for distribution. The program, instituted when the school was opened in 1958, is expected to bring in over 1,000 cans of food, according to ninth-grader Wayne Clayman, drive chairman.

TB Society Names Monday 'Do-It-Day'

"Do-It-Day" for the annual Tuberculosis Society's Christmas Seal Campaign is Monday, Dec. 13. That is the day set aside for those who haven't yet contributed for their seals. Some of the activities financed by the sale of Christmas Seals include free tuberculin skin tests for school children and free chest X-rays for the general public and industries. The society asks the public "Do-It" on Christmas Seal "Do-It-Day" Dec. 13 so that the TB Society can continue doing tomorrow. Send contributions to Box 209, Columbus, O., 43216.

445-ACRE ANNEXATION SOUGHT

A PETITION FOR ANNEXATION of 445 acres in Mifflin Township to Columbus has been filed with county commissioners. The tract is east of Cassady-av, south and east of Johnstown-rd, and lies along both sides of Stelzer-rd. The parcel of land is bounded on the east, south and west by Columbus. A Mar. 9 date has been scheduled for hearing before county commissioners.

Gahanna Council Seat Is Challenged

Area school teachers, as well as Gahanna residents, are keeping an interested eye on the outcome of the controversy over whether Joseph F. Spanovich will or will not be seated as a member of Gahanna Council Jan. 3.

"Teachers," Spanovich explained, "are interested in the outcome as an indication of whether they would be entitled to or denied the right to participate in their city governments."

Although Spanovich, of 5550 Taylor-rd, principal of Kae Avenue School in Whitehall, was second highest in votes cast in the Gahanna Council race, his right to the seat has been challenged as illegal under the village charter.

Village Solicitor James Butler ruled that a provision in the charter that councilmen, ". . . shall not hold any public office or public employment . . ." applied to teachers in public school systems.

Butler will seek an opinion from the Ohio attorney general.

Spanovich, however, expressed confidence that he would assume his council seat Jan. 3.

He pointed to another section of the city charter that says, "Council shall be the judge of the election and qualifications of its own members." Spanovich further cited a passage in House Bill 225, passed in the last general session, that says, "In all cases of doubt, the Public Employes Retirement Board shall determine whether any person is a public employe, and its decision is final."

The retirement board is already on record as classifying teachers as not being public employes.

And, finally, he referred

TREE SALE TO FINANCE KIDS' PARTY

TALL AND SMALL, all sizes in Scotch pine, balsam and pine, and all full and beautiful—Whitehall Firefighters are holding their annual Christmas tree sale at the Fire Station on Yearling-rd. Purpose of the sale is to finance the annual Christmas party for Whitehall youngsters, to be held in the Fire Station Sunday, Dec. 19.

Whitehall Solons Hear 'Riot Act'

A piece of legislation NOT introduced caused more excitement than any that was during Tuesday night's regular meeting of Whitehall City Council.

Paul Offenberg, a non-resident Whitehall businessman, read the "riot act" to council for failure to act on the long-standing request by E. Broad-st property owners for a $158,000 sewer construction project.

And the current council had plenty of company as Offenberg listed those he charged with breaking promises. He included past councils, former Mayor Walter B. Moling, present Mayor William H. Holzhause and Mayor-elect Paul J. Haytcher.

Offenberg predicted that E. Broad-st property values would decrease if council fails to act. He said Councilman Loren F. Mason, chairman of the service committee, promised that necessary legislation would be introduced at the Tuesday meeting.

Offenberg told council that a call to Mason Tuesday morning brought him the news that Haytcher had instructed Mason not to introduce the measure. In a follow-up call to Haytcher, Offenberg said, he was told the city did not have enough funds for the project.

Crux of the problem is the desire by both the city administration and council to incorporate the sewer construction with the proposed Collingwood-av road project. Combining the jobs would save the city money and avoid "tearing up" Collingwood-av a second time, city officials contend.

The subject brought a sharp exchange between councilmen Mason and Marvin H. Levine, chairman of the finance committee. Mason said he believed the city could afford both projects,

Say Men Paid Up Own Shortages

As two former employes of the county treasurer's office await the setting of a trial date on charges of embezzlement, the source of "restitution" funds remains a mystery.

The embezzlement charges were filed against Thomas M. Butler, 3546 Reading-rd, and Edward Richey, 30 S. Champion-av. Treasurer Newton A. Thatcher fired the pair after an internal audit of the office revealed that more than $22,000 was missing.

Officials in both the county and state auditor's offices maintain that Franklin County Treasurer Newton A. Thatcher did not file any official report of the shortage in his office. They say that a newspaper account of the internal audit was their first notification of the missing funds.

A report that restitution was made from the "flower fund" at the treasurer's office could not be substantiated

Gahanna Approves Levy For Schools

"Gahanna Schools can continue, now, their good educational program" — Calvin Leader, superintendent Jefferson Schools, was elated at the success of the local operating levy at the polls Tuesday.

First, unofficial figures showed 65 per cent majority in the levy's passage. Only 55 per cent of the votes was needed.

The levy, defeated in the November general election where it drew only 44 per cent of the votes cast, was re-submitted on Tuesday's ballot.

Its defeat then would have meant a drastic cutback in Gahanna Schools — ten teachers would have to be cut, building maintenance, their

Civil Rightists Approve Council; Promise De Facto 'Protest Action'

By The Spectator's
BETTY DAFT

Gratified that an advisory council will be formed to reach for solution to educational problems, but still not satisfied with the official stand on de facto segregation in schools — that was the reaction of Civil Rights workers attending the Columbus School Board meeting.

A 27-point report of phenomenal progress Columbus schools have made in providing educational programs for socially and economically deprived, presented by Dr. Harold Eibling, superintendent, was also met with approval.

Most of the nearly 100 on hand for the session were there "in silent protest" of the building program approved at the last board meeting, to include three new schools in predominantly Negro neighborhoods.

These, they contend, will add three new de facto schools to the Columbus system.

And, after the meeting, Rev. Arthur Zebbs, coordinator of CORE, indicated the Negro community was ready to "take action" if the school board and ad-

CORE held a caucus after the school board meeting, and drew up a message to be delivered to the school administration and the board, demanding that they suspend the present and future building program until plans can be submitted to the new council for review.

Parents in the Southfield housing development, site of one of the proposed schools in Negro neighborhoods, will meet tonight (Thursday) to oppose building a school on Southfield and Fultz-dr. They are circulating a petition to be submitted to the board.

THE NATIVITY SCENE as well as cookies for St. Nicholas Day, St. Lucy Day Cats, traditional plum pudding, cut-out cookies and a birthday cake for the Christ Child, was featured when the Central Deanery Diocesan Council of Catholic Women held the annual Advent Wreath blessing at the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts. The cookies were made by Mrs. H. J. Hans, left, and Mrs. John Medert. (Foto by Firestone)

WOMEN TAKE PLEASURE IN COOKING FOR CHRIST

Mrs. H. J. Hans of 108 N. Harding and Mrs. John J. Medert of 704 Sunbury-rd, have their own special way of heralding the advent season.

The two made the complete nativity scene from cookies, using the Belsnickle cookie recipe and nativity cookie cutters, and displayed it at the annual Advent Wreath Blessing.

Because of the many comments about the display and requests for recipes, the women have consented to share their holiday recipes. There is still time to bake St. Lucy's Cats which are to be served on St. Lucy Day, Dec. 13.

ST. LUCY'S CATS

1 cake yeast
1 tblsp. sugar
¼ cup warm water
¾ cup sugar
4 tblsp. shortening
½ cup raisins
1 cup milk
½ cup currants
2 tblsp. saffron
¾ cup hot water
1 tblsp. chopped citron
6 cups flour
1 tsp. salt
1 beaten egg

Add yeast and sugar to warm water. Scald and cool milk. When yeast mixture bubbles add to milk. Beat in shortening, sugar and two cups flour. Cover and let rise. Put saffron in three-fourths cup hot water one hour. Strain and add liquid to dough only for color. Combine fruits, flour and salt. Let rise again. Shape into oval buns with round heads. Add a tail if you wish. Use raisins as eyes. Brush with beaten egg and water and let rise again until it doubles in bulk. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30 minutes.

You may also use a hot roll mix or frozen bread loaves.

One of the most delightful customs that children always enjoy is the idea of a birthday cake for the Christ Child on Christmas Day. This can be made from any of your favorite cake recipes and then decorated. This is an excellent way to remind your children that Christmas is Christ's Birthday and not just the day that Santa Claus comes.

PLUM PUDDING

1½ cups brown sugar
4 tblsp. cocoa
2½ cups water or orange juice
⅔ cup butter
2 tsp. cinnamon
2 cups currants
½ tsp. cloves
½ tsp. allspice
½ tsp. salt
3½ cups sifted flour
2 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. baking soda
¼ cup chopped walnuts
½ jar prepared mincemeat

Mix sugar and cocoa. Add water or juice, butter, currants, spices and salt. Boil four minutes. Cool to room temperature.

Sift flour, baking powder and baking soda. Add to currant mix until well blended, stir in nuts. Pour into mold or angel food pan (well greased). Bake in oven one hour or more according to thickness of pan at 350 degrees.

This recipe was used for nativity figures and manger.

BELANICKLE COOKIE

This recipe is Pennsylvania Dutch.

1 cup melted butter
1 cup molasses
1 cup light brown sugar
1 tsp. soda
1 tsp. nutmeg
4 cups flour
1 tsp. each cinnamon, allspice, mace, clov
½ tsp. salt
2 tsp. ginger

First the butter, molasses and sugar you fix,
Then flour, salt, soda and spices you mix,
Now these ingredients together you blend.
Use large mixing bowl.
In the refrigerator, you chill the dough,
And on to the next step then you go,
To a floured board you take your bowl,
And ¼ inch thick the dough you roll.
Grease cookie sheet

Cut the patterns with a very sharp knife, like stars, birds, etc. Bake at 350 degrees for about 10 minutes.

MRS. JOHN MEDERT
704 SUNBURY-RD.

CHRISTMAS CUT-OUT COOKIES

2 cups brown sugar (packed)
1 cup shortening
2 eggs beaten
3 cups flour
1 tblsp. water.
1 tsp. soda
1 tsp. cream of tartar
1 tsp. vanilla
1 pinch salt

Grease cookie sheet. Cream shortening and sugar together. Add beaten eggs. Sift dry ingredients together, dissolve soda in water, add all and mix well. Chill for two hours or overnight. Roll out, use cookie cutters. Bake at 350 degrees until golden brown. When cool, ice with confectioner's sugar icing. Sprinkle with colored sugar.

ministration were unwilling to re-examine building plans for the new schools.

The "interest and intent" of the Columbus School Board in moving to meet "educational challenges confronting the city" by establishing the Council on Intercultural Education, was met with approval and pledges of cooperation by Rev. Phale Hale, speaker for CORE and NAACP.

The 17-member council, to be established within 90 days, will include parents, Civil Rights workers, teachers and interested citizens, appointed by the school board president.

Among the council's functions will be to confer with the school administration, study means of improving educational opportunities for disadvantaged pupils, and make recommendations to the board.

While commending the board for its action, and promising full support to the program, Rev. Hale also suggested that:

"The schools' building plans also be subject to examination and recommendations of the council."

Rev. Zebbs, after the meeting, said, "I do commend the board for taking this step (establishing the council). It lends a new dimension to the solution of problems.

"And I will ask Dr. Elbling to suspend all plans for building those three schools (in predominantly Negro areas) until the plans are submitted to the new council for scrutiny."

He also repeated that "there would be action — there would be protests" if the plans proceeded.

Zebbs also questioned the schools' programs for culturally, economically deprived youngsters:

"You have to properly define a problem before you can solve it. And the problem is not 'culturally, economically deprived youngsters. it is segregation.

"First find out what the deprivation is," he said, "and then move to solve it."

Council—

to the voters who had indicated their preference for him as their councilman.

"I will certainly not just give up," he concluded. "By stepping down I would be denying their expression of intent.

"And," he added, "I have no inteption of resigning from teaching. I am trained as an educator, have been one for nearly 14 years, and I'm happy in the teaching field."

Concerning teachers serving in public office, Spanovich pointed to the closing remarks at the general session of Ohio Education Association held in November.

"All teachers were encouraged," he said, "to actively seek public office."

YULE SHOW SET IN CITY HALL

Shortages—

by any county officials. Nor was there support for a report that restitution of funds was made by the two men by loans against their accounts with the Public Employes Retirement Service (PERS).

Employes covered by PERS cannot use such funds as legal loan collateral. PERS records show that Butler applied in October for normal retirement benefits, and did not request a lump sum settlement of his account. Employes eligible for retirement can waive extended benefit payments in favor of a single payment of the amount they have built up in their accounts.

PERS records show that Richey, as of Dec. 7, had made no application in connection with his account.

Thatcher told The Spectator that he followed "normal procedure" in his handling of the fund shortages. He said that Butler and Richey were called into his office on the morning the cash shortage was revealed.

Both men, he said, made restitution of the missing funds on the same day they were confronted, Aug. 24. He said the bonding company was notified on the same date.

Thatcher said that each man made personal restitution of the missing funds charged to each. The funds were not secured from any "flower fund" source, Thatcher emphasized

A source close to Thatcher told The Spectator that much of the criticism aimed at Thatcher was unwarranted.

"When the state auditors came into the office, they knew everything that Thatcher did," he said. "Thatcher found what the state auditors had been unable to find for years, and he is the only one who moved with any speed in this whole thing.

"Thatcher could not have determined the question of prosecution. This was a matter for the county prosecutor's office, on the basis of the state auditor's report," he said.

Vocational—

the people voted — was it a vote against vocational education, or against education, or against more taxes?"

Only Canal Winchester passed the bond issue and the operating levy with sufficient majority — 55 per cent was needed for the operating levy, and 60 per cent for the bond issue.

Gahanna passed both issues, and Madison the bond issue, but not by sufficient majority.

And both issues were defeated soundly in Reynoldsburg and in Whitehall.

First unofficial count was:

• In Canal Winchester—bond issue, 443 for and 288 against; operating levy, 436 for and 292 against.

• In Gahanna—bond issue, 1126 for and 1042 against; operating levy, 1208 for and 1043 against.

• In Madison—bond issue, 476 for and 473 against; operating levy, 458 for and 484 against.

• In Reynoldsburg—bond issue, 614 for and 1054 against; operating levy, 596 for and 1058 against.

• In Whitehall—bond issue, 460 for and 764 against; operating levy, 449 for and 762 against.

Federal matching funds of $1.4 million for construction of the building are now lost—they will go to another Ohio district who is qualified for help in establishing a vocational high school.

Another effort, if it is launched, would mean either that local districts must assume the entire cost themselves, or the proposal must be re-submitted for approval, and matching funds be requested again.

Solons—

and that he favored introducing legislation for both jobs.

Levine chastised his fellow Democrat for not attending Saturday caucuses of council and asked "Did you ever once check with the finance committee?" (on availability of funds for the combined projects).

Haythcher brought the hot discussion to an end by saying that the city will act when availability of funds permits concurrent scheduling of the two projects. He said he expects to give and get cooperation in setting up a priority list for the needed city improvements.

During the business session, council passed an ordinance authorizing payment of $1,831.05 to the Franklin County Civil Defense office as the city's 1966 assessment.

Also approved were three resolutions accepting deed easements and one to accept a quit-claim deed.

An ordinance authorizing the service and safety directors to advertise for bids for a service and maintenance contract covering city vehicles was read by title only. The proposed contract would include gasoline and oil purchases.

Also introduced, by title only, was an ordinance calling for installation of a traffic signal on Yearling-rd at the entrance to the Defense Construction Supply Center.

Levy—

operation and teaching supplies would have suffered.

And the two new schools now under construction could not have been opened next fall — there would have been no money for teachers or operating funds.

Passage of the 5.3 mill operating levy — 2.3 mills renewal and the rest additional—will continue schools' operation on their present level of quality instruction.

Leader had expressed full confidence that voters would approve the levy Tuesday.

"I am sure," he had said, "that they did not understand the necessity for the levy when they defeated the issue in November."

East Columbus Recreation Center

Starting this Saturday, East Columbus Recreation Center will begin two new programs. Elementary dancing will be offered as well as elementary tumbling.

More information is available by calling the center, BE. 1-6428.

Girls physical activities are held Tuesdays from 4 to 6. The junior girls are now concentrating on basketball.

The teen club is still open for new members. Any teenage boy or girl who wants to take part in the social and service projects may attend the club meetings, Wednesday evenings from 7:30-9.

MAVERICK

With Muddy Shoes

By RICHARD L. PAUGH

After the first courageous explorers trapsied across the Ohio country, making their crude charts and standing off the natives, the first white dwellers were the trappers.

Equipped with flintlock rifles and a long knife, they put up elementary shelters at the joining of two rivers and would use them as a base of operations. Between the raunchy Delawares, the night-prowling lions and the foraging bears, they had their work cut out for them.

THEIR TRAPS were usually make-shift deadfalls and the smart men brought beads and such to trade up to furs from the local gentry. Sometimes, after the trade was consummated, the trappers had to throw in a scalp for boot.

Paugh

The swinging item back then was the beaver pelt — for 150 years beaver have been gone but are now returning over our eastern counties.

Today's rural teenagers are finding a fine hobby and a tidy income in modern day trapping. Although fur prices are not at their best right now, they slide up and down without a great deal of change through the years.

YOU MUST first have a hunting license (at any age) unless you trap only on the land where you live. Secondly, you must tag each trap with your name and address. No snares or deadfalls may be used now.

Muskrat is the commonest fur with coons, skunks, mink and beaver following in about that order. A good adult rat brings about $1.25, coons about $3.50 and mink (in prime pelt) from $6 to $8 it pays to shop around for the top buyer if you get a mink).

Traps run from 75 cents to $1.50 and if you are using new ones, set them out ahead of the season and let them get a bit rusted and "de-people-ized."

THE MOUNTAIN lions and grizzlies are gone but the local gentry still pose a problem to the trapper. Instead of losing their scalps to the Indians, they now lose their traps to perverted outdoormen.

No matter what part of the state a trapline is set, it's a real lucky season when no traps are stolen. By the way, let's not confuse SPORTSMEN with PERVERTED OUTDOORSMEN. There's a great big difference.

Most rural hardware and sporting goods stores carry a full line of traps and tags. Muskrat trapping calls for No. 1 traps, coons and skunks will stay put better if larger traps are used — No. 1½ or No. 2. By law, if you are going to try for beavers, you must use a No. 3 and you must have written permission of the landowners.

THE MOST effective way to trap for muskrats, mink and beaver is to find where they enter the water and stake the trap about six inches below the surface of the water. They are creatures of habit and once you figure their habits, you're in business.

There is a lot to learn about trapping and preparing the skins for sale. The best way to begin is to find a local person who is willing to go out with you the first time and show you how to do it. After claiming your pelts from the traps, they must be carefully skinned and stretched on frames in order to get top price.

It's a cold, lonesome hobby but the real reward is your greater enjoyment of the outdoors. Rubber boots and gloves are useful but not necessary.

HERE ARE the local fur buyers. Their licenses must be renewed by Jan. 1. However, there is very little change from year to year:

Bowling is never stronger than proprietors want it to be. A group of energetic lane managers help make Columbus a strong bowling town. Promotions and tournaments add the spice beyond league play.

Locals welcome such tournaments as the second annual Cancer Memorial Bowling Tournament (Jan. 3 opening) as announced by Herman Criswell, Columbus BPA president. We'll introduce you gradually to some of the "good guys."

TAKE THE Winkels (from "Winko," where else?) — Jerry, Jack and Senior and Junior Bob. Not only promoters but real bowlers in their own rights. Go out on Monday nights and watch the fast Commercial league in action.

Changes in personnel are designed to give strength and new blood perks up lanes. Been to Scioto Lanes lately? Jim Irwin (formerly night manager at Riverview) is treating this spot to a new look and it's definitely friendly.

Local Junior Bowling is receiving a much deserved boost with Sequoia's "Beat the Celebrity." Johnny Jones set a 540 (with handicap) for women, and Lou Berliner fired an even 600 for men — 35c of your 50c entry fee goes for promotion of bowling for our youngsters.

300's ARE HARD to come by in league or open bowling. Earl Armentrout slammed one in at Olentangy but, not being in league, he wins only satisfaction in knowing he can do it.

Flo Seeds is Columbus' only woman to accomplish this feat —and it was in the '50-'51 season. Gary Slyh did it sanctioned in the 1963-64 season but ABC's 1964-65 records have not yet been released.

Bowlers should slow a little on Route 33 and look at the National headquarters for women's bowling — 1225 Dublin-rd. Membership fees for women's leagues help keep this efficient organization serving nearly three million women keglers.

IN OLDEN times the faithful rolled stones across the churchyard at wooden pins (kegels). Your piety determined your success. Far cry from today, eh?

But national figure, Dick Weber, recently rolled three 300 games in one Houston tournament. What does that make him?

Tip of the week — Stick on the approach? It may be static electricity formed by walking on rugs. So to be perfectly safe, slip a cloth covering over your shoes if you must leave the lanes for any reason.

Of course, remember to remove the protection when you get up to bowl again.

'WE'LL HAVE FUN'--OWEN

Nine Veterans, Diving Prospect Boost Bexley's COSL Hopes

By JACK WITTENMEIER

(This is the second in a series of two articles previewing area entries in the Central Ohio Swimming League).

BEXLEY

Despite nine returning lettermen and a fine diving prospect, Lion swim coach Russ Owen holds a high degree of respect for COSL tradition.

"It'll be Arlington again," Owen remarked in a quick scan of Bexley's loop foes. "Nobody will come close," the Lion mentor added. "Academy's probably good for second again and the rest of us will have fun."

THE LION tankers have had only three days of practice under their belts and look likely to miss graduated Greg Antle ("was capable of swimming any event and swimming it well") and Mike Robins, one-fourth of Bexley's (school) record-breaking 200-yd freestyle relay quartet.

But the Lion swimmers look capable enough to duplicate a fine 8-4 mark of last season and possibly climb up a notch in COSL warfare (Bexley closed fourth last season).

Pacing the returnees are senior co-captains Bob Kahn (100-yd. breaststroke, medley relay) and Pat Leach (a returning leg of 200-yd. freestyle relay team).

OTHER SENIOR vets who should keep the Lions "in the swim" this winter are Larry Ringer (backstroke, medley relay), Rod Cosset (backstroke, 200-yd. individual medley), Dan Miller (100-yd. butterfly, medley relay) and freestyler Steve Samuels.

Junior letterman A. J. Myers returns to adapt his land (track) speed to the water in the 200 and 400-yd. freestyle events.

A pair of sophomores — Dennis Maupin and Colby Crall — round out Bexley's vet lineup, both swimmers joining Leach to bring back three-fourths of that record-breaking 200-yd. freestyle relay team.

CRALL, incidentally, also specializes in the 50 and 100-yd. freestyle events.

Owen figures his Lion tankers will exhibit strength in the 50-yd. freestyle, backstroke, 200-yd. freestyle and diving categories.

Optimism for that latter effort is centered around frosh prospect Danny Kayne.

Academy 5 Green In Rugged '65 FCL

Academy will have three returning lettermen from last season's 11-8 team to build around for competition in a tough Franklin County League.

Academy won its opener last weekend with a 63-61 squeaker over University, and that is a pretty good opener.

BACK WITH coach Phil Hess for the 1965-66 season are Neil Larrimer, John Fulford, and Steve Mahaffey.

Hess rates his Vikings a little shy on the experience side, but big on hustle.

Other members of the Viking squad are: Herb Douce, Mike French, Mike Gerstenfeld, John Hammond, Stan Lisle, Steve Southard, James Walker and John Whitney.

Cap Mat Team Has Local Flavor; Ted Georgeff Is Named '65 Coach

Capital University's wrestling team opens its '65-'66 season Saturday in a quadrangular meet at Ohio U.

Four area matmen are included in the Crusaders' starting lineup — Eastmoor's Jim Blackwell (160) and Dave Morris (177), Walnut Ridge's Tim Hansley (167) and West's Harry Raduege.

It will be Cap's first effort under new Coach Ted Georgeff, who replaces Don Woodland (recently elected to Columbus City Council).

Georgeff, who served at the mat post in 1961, has served for the past two seasons as assistant coach and trainer of the Crusaders' grid team and is also head baseball mentor at Whitehall-Yearling High.

Capital's only other preholiday meet is scheduled against Ashland (at home) Saturday, Dec. 11.

'No Holding That Tiger' In Loop Opener; Bexley Wins BAC Debut

By BOB WHITMAN

The talented Fast Tigers opened their 1965-66 cage campaign with an 84-60 City League win over the taller Marion Franklin.

The Tigers, netting 44 per cent of their shots and dishing out a huge helping of its rugged full court press handled the Red Devils easily after they overcame a 16-14 first period deficit.

IN OTHER area action last weekend, East fell Saturday night to a cool group of Salem basketballers 83-72, Hartley bowed twice, to Linden 78-55 and to Pleasant View, 74-63, Grove City licked Gahanna, 52-31, Bexley took a Buckeye opener 45-40 over Delaware, Whitehall fell to Worthington 58-43, Canal Winchester buffaloed Academy 60-45, Arlington dropped Eastmoor, 58-53, Bexley slugged Gahanna, 49-39, and Linden roughed up Walnut Ridge, 72-28.

East couldn't turn off Salem's Doug Plastow's shooting arm as he netted 28 points to stop East on the Salem floor.

GIL MATTHEWS had 28 against the Red Devils and managed only 14 at Salem, Luther Curry also fell back by getting 20 on Friday and only clanking 12 times Saturday.

Vance Carr stayed with the rugged Marion Franklin rebounders, getting 10 and whipped through 11 points.

Randy Smith, a 6-5 sophomore, netted 21 over the two days.

EXCEPT for a two minute span in the second period, Hartley reeled in the wake of Pleasant View's slick shooting and pressurized defense.

HARTLEY MOVED from a 16-7 deficit with 4:35 remaining in the second quarter to a 17-16 lead with 2:40 left.

From then on, however, it was the slick Panthers' show.

THE SPECTATOR SPORTS

They set up a patterned play with a needling press that was applied when it wasn't expected.

Carl Salyers dropped in 31 points for Pleasant View while the Parker duo was handling Hartley's offense. Denny Parker was high with 20 and brother Doug netted 12.

IN THE CBL OPENER, veteran studded Worthington, triggered by Boo Hill's 21 point night, shot down Whitehall, 58-43.

The Rams fell behind 8-5 at the first quarter stop, 23-15 at half, and couldn't seem to get on the right track from then on.

Mike Tarleton's 17 points led the Rams.

BEXLEY, behind Dave Johnston's 17 and Pat Lemmon's 15, took a 45-40 opener in Buckeye Conference play from Delaware.

The Lions charged back from a 26-20 halftime deficit.

GAHANNA OPENED another year in the rugged Mid-Eight falling to Grove City, 52-31.

The Lions couldn't stop the scoring of chief Greyhound Jack Lawrence as the three-year vet pitched in 18 points.

Gahanna was paced by Mike Shaffer's 11 markers.

Academy pulled off a 63-61 win over University.

The Vikings were paced in victory by John Fulford's 21 points and Steve Mahaffey's 18 markers that offset Gary Brown's 20 tallies and Gary Johnson's 17 and Pat Lemmon's 15, took a 45-40 opener in Buckeye Conference play from Delaware.

LINDEN HANDLED Walnut Ridge as big gun Pat Beveridge was held to five points.

Academy couldn't come back after Canal Winchester rolled up a 21-10 first quarter edge and John Fulford netted 17 points in the losing effort.

Eastmoor took its bout with Arlington into an overtime before yielding to the unbeaten Golden Bears.

GARY COCHRAN netted 10 points and 5-10 Eric Walz popped 20.

Chuck Bosse's 16 points and Mike Shaffer's 15 tallies couldn't handle unbeaten Bexley.

The Lions were paced by Dave Johnson and Mac McCloy who netted 15 and 14 points respectively.

LINDEN WAS hard on the area basketball teams over the past weekend. The Panthers clipped the Walnut 72-28 and whipped the Hartley Hawks, 78-55.

Hartley was paced by Doug Parker's 17 points, brother Denny netted eight but sat out most of the time because of foul trouble.

Jack Geist put 10 points on the scoreboards as the Hawks record dipped to an 0-3 mark.

Scotties Honor X-Country, Grid Athletes At Assembly

Walnut Ridge awarded 44 varsity football and cross country, and 25 reserve football awards last week at a special school assembly.

Selected honorary '65 co-captains.

Cruse voted "most valuable lineman"; Weller, "most valuable back," and Amos "most outstanding sophomore."

Jewish Center Sports Roundup

Four games — four victories and four defeats — told the whole story last week as the girls from S. T. P. wrapped up the 1965 volleyball championship.

This was their fourth consecutive win and possibly their most impressive as they edged past the Lazarus team 16-14 the first game and followed that by completely overpowering their opponents 15-2 in the second game.

Leading a well balanced attack for S. T. P. were Carole Zelizer, Julie Paine, Maurena Freedman and Steffie Harnett.

Susie Gutter and Arlene Katz were the offensive leaders for Lazarus as their team ended up in third place with a 2-2 record.

Gahanna's Rifle Club Victorious; Seeks Opponents

Gahanna's Junior Rifle Club fired it's first competition match against the Westerville Junior Rifle Club recently.

The Gahanna Club, still in its first active year, fared very well.

Scoring 90 (or better) out of a possible 100 were: Vern Walker, — 95, Dale Bowcott — 93, Barb Vano — 93, Julie Powell — 92, Phil Chapman — 92, Rusty Russell — 91, Marty Marsch — 91 and Cathy Jones — 90. Overall team scores were: Gahanna — 92 average and Westerville — 61 average.

The Gahanna team is looking for other Central Ohio Junior Rifle Clubs with which to compete. Please contact Maj. Powell (471-1364) Mr. Jones (866-1573) or Mr. White (471-8080) for further details.

FRONT ROW SEAT — Worthington's John Savage (10) couldn't have asked for a better spot to watch teammates Mike McCluskey (42) and Scott Crates (20) battle Whitehall's John Bankes (with ball) for this rebound. Trouble was, Savage had just collided with the Rams' Lewis Anderson (not pictured) and was slightly indisposed at the time. Story had happy ending for Savage, however, as the Card cager returned to action shortly later, scoring 16 points to pace Worthington to 58-43 win over Whitehall. (Staff photo by W. Harley Groom).

Ram Matmen Win Opener

Pin wins by Mike Decker (112), Steve Beery (120), Gene Ochsendorf (133) and Randy Nichols (138) paced Whitehall's grapplers to a lopsided 32-16 "opening" dual win over Circleville last week.

Bruce Upperman (103) and Herb Seymour (165) got additional Ram wins via decisions while Spike Ludwig, Ken Schmitt and Ken Flowers battled their opponents to draws.

Sporting Chances

JACK RYAN, Hartley football coach who received the Howard Johnson's '161' trophy last week as the area coach who did the best '65 job with the talent available, came up with the top quip of the evening.

In his acceptance speech, Ryan commented: "I think I'll start my own award next year for the kids who do the best job with the least amount of coaching — and present it to (Brookhaven coach) Jim Anderson."

Eastmoor's Bob Stuart, one of 12 area coaches on hand to honor Ryan, asked the Hartley mentor to autograph his program after the ceremonies.

Ryan signed with an 'X'.

REYNOLDSBURG baseball coach John Thompson reports a pretty unique situation in line for his Raider nine next spring.

Reynoldsburg departing from the Franklin County League after basketball season and entering the Metropolitan League, will aim for baseball titles in both loops — playing both Metro and FCL schedules.

BEST WEAPON to fell deer in Ohio's District One during the past two months was Henry Ford's contraption.

Drivers ran down 25 deer in the District while hunters accounted for 14 during the same period.

DAN WINTERS, Fish Technician for the Ohio Wildlife Division, passes on the following tip: "To keep pond fish from suffocating due to lack of oxygen in water under ice this winter, keep a portion of the pond at a depth of at least eight feet."

This should keep the fish alive under normal conditions even in the presence of a continuous ice cover.

Three Area Wrestling Champs Open Hopeful 'Repeat' Campaigns

Sixteen more area high school wrestling squads raise the curtain on '65-'66 mat schedules this week as the new season gets under way on a large scale.

Sixteen area dual matches begin today and extend through next Thursday.

HEADLINERS include Pleasant View's evening (7 p.m.) visit to Worthington tomorrow, Franklin Heights' hosting of Hamilton Township Saturday and Brookhaven's big stop off at West a week from today.

Bob McMahan's defending CBL champs—minus the outstanding Mitchell twins (composit '64-'65 record was 44-1)—have 10 returning vets to send against Bob Mowrey's Panthers, the SSL runnerups hurting this season with only three vets back.

Franklin Heights (defending SSL champ) has only six returnees but one of Coach Bob Twiss's charges is District champ Dick Grambo at 112. Hamilton, under new coach Dario Gatti, is experiencing personnel problems and at last report didn't have a full 11-man squad.

BIGGEST match of the first full week of high grappling is the West-Brookhaven affair which could go a long way in pointing out the 1966 City League champion.

Gary Allen has four Bearcat vets back and believes his squad could duplicate last season's effort when B-H won every major tourney it competed in and went unbeaten in dual matches.

Cowboy coach John Butler is also optimistic and has seven returning lettermen to boost Bronc hopes for improvement on a third-place City Meet finish last year.

HERE'S the week's mat schedule:

TODAY

Hamilton Township at Circleville (3:30).

Marion-Franklin at Mifflin (4 p.m.).

Marysville at Grove City (4 p.m.).

Ready at Ohio Blind School (4:15).

Bexley at Whitehall.

Incorporation Papers Are Filed By 'Let Freedom Ring' Group

Sponsors of the controversial "Let Freedom Ring" telephone messages are growing in number, but are continuing the policy of refusing to discuss "LFR" activities with news media representatives.

Local "LFR" originator William N. Ohly, Westerville, has been joined by two others in filing incorporation papers with the Ohio Secretary of State.

Known as "Let Freedom Ring of Ohio, Inc.," the nonprofit corporation lists as officers Ohly, Miriam R. St. John and Paul W. Leithart. Mrs. (Wayne F.) St. John, 2182 Crawford-rd, confirmed for The Spectator that she is one of the incorporators.

Mrs. St. John declined to comment over the telephone or agree to a personal interview on "LFR" activities. But when first contacted she suggested that any questions concerning "LFR" be submitted in writing, and said they would be answered.

In a subsequent phone conversation, however, Mrs. St. John told The Spectator that only Ohly would answer any questions. She said the decision was reached in a meeting with Ohly, and that he, as "LFR" originator, would be best equipped to answer questions.

But a call to the Ohly residence confirmed that he has not relented from his steadfast refusal to talk with reporters. Ohly's wife, asked if he would continue to refuse to answer any questions about "LFR" activities, replied:

"That's probably the truest statement you ever made."

The first public document detailing the purposes and intended scope of "LFR" was filed as part of the incorporation procedure. The incorporation papers list "LFR's" purpose as follows:

"To gather and disseminate by all legal means and media the history and proud heritage of the United States of America. To educate and remind the citizenry of the truism 'Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty.' To educate and remind the populace of the means whereby our ancestors developed and preserved our free republican form of government.

"To carry on such an educational program, the corporation shall raise money by any legal means, which may arise from time to time. Such fund raising shall be conducted in the name of the corporation, and shall encompass both the solicitation of voluntary contributions, and the exchange of tangibles. All funds thus derived shall be devoted to the necessary expenses incurred in carrying out the educational program described supra." (above).

The incorporation papers were filed Nov. 30, according to a spokesman for the secretary of state. Earlier Spectator stories had pointed out that "LFR" was not registered with any local or state governmental office.

The incorporation makes "LFR" subject to state statutes governing filing of expense statements and securing a vendor's license for sale of literature.

Bricker Letter Incident Ends With AAUP Decision

The OSU chapter of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) this week ruled that it found "no clear violation of the principles of academic freedom" in a letter John W. Bricker sent to Dr. David Kettler recently.

Kettler, an OSU political science professor, had said earlier that he thought Bricker, an OSU trustee, used his trustee position to "improperly pressure a faculty member."

However, the local AAUP did call the Bricker letter "intemperate and injudicious." The group also urged OUS President Novice G. Fawcett to try to prevent the recurrence of similar incidents.

The Bricker letter was sent to Kettler in response to a letter Kettler sent to the Internal Revenue Department. Kettler asked the federal agency to investigate anti-Communist publications distributed locally by Dollar Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Kettler said he thought the company might be deducting the cost of the publications as a business expense. He added that he did not think the "propaganda" should be tax deductible.

Dollar Federal officials said they thought the publications, written by former FBI agent Herbert Philbrick, are a legitimate "advertising expense."

In the letter to Kettler, Bricker said in part: "It seems to me this is a pretty small matter for a college professor of your standing and dignity . . . If throughout my life I had spent my time on such irrevelant matters as this, I would have accomplished very little."

Kettler said he was "essentially satisfied with the AAUP's decision about the letter, but added that he hopes the Internal Revenue Department will launch a full scale investigation of the Dollar Federal publications.

Old National Road Chooses Play Monday

The Old National Road Company of Reynoldsburg will gather in the Lex Mayer's Chevrolet meeting room, 5055 E. Main-st at 8 p.m., Monday, Dec. 13. Dr. Edmund L. Komraus announced that excerpts of probable plays will be read to the group and a choice will be made for its next production. All members and prospective members are invited to attend.

Observations To Be Given

Sabbath services at Temple Tifereth Israel will begin at 8 p.m. Friday, Dec. 10. Arthur B. Westerman, secretary of Congregation Tifereth Israel, will speak on "Some Observations of Viet Nam." He recently returned from a three week trip to Southeast Asia under the sponsorship of the Department of Defense, Advance Research Projects Agency, Project AGILE. An Oneg Shabbat (Sabbath tea) will be held in the social hall following the services.

Services on Saturday morning start at 9:15 a.m. Rabbi Nathan Zeliger's topic will be "Using Freedom to Destroy Freedom." Cantor Stanley Burstein will chant the traditional liturgy for both services.

Bar Mitzvah Set For David E. Zox

Rabbi Samuel W. Rubenstein and Cantor Philip H. Gellman will conduct the Friday, Dec. 10, 8:15 p.m. service at Agudas Achim.

Rabbi Rubenstein's sermon topic will be entitled, "The Steps Necessary For Victory." Mincha and traditional Kabolas Shabbos services will begin at 4:45 p.m.

Saturday morning services commence at 9 a.m. Rabbi Rubenstein's sermon topic will be entitled, "The Strength Of Innocence."

David Elliott Zox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Zox, 177 S. Gould-rd, will celebrate his Bar Mitzvah Saturday, Dec. 11.

Holiday Postal Deadlines Given

Postmaster Victor J. Bodish announced that parcel post and stamp windows at neighborhood stations will be open from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 11 and that windows at the Main Post Office and Parcel Post Station, 50 E. Spring will be open from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 12.

All Christmas gift parcels and "out-of-town" greeting cards must be mailed this weekend to insure pre-Christmas delivery. The deadling for mailing cards for Columbus delivery is Wednesday, Dec. 15.

Bodish said, "A Dec. 15 deposit of 'local' greeting cards permits our handling of the large influx of mail from other cities and still insure Columbus mailers a pre-Christmas delivery of their cards."

Starting Friday, Dec. 10, all mail boxes will be collected at intervals of approximately three hours and additional collections will be made on Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 11 and 12.

Christmas cards should be deposited during the morning hours to avoid the afternoon rush of business mail. Depositing cards at your delivery station, in mailboxes on main throughfares or boxes located in the downtown area, which are collected more frequently, will expedite handling at the Main Post Office.

Bodish added, "Make certain all greeting cards are separated into packets and each bundle indentified with one of the 'local and out-of-town' labels left in the mailbox by the postman and that bundles of cards are tied securely."

Dog Licenses Now On Sale

The 1966 dog licenses are currently on sale according to a statement made by Arch J. Warren, Franklin County auditor. The deadline for purchase without fine is Thursday, Jan. 20.

Those not having an application can obtain a license by mail. Submit a description of the dog (sex, age, color, breed, and whether it is long or short-haired) and the owner's name and address to the Franklin County Auditor's Office, Dog License Division, Court House, Columbus, Ohio 43215, together with a self-addressed, stamped envelope and the appropriate fee. All dogs three months or older Jan. 1, 1966 must be licensed.

Licenses purchased on or before the Jan. 20 deadline are $2 each; thereafter, a $1 penalty is added. Kennel licenses are $10 each through the Jan. 20 deadline, after which there is an additional $5 penalty assessment. Those purchasing tags by mail are urged to send no cash; rather, they should remit only by money order or check.

Licenses are being sold at two locations: at the Court House Dog License Division (Mound-st side of the Court House basement), Mound and High-sts, and at the Humane Society Animal Shelter, 2770 Groveport-pk.

The offices of County Auditor Arch J. Warren are open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Mondays through Fridays and until noon on Saturdays.

Columbus, Ohio, Thursday, December 9, 1965

The Transit Challenge

One of the first orders of business when the new Columbus City Council convenes in January should be a realistic appraisal of present and future problems in the area of mass transportation.

The present council was advised by the Citizens Transit Study Committee to establish a Transit Authority and purchase the Columbus Transit Co. (CTC), now owned by the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co.

The C&SOE notified city officials almost three years ago of its intent to divest itself of the transit company. The CTC franchise with the city expires in June, 1966.

The study committee included representation from 32 civic, service and neighborhood groups. It was sponsored by the Development Committee for Greater Columbus, and won the full cooperation of the Sensenbrenner Administration.

The committee's recommendation for city purchase of the bus company cited the lack of interest on the part of local people to purchase the CTC. But a roadblock developed. A contrived publicity campaign by a downtown afternoon newspaper promoted the erroneous impression that there was a bona fide offer by local private enterprise.

When the "paper" offer of purchase fell through — to the surprise of no one — the study committee repeated its recommendation. The present council continued its game of "stall 'til fall — it's an election year."

The challenge now goes to the new council. Here's hoping the newly-elected members have saved copies of their campaign platform. The mass transportation problem was in the second plank.

Oh Promise Me....

From out of our little do-it-yourself campaign kit comes the following suggestion for the potential 1966 gubernatorial candidates:

Make your chief pledge a promise to bring 400,000 new jobs to Ohio. Don't say when, just say you'll do it. With new jobs for the state averaging 100,000 a year, and with the promise of continued prosperity on the national level, you can't miss on this one.

As an alternative, you can promise 200,000 jobs — again not saying just when. Then — if you win election — you announce at the end of your third year that you have exceeded your pledge by 100,000 new jobs. This makes for good campaign fodder in your re-election bid.

If you have any doubts about the soundness of this political stratagem, just address your questions to the present occupant of the governor's office.

A Deal Worth Sealing

Christmas and Christmas Seals come only once a year, but the money contributed to the annual Christmas Seal campaign continues to work all year long.

This year, when you make up your Christmas gift list, put a gift of health on the list. Make a special note to answer your Christmas Seal appeal letter, and make another note to be sure that your Christmas cards and packages carry the Christmas Seal with them.

Last year, the Tuberculosis Society of Columbus and Franklin County provided free chest X-rays to 52,267 persons in Franklin County and found 1,577 with chest ailments—not only tuberculosis, but other serious respiratory diseases, heart conditions, lung cancer, tumors and other chest problems.

The society's mobile X-ray unit visited 108 different community locations for the general public and serviced 100 firms, giving X-rays to more than 25,000 employees.

Over 33,000 school children were offered the tuberculin skin test, and more than 28,000 took advantage of the opportunity.

The work accomplished by the Tuberculosis Society is made possible solely through the support given its annual Christmas Seal campaign. Wouldn't you be proud to be a part of this work? You can be, simply by answering your Christmas Seal appeal letter. Do it today.

Defeating The Reds

Spectator Staff OPINION

Can you love communists while at the same time hating Communism?

Our initial reaction to this question would be "Certainly not! Who can have anything but contempt for those who would take away from us our God-given freedoms?"

But, as despicable as some communists may be, Communism is a way of life, followed by many people of high personal integrity and ideals, and great feelings of warmth for their fellow man. The fallacy, of course, is that they sell man short; they deny the existence of his immortal soul.

Because the dedicated communist does not believe in God, his mission is to create a heaven on earth. Because he denies God, he sees man only as a high-type animal and himself as little more than leader of a herd.

The greatest threat to the dedicated Communist is the man who knows himself as a creature of God; for this man looks beyond the temporal to an eternal heaven with his Creator. And the God-centered man knows how to hate sin while loving the sinner's immortal soul.

And the very soul of man is the ultimate prize in the struggle between communists and non-communists. If the communists have some advantages in the battle, they are these:

While every non-communist is a target, many remain neutral or unconcerned when they should be participants in the battle against Communism. And, while our nation may boast more "announced" anti-Communism groups than ever before, these "armies" often have not adopted God as their Supreme Commander.

Certainly it is not enough for us to say that Communism will not prevail because it is anti-God — and then withdraw from the arena of combat. But it is equally wrong for us to adopt the battle rules of Communism in order to gain a "victory" that would reduce us to the level of Communism.

The battle against Communism is, first and foremost, a personal struggle; a positive crusade for OUR way of life; a crusade of all religions, bound together by the single spiritual goal to which we all aspire.

We will defeat Communism when, by our example and our apostolate, we bring to the communist and potential communist the knowledge that he has an immortal soul; and when we bring to that soul the peace of God's love. — FRANK RYAN

Calling Ohioans

By MICHAEL V. DISALLE

Before Ohioans have been given an official accounting of the 1965 State Fair, announcements are being made with reference to next year's attractions.

Is this again a paper curtain attempt to hide the facts on this year's fair from the people? One wire story which received sketchy coverage reported that revenues from this year's fair will exceed $1,000,000, but that profits probably will be about $30,000. This is a far cry from the optimistic claims that were being made and the padded attendance figures.

The State Fair has an important role to play in Ohio. It can give incentive and motivation to agriculture, industry and science. It can give our youngsters a place to compete and to display their achievements. It can truly once a year be a picture window through which we can witness the past year's progress and the future's hope. Here, too, there is room for recreation and entertainment. A well managed midway can be an important incident to the fair.

There is reason to question what elements of costs are included in the accounting system which produces a probable $30,000 profit on $1,000,000 in revenue. Some of the questions that should be answered, but which probably will not be, are as follows:

1. Are the salaries of state employes assigned directly or indirectly to the fair included as a cost of the fair?

2. Who are the people who receive the thousands of complimentary tickets that are being distributed? What standard of distinction is used through which thousands pay their way and others receive gratuities?

3. How many dollars other than to salaried employes are paid out in fees and commissions and for what?

4. How much money is being paid to public relations firms and are they, in turn, making payments to consultants and others?

5. Would more be gained by the State of Ohio if large fees being paid to entertainers would be used in the 4-H Club programs and for the encouragement of research in agriculture, industry and science, by the establishment of hundreds of advanced scholarship programs?

It is doubtful that a state auditor who owes his appointment and his political future to the Governor who appointed him will do much in-depth digging to produce answers to these pertinent questions. It is true that policy decisions will not be his to make. However, the dollars and cents questions are his responsibility. It is also true that some expenditures may be legal but questionable from an ethical or policy viewpoint.

In these situations the people are entitled to know the facts in order that they can have this information in the exercise of their democratic prerogatives.

Is All Fair With The Fair?

Letters To The Editor

Wants Names On Letters

To the Editor:

Under new management your paper has shown decided improvement, especially in coverage of political news and editorial policy. I am, however, disturbed at your policy of publishing unsigned letters to the editor.

Although there is undoubtedly some risk involved in expressing an opinion on controversial matters, it is a risk most concerned citizens in a democracy should be willing to assume.

Higdon C. Roberts, Jr.
345 E. Beaumont-av

(Editor's Note: Policy varies from newspaper to newspaper, and we, too, prefer to publish names of letter writers. Realizing, however, that such persons on occasion are subject to harassment, or even job-jeopardy, we withhold names upon request. These requests must bear a signature, however, or the letter is not even considered for print.)

Appreciate Coverage

To the Editor:

Perhaps all too often we take faithful reporting and newspaper coverage of events around us for granted. I'm sure this is so with those of us involved in school work in general and those in athletics in particular. We become accustomed to such services and more or less expect them without really stopping to think about the person or persons who make them possible.

In an attempt to prevent ourselves from falling into such a pattern, allow me, on behalf of the entire coaching staff and the school administration, to express our deepest appreciation for the fine coverage your sports pages have given our school during the school year. Please extend our gratitude to all concerned.

Once again, a big "thank you" for a job well done.

Tax Change Needed

To the Editor:

With all of Gov. James Rhodes' boasting, and his propaganda slogans and junketeering, the end result will see very little accomplished in the way of attracting new industry, unless there is a decided improvement in the fundamental tax structure of the state.

The two essential changes needed in the Ohio tax system to induce new industry and encourage expansion are: (1) The personal property tax on machinery and equipment should be reduced from 50 percent to 40 percent of the real value. This will bring relief on the exceedingly high personal property tax bill.

(2) The present corporation franchise tax formula also should be revised. It forces a certain percent of Ohio industry to pay double taxes—first on the origin of manufacture and second on out-of-state destination.

Gov. Rhodes is wasting many thousands of dollars of the taxpayers' money on his questionable and unsound methods of trying to bring new industry to Ohio. It appears that he has hypnotized and fooled lots of good people and innocent newspaper editors with his grandiose political schemes.

Suggests Housing Relief Plan

To the Editor:

I note with some amusement the editorial comment in the last issue of The Spectator concerning the so-called Golden Age Village of Ohio. Our national government has been doing the same thing for years, thus we must assume that these editorial comments were politically tinged.

A law recently was passed that permits governmental agencies to purchase old homes, repair them, and rent them to those who are being ousted from their homes by slum clearance and Urban Renewal.

Those who own an old home and have tried to sell it before the creeping slum of that section made it absolutely worthless, know that it is practically impossible to sell such homes — when a new one can be bought as cheaply as rent.

Why can't we convince the building trade that it will pay to erect new homes, minus the present load of utilities and furnishings that many old persons do not want or all ready have?

Let the government either purchase the old home outright or trade a new one on it, as part payment of the new one. In short, stop kidding the old folks and make it possible for a man and wife who have raised their family in a perfectly good older home, that is now too big for them, to either trade it in on a new one, or sell it so that they can purchase another that more fits their present age.

But above all, let's stop making a political football of housing, old people, and persons who are confined in an institution.

THE CLEAN COUNTRY

by Jenkin Lloyd Jones
Editor, Tulsa (Okla.) Tribune

If you searched for one adjective with which to describe Canada, you might choose the word "clean."

There is none of the sad, sweet smell of decaying vegetation, and accumulated offal that characterizes tropic lands. There is very little crumble and ruin. Canadian junkyards and garbage dumps are still moderate in size and widely scattered. For the wonderful thing about Canada is that it is uncrowded. It will remain uncrowded for years to come. And, where mankind has not become an inconvenience to himself by his own numbers, the milk of human kindness flows freely.

On Canadian trains you still taste the thrill that our immigrant ancestors must have felt when they looked with amazement upon corn lands broader than the countries from which they came.

Canada is still rough-sketched, a country yet in the plastic clay. The peace of New England may have settled on Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, but Saskatoon booms with a new potash strike and Edmonton and Calgary, each trying to top the other with new skyscrapers, are roaring.

The North is not as big as it looks. Above the wheat there's a thin band of trees, and beyond the trees the muskeg and the tundra, clouded with mosquitos in the brief summer and dead-frozen from September to May.

What man cannot cultivate he can only mine, and the mineral wealth of the North has been lightly probed. There may be new Maracaibos beyond the proven oil of Leduc, and other mountains of rich hematite beyond the iron hills of Ungava. The prospectors are deep in wilderness now and the magnetometer planes criscross ridges and valleys that never felt a human footstep. But we may not have a very clear idea of what is locked in Canada's icebox for another 20 years.

Still, Canada is a strip country. It is 2,700 miles long and 1,600 miles wide, but practically all its population lives within 200 miles of the American border. And, because 60 percent of its exports go to the U.S.A. and about 25 percent of its imported capital investment comes from it, it would be remarkable if many Canadians didn't look upon the Colossus of the South with awe and even fear.

This is expressed in many ways. There is the strange new press law that forbids Americans from controlling any Canadian newspaper or magazine, and which disallows as a business expense any advertising by a Canadian firm in an American publication. Ironically, the most active foreign buyer of American newspapers is a Canadian.

There is the peculiar confusion in which Canadians alternately criticise President Johnson for telling Americans to slow down foreign investment, and in the next breath denounce Americans for trying to "buy" their country.

Many Canadians seem compelled to prove their independence. Your Canadian friend smokes with ill-concealed enjoyment a fragrant Havana cigar. Since Red China purchases 112 million bushels of Canadian wheat Canadian howls against U.S. "aggression" in Viet Nam have skyrocketed.

But we err, too. The demand by the Securities and Exchange Commission that all Canadian companies having more than a million dollars in assets and more than 300 American stockholders send full reports to the SEC is one example.

Yet somehow these points of friction vanish when you chat with your companions in the dome car and glide down the North Thompson gorges or climb through the Spiral Tunnels to Kicking Horse Pass. These are an energetic, able people. It's a clean fine country. And it's good to be next door.

Steel bars do not a prison make, especially if they can be cut through and bent.

Early Saturday morning, Artie Blankenship, 34, somehow managed to make an opening for himself in a small window on the second floor of the Columbus Workhouse. Though only six weeks away from the end of his confinement, Blankenship escaped and, as of this writing, has not been caught.

Blankenship, who was serving time for a previous escape from the workhouse, apparently did a better job this time.

His original sentence was for vagrancy.

A similar escape was made from the Columbus City Jail earlier this fall. Escapees on that occasion were returned to jail the same day.

Nation Wide Sets Record

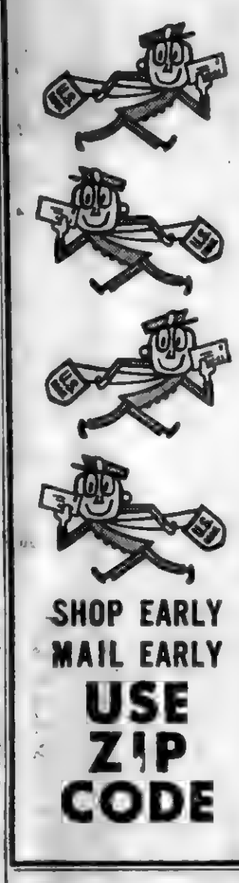
Nation Wide Employment Service 21 E. State-st, has set a record for the past three months in various phases of the agency's operations, according to a release from Ray E. Graham, owner and general manager of the firm.

In addition to placing a record number of applicants, male and female, Nation Wide has added several new categories of employment in the professional and industrial fields, Graham announced.

"The growth and success of the company is due to 30 years of successfully satisfying both employers and applicants," Graham said.

Junior Theatre Dates Showings

The Columbus Junior Theater of the Arts will present Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" for one performance Saturday, Dec. 11, at 2 p.m., aand two performances Sunday, Dec. 12, at 2 p.m., and 4 p.m. in Battelle Memorial Auditorium.



There are still plenty of seats for the 4 p.m. performance on Sunday, but the other two shows are practically sold out.

Tickets are available by calling Mrs. Scott Henderson, ticket chairman, at 888-2728.

VX-6 ENDS
Battery Worries
Did you know your battery can last the life of your car?
Money-Back Guarantee
contained with each unit.

Open the cap hood and look at the battery. The green or white formation you see on the terminals and posts is lead sulphate (sulphation). —Your battery is deteriorating. This is also taking place inside your battery, building and growing on the plates and clogging the pores that absorb the fluids in the cells. Cold weather raises the viscosity of the fluids making battery operations more difficult.

SULPHATION WILL GRADUALLY AND SURELY BE THE DEATH OF YOUR BATTERY.

One application of VX-6 added to any new or older battery prevents and cures this battery cancer. Don't wait until your battery fails — prevent it now.

VX-6 is positively not harmful to batteries. Even major battery companies will tell you this. Also, it is harmless to the skin or property.

VX-6 is used by railroads, contractors, truck and auto fleets, municipalities, factories and industries of all types.

For larger type batteries write for information.

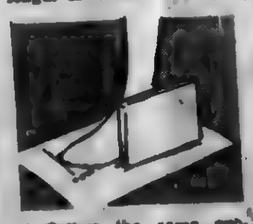
Armchair shopping for slippers and costume boots is easy this way!

When measuring a child's foot measure the left one, and be sure to have the child sitting, rather than standing up. Let the foot rest lightly on the blank paper.

Lazarus gives you these tips, because little feet grow so rapidly, few parents know the child's actual shoe size. This way, if you are unable to bring the children in, we hope to be of service to you.



1. On a blank sheet of paper draw a line for starting point. Set heel in place, against a book, to keep child's foot in place.

2. Set a knife-blade straight up and down at the front of the longest toe; mark with a pencil at this point; make a line across.

3. Use the knife-blade to mark the widest part of the inside ball joint . . . and then marking it carefully, draw a straight line the length of the foot.

4. Follow the same procedure to mark straight line from the outside of the foot. Then trace the actual outline of the child's foot, within the rectangle, and include with mail order coupon.

Jaycees To Finance 'Kids' Shopping Spree

Eastern Jaycees will once more make the season happier for underprivileged children by making it possible for them to observe Christmas in its true spirit—giving gifts to their loved one. Jaycees will sponsor 80 children on a shopping spree, by giving each $5 and taking them to Town and Country Shopping Center where they may spend the money as they choose. "Last year," one Jaycee commented, "not one of them spent a penny on himself. They bought gifts for their mother and father, sisters and brothers." After the shopping trip the youngsters, aged six to 12, will be taken to Holy Spirit School, where they will be treated to a turkey dinner with all the trimmings. And Santa Claus will also be on hand, with a gift for each of them.

Dick Sensenbrenner To Seek House Seat

Richard C. (Dick) Sensenbrenner, administrative assistant to Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner, his father, will file as a Democratic candidate for the Ohio House of Representatives from the 61st District. The West Side-Hilltop district is one of seven created in Franklin County as the result of reapportionment of all state Senate and House districts.

Temple Tifereth Israel To Dedicate New Hall

Professor Abraham Joshua Heschel, professor of Jewish ethics and mysticism at Jewish Theological Seminary of America, will speak Saturday, Dec. 25, during Sabbath morning services dedicating the new social hall at Temple Tifereth Israel, 1354 E. Broad-st. Rabbi Seymour Fox, dean of the Teacher Institute, Jewish Seminary, will be guest speaker during Friday evening services. The dedication is in memory of Emil and Sarah Mendlowitz, parents of Samuel M. Melton and Mrs. Herman M. (Myrtle M.) Katz.

Bexley's Torch Editor Claims Another First

Mimi Deaton, editor of Bexley High's newspaper, "The Torch," was the first place trophy winner in the on-the-spot news coverage category at the High School Press Club's annual workshop, held at OSU. Mimi also was winner of the Ohio State Grand Trophy, top prize in state-wide competition held during the Journalism Association of Ohio Schools' annual conference, at OSU in November. Other Bexley students winning awards in the High School Press Club's competitions were, Alice Schottenstein, feature division; Barb Golden, news, and Mark Kaplan, sports.

Central Market Merchants Get Vacate Order From City

The long-delayed demolition of the 117-year-old Central Market now appears certain in early January following notice to stall operators that they must vacate the markethouse by Dec. 31.

The order came from the city's Service Department after Service Director Warren J. Cremean was instructed to repair or demolish the dilapidated structure.

Cremean got his orders from the city's Department of Health and the Building Division of the Department of Safety. These departments repeated previous findings of safety hazards and lack of sanitary facilities.

In other Central Market developments:

• Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner's latest veto of council-authored legislation to effect a 50-year lease for a Central Market operation on city-owned land was read at Monday's council session.

• The mayor released an "open letter" on the Central Market controversy in which he repeated his stand of being opposed to subsidation of private market merchants without being against continuation of Central Market as such.

Council's Monday meeting, billed as the last meeting of the year, was recessed, rather than adjourned, because of unfinished business on the agenda. This will afford council the opportunity to override the mayor's veto in a reconvened session before the lame duck council term ends Dec. 31.

But any council action on the proposed lease agreement could not become effective before mid-January, and would be rescinded by the new council.

The mayor's Central Market "white paper" said in parts:

"I want to stress first that I am not opposed to Central

Bexley High Santas To Take Christmas To Essie; Ask Aid

Many in his improverished community, as well as his own family, will benefit from a proposal made by a ten-year-old boy in Essie, Ky., to Bexley High School.

The boy, in a letter to the school, told of his family's need, and offered to exchange some Christmas greens that he could gather for used clothing, and perhaps some toys for younger brothers and sisters.

The letter was turned over to Student Council, and members, under the leadership of Brent Blackshaw, president, are leading the drive.

Baskets of clothing, toys, and canned food and staples have already been donated, and Student Council will purchase a ham.

The community is invited to participate in the project. Deadline for donations is tomorrow, Friday. Items may be delivered to high school, delivered to the high school, or people may contact Brent, 930 Vernon-rd.

On Saturday, all will be loaded on a truck loaned by Davidson Greene Volkswagen, and driven to Essie.

"We hope to help many in Essie," Brent said.

After the young letter-writer's family of seven has been supplied, the rest will be taken to the school in Essie for distribution to the community's needy families.

"It's so nice," Brent said, "that the boy did not ask for donations — he offered to exchange with what he had, Christmas greens."

The greens will be used for decorations for the school's New Year's dance.

SANTA HAS 'CURB SERVICE' FOR KIDS

HEY, KIDS, LISTEN for the bells — they announce the arrival of Santa's big, white, decorated truck that is traveling up and down residential streets. Sponsored by 76 independent merchants in the Eastern area, the program was designed to bring Santa to the kids. He has for each child, a bag with candy, coloring book and crayons, and for their parents, coupons for services from some of the participating merchants. Theresa, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Reichley, 97 Pinewood, was one of the delighted visitors at Santa's motorized "sleigh."

18 Condominium Units Proposed In West Bexley

The proposed Drexel Village — a condominium of quality town houses on a two-acre tract along Alum Creek at 405 Westland-av — received a "favorable consideration" vote by Bexley zoning commission, and is now ready for council procedure.

Allowing for the law-prescribed time lapse for consideration, and for informing adjoining residents and holding a public hearing, the measure should be ready for action by February.

And the "no man's land" on E. Broad-st from Parkview west to the bridge, where Bexley's three-lane traffic lines have been allowed to fade away until Columbus' two-lane markings are visible, was up for discussion.

Council also passed an ordinance limiting the west side of College-av parking from Mound-st to Livingston-av to two hours between 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., as was requested by residents.

Councilwoman Mrs. Ruth Mann brought the question of no lane markings, which she had been asked by residents, to council for an answer.

It was conceded that an absence of lane lines on the busy highway was a problem, but the situation would be the same at which ever point it occurred — there would still be a point, some place between the outskirts of Bexley and Columbus, where three lanes of motorists merging suddenly into two would have to "fight for it."

Mayor William Schneider, defending the often-criticized narrow, eight-foot, three-inch lanes, pointed to the approximate same narrow width of Columbus' new left-hand turn lanes on E. Broad-st.

And, he added, "There has never been an accident in Bexley caused by the narrow lanes."

Council advised that the entire E. Broad-st traffic picture was currently under study by the safety committee, and that an effort was being made to arrive at solutions.

The proposed Drexel Village, a project of developer Dwight D. Defenbaugh, would be similar to his French Quarter in Marble Cliff, Toll Gate in Worthing-

"SIGHT" FOR A BLIND man, and a good life for a dog that needed a home — Princess, a German shepherd donated by the Raymond Pickels family of 691 Westphal-av, and Emerson Plunkett, who traveled from Mississippi to the Pilot Dogs Center, 625 W. Town-st, to obtain a guide dog, completed their training program together.

'Sight' Is Gift Of Five Area Children

A new world of opportunities; a chance to earn a living and achieve a degree of independence, is the Christmas gift to a blind man from five east area children and from generous ones whose contributions support Pilot Dogs, Inc.

Because of Princess, a two-year-old German Shepherd given by the Raymond Pickels family of 691 Westphal-av, to Pilot Dogs, and the training program she received at the center, a Sardis, Miss., man is able, for the first time in 11 years, to face the future with hope.

And the new year for Emerson Plunkett, unemployed since he was blinded in an automobile accident in 1954, shines brightly.

With Princess' help he'll be able to operate a news stand in downtown Sardis; with her eyes as his sight he may safely travel through the city, on buses, elevators and escalators, and through heavy traffic.

Plunkett's story is repeated 50 times each year at Pilot Dogs Center.

Class To Tell Birth Of Jesus In Song, Story

The annual Christmas program put on by the Sunday School of Messiah Lutheran Church will be held at Reynoldsburg Junior High, this Sunday at 7 p.m.

Each class in the lower grades will have a part in unfolding the story of the birth of Jesus, in choral speaking and appropriate music. Special costumes and properties will be used to enhance the message. Parish Education chairman, Robert Chuma, is in charge.

Treats for all children attending will be distributed following the program.

Knights Serve Bishop Hettinger

The Knights of Columbus provided an honor guard for Bishop Hettinger, Auxiliary Bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Columbus, during the administration by the Bishop of the Sacrament of Confirmation to adult Catholics, Dec. 12, at St. Joseph Cathedral.

William P. Downey, faithful master of the Central District of Ohio, led the honor guard, assisted by Thomas J. Scherrer of the Columbus General Assembly, and Frank Boehm, William Buehl, William F. Hooker, and Alfred Sanese. The knights were attired in the colorful full dress cape and chapeau uniform of the fourth degree.

Bishop Hettinger acted for and in the name of Bishop John J. Carberry, who had not yet returned from the final session of the Second Vatican Council in Rome.

Robert Hirschberg Bar Mitzvah Dated

Sabbath services at Temple Tifereth Israel will be held Friday, Dec. 17, 8 p.m. Rabbi Nathan Zelizer will speak on "The Bill for Progress — A Chanukah Sermon." An Oneg Shabbat (Sabbath tea) in the social hall will follow.

Services on Saturday morning begin at 9:15 a.m. Rabbi Zelizer will speak on "Two Impulses." The Bar Mitzvah of Robert David Hirschberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Hirschberg, 144 S. Ashburton-rd, will be celebrated.

GUEST PULPIT

God Entrusts Us With His Wealth

There was once a man who owned great stores, factories and mines. He also owned huge farms and ranches, with cattle and fields, woods and lakes. He was a very, very wealthy man.

Rev. Conning

He had a large family of sons and daughters to whom he entrusted the management of his affairs. One looked after a store, another a subdivision, another an apartment, another a factory, another a mine. Each child was responsible for a particular part of the huge possessions.

One child, however, said, "I will make my own way in the world without help from my father or anyone else." He planned and worked very hard. Yet, when Christmas came on a certain year, he was full of anxiety about the mortgage on his fine home, the cars and his children's education.

His father sent him a letter as his gift at Christmas as he did to all his children. In the excitement of opening packages, the letter was caught up unopened, in the bundle of wrapping paper that was carried out to be destroyed.

"Your father didn't send us any present at Christmas," the son's wife complained. "And after all he has done for my brothers and sisters," the son concluded.

As the weeks passed, the father wondered why he had heard nothing from his son. "My gift was enough to relieve my son of all anxiety, to pay off the mortgage, buy a new car and provide for his children's education," he thought. "Most of all I wanted him to know that I am his father and want to back him up in every good venture. This was my gift of security."

Another son was given the gift of joy to add to his plodding, conscientious life. This present was opened and put to use.

To another was given the gift of love, and to another he gave the great gift of salvation.

The meaning of the parable is this, God is the wealthy Father. We are his children to whom He has entrusted particular parts of His great possessions.

At Christmas He offers us that present which is most necessary for each one of us, His Son, Who brings to one the love for which His heart aches, to another security, to another peace, all this and heaven too.

Some will let Christmas pass without even opening or using God's presents. There will be too much wrapping and trimming and tinsel to get to the biggest present of all, God's gift of love and salvation.

Others will gratefully receive the ever new gift of God's love, joy, peace and salvation.

The gift of God's love was given at Christmas 2,000 years ago. The question is, do we accept, receive and use His gift in 1965 as He intended?

The Rev. Keith Conning

Husband And Wife Present Art Works

A special exhibit of religious art is featured this month at Scottwood Community Church, 3330 Scottwood-rd. The work is by John and Luray Schaffner, a husband-and-wife team of artists, both of whom are graduates of the Columbus College of Art and Design, and recipients of awards from various art groups. Their work has appeared in the Columbus Art League Shows at the Gallery of Fine Arts, the Ohio State Fair, and the Columbus Festival of the Arts.

Both Old and New Testament themes are included in their show of sculptures, drawings, and collages, with special emphasis on the Christmas season. The church is open week-days from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., and on Sundays, 9 a.m. to noon, and 5 to 7 p.m.

This exhibit is ecumenical in nature, as it embodies the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish religious motifs.

Center Sets Fix-It Day For Women

"Hammers, Pliers, Hairpins and You" will be the next topic for the Jewish Center's Strictly For Women program to be held Monday, Dec. 20, 1 p.m. in the center library.

Bill Weise, center mechanical and repair expert, will deal with simple home repairs, such as electrical plugs, irons, drapery hanging and picture hanging. He will conduct a practical exercise in "how to help your husband do the job."

Mrs. Leonard Bidney, chairman, urges every woman to bring small home appliances which are in need of repair to the center for this unique afternoon program. "We promise to teach you how to fix them, at least until your own mechanic comes," Mrs. Bidney concluded.

In announcing this third session, Mrs. Bidney said, "answers to your questions about the mechanics of your home will be discussed."

In addition, a specially designed program will be provided for children while their mothers attend this program.

PAST OFFICERS TO BE HONORED

All past officers of the Altar and Rosary Society of Holy Spirit Church are being honored at their Christmas meeting tonight, Dec. 16, 7 p.m. at a potluck supper. Mrs. E. R. Berger, Jr., will be the moderator of an Advent program. Mrs. E. Thompson, Mrs. James Toomey, Mrs. Joseph Eckstein and Mrs. Lawrence Nolan will read from the Holy Bible and Mrs. Carl Wertner, Mrs. Donald Richardson and Mrs. Frank J. Ryan will lead the responses.

Mrs. Joseph Eckstein is in charge of the social hour to follow. Old jewelry will be collected to be sent to the Missions according to Mrs. Edward Weisenforth, general chairman.

Education's Plight

School officials in the districts affected by the defeated vocational school bond issue and tax levy are looking for answers. Are the people against vocational education, against all education, or against taxes per se?

It is difficult to know what the people said in the balloting, because less than 25 percent of the eligible electors even bothered to vote. But, as a beginning, we suggest school officials look to the state administration, and to their own public relations programs.

In the gubernatorial campaign of 1962, Ohioans were promised that the state would join in a 50-50 partnership with local governments in the area of public education.

Surely education leaders knew this was a hollow promise when coupled with a pledge of no new or increased state taxes. They (and the children they represent) are paying now for the silence of three years ago. The 28 percent contributed to public education from state-controlled taxes is less than before the "grand partnership" was promised.

People are realizing that the "no new tax" pledge really means shift the financial burden to the local school districts. The local taxpayers are in rebellion. But the state administration is too far removed, so the voters vent their anger against the educators.

But local boards of education are not entirely blameless for the hard times ahead they now face. For too long they have remained aloof from both politics and the public. The leaders in education must now come all the way down from their ivory towers. They and their board of education members must join in a concerted, continuing public information campaign.

This means no more "soft-pedaling" of bond and tax issues in hopes that they can maneuver to the polls only those they know to be "friendly" to their cause. Instead, they must shout the education "cause" to all the people.

Those who direct the campaigns for proper tax support of education must be prepared to do battle in the political arena, as well as the arena of public opinion. They must abandon the philosophy of asking for the stars in hopes of getting the moon.

The cause of education will be best served when leaders in the field determine what is essential, and then carry this message to the people they serve, and in language they will understand.

When this is accomplished, both the educators and the people can go to the politicians with demands the lawmakers will not dare to refuse.

Bicycle Built For Two

Season To Be Wary

An article in the December issue of the FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin tells of two men who shoplifted a canoe by simply walking out of the store with the merchandise over their heads.

They were arrested when they came back for the paddles.

Clearly, this is a case where it would have been better to be up the creek without a paddle.

But the FBI message really was in a more serious vein. It pointed out that the Christmas season, with its attendant hustle, bustle and crowds, is a prime season for shoplifting.

And local law enforcement officials warn that the pickpocket is out to take advantage of the same conditions. Add to these warnings the message from the Better Business Bureau that 'tis the season for the "fly-by-night" merchant and the "one-shot" so-called bargains.

We don't mean to take the fun out of Christmas shopping. But it's true that the season that brings out the best in us also brings out the worst among us.

Goal: Tidier Junk Yards

Columbus City Council's attitude toward the demands of the administration usually has been far from permissive.

But last summer when Mike Dorrian, assistant safety director, asked for an amendment which would brace up the out-dated and impotent ordinance controlling junk yard operation, he got it.

A pat on the back for the work done to bring the city statute up to state standards was even thrown in for good measure.

But exactly what will Dorrian do with the weapon he has been handed?

Will he go gunning in earnest and initiate court action against those who refuse to comply?

Or will he, after Jan. 1 when the amendment becomes effective, issue a snow storm of citations and allow them to melt away under the warmth of empty promises?

The eyes of the operators are upon the department.

So are those of the public.

Both want to know if the city really means business.

Rigid enforcement has been promised.

If this promise is broken, our local government becomes a party to the operators' defiance of the law.

You've got the ammunition, Mike. Go get them.

Calling Ohioans

The cause of good and improving government rests in large part on the knowledge of its citizens.

In order to achieve a sophistication in this pursuit, it is necessary to penetrate a world which, in part, lies beyond a wall of platitudes and cliches.

Oftentimes this increasing higher and thicker separation is built in part by those who scoff at their use. This is truer than not in a capital city.

To stretch Will Rogers' overworked quotation, "I have never met a man I didn't like," it must be said that this instinctive human feeling very often permits the existence of a basic danger to democracy.

It was possible for Benedict Arnold to betray his country because of his service to it and the consequent confidence, adulation and respect which resulted. This is, of course, an extreme case. It would be impossible for a spy to be effective if he declared his purpose.

It is also true that some of the greatest dangers to government come not from those who are being watched and labeled as politicians, or registered as lobbyists, but from those who want to be known as respected citizens. Under this cloak they operate in some cases to the detriment of their fellow citizens but always in their own selfish self-interests.

The Manipulators

These persons are not known as five percenters, they may or may not have a party label — but, regardless of the results of an election, they personally never lose. They are quick to climb aboard some new vehicle. Many times they are engineers and manufacturers of their own.

Sometimes they sell influence, more often they sell influence they don't have. They build the bridges between political parties and economic segments, but only in exchange for fees, not pro bona publico.

It is necessary that they at least maintain a superficial knowledge of what is going on, and of course a skeleton here and there doesn't hurt. A necessary tool is entry into at least a few major mediums of communication. This becomes important from the standpoint of building a barrier against exposure. Also, it is a weapon which can be used to destroy or at least to drop poison against anyone who has the temerity not to go along with the need for power and fees.

It would not be good to run for office because the illusion of power might be destroyed, and furthermore the label of politician might be affixed. It doesn't hurt to be mentioned for important office, but never as an active candidate.

It also helps to be openly for all currently popular causes, even though it might be necessary to attempt to sabotage a truly good cause within the confines of a closed room.

A great attribute for perpetual success is great mental and physical agility, a complete lack of consistency, and an ability to shun loyalty except to one's self.

If I personally had to make the questionable choice between the venal, obvious self-seeking politician and the polished, slippery respected self-seeker whose very existence depends on sharp political practices, I would have to select the former.

The harm would be less, but it is to be hoped that an informed electorate will some day help to preserve democracy by being able to detect and discard both.

Letters To The Editor

Good Church-Teen Approach?

To the Editor:

Re article Dec. 9, "Church . . . Rock ' Roll":

More and more we are beginning to see a prostitution of the Church's message and witness by the frenetic endeavors of "modern" church staffs to be "hip," "tough" and anything but spiritually effective in their approach to the teenage rock 'n roll [redacted]

When one has lost the message of spiritual quickening and the impetus of holy boldness, the next thing to do is to capitulate, for it has been said, "if you can't lick 'em, join 'em." Even the most sullied "hood" is hip enough to see through such a pretentious "come-on."

The church that must resort to cajolery and condescension in order to reach the jet-set is in worse shape than those hoods (???) they would herd into the church . . . . . and for what? "For if the trumpet give an uncertain sound, who shall prepare himself to the battle?"

The effective ministry among teenage hoods being conducted in New York City by such successfully committed organizations as Rev. Dave Wilkerson's Teen Challenge Center ("The Cross and The Switchblades") and Jim Vaus of "Wiretapper" fame, belies the assertion of "hipness" as being the come-on it's purported to be.

Those men preach Christ and pull no punches in the process. The result is redeemed, reclaimed and useful citizens for today and future tomorrows.

Rev. Harold L. Turner

Move The Clunkers

To the Editor:

Ohio lawmakers passed a law giving enforcement agencies the legal right to impound junk cars, trucks, etc. after certain provisions have been complied with, but they did not go far enough. They should give them power to remove them from private property and immediately sell them for junk.

The junk dealer could haul them away, store them and the busy police would not have to touch them. All they would have to do is issue notices to owners of such junkers and if they failed to remove them in the time prescribed by law, the police would issue a permit to the junk dealer.

I watched from a rear window this week as five clunkers were assembled on one corner. They were in all stages of junk and from the same window were two more than had sat there for months.

The Columbus law stipulates that cars must be moved every so many hours, but again the police alibi, "We do not have the manpower to check upon these" is causing our city streets, alleys and back yards to become a disgrace to the "All-American City."

R. M. Hartman

Our Viet Nam Policy

To the Editor:

All right-thinking people realize that in Viet Nam we are fighting for freedom and democracy, and that we are there at the urgent invitation of each and everyone of the 10 democratic governments elected in that country in the past three years—including that of Madame Ngo Dinh and Ngo Dinh Diem.

It seems that we have some criticism in this country of our policy in Viet Nam; but I stand firmly with our silver-tongued orator, General Eisenhower, who says that any subject who criticizes the President for conducting a war at any place at any time, is disloyal and probably treasonable!

I can hardly wait for my draft notice!

J. D. Thomas

Asks For Compassion

To the Editor:

Two mothers in the news who try to get their children out of a society because they do not know how to cope with it themselves . . .

Our society demands that women depend for their security on men. When men take away that security, women do not know what to do. Better almost that they kill rather than reject and neglect the children as men do by spending time away from home and their money on non-essentials.

All pretending Christians should rally around these families and try to find out why, so that this thing can be avoided.

THE DOWNBREEDERS

by Jenkin Lloyd Jones
Editor, Tulsa (Okla.) Tribune

Women who seek Government subsidies for illegitimate children are likely to produce children who will be net liabilities to society, not assets.

In a recent issue of U.S. News and World Report Dr. William Shockley, co-winner of the 1956 Nobel Prize for physics, stated that the current theory, so enthusiastically proclaimed by many of our politicians, that by improving environment we can get an automatic improvement in people with high failure records, is open to doubt.

"Many of the large improvident families with social problems," says Doctor Shockley, "simply have constitutional deficiencies in those parts of the brain which enable a person to plan and carry out plans. And I also suggest that this characteristic, especially if found in both parents, can be passed from one generation to another."

He told of a San Francisco boy who was hired to throw acid in the face of a storeowner. The youth was one of 17 illegitimate children mothered by a woman with an IQ of 55, and his probable father died in prison under a murder sentence.

"I believe," Doctor Shockley comments, "that, if a study were made and we found out that the acid-throwing teenager represented a hereditary class which is now doubling its members in less than half the time of the rest of the population, we would soon start looking for solutions. Why? Because it would clearly be a matter of life and death for our nation."

It is amazing that laws of nature which man recognizes in the field he denies in the house. He "breeds up" his cattle with blooded bulls. He knows that he can "breed down" a herd by letting a scrub bull into the pasture. This will give him half-scrub calves and after a few generations of the same technique he will have cattle fit for very little.

Survival of the fittest, a law as old as living things, has brought man up from the stupid, sluggish sub-human of prehistory. The brainy found food while the slow-of-thought starved.

In recent years, however, the process has been reversed. Military necessity has decreed the selection of the best for combat. Thus casualties have been highest among the able, while incompetents have been left home to breed at will.

The "welfare state" has accelerated this trend. If a mother has no plans for her children other than to raise them at an animal level, she can do very well with aid-to-dependent child payments, whether she is married or not.

But the money for these payments comes largely from high taxes on the able, and if the able have ambitious and expensive plans for the education of their offspring they are likely to limit the number of their children.

All suggestions that perhaps the profit should be removed from irresponsibility have been drowned in the cry that this would be "inhuman" and that the "home," even when it is characterized by debauchery and neglect, must be kept together at all cost.

Some day, perhaps, we will begin to question whether humanity is served by the forced-draft production of the incompetent, the bewildered and the vicious.

from throughout the United States, from Puerto Rico, Guatemala and Canada, to the Town-st center where, for four weeks, they are trained in the same program the dog has already completed.

There is no charge made to the blind for the $1500 program—those who are able may contribute if they wish, but no one is asked.

Individual contributors, Lions Club and dog food label returns, constitute the program's major support.

Dogs like Princess are badly needed for training to help other blind persons — it is the lack of qualified dogs that limits the center's program to 50 a year.

The dogs are given to the school, and the donor may keep in touch with them throughout their life. Shepherds, retrievers, boxers and dobermans are the breeds used, but they need not be purebred.

"The dogs must be pets," Stanley Doran, center director, explained, "not kennel-raised. Sometimes they are given to us because, like Princess, they must be tied all the time."

"They must come from homes where they have been petted and played with, are accustomed to children and to strangers coming and going," he continued.

They must be from nine to 30 months old, and be from 22 to 24½ inches tall at the front shoulder. Larger dogs take up too much room in elevators and on buses, and smaller ones don't have the stamina and the strength.

Princess, like all other dogs that are accepted, was "super-humanized."

During months of training she learned to walk steadily, stay on the right side of the sidewalk, cross crowded streets, wear a muzzle while riding on buses, work through store crowds, ride elevators and escalators, and go through revolving doors.

She then reviewed her education for four weeks when her master was chosen. She and Plunkett were together constantly. She slept beside his bed, was by his side while he ate, was fed, brushed, combed and petted daily by him.

Anyone considering donating a dog for this purpose may contact Doran at the center.

Christmas Activities

Barnett Recreation Center began Christmas activities with a teen dance held Thursday, Dec. 9. It was a hi-fi dance with music presented by Dave Logan and "The Rogues" and sponsored by the Teen Club.

Monday, Dec. 13, four teenagers will carol at City Hall for the last City Council meeting of the year. Each recreation center in the city will be represented.

Wednesday, Dec. 15, the ladies' slimnastics classes, both afternoon and evening, will have their Christmas party.

Friday, Dec. 17, the tap and ballet classes will give a dance program beginning at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited.

Saturday, Dec. 18, the Junior Leaders Club is going roller skating for its Christmas party.

Monday, Dec. 20, in the afternoon, 12 elementary children from Barnett will go caroling at City Hall. Monday evening three teenagers will join other centers in the recreation department's caroling bus which will tour the downtown area.

Tuesday, Dec. 21, the Barnett staff will host the Christmas staff luncheon of the recreation department to be held at 12:30 p.m.

Wednesday, Dec. 22, at 7:30 p.m., the Teen Dramatics Club will present an original play. The public is invited.

Thursday, Dec. 23, 2 to 4 p.m., is the community Christmas party for elementary youngsters ages six through 12. The afternoon program will include entertainment, movies and a visit from Santa.

Thursday evening the Christopher Ballet will perform from 7:30 to 8:15. Its program is an original ballet entitled "Christmas Eve."

Barnett Center will be closed Dec. 24, 25 and 26 in observance of the Christmas holidays. The week following Christmas, Dec. 27-30, the center will be open the following hours: 12 to 3:30 p.m., elementary and teens; 3:30 to 6 p.m., elementary; 6 to 10 p.m., teens and adults.

The center will be closed Dec. 31, Jan. 1 and Jan. 2.

Senior Citizens

Senior Citizens of Whitehall elected Hugh Parker to serve his second term as president.

Also elected to serve second terms were Mrs. Velma Van Matre as vice-president; Charles Wick, secretary, and Mrs. Bertha Tudor, treasurer. Mrs. Louise Johnson was named chairman of the flower fund.

Christmas party will be held Dec. 16, 7 to 10 p.m., at the Senior Citizens building.

A gift exchange is planned —all members and their guests are requested to bring a $1 gift. Refreshments will be served, and dancing and games will follow.

Senior citizen Benjamin Martin is confined to St. Anthony Hospital.

Because of the holidays, no programs are scheduled for Dec. 23 or Dec. 30. Next business meeting will be held Jan. 6.

High bowling scorers among the men were Bob Armstrong, 95-136-76; Hugh Parker, 117-119-112. High scorers among the women were Mrs. Marie Parker, 70-68-100, and Mrs. Davis, 56-60.

Dances

Junior and senior high dances are canceled for December. The next senior high dance will be held Jan. 8, and the "Run Aways" will play. The Junior High dance is scheduled Jan. 21. No round and square dance will be held in December.

There will be the thrill of a ride through the city on the familiar red antique fire truck, movies, treats and a visit with Santa, and all is free.

All the fire equipment is moved outside to make room, and the biggest most gaily-decorated Christmas tree in town will reach nearly to the tall ceiling.

The traditional treat for all the children in the city, hosted by the firefighters, has long been a highspot of the season.

Parents enjoy it, too, and many of them who attended the firemen's parties when they were youngsters, are now bringing their children.

necessary for the baby to be eligible for the prizes.

Registration MUST be made at The Spectator office, 2465 W. Broad-st, by 10 a.m., Monday, Jan. 3. Society Editor Janet Michael will be on hand to receive the nominations.

1. Parents of the winning baby must currently reside in the area regularly covered by this newspaper. In event eligibility of an applicant is in doubt, the circulation department will verify whether the area is regularly served.

2. Exact date, hour, minute and place of birth, as well as the baby's sex, weight and name (if chosen) must be certified in writing by the attending physician.

3. Application statements must be received at The Spectator office, 2465 W. Broad-st, by 10 a.m. Monday, Jan. 3. Include telephone number on the application, which may be deposited in the mail slot beside the door on New Year's Day (Saturday) or Sunday, when the office is closed.

4. The Spectator will not assume responsibility for locating the winner. Parents must establish positive proof of the birth according to the derby rules.

ton, and North Quarter, now under construction in Arlington.

The 18 two-story units, white brick with black ornamental ironwork, with careful landscaping, a courtyard and pool, is reminiscent of New Orleans. Cost of the project would be about $650,000. Twenty-six garages and guest parking for 11 cars is provided in the plans, as well as on street parking.

The quality structures, mostly of two-bedroom size, would sell for from $27,000 to $35,000.

Market—

Market and have never taken a position in opposition . . . However, I am strongly opposed to the action of City Council in its attempt to subsidize any one group of private businessmen; and I would be opposed to such preferential treatment for any group of private businessmen engaged in any form of business.

"The redevelopment plan for the Market-Mohawk area . . . provides for the removal of the present markethouse. The city is required . . . to clear this site and sell it to the developer for re-use in conformance with the duly adopted plan . . .

"I have been advised by the City Building Department that the present structure is a hazard and poses a threat to the safety of our citizens who might patronize the market. I have also been advised by the Health Department that the markethouse has been in violation of the health codes for many years because it is infested by rodents and fails to meet other sanitary requirements."

Sensenbrenner has repeatedly invited the Central Market stall operators to move their operations to the city's North Market, where ample space is available.

Scotties Stop Chandler But Lose; Tigers Roll But Rams, Hawks Split Cage Pair

By BOB WHITMAN

Walnut Ridge came up with the defensive answer to Central Bob Chandler's handsome scoring and held the Pirate senior to a pair during last Fridry's City League battle. The Scotties, however, couldn't stop a pair of Central's unsung heroes in falling 65-56.

While Walnut was dashing score boy Chandler Friday, Bishop Hartley was successfully headhunting Saturday with an 88-47 win over Whitehall, and making many scratch their heads, wondering how this speedy quintet ever managed to lose four games.

IN OTHER AREA action, East whipped North, 85-44, Bexley stopped Grandview, 54-46, Westerville dropped Gahanna, 60-56, New Albany knocked Academy, 54-44, Whitehall beat Urbana, 62-54. Eastmoor lost to Brookhaven, 66-63, and came back to win 77-60 over Franklin Heights, Bexley fell to Arlington, 53-37, and Academy downed Ohio Deaf, 65-43.

Walnut Ridge was led by the 21 point scoring of Bob Wetzel, who also picked off seven rebounds. Usual Scotace Pat Beveridge accounted for 15 points and got 17 rebounds.

Walnut coach Jackie Moore has been plagued this season with all types of problems, a situation that doesn't help in making a winning ball club.

MOORE LOST the services of Rick Houchen even before the season started. Houchen earned the purple heart during the football season with an injury that won't let him back to the court until the Jan. 7 game with Marion Franklin.

Dick Wollet came down with pneumonia that will have him on the sidelines also until the Marion game, and last week Mark Olson suffered an ankle sprain that had him hobbling for a few days.

Houchen was starter material and Wollet and Olson started this season.

BISHOP HARTLEY opened with an offensive barrage that just wouldn't quit last Saturday night. They scored 31 points in the first period and coasted to a 51-21 halftime lead.

Sophomore Rod Parker started for the first time against Marion Franklin and seemed to pick the Hawks up. They led 21-8 at the first period before Rod left the game via foul trouble.

Marion whittled down that lead and eventually overtook it to win, 53-51.

SATURDAY, Whitehall couldn't get started as five Hawks hit double figures. Denny Parker scored 18, Doug Parker had 13 and Rodney netted 16.

Steve McGrew and Jack Geist rounded out the starters' scoring with 10 and 14 points respectively.

Whitehall was paced by Harv Eader's 10 points and Stan Robinson's eight markers and they went for the Hawks following an impressive win over Urbana.

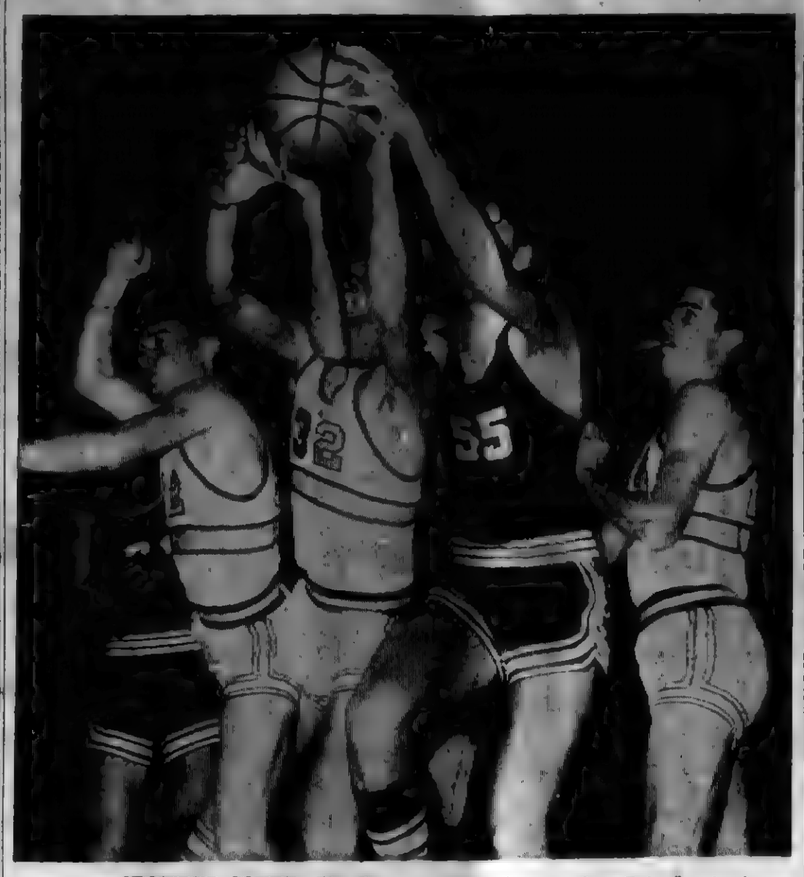
The Rams gained that win with three men in double digits. Mike Tarleton had 16, Robinson scored 15 and Eader countered with 13.

Whitehall now owns a 3-2 record.

Eastmoor flagged down Franklin Heights, on Eric Walz's 26 points and Gary Cochran's 18 markers.

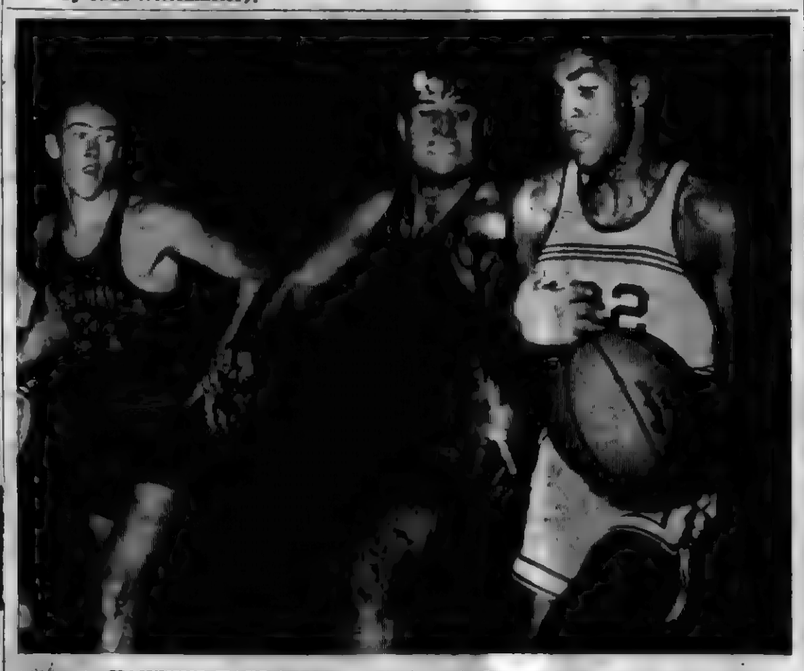
Dave Johnston's 14 points weren't enough for Bexley to spill the unbeaten Arlington [illegible].

John Fulford scored 16 points and Herb Douce managed 20 as Academy buffeted Ohio Deaf.



East roared over the North Polar Bears on the momentum of a 32-10 second period outbreak. The Tigers placed 15 scorers in the column as they upped their record to 2-1. Gil Matthews led the awesome offensive attack with 25 points.

Eastmoor fought back and forth for most of the game before falling to unbeaten Brookhaven, 66-63. Eastmoor led at the first period mark, 16-11. Eric Walz paced the Warriors with 17 points, and Gary Cochran netted 10.



Bexley, gunned up by Dave Johnston's 24 points and Pat Lemmon's 10, stopped Grandview, 54-46.

Westerville surprised Gahanna, 60-56, as Fred Brown-ing and Mike Schaffer's 14 and 13 points respectively couldn't put down Craig Hall's 19 tallies for the Wildcats.

New Albany, with a veteran crew, riddled Academy. John Fulford paced the Vikings with 18 points.

Area Matmen 'Shop' For Wins In Final Pre-Holiday Flurry

By JACK WITTENMEIER

Twenty-five of The Spectator-area's 28 wrestling squads see action during the upcoming week with only defending district champion DeSales, Linden and North idle.

A total of 16 dual meets, three trianagulars and the season's first quadrangular test spotlight the heavy high mat card as local grapplers wrap up pre-holiday activity.

AFTER meets a week from today, area wrestlers will be idle until Central kicks off the new year by hosting Circleville Jan. 4.

Arlington's Bears are busiest this week with three dual meets scheduled while Groveport, Grandview and Pleasant View see action twice.

Top dual efforts look like Hilliard vs. Groveport and Brookhaven vs. West today—both matches possible clues to respective Mid-Eight and City Meet champions come loop meets Feb. 18.

OTHER BATTLES worth watching are East's visit to Pleasant View Friday (the former kicking off its '65-66 campaign) and Arlington's hosting of Parma Saturday

Parma's a Cleveland suburb and that Northern Ohio city has a reputation for turning out some of the finest schoolboy mat talent each year.

The season's first triangular turns up Saturday on the Walnut Ridge mats where Circleville and Groveport join the Scottie.

THE ROUNDTOWNERS, roughed up by Whitehall (32-16) in their opener last week, should take a back seat to either Pete Nix's Cruisers (defending Mid-Eight champs with four vets back) or Rick Cermelj's Scots (closed sixth in District but return only two lettermen).

The quadrangular is scheduled at Hamilton Township where Granville, Marysville and Jonathan Alder come calling Saturday.

Bob Twiss' Franklin Heights' crew, figured to be one of the area's top ten squads again this season, carries local hopes to Dayton (also Saturday) for a tough triangular at Dayton Northmont.

THIRD MEMBER of that trio is Dayton Roosevelt which tied for eighth in the state mat tourney last March.

Here is the area wrestling schedule for the coming week:

TODAY
Hilliard at Groveport 5 p.m.
Brookhaven at West (3:45)
Grove City at Mifflin (4:15)
Grandview at Whitehall (4:30)
Arlington at Lancaster
Bexley at Delaware
FRIDAY
East at Pleasant View (4 p.m.)
Westerville at Newark (4:15)
Ready at Marion-Franklin (4:30)
Hartley at Eastmoor
SATURDAY
Walnut Ridge Triangular (Circleville, Groveport and W-R, 1 p.m.)
Hamilton Township Quadrangular (Granville, Marysville, Jonathan Alder and H-T).
Dayton Triangular (Franklin Heights, Dayton Roosevelt at Dayton Northmont)
Parma at Arlington (2 p.m.)
MONDAY
Watterson at Whetstone (4 p.m.)
TUESDAY
Jonathan Alder at Worthington (4 p.m.)
Newark at Central (4 p.m.)
WEDNESDAY
Pleasant View at South (4 p.m.)
Arlington at Bexley
THURSDAY
Grandview, Marietta at Chillicothe Triangular (11 a.m.)

Westerville-Grandview

Grandview, exhibiting a "tough in the middle" policy, won seven of eight matches in the 120 through 175 weight classes last week to spoil Westerville's mat debut, 23-11.

THE WILDCATS' Rollie Lambert and Wildcats' Louis Mascari battled to a draw at 103 and Dick Meyer took a decision at 112 but those were the last points Westerville saw until Howard Koontz nabbed a 2-0 decision at 145.

Jerry Hatcher got the Wildcats' only other verdict, decisioning John Burd in a heavyweight thriller, 1-0.

Whitehall-Bexley

Trailing 11-4 at one point and 19-12 with two matches remaining, Whitehall rallied strongly to slip past determined Bexley, 20-19, last week.

The Lions jumped out to their big lead following Reese Lattimer's pin at 103 and decisions by Tom Shaffer (112) and Steve Sloan (120).

DEFENDING District champ Steve Beery (127) started the Ram comeback with a decision and Spike Ludwig (133) followed suit.

But Bexley co-captain Jim Kelley won via pin at 138 and Mark Gitlitz got a decision at 165 to offset back-to-back decisions by Whitehall's Randy Nichols and Ken Schmitt.

Dave Graff's pin win at 175 set up the successful rally conclusion for the Rams, who wrapped up the win with Ken Flower's decision points at heavyweight.

E-M Vies For State Hi-Y Title

Eastmoor High School will represent the Columbus area Wednesday, Dec. 29 in the State Hi-Y Basketball Tourney at Lima, O.

The eight - team, single elimination tourney will include entries from Mansfield, Marion, Findley, Bucyrus, Toledo, and Canton besides the host Lima team and Eastmoor.

Eastmoor will play Lima the morning of the 29th with the winner advancing to evening play. Trophies will be awarded to the two top tourney teams.

The E-M traveling squad (juniors and seniors) will include: Steve Pursell, Mike Barry, Joe Gosnell, Bill McSchooler, Bill Puskas, Jerry McFerin, Tom Siebert, Terry Cooper, Bob Reece, Seth Pymer, manager Don Smith and coach Chuck Pfeifer.

Sailfish Swimmers Impress On Road; O-W 'Invite' Next

Three young Sailfish — not the ocean variety — landed in Detroit recently. These Sailfish were eight-year-old Lisa Maddox and seven-year-olds Martha Jane Stimmel and Bob Beck of the Swim-Land Sailfish swimming team.

The youngsters went to Detroit to compete in an all-eight-and-under age - group swimming meet and came home with a string of medals and ribbons.

LISA WAS second in the 50-yd freestyle, second in the 100-yd. individual medley, and sixth in the 25-yd. freestyle.

Martha Jane came in second in the 25-yd. breaststroke, third in the 25-yd. butterfly, and fourth in the 100-yd. individual medley.

Steve Goddard recently added another valuable ribbon to his collection when he came in fourth in the 100-yd. freestyle event in the Lake Erie Silver Dolphins of Coca-Cola "A" swim meet at Gilmore Academy in Gates Mills, Ohio.

Competitors had to meet a rigid time standard to be eligible to compete in this meet..

STEVE STOPPED in at the Lake Erie Age Group and Open Swim Meet at Firestone High School in Akron the next day where he won second place in the 50-yd. freestyle, second in the 200-yd. freestyle, and fifth in the 200-yd. breaststroke.

The next trip for the Sailfish will be this Saturday, when coach Frank McGraw will take 48 of the winter swimmers to the Ohio Wesleyan Invitational Swimming Meet in Delaware.

Can 'Money Pills' Cure Social Ills?

The following is a reprint of the "Capitolizing" column, by Dave Hess, in the Dec. 10 edition of the WRFD Commentator:

Explaining Ohio

By DAVE HESS

A few weeks ago, Governor Rhodes, in a speech to the New York Manufacturers' Association, made some statements that deserve more comment than they have gotten back home. A wire service (UPI) report of that

The facts surrounding the celebrated $83 million deficit when Rhodes took office never have been fully aired. The private audit of state finances, on which Rhodes based his allegation, never has been revealed to newsmen. Furthermore, since the governor took office, the state has borrowed $1,040,000,000 for capital construction and apparently plans another $500 million bond issue in 1967. Meantime, as a result of the "no-new-taxes" policy, Ohio's public schools, mental hospitals, juvenile and criminal rehabilitation programs and public welfare efforts have all starved for adequate operating funds. Only generous infusions of federal aid have prevented a serious financial crisis.

(Rhodes) told the businessmen how he cut welfare payments with a "no work, no relief" law.

The governor's welfare cuts were made arbitrarily with no relation to a "no work, no relief" law — which didn't even go into effect until several months after the first round of welfare cuts. Moreover, welfare officials themselves say it's impossible to determine how many, if any, persons are driven from welfare rolls by threats of having to work. In fact, only a small percentage (in Franklin County, two percent) of clients are involved in the work-relief program.

(Rhodes) said Ohio believes in high profits and low taxes for industry. "Our people want to erase social ill," he said, "and we can only do this if profit is made by corporations."

This, of course, is consistent with previous statements the governor has made on the alleged relationship between talk appears below in bold face, along with our point-by-point comments (in regular type):

(Governor Rhodes told 200 New York manufacturers today his administration was "packaging, marketing and merchandising the state of Ohio." Rhodes was introduced . . . as the man who had brought his state out of the red without raising taxes. He got a standing ovation.

social ills and profits. He contends unemployment, springing from low profits, spawns such social ailments as poor mental health, chronic poverty, school dropouts, juvenile delinquency, etc.

There's little doubt that in a healthy economy, which yields high profits and sustains full employment, social tensions are reduced, general relief rolls go down, more teenagers stay in school, delinquency rates usually fall, etc.

But to acclaim high profits as a panacea for social ills is open to serious question. High profits do not guarantee jobs for everyone nor do they ensure greater public spending for governmental services. They can be used to invest in expansion programs that create more jobs or distributed to stockholders who presumably will spend the money in job-creating ways. But rising automation tends to decelerate the growth rate of new jobs; moreover, millions of Americans—including 1.5 million Ohioans—aren't even a part of the economic mainstream. Their condition in life is unaffected by corporate profit-taking.

LUDICROUS? YES

In this connection, one marvels at Rhodes' contention that mental illness can be traced to unemployment. If so, then the solution might be to dismiss all psychiatrists, psychologists and social workers at state mental hospitals and replace them with job placement experts.

Since corporate profits alone cannot be Ohio's salvation, it's hard to avoid the conclusion that higher public spending will be necessary. This, of course, will require a diversion of resources from the private to the public sector. Higher revenues reflecting economic growth are pouring into state coffers, but not at a rate or amount sufficient to catch up with and stay abreast of long-neglected and newly-arising demands. And this, perhaps, is the fallacy in the governor's vague conception of economics. He simply rejects the government's power and responsibility to allocate the state's resources to cover public needs.

(Rhodes) said his administration applies the principles of "cost analysis" wherever it can.

Cost accounting is an admirable method for controlling administrative and production costs. Its broad principles can and should be applied to governmental operations. But quality and scope of public services should not suffer in the process. Economy should not become the captive of austerity. There's a vast difference between the two that Rhodes apparently has never discerned. The plight of most state programs dealing with children, the mentally ill and retarded, and demoralized relief clients—those who don't vote—attests to this.

Rhodes, who is considered by some a potential 1967 Republican presidential candidate, promised the manufacturers that an expenditure of $700 million this year will keep Ohio "the transportation center of the nation."

Borrowing $500 million, and massive federal spending, helped to accelerate Ohio's highway construction.

(Rhodes) said $330 million spent for higher education would mean, as he put it, "a university within 20 miles of every boy and girl in the state" and educated manpower for industry.

Hardly anyone disputes the need for more and better higher education facilities. Such facilities should be convenient and as inexpensive as possible to afford the opportunity of advanced schooling to as many Ohio youngsters as possible. But constructing new university buildings and then staffing them are separate concerns. So far there has been no indication from Rhodes on how he plans to raise the money to operate the new facilities.

The point is that Rhodes need not resort to half-baked economic analyses to justify his claim that Ohio is enjoying industrial growth under his administration and is a good place to locate. For that matter the whole nation is experiencing tremendous growth, but that doesn't tarnish the fact that Rhodes' efforts have helped Ohio.

Furthermore, he needn't flinch from his commitment to the traditional Republican "trickle down" theory of economics, which preaches that the benefits of expanded production and commerce will filter down to the masses. This is a rather old-fashioned idea in its purest form, but we've made substantial adjustments to it and still operate under it to a great extent.

Big Business likes it and so does Big Labor, with certain reservations. So the governor shouldn't be reluctant to spell out his admiration of it. We're simply asking him to spell it out clearly, to shun the shallow interpretations of how it works to abolish "social ills," and to quit pandering to the baser, anti-social attitudes of his audiences.

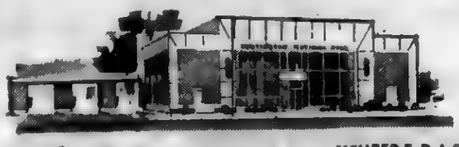
THE BARED BROW
Eyebrows haven't been permitted to show by the chic shes lately. But for those of you who have missed them we have good news — they're "in" again. Which is to say they're out. Anyone who wants to wear her hair off the forehead without even a wispy bang covering it can do so now without losing face. Oh, dear! We're getting so many double meanings here! Let's start over again . . . foreheads and eyebrows are shamelessly exposed this season by the chic-est of the chic set.

THE CONTINENTAL VERSUS THE AMERICAN WOMAN
Perhaps we were wrong but the experts we consulted were all men and this is, in a nut shell, what they had to say: The Continental woman is taught as soon as she can learn anything that emotions are meant to be shown . . . and they do show in eyes that can talk, conversational hands, and shoulders that say whole paragraphs. In America we teach our little girls to master a polite public mask — the stiff upper lip. American women are trained so rigidly in the fine art of correct public charm that a man can just never be sure if his charmer's attentiveness and efforts to please are really meant for him when they are alone.



Whether these observations are true or not we find them very refreshing — especially in view of the many mothers' laments we hear in our salon. Maybe it's not so bad after all if our little Miss Teenagers don't learn to move quite so sedately.

FASHION IS ART
The silken world of Michelangelo is converted to the busy needs of today and women's hair fashions are acquiring a new elegance from this trend. Fashion is art and hair design is the most significant of the living arts.

HEARD FROM UNDER THE DRYER
Grandma may have worked harder as a housewife, but she never had to clean out the swimming pool, mix a Martini, or get the power mower started.

Secretary Of State Sets Filing Deadline

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown announces that 4 p.m., Friday, Dec. 17, is the deadline for filing of accounts of receipts and expenditures by all candidates and committees involved in the Nov. 9 general election.

Candidates for member of the State Board of Education and committees for or against the three statewide issues on the ballot must file with Secretary of State Brown. Local candidates and committees connected with campaigns for or against the hundreds of local issues will file with the County Boards of Elections.

Brown says that any candidate who fails to file a statement by the specified time is disqualified from being a candidate in any future election for a period of five years. In cases where six-year terms are involved, the disqualification is extended to seven years.

O'Neill Will Install Officials Wednesday

Reynoldsburg city officials elected and re-elected in November will receive their oath of office in ceremonies to be held in the Municipal Building's council chambers at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 22. State Supreme Court Judge C. William O'Neill will perform the ceremonies. The public is invited to attend and refreshments will be served following the program. The evening is sponsored by the incoming elected officials.

EDITED BY JOHN AUBLE, JR.

A guide to performers and performances in the Columbus area this week

THE STAGE'S NEW HUMOR

Some believe the humor of 20 years ago doesn't stand a chance now. It used to be "Hey, who was that lady I saw you with last night?" That was no lady, that was my wife." Today, it's: "Hey man, who was that chick I saw you with last night?" "That was no chick, that was my brother. He's got problems." Here's The Spectator's look at the new humor:

Many Columbus theatergoers, in recent weeks, have been subjected to the new humor ... offensive in nature, it attacks, examines, and offends. There's no yardstick to see how Columbus is accepting it. But the new humor has arrived.

The old humor (so much of it anyway), by comparison, dealt with the safe subjects, the things that could be dealt with easily — the henpecked husband, the nagging wife, the mother-in law.

The new humor, on the other hand, thrives on the more indigestible stuff of what's wrong with us. When served, we can ignore it or chew it up and swallow it. Then it stays with us and makes us uncomfortable.

Nothing's funny about the bomb, broken homes, rioting, slums or juvenile delinquency. What can be held up for a good critical look ... what can be pierced by the sharp barbs of satire are the reactions to these things.

In a recent motion picture here, "Dr. Strangelove," the world is brought to the brink of total nuclear obliteration by a fanatic driven to save the world.

Could you die laughing? Hardly. The situation is too real.

Possibly television is in a large way responsible for the upsurge of the new humor and the new humorists. Sick comics are even edging the likes of "The Beverly Hillbillies." But television doesn't deserve all the credit.

A motion picture called "Nothing But The Best" is, among other things, a sharp, incisive comment on class values. Actor Alan Bates then carries the how-to-succeed-in-business theme to its ultimate conclusion. He murders, and gets away with it, quite to the satisfaction of audiences. Justice isn't carried to its classical result but, somehow, justice is done. An eye for an eye and a truth for a truth.

Is the new humor really new? In form, not entirely. Bob Hope logged a good number of political monologues long before Mort Sahl. Charles Addams has been probing the monster area for years. But, the new humor today has a force that didn't exist before. The scope and intensity of that force attests to its legitimacy as a contemporary part of all of us.

Is the new humor healthy or sick? A little of both, probably. Healthy in that, unlike the Beatnik movement to which it is often unfairly coupled, it has something to say and a different way of saying it. The sickness of the new humor, like the sickness of our society can, and occasionally does, go overboard.

Will the new humor last? Since it isn't subsidized by the Ford Foundation, survival depends on its box office. To date, its box office — even in Columbus — has been substantial enough not only for survival but expansion as well.

SHINDIG-TYPE SHOW SET HERE

ROCK 'N ROLL promotor Ray Jackson looks over two of his Shiveree Dancers who'll perform during a four-hour show Wednesday, Dec. 22, at the Fairground's Youth Center beginning at 9 p.m. Such groups as the Vandals, the Esquires, the Rees and other local rock bands are on the program. Jackson says he hopes the weekly offering will eventually hit TV. Tickets are $1.25

Annapolis Glee Club Will Perform Here

The United States Naval Academy Glee Club will appear at 8 p.m. Friday, Dec. 17, at Mershon Auditorium.

Admission is free and the public is invited.

Prior to the evening performance, the club will sing for students at Central High School at a special assembly.

JEAN-PAUL WELCOMED

LINDA DAVIS, 269 Oakland-pk, operates three puppets during performances of "The Littlest Angel" at Christmas in Capitol Square. The 12-minute show can be seen Monday through Saturday, hourly (on the half-hour) from 10:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Christmas In Capitol Square

The Christmas in Capitol Square program, presented by the Downtown Area Committee, includes carol singing at noon (Monday through Saturday) by Columbus area glee clubs and choirs. Today (Thursday) the Groveport-Madison High choir will entertain. Other performances include: Dec. 17, Grandview Heights; Dec. 18, Rosemont School Choral Club; Dec. 20, Walnut Ridge High; Dec. 21, Central High; Dec. 22, Lazarus Glee Club and Dec. 23, Huntington National Choir.

G-C Girl To Compete In Doris Day Stunt

Grove City's Carol Bartley looks like Doris Day... so much so, in fact, that she leaves tomorrow (Friday) for Hollywood to take part in a "Doris Day Look-Alike" publicity stunt contest.

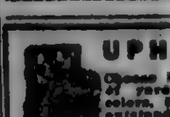
Carol a student at Miami University in Oxford, O., is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bartley, 680 Queensway, Grove City.

She was chosen from four finalists in Cincinnati recently to vie for national Doris Day Look-Alike honors. She'll compete with 50 other wholesome lookers in a Hollywood beauty pageant.

Carol took the Cincinnati competition early this month but cannot fly to Hollywood until she finishes her Miami U. finals.

Prairie Players Date Child's Play Dec. 18

The Prairie Players will present the production of "Sleeping Beauty" as their fifth annual children's play on Saturday, Dec. 18, at the Prairie Lincoln School located in Lincoln Village, North.



Performances are scheduled for 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Directing will be Mrs. Wilbur Appleby. William Metaxas composed the music. Donald Bender is stage manager.

Skiing Seasons are Longer
because of Natural Gas

When versatile natural gas is used to make artificial snow, it's possible to ski all winter in some areas. And after a few hours on the ski slopes, there is no better place to relax than a ski lodge kept warm and comfortable by dependable gas heat.

Versatile natural gas will heat and cool your home, dry your clothes, heat your water, broil a steak or barbeque a chicken . . . and do it faster and better than any other energy. Gas is today's best bargain in modern energy.

GAS Makes the Big Difference...COSTS LESS, too!

IN & AROUND TOWN

EDITED BY JOHN AUBLE, JR.

A guide to performers and performances in the Columbus area this week

THE STAGE'S NEW HUMOR

Some believe the humor of 20 years ago doesn't stand a chance now. It used to be "Hey, who was that lady I saw you with last night?" That was no lady, that was my wife." Today, it's: "Hey man, who was that chick I saw you with last night?" "That was no chick, that was my brother. He's got problems." Here's The Spectator's look at the new humor:

Many Columbus theatergoers, in recent weeks, have been subjected to the new humor ... offensive in nature, it attacks, examines, and offends. There's no yardstick to see how Columbus is accepting it. But the new humor has arrived.

The old humor (so much of it anyway), by comparison, dealt with the safe subjects, the things that could be dealt with easily — the henpecked husband, the nagging wife, the mother-in law.

The new humor, on the other hand, thrives on the more indigestible stuff of what's wrong with us. When served, we can ignore it or chew it up and swallow it. Then it stays with us and makes us uncomfortable.

Nothing's funny about the bomb, broken homes, rioting, slums or juvenile delinquency. What can be held up for a good critical look ... what can be pierced by the sharp barbs of satire are the reactions to these things.

In a recent motion picture here, "Dr. Strangelove," the world is brought to the brink of total nuclear obliteration by a fanatic driven to save the world.

Could you die laughing? Hardly. The situation is too real.

Possibly television is in a large way responsible for the upsurge of the new humor and the new humorists. Sick comics are even edging the likes of "The Beverly Hillbillies." But television doesn't deserve all the credit.

A motion picture called "Nothing But The Best" is, among other things, a sharp, incisive comment on class values. Actor Alan Bates then carries the how-to-succeed-in-business theme to its ultimate conclusion. He murders, and gets away with it, quite to the satisfaction of audiences. Justice isn't carried to its classical result but, somehow, justice is done. An eye for an eye and a truth for a truth.

Is the new humor really new? In form, not entirely. Bob Hope logged a good number of political monologues long before Mort Sahl. Charles Addams has been probing the monster area for years. But, the new humor today has a force that didn't exist before. The scope and intensity of that force attests to its legitimacy as a contemporary part of all of us.

Is the new humor healthy or sick? A little of both, probably. Healthy in that, unlike the Beatnik movement to which it is often unfairly coupled, it has something to say and a different way of saying it. The sickness of the new humor, like the sickness o' our society can, and occasionally does, go overboard.

Will the new humor last? Since it isn't subsidized by the Ford Foundation, survival depends on its box office. To date, its box office — even in Columbus — has been substantial enough not only for survival but expansion as well.

SHINDIG-TYPE SHOW SET HERE

ROCK 'N ROLL promotor Ray Jackson looks over two of his Shiveree Dancers who'll perform during a four-hour show Wednesday, Dec. 22, at the Fairground's Youth Center beginning at 8 p.m. Such groups as the Vandals, the Esquires, the Bees and other local rock bands are on the program. Jackson says he hopes the weekly offering will eventually hit TV. Tickets are $1.25

Prairie Players Date Child's Play Dec. 18

The Prairie Players will present the production of "Sleeping Beauty" as their fifth annual children's play on Saturday, Dec. 18, at the Prairie Lincoln School located in Lincoln Village, North.

Performances are scheduled for 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Directing will be Mrs. Wilbur Appleby. William Metaxas composed the music. Donald Bender is stage manager.

JEAN-PAUL WELCOMED

LINDA DAVIS, 269 Oakland-pk, operates three puppets during performances of "The Littlest Angel" at Christmas in Capitol Square. The 12-minute show can be seen Monday through Saturday, hourly (on the half-hour) from 10:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Christmas In Capitol Square

The Christmas in Capitol Square program, presented by the Downtown Area Committee, includes carol singing at noon (Monday through Saturday) by Columbus area glee clubs and choirs. Today (Thursday) the Groveport-Madison High choir will entertain. Other performances include: Dec. 17, Grandview Heights; Dec. 18, Rosemont School Choral Club; Dec. 20, Walnut Ridge High; Dec. 21, Central High; Dec. 22, Lazarus Glee Club and Dec. 23, Huntington National Choir.

G-C Girl To Compete In Doris Day Stunt

Grove City's Carol Bartley looks like Doris Day... so much so, in fact, that she leaves tomorrow (Friday) for Hollywood to take part in a "Doris Day-Look-Alike" publicity stunt contest.

Carol a student at Miami University in Oxford, O., is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bartley, 660 Queensway, Grove City.

She was chosen from four finalists in Cincinnati recently to vie for national Doris Day Look-Alike honors. She'll compete with 50 other wholesome lookers in a Hollywood beauty pageant.

Carol took the Cincinnati competition early this month but cannot fly to Hollywood until she finishes her Miami U. finals.

Skiing Seasons are Longer because of Natural Gas

When versatile natural gas is used to make artificial snow, it's possible to ski all winter in some areas. And after a few hours on the ski slopes, there is no better place to relax than a ski lodge kept warm and comfortable by dependable gas heat.

Versatile natural gas will heat and cool your home, dry your clothes, heat your water, broil a steak or barbeque a chicken . . . and do it faster and better than any other energy. Gas is today's best bargain in modern energy.

GAS Makes the Big Difference . . . COSTS LESS, too!

Enough to treat any 6 or 12 volt automotive-type battery
VX-6 ENDS Battery Worries
Did you know your battery can last the life of your car?
Money-Back Guarantee
contained with each unit.

Open the car hood and look at the battery. The green or white formation you see on the terminals and posts is lead sulphate (sulphation). —Your battery is deteriorating. This is also taking place inside your battery, building and growing on the plates and clogging the pores that absorb the fluids in the cells. Cold weather raises the viscosity of the fluids making battery operations more difficult.
SULPHATION WILL GRADUALLY AND SURELY BE THE DEATH OF YOUR BATTERY.
One application of VX-6 added to any new or older battery prevents and cures this battery cancer. Don't wait until your battery fails — prevent it now.
VX-6 is positively not harmful to hydrometers. Even major battery companies will tell you this. Also, it is harmless to the skin or hosepetty.
VX-6 is used by railroads, commissaries, truck and auto fleets, municipalities, factories and industries of all types.
For larger type batteries write for information.

ArtBarn Season Ends This Month

The Art Barn will hold its last arts and crafts demonstration of the season Sunday, Dec. 19, from 1 to 5 p.m. The barn is located on Rt. 257, one mile north of the Columbus Zoo.

The lapidarists, Mr. and Mrs. Don Davis, of Columbus, and the felt-pen artist, R. L. Mauck, of Dublin, will return. Weather and scheduling permitting, Dale Moore, glass-cutter of Beverly, O., will be back.

The Art Barn will be closed Christmas Day but will be open on Sunday, Dec. 26. After Dec. 26, it will close for the season.

Are you thinking about a winter vacation? The Travel-History - Biography Division of the Main Columbus Public Library can help you plan just the kind of vacation you will really find satisfying.

Go ahead. Help your wife with the dishes.

Here's a way out. Give a flameless electric dishwasher this Christmas. There's no prevaricating by hand. No drudgery. An electric dishwasher does it all — automatically — in water much hotter than hands could stand. If you have a small family, use the dishwasher only once a day. Big family or lots of holiday company? Put it to work right after the meal. Then relax with everyone else.

You can get the right model at the right price . . . right now from your favorite electric appliance dealer or plumbing contractor.

Select your electric dishwasher from these famous name brands.

Candidates Map Battle Plans For County Congress Races

By The [redacted]
FRANK RYAN

Franklin County Democrats have more than wishful thinking going for them as they prepare for the improbable, but possible, task of sending two candidates to the U.S. House of Representatives in the 1966 Congressional races.

The county has been divided into two distinct battlegrounds as the result of Congressional redistricting which goes into effect for next year's elections. A new district (15th) has been added to the present 12th Congressional District.

With minor deviations, the two districts divide the county on an east-west basis, with the 15th District generally west of High-st. The 12th District, generally east of High, st, is the home district of incumbent Republican Congressman Samuel L. Devine.

Devine will seek re-election to a fifth two-year term, but has not announced the district from which he will run. His decision will be the first test of the new year for party discipline in local Republican ranks.

Devine on Spot

The redistricting has put Devine in the area where Democrats figure to have the better chance with the voters. It is no secret that William Schneider, Republican county chairman, wants Devine to remain in his district.

Devine says he will announce his decision in early January. If he remains in the 12th District, as expected, it will be mainly in the interest of party. It is not likely that he will be opposed in the primary regardless of the district in which he files.

Other potential Republican candidates include Chalmers P. Wylie and Thomas M. Herbert, members of the Franklin County delegation to the Ohio House of Representatives, and Ohio Supreme Court Justice C. William O'Neill. Schneider reportedly has Wylie tagged as the 1967 opponent for Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner in the Columbus mayor's race.

The reapportionment of Ohio House of Representatives districts has put Wylie and Herbert in the same district. They are not likely to face each other in the primary, and the one who drops from the state race will be a prime candidate for Congress.

O'Neill Tests Support

O'Neill has refused to confirm reports that he is seeking support for a Congressional bid, a good indication that he is doing just that. Best bet now is that O'Neill will be sidetracked in favor of Herbert for the 15th District race, and that Wylie will be "saved" for the 1967 mayor's race.

Four names have received prominent mention as Democratic candidates, with two listed as confirmed starters. The "sure" candidates are Robert L. VanHeyde for the (West) 15th District, and Reynoldsburg Mayor George W. Twyford in the (East) 12th District.

Van Heyde, a former Columbus city councilman, was Devine's opponent two years ago and ran a respectable race against the heavily-favored incumbent. He figures to have a better chance in a new district against a non-incumbent.

Twyford, who won re-election to his mayor's post this year by a near 2-to-1 margin, is known to have solid support from county Democratic organization leadership. Twyford backers feel he will draw strong voter support in nominally Republican suburban areas.

Two other Democratic potentials, former Ohio Lt. Governor John Donahey and incumbent Congressman - at - Large Robert E. Sweeney are also getting mention. Donahey has some serious backers, but latest indications are that he will decline the race.

Sweeney Star Declines

The push for Sweeney has been on for some time, but appears to be fizzling out after picking up an initial head of steam. The touting of Sweeney as a gubernatorial candidate has also lost steam, and the best current bet is that he will file for the attorney general's race.

Sweeney, a resident of Bay Village (Cuyahoga County, will lose his at-large seat in Congress at the end of 1966, as a result of the redistricting of the state.

His main difficulty in coming into Franklin County has been trying to overcome the "carpetbag" tag. Yet, in his freshman [redacted] in Congress, Sweeney has worked particularly hard in areas important to the entire county.

Sweeney was a staunch supporter of federal funding for the Alum Creek and Mill Creek dam and reservoir projects, and helped steer these projects through Congressional committees. He has also been strong in support of mass transportation help for urban areas and efforts to save Fort Hayes from de-activation.

But Sweeney drew the ire of prospective local candidates by refusing to take them into consideration or consultation in his efforts to become a local candidate. And, while he is popular with some of the area civic groups, Sweeney is being given the cold shoulder by organization Democrats at the county level.

Columbus Democratic leadership has set a course of strict neutrality for the 1966 primary races.

Candidates Map Battle Plans For County Congress Races

By The Spectator's
FRANK RYAN

Franklin County Democrats have more than wishful thinking going for them as they prepare for the improbable, but possible, task of sending two candidates to the U.S. House of Representatives in the 1966 Congressional races.

The county has been divided into two distinct battlegrounds as the result of Congressional redistricting which goes into effect for next year's elections. A new district (15th) has been added to the present 12th Congressional District.

With minor deviations, the two districts divide the county on an east-west basis, with the 15th District generally west of High-st. The 12th District, generally east of High-st, is the home district of incumbent Republican Congressman Samuel L. Devine.

Devine will seek re-election to a fifth two-year term, but has not announced the district from which he will run. His decision will be the first test of the new year for party discipline in local Republican ranks.

Devine on Spot

The redistricting has put Devine in the area where Democrats figure to have the better chance with the voters. It is no secret that William Schneider, Republican county chairman, wants Devine to remain in his district.

Devine says he will announce his decision in early January. If he remains in the 12th District, as expected, it will be mainly in the interest of party. It is not likely that he will be opposed in the primary regardless of the district in which he flies.

Other potential Republican candidates include Chalmers P. Wylie and Thomas M. Herbert, members of the Franklin County delegation to the Ohio House of Representatives, and Ohio Supreme Court Justice C. William O'Neill. Schneider reportedly has Wylie tagged as the 1967 opponent for Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner in the Columbus mayor's race.

The reapportionment of Ohio House of Representatives districts has put Wylie and Herbert in the same district. They are not likely to face each other in the primary, and the one who drops from the state race will be a prime candidate for Congress.

O'Neill Tests Support

O'Neill has refused to confirm reports that he is seeking support for a Congressional bid, a good indication that he is doing just that. Best bet now is that O'Neill will be sidetracked in favor of Herbert for the 15th District race, and that Wylie will be "saved" for the 1967 mayor's race.

Four names have received prominent mention as Democratic candidates, with two listed as confirmed starters. The "sure" candidates are Robert L. VanHeyde for the (West) 15th District, and Reynoldsburg Mayor George W. Twyford in the (East) 12th District.

Van Heyde, a former Columbus city councilman, was Devine's opponent two years ago and ran a respectable race against the heavily-favored incumbent. He figures to have a better chance in a new district against a non-incumbent.

Twyford, who won re-election to his mayor's post this year by a near 2-to-1 margin, is known to have solid support from county Democratic organization leadership. Twyford backers feel he will draw strong voter support in nominally Republican suburban areas.

Two other Democratic potentials, former Ohio Lt. Governor John Donahey and incumbent Congressman - at - Large Robert E. Sweeney are also getting mention. Donahey has some serious backers, but latest indications are that he will decline the race.

Sweeney Star Declines

The push for Sweeney has been on for some time, but appears to be fizzling out after picking up an initial head of steam. The touting of Sweeney as a gubernatorial candidate has also lost steam, and the best current bet is that he will file for the attorney general's race.

Sweeney, a resident of Bay Village (Cuyahoga County, will lose his at-large seat in Congress at the end of 1966, as a result of the redistricting of the state.

His main difficulty in coming into Franklin County has been trying to overcome the "carpetbag" tag. Yet, in his freshman year in Congress, Sweeney has worked particularly hard in areas important to the entire county.

Sweeney was a staunch supporter of federal funding for the Alum Creek and Mill Creek dam and reservoir projects, and helped steer these projects through Congressional committees. He has also been strong in support of mass transportation help for urban areas and efforts to save Fort Hayes from de-activation.

But Sweeney drew the ire of prospective local candidates by refusing to take them into consideration or consultation in his efforts to become a local candidate. And, while he is popular with some of the area civic groups, Sweeney is being given the cold shoulder by organization Democrats at the county level.

Columbus Democratic leadership has set a course of strict neutrality for the 1966 primary races.

A Prayer For Christmas

This Christmas, when we again pay homage to the Prince of Peace, let us pray that the true spirit of the Season remain in the hearts of men long after this joyous Holiday. Let us pray that the blessings of peace pervade the earth, that men and nations might build and grow to live side by side in harmony and sympathy. Let us beseech Him to give courage, strength and wisdom to our spiritual and governmental leaders in their efforts to bring unity and understanding to all peoples in all lands.

AT FAIRMOOR UNITED PRESBYTERIAN . . .

The 7 and 11 p.m. Christmas Eve services at Fairmoor United Presbyterian Church, 360 S. James-rd will be identical except for choir participation. There will be special music by the Chapel Choir at 7 p.m. and by the Chancel Choir at 11 p.m. The Choirs are directed by Richard Odgers and John Goldsmith is organist. Ministers are Donald R. Morris and J. Russell Dugan.

Our Christmas Wish

Christmas is the time to test our power to believe in miracles. There is a Christmas Gift that we know about but you can have it only if you are able to believe in it . . . . blindly . . . . without proof. It's there very certainly, but if you can't believe enough it disappears. . . . .

. . . . . a long time ago the baby Jesus set up an "Abundance Account" for you in heaven where all precious things are kept. You are allowed to draw upon it throughout your whole life to the fullest extent with which you are able to believe in it. It includes peace, love, the power to love, joy, creative fulfillment, and even money. (There are quite a number of other things that do not come to mind at the moment but whatever else you may want you can be sure it's there waiting for your faith.)

Our Christmas wish for you is that you will be able to believe in this miracle fund. . . . . so completely that for the rest of your life you will have everything good that you want — overflowing — in abundance — to give and to share.

TO RETIRE

FRANK S. WILLIAMS, senior vice-president and a member of the board of directors of Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., the Ohio Fuel Gas Co., and the Ohio Valley Gas Co., will retire Jan. 1 after 38 years of gas company service. Williams and his wife, Georgia, live at 141 S. Kellner-rd. They have two sons, John, 25, a Columbus attorney, and Tim, 23, a senior at Ohio State University, and a daughter, Judith, 21, also a senior at Ohio State.

Capital's Board To Grow To 30

Capital University's Board of Regents agreed at its last meeting to increase its membership from 18 to as many as 30.

In addition, the board re-elected its present officers, Irvin F. Young, chairman; William E. L. Young, Jr., vice-chairman; Rev. Arthur P. Michelderfer, Cincinnati, secretary, and Virgil H. Dassel, Capital University vice-president of financial affairs, treasurer, and elected Mrs. Robert Utz of Dayton to the board to fill a vacancy left by the recent resignation of Mrs. James Koeller, Oak Lawn, Ill.

In other action, the board agreed to:

• Approve European tours for the University's Chapel Choir and the Air Force ROTC drill team in the summer of 1967.

• Continue negotiations for purchase of Columbus Academy property.

• State a new statement of purpose for the university.

City Planners Approve Two Zone Changes

The Columbus Planning Commission approved two East Columbus rezonings Dec. 15, nixed a third and held one over for more study until Jan. 12.

Planners approved a change in zoning from residential to commercial at 44 N. James-rd which allows Martin L. Roth, 165 S. Hamilton-rd, to construct a pizza parlor.

A second approval went to Keller Trust, 2050 E. Main-st, for property at 2206 Courtright-rd. The tract was originally zoned restricted rural residential. Planners recommended a change to one-to-four family residential and suburban residential.

Denied was a request for a parking lot at 31 N. Ashburton-rd. The property is presently zoned single-family residential.

Planners decided to wait until Jan. 12 to act on a request from Joe Swartz, 819 Jenkins-av, who is seeking a rezoning at 2742 E. 10th-av, to permit manufacturing of sheet metal plus storage and parking for employes. The tract is now zoned for single-family residential.

Citizen Journal Names Perdue As City Editor

Harold (Sam) Perdue, 4777 Robinhood-pk, will become city editor of the Columbus Citizen Journal effective Jan. 1. He replaces William G. Moore, who has been named assistant executive director of the Development Committee for Greater Columbus.

Perdue, who is currently city hall reporter, has been a member of the Citizen Journal editorial staff since April, 1951. He has served as police reporter, court house reporter, assistant city editor and political columnist.

He is a 1948 graduate of Hiram College.

Perdue is president of the Columbus Chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity.

A World War II Marine veteran, he saw action in the invasions of Eniwetok Island and Guam. He holds the Navy Unit Citation and the Purple Heart.

Perdue and his wife, Virginia, have two children.

AT CALVIN UNITED PRESBYTERIAN . . .

A service of carols and candles will be held Christmas Eve at 7:30 p.m. at Calvin United Presbyterian Church, 2900 Winchester-pk. The Senior Choir, under the direction of Ralph N. McConagha will sing and the pastor, Rev. Harrison A. Grumler will bring the meditation entitled "His Name Shall be Called Wonderful."

AT SCOTTWOOD COMMUNITY . . .

A Christmas Eve candlelight service will be at 7:30 p.m. at Scottwood Community Church, 3330 Scottwood-rd. Holy communion will be offered at the rail to all wishing to participate, and Rev. William E. Griffiths will give the meditation. Preceding the service a program of special Christmas music will be presented by T. Betty Gillum, church organist. Both the Youth and Chancel Choirs, under direction of Lawrence Gillum, will sing anthems appropriate to the season.

City Schools' Guidance Head Is Dead At 57

Funeral service for Elliott F. Reichelderfer, 57, of 371 Fairway-blvd, director of child guidance and student counseling for Columbus schools, was held Dec. 18 at the Schoedinger Funeral Home.

Interment was at Adelphi.

A Pickaway County native, Reichelderfer was a graduate of Ohio University.

He started in the Columbus school system as a science teacher at Barrett Junior High in 1941.

He became assistant director of child study and student counseling in 1954. He was named director in 1958.

Survivors include wife, Esther; and mother, Mrs. Blance Reichelderfer.

Road, CATV Top Council In Whitehall

Whitehall Council, in the last session of its current term, tabled action on one measure and deferred consideration of another in the interests of fair play.

At the suggestion of councilman Ray Shipley, members tabled until February an ordinance to extend E. Mound-st west from Shady Lane-rd to the new apartments on E. Main, next to Whitehall Discount.

Opponents of the road had been promised, Shipley reminded, that a traffic survey would be taken to determine the need before action would be taken, and the traffic count had not been made.

And consideration of a request for a license by Capitol Cablevision, Inc., to provide cable television service in the city was deferred because, according to Council President Walter Siemer:

"Multi-Channel (a company already licensed by the city) is attempting to go into business, and we want to give them a chance. Then," he continued, "we think we will issue other licenses, because a competitive market is good."

Paul Setters of Multi-Channel explained that unforseen delays in contracting for the use of existing public utility poles had slowed progress in installing the service.

Council also repealed its action of last December that established a capital improvements fund for the city, and designated that all tax money, after the expenses of its collection, should go into the general fund.

The move was an economic necessity, according to finance chairman Marvin Levine, because of additional city expenses.

"The salary raises for the firemen and policemen, and the addition of 11 more men in those departments, will cost more than $120,000 — the amount that would go into capital improvements fund," he explained.

Council authorized that bids be advertised for the improvement of Orton Davis Memorial Park.

Jewish Center Plans Children's HolidayProgram

Two programs will be offered children in grades one through six, from Dec. 27 through Dec. 30, at the Jewish Center.

Junior winter day camp for first through fourth grades will have as its theme "Stars and Stripes, the Land of the Free and Home of the Brave." In addition to the gym and swim program, there will be trips, plays and discussion.

Maccabiad will close the four-day holiday camp.

The program for fifth and sixth graders will have as its theme, "Freedom Fighters." Campers will visit agencies—city, state and federal — and have swimming, a gym program and special events.

Adult leadership will be under the direction of Eli Estreicher, group work supervisor, and Mrs. Nate Nateman, tween director.

Registration will be limited by transportation requirements.

COLOR THEM 'HAPPY'

THESE WINNERS in the Spectator's annual "Color Santa Claus" contest dropped by the office to pick up their prizes. Front row is Linda K. Wilkins, six, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wilkins of 244 Belvidere. Linda took home a doll for her efforts. Front row right is Tommy Crawford, four, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Crawford of 226 Hillcrest-av. Tommy is displaying the fire truck he won. Back row right is Patti Sauber, eight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Sauber of 1239 Woodcroft-rd. Patti took home a cuddly stuffed dog. Back row left is Mark Whitmer, eight, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Whitmer of 477 Stanley-av. Mark won a football for his entry.

Heritage Homes In Gahanna Light Up For Yule Contests

Cash prizes and trophies, as well as beautifully decorated homes, were the rewards for Heritage residents in Gahanna who were prize winners in the community's two home decorating contests.

Prizes totaling $100 were presented to winners in the contest sponsored by Virginia Homes, and first, second and third place trophies, in the one staged by Heritage Civic Association.

FIRST PRIZE check for $40 was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Floyd A. Headlee, 223 Heritage, by Douglas Spohn of Virginia Homes, sponsor of the Christmas decorating contest in the Heritage community.

In the Virginia Homes competition, judging was on the basis of consistency of the theme and overall planning.

Winners were: first, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd A. Headlee, 223 Hermitage, for their religious display. Blue lights subdued part of the display, and the central figures were emphasized by the radiance of brighter lights.

Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Kretchmar of 228 Hermitage, second prize winners of $25, interpreted the spirit of Christmas with a spotlighted Santa Claus emerging from the chimney, and his sleigh and reindeer, and an unusual window treatment. Recorded Christmas music heightened the effect.

The home at 252 Dunbarton had the appearance of a Christmas greeting card, outlined with colorful lights, and Mr. and Mrs. Lester P. Horn were winners of the third prize of $15.

The four fourth-place winners of $5 each were Mrs. Frances Ashbaugh, 230 Lansdowne; Mr. and Mrs. Willis Chapman, 300 Brookhaven-dr N.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Goulston, 231 Hermitage, and Mr. and Mrs. Bill F. Hunter, 396 Hermitage.

First, second and third place trophies were awarded in The Heritage Civic Association contest, open to members only.

First place trophy went to Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Kretchmar, 228 Hermitage, second to Mrs. Frances Ashbaugh, 230 Lansdowne, and third to Mr. and Mrs. Lester Horn, 252 Dunbarton.

Ted Davidson is president of Heritage Civic Association, and the contest was judged by Thomas Hatton, junior high school art teacher, and Donald Enwer, safety engineer.

Judges for the competition sponsored by Virginia Homes were Douglas Soohn of Virginia Homes, and Betty Daft, editor of The Eastern Spectator.

Spectator Staffer Gets City Post

Columbus City Clerk-designate John T. Gordon has announced appointment of Frank J. Ryan, Spectator Newspapers reporter, as assistant city clerk. He will assume his new duties on Jan. 3.

Ryan

Ryan has 14 years of newspaper and public relations experience. He has been on The Spectator staff the past three years, and for five years was a reporter for the Sandusky, O., Register.

From 1959 through 1962, Ryan was assistant director of public information for the Ohio Department of Highways during the administration of former Gov. Michael V. DiSalle.

A native of Cleveland, Ryan was educated in the Cleveland public and parochial schools. He moved to the Columbus area seven years ago.

He and his wife, Norma, reside at 4177 Elbern-av, Whitehall. The Ryans have three children, Mary Elizabeth, nine; Kevin Patrick, seven, and David Justin, three years old.

Six Local Youths Get Funds, Sing

Six East Area boys, ages 12 to 15, decided to do something in the Christmas spirit.

They collected contributions for the Peck-O'-Wee-Ones, 4216 E. Broad-st, a home for uneducatable children, and sang carols, dressed as caroilers of old.

Participating youths were Jeff and Tim Meeker, Steve and Robin Lucas, Norman Early and Dirk Rogers.

Joseph Shaw Is In Viet Nam

Army Sgt. Joseph F. Shaw, son of Mrs. Letha I. Shaw, 1471 Granville-st, was assigned to the U. S. Army, Viet Nam.

Sgt. Shaw, a communication center supervisor in Headquarters Company, 30th Field Forces, Viet Nam, entered the Army in June 1961 and was last stationed at Ft. Totten, N. Y.

The 22-year-old soldier is a 1961 graduate of East High School.

A Job Well Undone...

Governor Rhodes is almost daily making a big political mistake.

His error is that he assumes the people of Ohio are stupid.

Since he took office as governor three years ago he's been running around the state and country, and more recently the world, telling everyone who will listen what a grand job he's done for Ohio and all "with no new taxes."

One thing Rhodes forgets to tell his listeners is that he has borrowed more than one billion dollars in bond issues and contemplates borrowing another $500 million, if he gets re-elected.

Now The Spectator is willing to bet that there is not a housewife among its readers who could not also do a grand job with the family budget if all she had to do when things got tight was to hold out her hand for a loan, and not have to worry about paying it back.

We've got to give the Governor credit, he's done a grand job . . . a grand job of juggling the books.

You don't have to be very smart to know that $1,000,000,000 has to be paid back, plus the interest, which will be staggering. And if it is not paid back from new tax sources then it has to come from present ones.

Obviously, then, the things which present taxes now pay for, such as mental health and public education, will have to get less.

Rhodes, of course, is counting on being re-elected before anyone figures it out.

Christmas Lingers Long

Again it is Christmas, and for those with eyes to see there is joy in the world about us. There is a certain feeling in the air, there is a warm stirring within our individual hearts.

Christmas is but one day, although the most magnificent and eventful day in the history of man's life upon this earth. Yet, with the monotonous march of the seasons, only Christmas comes so early and lingers so long.

It begins, perhaps, sometime in November when youngsters begin to count the days and mind their manners. It seems much nearer when schools and churches begin rehearsing holiday pageants and planning holiday decorations.

Should snow fall in early December, everyone becomes more aware of the approaching holiday. There's a bit of a spring in every step, a happy ring to the voices we hear.

The gradual quickening of heart and spirit becomes full-blown with the arrival of Christmas Eve. With the passing of gifts and greetings and the observance of family traditions, we gratefully accept the opportunity to return in heart and spirit to Bethlehem. In silence we may sit again in the church by the side of the road and find our heart filled with joy and gladness.

And, come what may, we feel we shall not soon forget THIS Christmas Day.

Let's CARE Enough

What will a dollar bill buy?

It will get you 20 five-cent postage stamps for that batch of Christmas cards the wife gave you — and which you forgot to mail.

And $1 will get you a bargain buy on a box of greeting cards for next year, because it's easier to mark the price down than for the merchant to re-shelve them all.

But a $1 bill sent to CARE will get you a bargain more in keeping with the season. It will provide an average 27 pounds of food for people who are lucky to see a dollar when they work a full week.

The holiday season CARE Food Crusade is a good way to express our Christmas hopes for peace and good will. CARE seeks to deliver six million food packages in the names of Americans, as part of a year-long plan to help feed more than 37 million hungry people.

And you don't have to stand in line to buy this bargain. Just mail your check to: CARE Food Crusade, 8 E. Chestnut-st, Columbus, Ohio 43215.

The Namath 'White Paper'

The United States Pentagon went to great lengths recently (a 500-word fact sheet) to explain why Joe Namath, a very gifted pro-football quarterback (about $400,000 worth gifted) was rejected for service in the Armed Forces.

Wittenmeier

The fact sheet is being circulated to offset (in the Pentagon's words) "anticipated public reaction."

The logic of the white paper went over like the proverbial lead balloon and contained about as much "meaty" logic as a shrunken spare rib.

The "fact" sheet explained that Namath's present occupation (beautifully titled on a recent TV show as "Mayhem on a Sunday Afternoon") couldn't be compared to actual combat.

"Professional assistance is close at hand," the report outlined, referring to the sideline physician.

"When playing pro football, it must be presumed that Namath does so with the counsel and preparation of doctors and trainers. In military service, these conditions would not necessarily be present."

What the 500 words basically boils downs to is: Namath is a valuable piece of merchandise which will profit a big business operation. Viet Nam is a "poor risk."

Conversely, John Doe, who works over at the lumber yard, won't be missed — except by maybe his wife and kids. And just try to peddle that "justice for all" line to them.

Mickey Mantle plays on bad legs for the Yankees but can't tote a rifle.

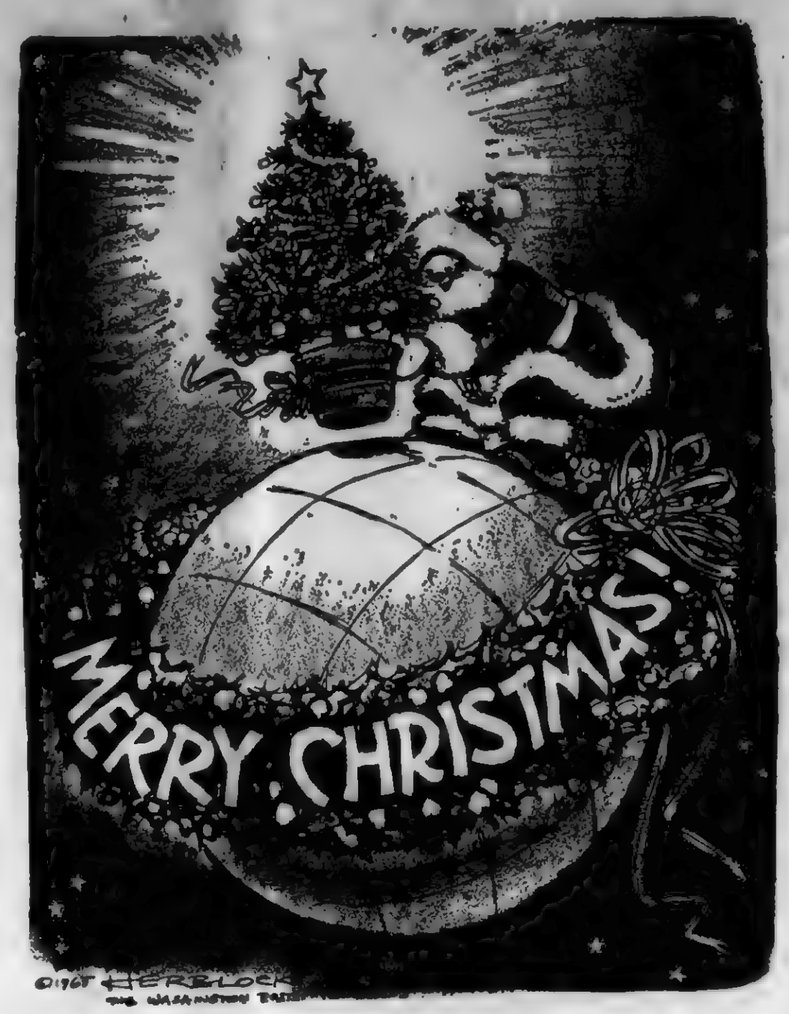
OPINION



A buddy of mine got out of the reserves because he knows a Congressman. Sure — there's justice for all.

If we recall from our military's propaganda films, the service places a lot of stock in something called "morale."

But then we suppose this is penny-ante compared to the accounts the fighting man in Southeast Asia receives from the home front about "patriotic" Americans shipping blood to the enemy and proudly waving Viet Cong flags.

Beautification Program

Calling Ohioans

By MICHAEL V. DiSALLE

Not many of Ohio's newspapers are willing to attempt to penetrate the flim-flam surrounding the present state administration.

In fact, when an individual has the audacity to suggest that all may not be perfect, he himself becomes the subject of attack.

It is therefore with pleasure that we present the following editorial from the Dayton Daily News of Dec. 2, 1965. It may be news to many citizens of Columbus and Franklin County:

WHO MERITS CREDIT FOR OHIO'S JOBS?

Unassailable is Gov. James Rhodes' renewed claim that Ohio has some 200,000 more jobs than when he took office almost three years ago. The governor's predictable effort to draw a cause-and-effect relationship between his administration and the increase, however, is as vulnerable as a straw castle.

Without doubt, the governor's eagerness for bundling with industry has played a part. His effort to entice new firms has had some success, not because of the sweet nothings he stage-whispers to business (the "no new taxes" line appeals mainly to down-at-the-heels operators) but because Ohio, with central location and skilled labor, is naturally attractive to many firms.

Even so, most of the new jobs result from expansion of existing industries — expansion that would have occurred no matter who was in the statehouse. During previous Ohio administrations, notably less cozy with business, jobs were on the increase, too.

Despite the governor's chest-thumping, job expansion in Ohio remains roughly on a par with the national average. In fact, while jobs in Ohio increased by 6.6 percent over a three-year period, jobs in Michigan increased by 12.4 percent, in California by 11.4 percent, in Texas by 9.5 percent, Indiana by 9.1 percent and in Wisconsin by 8.6 percent.

More than to Gov. Rhodes, credit for Ohio's new jobs belongs to the federal money policies of the Kennedy and Johnson administrations. By imaginative use of fiscal leverage (tax cuts, pertinent federal spending, establishment of wage-price guidelines), Washington has launched and sustained an unprecedented, five-year economic expansion, relatively free of undermining inflation. Ohio has benefited with most of the nation.

Meanwhile, throughout Gov. Rhodes' stewardship, state support has lagged badly for such crucial responsibilities as education. It is a large price, in the long run, that Ohioans are paying to justify one man's campaign slogan.

Where Credit Is Due . . .

Best Wishes For A Merry Christmas From The Spectator Staff

Letters To The Editor

Applauds Editorial

To The Editor:

Your Dec. 16 editorial—"Education's Plight"—certainly placed Ohio's education muddle in proper perspective. To your call for education leaders to do battle in the political arena, I would include leading citizens in all walks of community life as well.

Certainly local industry stood to benefit enormously from the trained workers the proposed vocational school would have supplied. Yet, with few exceptions, this support was not forthcoming. And now $1.4 million of federal aid and a golden opportunity have been lost.

You could have added another member to the "team" needed to carry the education message to the people—an informed press willing and able to state the message clearly and forcefully.

The Spectator has demonstrated its willingness and capacity to tackle this vital assignment. Your support of the vocational school was heartening, the articles by Betty Daft were most informative. Keep pitching—we'll eventually get better schools safely across the old "mill" stream.

Readers 'Appalled'

To the Editor:

After reading "Church Draws Teens with Rock 'n Roll" (Spectator, Dec. 9), we were appalled. Mrs. Fran Alberty seemed to imply that the only way to get teenagers to church is by bribing them with social activities. If young people attend services only because of interest in social activities and not because of religious devotion, they are violating the very purpose of religion.

We feel that the manner in which the article dealt with Mr. Hayden was contemptuous. His witty remarks were used to symbolize the "rebellious youth." Barry Hayden does have "long, blond hair" and he dresses in a way in which Mrs. Alberty perhaps disapproves, but this fact does not make him a "hood," and neither does it condemn other young people.

Perhaps Mrs. Alberty, not knowing the Dantes' price, considered $80 to be a generous offer. But, after learning their price, she should not have pressed the matter any further. Mrs. Alberty possibly feels that she was insulted by Mr. Hayden's remarks; however, Mr. Hayden may have been insulted by Mrs. Alberty's insistence.

We wish to thank The Spectator for allowing us to express our opinion.

'Kinder Key' Success

To the Editor:

Just a note to express our deep gratitude for the excellent editorial and news releases The Spectator gave us for the Kinder Key caroling drive. We exceeded our goal of $15,000 compared with last year's previous high of $13,700.

Your strong endorsement undoubtedly influenced the largest number of groups and the warm welcome we received wherever we caroled.

Our heartfelt thanks.

Wants Museum Downtown

To the Editor:

It seems a shame to us that the governor has decided to locate the new state museum out in the "sticks," as we call it.

It would be a nice addition to the Civic Center and would be close to public transportation there.

It is our understanding that the state library will be included in the new building. We are patrons of this library, but a location away from public transportation on the fairgrounds will mean the end of that — we don't own a car.

OUR HAIR-RAISING CITIZENS

by Jenkin Lloyd Jones
Editor, Tulsa (Okla.) Tribune

In 1830, a man named Joseph Palmer moved into Fitchburg, Mass., and created a sensation. He wore a beard.

The citizens of Fitchburg first snickered, then laughed, then began to get sore. For Palmer's stubborn non-conformity seemed to mock them. Bricks began flying through the windows of his home. When four men tried to pin him down and lather him he responded with a jackknife, whereupon he was fined for "unprovoked assault."

Palmer refused to pay the fine and for more than a year he remained in jail, periodically resisting efforts by jailers and even other prisoners to forcibly shave him. He wrote letters to newspapers and finally readers began to grow intrigued with the man who was imprisoned for wearing what the Lord had given him. The issue became a cause celebre, for if a so-called democratic society could deprive a man of liberty because he wore a beard, what other tyrannies might society impose?

The embarrassed judge eventually told Palmer he might leave the jail and no American has since been officially punished for wearing a beard. As a matter of fact, 30 years after Palmer's martyrdom all America was back at beard-growing, and the clean-shaven man was looked at with some suspicion.

They say primitive camp conditions of the Civil War made the beard popular, for the fighting man was likely to be unshaven. And it wasn't until King C. Gillette came up with his safety razor about 1900 that the Dundrearies, Burnsides, spades, mutton chops, etc., began to go.

Now the beard is coming back — a little. It is on the picket lines and getting common in the college unions and more and more artistic and professional people are raising and trimming foliage designed to peddle an impression of profundity.

The ghost of Joseph Palmer must look down upon these experiments with great delight, for no one has been thrown in the pokey yet. His travail was not in vain.

But the Beatle haircut is another thing. For males too young to grow whiskers can sport kookie hairdos and every few weeks there's a flap in the papers over some fed-up school principal who proscribes a decent haircut and some kid who throws his constitutional rights around.

The Beatle haircut is really first cousin to the chili bowl haircut, common in rural regions a generation ago and produced by simply clapping a chili bowl on a child's head and cutting around it. But its ancestry is more venerable for surely Dante and Henry V wore them.

But the trouble with our hair-growers is that they are not willing to pay the penalty which Anglo-Saxon civilization exacts from all non-conformists. And the penalty is the suspicion that these ostentatious rebels have little on the ball, and have resorted to making spectacles of themselves because it is the only way they can command attention.

This suspicion is supported by the fact that few beatniks can even write poetry and practically no Mods or Rockers ever rise above shipping clerk.

Nevertheless, rebellion is a right even when it is ridiculous. If anyone wants to go back to the beaver, so be it. Let him have his freedom, and let us have our suspicions.

CERTIFIED AUDIT OF CIRCULATIONS CAC

$2,284,522 Education Funds Allocated For City Schools

Three of 10 requests for educational projects for children from low-income families, to be financed by Columbus Schools' $2,284,522 allocation from the state, were approved by the school board.

Approved to be submitted were proposals relating to the enrichment units, pre-kindergarten, health services and after-school study centers.

Superintendent Harold H. Eibling announced that the remaining six projects would be submitted to the board in January.

At the board's first meeting of the year proposals relating to reading and arithmetic improvement programs and an expanded counseling program will be submitted, and at its second session projects on educational specialists, supportive services and the employment of lay helpers.

Pupils in 47 schools, where enrollment percentage of youngsters from under-$2000 homes exceeds the city-wide average, will benefit from the enrichment programs established under the education act of 1965.

Schools are, alphabetically: Central, East, North and South Highs, Barrett, Champion, Everett, Franklin, Indianola, Mohawk, Monroe and Starling Junior Highs.

Avandale, Beatty Park, Beck, Bellows, Brentnell, Chicago, Clearbrook, Dana, Douglas, Eastgate, Eastwood, Eleventh, Fair, Fairwood, Felton, Fifth, First, Franklinton, Fulton, Garfield, Heyl, Hubbard.

Indianola, Kent, Leonard, Lincoln Park, Livingston, Main, Maryland Park, Michigan, Milo, Mohawk, Ninth, Ohio, Olentangy, Pilgrim, Reeb, Second, Siebert, Sixth, Southwood, Stewart, Sullivant, Trevvitt, Weinland Park, West Mound and Windsor Elementaries.

A "cluster" technique will be employed to service eligible schools, by priority, in order to effect maximum impact.

By this means, Central and East Highs, and the qualified elementary and junior highs that feed into them, would be given highest priority.

South and the qualified schools that feed it would be given second priority, and North schools the lowest.

Because the Elementary and Secondary Education Act specifically provides for extending services to private school pupils, constant contact is being maintained with diocesan school officials during planning.

CORE 'Rejects Council'

By BETTY DAFT

Rev. Arthur Zebbs, coordinator of CORE, registered the group's "rejection" of the planned intercultural Council on Education, "as it now stands," at the school board meeting.

He also said, "CORE will protest use of funds in the Elementary and Secondary Act of 1965. We do not believe federal funds should be allocated to schools that are segregated."

Plans to form the council of representative educators, Civil Rightists, parents and citizens, to study intercultural problems in education and make recommendations to school board — were announced at the last board meeting.

But the structure of the council, Zebbs said, "Would simply delay action (on problems) . . . be an endless cycle of referrals . . . is a bureaucratic absurdity."

Rev. Phale Hale, president Columbus NAACP, did not speak during the meeting but indicated after its adjournment that NAACP was satisfied to wait, and attempt to work out problems in the council.

Rev. Zebbs also repeated the CORE's demands that the present building program, including new schools in predominantly Negro areas, be halted since it "only aggravated" racial imbalance in schools.

His statement that city-wide proficiency tests show that children in predominantly Negro schools are below average in academic achievement drew comments from board members.

They expressed their interest and concern, and pointed to enrichment programs and more money, teacher personnel and equipment directed to these schools.

Dr. Watson Walker said, "What Rev. Zebbs says is true. Achievement levels are lower in Negro schools, but is it because they are Negro? . . . We must consider other factors, broken homes, background, motivation.

"I am for racial balance in schools," Dr. Walker said firmly, "but for different reasons. It's a problem of democracy, a part of education that our children learn early to get along with other races."

And Superintendent Dr. Harold Eibling, repeated, "We have studied plans (for racially balancing schools coast to coast, but nowhere have we found one completely satisfactory.

"There are children, both Negro and white," he continued, "who are deprived, bring less to school and these all need our help."

Airport To Get Power

Emergency standby electric power from the Federal Aviation Agency will probably be installed next spring at Port Columbus, Airport Superintendent Jack Bolton said.

The FAA has 140 generators and plans to distribute them to 100 major airports in the country, it was announced.

LAW SCHOOL NOW CAPITAL COLLEGE

FRANKLIN LAW SCHOOL, newly-affiliated with Capital University, will now be known as the Franklin Law College of Capital, and will move to Capital's campus from the YMCA. The law courses will continue to be taught at night, as well as Franklin's general college courses and those of the technical institute. Capital's charter, made in 1850, provided for a College of Law, but it was never instituted. From left are Ralph Klapp, dean of Franklin University Law School; Joseph F. Frasch, president of Franklin University, and Harold L. Yochum, president of Capital University.

Cooking, Sewing Classes

Barnett Center members may register now for new classes in cooking and sewing. The schedule is: elementary girls, 9-12, Monday, 3:30-5:45; Saturday, 9:15-10:30, and 6-8, Wednesday, 3:30-5:45. Boys, 6-12, Thursday, 3:30-5:45.

Teen cooking — Monday, 7-9:30.

Elementary sewing: girls—six to eight, Tuesday, 3:30-5:45, and nine to 12, Friday, 3:30-5:45.

New Classes

Barnett Center announces two new classes that will begin in January. On Monday evenings, adult knitting will be taught from 8:30 to 10, and on Thursday evenings, a class in teen grooming will be offered from 7:30 to 9.

Barnett ended its pre-season basketball leagues this week.

After six weeks of play the All Stars look like the team to beat in the intermediate league while a new entry in the Senior League, Christ the King C.Y.C., looks very good.

Regular season play will begin the first week of January. During the Christmas vacation there will be a senior boys' holiday tournament with the other recreation centers of Columbus.

Two junior boys were selected as players of the day.

Paul Kiener, a member of the Stingrays, was selected as player of the day, Monday, Dec. 13. He scored 13 points and played an outstanding floor game in a losing cause.

Paul is 13 and attends Christ the King School. He is a member of Barnett Boys Club.

Ron Whitman was selected player of the day, Wednesday, Dec. 15. He led his Celtics to a victory over the Bombers by scoring six points and playing an outstanding defensive game.

Ron is a sixth grade student at Christ the King where he is a member of the reserve basketball team.

The Christmas Story---2,000 Years Later

The stars winked over the world on that night nearly two thousand years ago. And a baby's cry pierced the snow-filled stillness of winter. That squall from a manger has echoed down the corridors of the centuries and the season of Christ's birth has come to be known as Christmas.

It is written that a star guided three wise men from the East to that humble manger in Bethlehem. And that these men, believing in the Deity of the newborn infant before them, presented the Christ with gold, frankencense and myrrh.

The wise men, along with the gift of the Son of God himself, has, through the ages, given rise to a season in which the joy is giving, a season of brotherly love, a season that remembers the birth of the Christ.

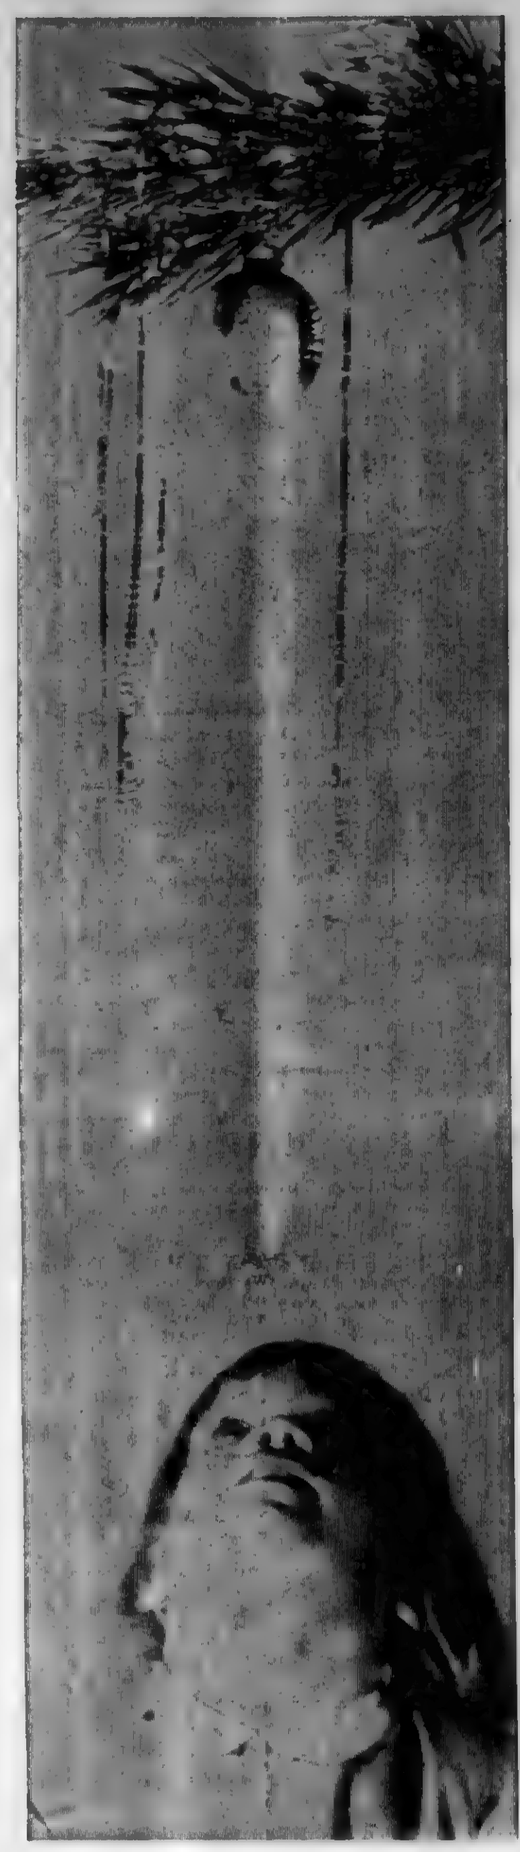
Yet, now there are millions who have not heard the squall of that infant. And in the countries that have, the custom has usurped the commemoration, so that the emphasis is not on giving as much as exchange. And the cash register clicks off the count of a forgetting people.

There are some who would tell you the infant never was born. And there are others who would tell you His Father never existed. And there are still more who would tell you the winter solstice was a pagan time of celebration even before the alleged birth of the Christ. And there are some who have heard the squall and said that its echo is so faint, it has no meaning in this, the Twentieth Century.

As modern man looks around his imperfect world, he is puzzled by the billions who have not even heard of the Christ; he is puzzled by the meaning of war; he is puzzled by the meaning of suffering, death and disease. He is puzzled about the enormity of space and the meaning of time; he is puzzled about the process of aging, the test-tube production of life, the artificial extension of personality, the trick of organ replacement, the enormity of planet exploration and the technological possibility of human extinction. His mind shrinks at the magnitude of the population problem. He is puzzled as to the meaning of history, the ploddings of philosophy, the dictums of theology.

Man looks at his world of the Twentieth Century and sees the accelerated pace of his daily life skip from a walk to a run. He hears the rumblings of the wit, the sage, the wise man, the priest, the minister, the rabbi, the fool, the biologist, the psychiatrist and the physicist. He hears the preachings of all these and he looks inside to an infinity of the interior and outside to an infinity of the cosmos.

Where is the soul if children are created in a laboratory by a biologist? Where is God if the secrets of life can be unraveled by the physicists? Where is the sanctity of personal human worth if the science of the mind can manipulate an entire culture into acts of robots? Where is Heaven if the dead are dead forever? Where is Hell if there is no Heaven?



It is said this is the age of anxiety. With all these questions, man has a right to be anxious. He has a right to be perplexed. In the lights of the Twientieth Century, in view of the life-death questions to be answered, with the aura of a breakdown of the entire traditional structure that has held the Western world together for 2000 years, we have yet to interpret the squall of the infant and apply it today.

And at Christmas, it is good to remember what we must unify. It is good to remember that this is the season of the birth of Christ.

And no matter what the questions or what the problems . . . no matter what the belief, that squall is the cry of love.

And a more unifying sound has yet to be heard.

Little Bucks Fly South For Bowl Re-Match

Eastern Airlines Jet Flight 301, departing from Columbus Sunday morning, will carry Columbus hopes for a second straight Key West (Fla.) Bowl title in the form of the Little Buckeyes.

Little League footballers, unbeaten in three seasons of play (yielded only three TDs to opponents), will defend its Bowl title Thursday, Dec. 30, against the Key West All-Stars.

COACH TOM Krieger and his assistants have been drilling the Little Bucks for their grid encounter for the past several weekends — outdoors at the Barnett Recreation Center and indoors at Hartley High School.

The gridders have also practiced at Denison and Kenyon Universities.

Upon arrival at Miami International Airport Sunday, the Little Bucks will fly directly to the Keys for final practice sessions.

SEE PICTURE ON PAGE FIVE

AS IT did last year, the Key West organization has scheduled several educational and historical tours for the youngsters plus a visit to inspect Navy subs, destroyers and sub-chasers.

After the bowl game, the Little Buckeyes have tentative plans to attend the Orange Bowl Parade (Dec. 31) and the Orange Bowl game on New Year's Day in Miami.

The team will depart for home Sunday, Jan. 2.

HERE IS THE traveling squad for the Florida trip: Gary Ballen, Dennis Bernhard, Jim Bontadelli, Stu Brownstein, Bob Burns, Ken Bush, Terry Cashin, Ed Collins, Gary Defourny, Guy Dunn, Mike Egger, Jim Fausnaugh, Steve Flowers, Chuck Fowle, Greg Hale, Rich Hunter, Chuck Kloman, Jim Kuhn, Steve Korpieski, Greg Lackowsky, Mike Mack, Phil Mirvis, John Moltenberry, Vince Passero, Dick Plageman, Dave Ross, John Todhunter, Bill Vest, Jim Wile, head coach Krieger and assistant coaches Tom Ellifritz, Bob Irwin and Bern Eichner.

Whitehall 5 Topples Bexley; Tigers Stay Atop City Heap

By BOB WHITMAN

East's Tigers kept a firm foot in first place in the City League cage race with a commanding 86-50 win over Whetstone last week.

The Tigers share that top slot with cool Linden and Francis-ized West.

In other area action Friday: Gahanna fell to Marysville, 57-51, Bexley lost to Whitehall, 59-47, West beat Eastmoor, 84-63, Teays Valley dropped Walnut Ridge, 58-38, and Academy bopped Rosary, 44-41.

GIL MATTHEWS LED the Tiger charge with 31 points, better than doubling Whetstone ace Dick Rahn's output of 15.

West's Jerry Francis scored 27 points and Larry Dreisling added 17 and 19 rebounds to bring down Eastmoor on the Warriors' floor.

Eastmoor was led by Gary Cochran's 10 points and Bill Hoy's 14 markers.

Teays Valley got its first win of the year with a 20 point bulge over the Scotties. Pat Beveridge netted 21 points for the 0-4 Scots.

ACADEMY'S JOHN Fulford netted 13 points in the Vikings' win over Rosary but Chuck Bosse's 18 points were in vain for Gahanna's Lions.

Whitehall, paced by the balanced scoring of five starters, drubbed Bexley who had only two Lions in double digets.

Lewis Anderson netted 14, Stan Robinson scored 12, Harv Eader bagged 11, Jim Dildine netted 10 and John Bankes scored nine.

Mac McCloy and Dave Johnston netted 18 and 17 points respectively for Bexley.

HARTLEY LOST Saturday to a pressurized Teays Valley combine that rode the crest of late foul shooting to a 59-54 victory.

T-V outscored the Hawks, 18-12, in the third period to turn the tide of a see-saw battle.

Doug Parker's 18 points paced the Hawks while brother Rod scored 13 in Hartley's fifth defeat against a lone win.

THE VICTORY gave Teays Valley its second scalp from the Eastern area in as many nights.

In two other Saturday night games, Salem clobbered Walnut Ridge, 79-44, and Reynoldsburg edged Gahanna, 43-40.

Salem outscored the Scots, 17-6, in a "move away" third period en route to its win. Paul Gillespie, Jr., (11) and Pat Beveridge (10) paced W-R scoring.

GAHANNA ruled the boards but not the shooting (hit only 16 of 51 field goal attempts) in its setback to Reynoldsburg.

Fred Browning and Chuck Bosse paced Lion scoring with 11 points each.

ROD REBOUND — Hartley cager Rd Parker (53) puts a vise-like clamp on this rebound Saturday under the Teays Valley basket as Viking foe Gayle Fosnaugh decides he wants no part of the Hawk soph. Rod added up 13 markers for Hartley but Hawks lost, 59-54.

Ram Wrestlers Win Fourth; Bexley, E-M, East Squads Win

Whitehall and Bexley made the most of final pre-holiday grappling tests — the Rams and Lions each ringing up a pair of wins.

Elsewhere East opened with a lopsided 34-5 verdict over Pleasant View, Eastmoor downed Hartley, 35-15, and Walnut Ridge had to take a back seat to Groveport at the Scotties' triangular.

WHITEHALL, unbeaten in four outings now, added Chillicothe (25-18) and Grandview (22-19) to its list of victims while Bexley racked up victories over Watkins Memorial (36-12) and Delaware (26-11).

Here are the respective rundowns:

Whitehall - Chillicothe

The Rams trailed, 18-14, going into the final three events but Herb Seymour (165), Dave Graff (175) and Ken Flowers (heavyweight) grabbed three straight wins (Graff via pin) to turn defeat into victory.

Steve Beery got a pin win at 127 while Bruce Upperman (112), Spike Ludwig (133) and Randy Nichols (145) earned decisions.

Whitehall - Grandview

THE ROLE was reversed against the Bobcats (now 2-1) who found themselves down, 19-5, going into the 145 match.

Four straight Grandview wins knotted the count at 19-all but Ram heavyweight Ken Flowers provided the victory margin with a decision victory.

Beery and Nichols turned in five-pointers (pins) for Whitehall while Upperman, Mike Decker (112) and Gene Ochsendorf (133) got decision wins.

* * *

BEXLEY HAD little difficulty with either opponent with Reese Lattimer (103), Steve Sloan (120), Steve Gutter (133), Jim Kelley (138), Mark Gitlitz (154) and Bruce Levin (165) garnering wins in both meets.

Mike Elin (127) and Dennis Walker (heavyweight) recorded wins vs. W-M while Tom Shafer (112) took a decision in the Delaware scrap.

Gitlitz got the only pin win against the Pacers while Sloan, Elin, Kelley, Levin and Gitlitz got five-pointers against the out-manned Warriors.

East - Pleasant View

CHUCK DEYO'S Tigers swept through 10 of 11 events to completely upend the Panthers.

Heavyweight Willie Jackson got East's lone pin but Ralph Cox (103), Wil Ivory (112), Jake Holloway (127), Clarence Bennett (138), Waver Craft (145), Bill Allen (154), Warren Handon (165) and George White (175) got decisions and Danny Young won via default at 133.

Hartley - Eastmoor

Inexperience proved costly to the Hawks in a loss to the Warriors — a match which saw pins deciding eight of 11 weight events.

E-M ZOOMED off to a 23-0 lead before Hartley could get on the scoreboard as Dan Calhnan (103), Paul Goss (112), Pete Prendergast (120) and Steve Maddox (127) secured Warrior pins and Joe Voneida won via decision.

Following a draw at 138, Hartley rallied with Mike Newton (145) pinning his opponent and Lou Bernhard (154) winning by decision.

But E-M's Larry Mixon (165) and Steve Gutridge (heavyweight) got pin wins to offset a like performance by the Hawks' Jim Barleycorn at 175.

W-R Triangular

GROVEPORT outdistanced Walnut Ridge, 56-49, to capture the Scotties' event with Circleville (38) finishing third.

The Scots started strong with Terry Roberts (103), Dave Sheets (112) and George Stoner (120) recording firsts.

But after Circleville took the 127 nod, Groveport put together a five-match string of wins with W-R's only other first coming with John Cruse's verdict at 175.

KERRY ENDSLEY (127), Dave Carr (133), Jim Kinser (138) and Ron Remy (heavyweight) took seconds for the Scotties.

Fearless Predictions

Apparently back on the track after a slow start, the "Fearless One" moved out on a 22-5 count last weekend to whisk his cage total to 92 right, 29 wrong.

Here's the final pre-holiday outlook (winners indicated by bold face print):

8 Veterans Pace Hawk Tank Hopes

By JACK WITTENMEIER

(This is the last in a series of previews on area entries in the Central Ohio Swimming League).

HARTLEY

In a tough COSL, Hartley's task of splashing up the loop ladder might seem monumental but the Hawk mermen could well improve on a 1-7 '64-65 mark this season behind eight returning vets and a pair of top sophomore prospects.

Only key loss of Hartley's squad last season was Jim Waggonbrenner, a butterfly competitor.

BUT BACK to bolster Hawk tank hopes are seniors Paul Prendergast (captain, competes in 200-yd. individual medley and breastroke) and Tom Lombardo (freestyler), juniors Pat McKinley (butterfly, freestyle), Mike Greiner (individual medley, backstroke), Danny Moore (free-

Debutantes Of '66 Honored At Mother-Daughter Tea

A Mother - Daughter Tea was held by Raanana, an affiliate of Mizrachi Women's Organization of America, at the home of Mrs. Bernard Gerson to acquaint the debutantes of 1966 with the plans for the seventh annual Cotillion Ball, to be held Jan. 23, 1966 at the Sheraton - Columbus Hotel. The ball will be a kosher dinner-dance.

The ball features the official launching of a young lady socially. Raanana's version presents the local high school senior girls to the Columbus community.

The debs will be attired in pastel gowns. Each girl will be called to the stage where she will be introduced by a prominent personality.

The girl's father will then greet her as she comes down from the flower decked stage. When all the debs are together, they will dance an exhibition waltz with their fathers.

Debutantes who attended the tea were Janice, daughter of Mrs. Anne Greenberg; Linda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bliss; Barbara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Wetzler; Andrea, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewin, Jeanne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Sims; Sherry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Peselnick; Maureen, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. I. M. Brenner.

Leslie, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ben Center; Bonnie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Siegel; Barbara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Golden; Carol daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Winner; Ellen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Fast; Yvonne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Goldberg; Judy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Newpoff; Martha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Levi and Susie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Gutter.

Mrs. Irving Stern, BE. 7-3464, will furnish further information upon request.

Charity Group Forms

The Tuesday, Dec. 28, 8 p.m. meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Eugene Dixon, 1659 Linwood-av. New and prospective members will be entertained at potluck luncheon.

Local Club Recognized In Chicago

Members of the local chapter who attended the culminating affair of the Dorothy Sadoff Memorial Club in Chicago were honored as the year's top fund raisers of the organization.

Honored were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Topolosky, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Quinn, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Edelstein, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lurie, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cohen, Mrs. Rose Quinn, Mrs. Morris Thall, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Baier, Mr. and Mrs. Al Pincus, Mr. and Mrs. Farrell Shar, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Shuman, Dr. and Mrs. A. Bert Thall, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Topolosky.

The local group is working on plans for its tenth annual card party for cancer research to be held at the Jewish Center, Wednesday, Jan. 5, at 8 p.m. Many prizes will be given and home-baked refreshments will be served.

Transportation will be provided. For information call: Mrs. Alexander, BE. 1-8048; Mrs. Son, BE. 7-5395, or Mrs. Thall, BE. 1-0826.

The Old, Old Story Is Still Good News

The Methodist Bishop, William Taylor, went as a young missionary to San Francisco in the gold rush days of 1849. He noticed there were great crowds of people, mostly men, on the streets of that city on Sunday morning.

So on Sunday morning he would take a barrel and roll it down the street to a corner and stand on top and raise a great shout, "What's the news?" When the curious gathered around to see this strange person and hear what he had to say, he would begin his preachings by saying, "Thank God, my brethren, I have good news for you this morning."

Rev. Smith

The gospel is "good news." For this was news of love, of loving acts, "love so amazing, so divine" it exceeds comprehension.

Whatever else it means, what was born into this world on that first Christmas was not an idea, but a child, a child who grew to be a person in whom the love of God was seen as never it had been seen before. The good news was Jesus, himself.

He is the Gospel, this carpenter's son, born in the humblest of circumstances.

One could argue that no other men or group of men have done so much to influence the world's history. Perhaps all the kings and princes put together have not done so much for the needs of mankind as Jesus.

Here then is the good news God gave to the world. All His wise words and His loving acts have significance because He was a loving and wise person. So the good news of the gospel is good news about personality. Because this one person lived, all persons are lifted up in value — because this person died as a criminal in a most degraded fashion, there is no one so low, so discouraged, so hopeless, so sinful but what His love can reach for He loves and understands.

It's still a source of amazement that that spirit which was in Jesus continues to live. Especially at Christmas but in other times as well so much is done for persons by persons. In spite of all that isn't done, we we should not diminish what is.

All the secret Santas, the Charity Newsies, the special gifts to social service agencies, our private and church gifts to the poor and the needy, the continuing commitment we make to those agencies and institutions like the church and others in society which speaks to the needs of persons. All reflect that one great spirit. The angel song still rings out, "Behold I bring you tidings of great joy, of good news."

McKinley is perhaps the most accomplished of the Hawk vets, the junior freestyler capable of turning in a 2:10 in the 200-yd. free and 4:50 in the 400-yd. event.

Also likely to see plenty of swim action this winter for the Hawks are a pair of promising sophomore prospects—Steve Holshulte (butterfly, individual medley) and Steve Downs (freestyler).

BESIDES their regular COSL competition, the Hawk mermen are scheduled twice this season in meets with Lancaster Public.

Hartley practises Monday through Thursday at the Jewish Center (5:30 p.m.) and again each Sunday (5-6 p.m.).

Congregation Honors Organist Of 48 Years

The congregation of Christ Lutheran Church gave a special surprise recognition recently to Miss Martha Stellhorn who had retired from her position as organist at the church in August of this year.

Dr. Hilmar Grimm, chairman of the congregation, expressed the gratitude of the members and her friends, and presented Miss Stellhorn with a gift check of $1,000 from the congregation.

Miss Stellhorn became a member of Christ Lutheran Church in 1913, and has held membership in the congregation since the date of her confirmation. Four years later she was appointed church organist and for the next 48 years served in that capacity until her voluntary retirement. During her tenure at the console Miss Stellhorn served under the pastorates of Jacob Sheatsley, Clarence Sheatsley, Otto Ebert, Robert Long, and Charles Lange, the present senior pastor. The senior choir directors at the church during those 48 years have been Paul Schacht, Otto Mees, Carl Fogel, Paul Mackinson, Wilbur Crist, and Ellis Snyder, the present director.

In addition to her duties as organist, Miss Stellhorn has performed innumerable tasks in the church, such as Sunday School teacher, secretary of the Women's Missionary Federation, secretary at the Augsburg Publishing House (formerly Wartburg Press), vice-president of the Golden Leaf Senior Citizens organization, a volunteer nurse's aid at various Columbus hospitals, and as bookkeeper at the church.

Maplewood East, Walnut Heights Residents Meet

Sixty homeowners of Walnut Heights and Meadowood East met in Maybury Elementary School, East Columbus, for a get acquainted meeting.

The meeting was conducted by John Tysen, 2429 Dailyrd, chairman for the planning committee of the proposed Meadowood East - Walnut Heights Civic Association.

A volunteer committee will review the charters of other civic organizations and draft a charter to be presented to residents in January.

Plans were announced for a Christmas home decoration contest. Awards will be given for best decoration of a home, door, or window. Santa will arrive in his sleigh on Dec. 19 with treats for the children and judges will select the contest winners.

Columbus Christmas Stories Have Good, Bad Endings

If Charles Dickens were here today, he might find a story in Columbus to rival his tale of the conversion of Ebenezer Scrooge.

The basic plot is public knowledge: Last week, thieves broke into the vestry case in the sacristy at Holy Cross Parish House. Passing up less valuable pieces, the intruders made off with two gold chalices.

Two days later, the chalices were found on the doorstep of the Parish House in a cardboard box. A note attached to the box said, "Merry Christmas. P. S. I'm sorry."

There's little doubt that the telling of what happened in the 48 hours between the theft and the return of the chalices could become another "Christmas Story" for the ages.

The spirit of Christmas is not universal, however.

A group of teenage boys severely beat a 77-year-old man in the back yard of his own home. He had come out to stop them from throwing trash and garbage in his yard. One of the boys has been charged with vicious assault, the others with disorderly conduct and trespassing. The victim, Emil Epperson, of 260 N. Ogden-av, was reported in fair condition in Mt. Carmel Hospital.

A rash of burglaries included theft of $3,500 in merchandise from the Firestone Store in the Great Southern Shopping Center and the carrying off of guns and money from a number of private homes.

Firearms were taken from the homes of Detective Sgt. Paul Fulton and Municipal Judge Kenneth L. Sater.

A 17-year-old boy was arrested for theft of a half-dozen automobiles over the past six weeks. He will face charges for crimes which earned him $200 and a few spare parts. The cars were disposed of through a "fence" in Obetz.

* * *

The happy look of Christmas on the faces of Columbus people as they looked out upon the city's first real snow Monday was saddened as hundreds of automobile accidents tied up slushy streets and intersections. Snow removal crews stayed hard at it, spreading the new blue ice-melting salt, but couldn't keep ahead of the white stuff.

Some 50 police, fire and private ambulances and emergency vehicles raced north on High-st Saturday morning to the scene of what was thought to be a major disaster.

Eight cars of the New York Central's State Limited bound for Cincinnati left the track after the train smashed into a huge earth-moving machine working on the Outerbelt north of Worthington.

First reports indicated many were killed and up to 80 injured. Officials on the scene, however, were relieved to find most of the passengers busy removing themselves and their companions from the wreckage.

One man died. He was Dana B. Bolin, 49, of Athens, O., driver of the earth-moving machine. In fair condition in the hospital were the train's engineer, Harvey Copus, of Parma and the fireman, Robert Codrington of Sheffield Lake. Twenty-five of the passengers were injured, but none seriously.

North High-st residents will not soon forget the eerie sounds of those 50 ambulances, sirens wailing, working their way through heavy holiday traffic to the scene of the accident.

Novice G. Fawcett, president of OSU, does not want the president's home which the university trustees have authorized to be built from private funds.

The money, some $300,000, has already been raised. But, a storm of protest broke out after the trustees' go-ahead decision. Construction of the home suddenly became a political football.

Fawcett, who prefers to leave football to Coach Hayes, indicated it would be in the best interests of the university not to build.

* * *

Central Ohio officials jetted down to Atlanta to eyeball some incinerators. They came back with glowing reports and a burning desire to get Columbus out of the garbage storage business.

Plans now call for construction of three incinerators in Franklin County, but a restraining order is holding up progress.

* * *

An 18-year-old Valleyview soldier was killed in action near Da Nang Air Base in Viet Nam. He was Pfc. William McKillop, of 2710 Elliott-av.

* * *

Once the New Year is officially rung in, City Treasurer of Columbus will be Hugh J. Dorrian. He is now a CPA with Peat Marwick Mitchell and Co.

Bus riders can expect a fare increase soon. The Columbus Transit Co. hopes to raise cash fares to 30 cents for adults and 15 cents for children 12 and under.

* * *

The City of Columbus would like 18 acres of Fort Hayes for recreation facilities.

* * *

Flashing blades last week were not the sign of new delinquency problems. Quite the opposite. The steel blades attached to the shoes on the feet of an outstanding group of young athletes, were being put through rigorous routines as part of the Eastern Great Lakes Regional Figure Skating championships at the OSU ice rink.

JOHN HERBERT

Herbert Will Try For Second Ohio Treasurer Term

State Treasurer John D. Herbert has announced his candidacy for a second four-year term. The 35-year-old Republican is expected to win nomination without opposition in the 1966 Republican primary election.

Herbert is the son of Thomas J. Herbert, former Ohio Attorney General, Governor and Ohio Supreme Court Judge. Previous to his 1962 election, Herbert had served as an assistant attorney general from 1957 to 1959.

He attended schools in Columbus and Cleveland, graduated from Culver Military Academy in 1948 and Princeton University in 1952. He received his bachelor of law degree from the University of Michigan in 1957.

Herbert was awarded the Bronze Star as a first lieutenant in the Korean War and was a captain in the 37th Division of the Ohio National Guard. He is a member of the Amvets, Veterans of Foreign Wars and American Legion Post 443.

Herbert and his wife, Joan, have five children and reside at 2528 Lytham-rd, Upper Arlington.

Elected To National Post

Herbert E. Evans, president of Peoples Broadcasting Corporation and WRFD Radio, has been elected for a two-year term as vice chairman of the United States National Commission for UNESCO.

EVANS

Evans is currently in his second two-year term as a member of the commission, having been appointed last year to the post by Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

The United States National Commission for UNESCO is composed of 60 prominent Americans from all types of endeavors who act jointly as a coordinating agency between the United States Government and the Secretariat of UNESCO headquartered in Paris.

U.S. membership on the commission was authorized in 1948 by a joint resolution of Congress co-sponsored by Sen. William Fulbright and the late Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio.

WRFD Names New Personality

Mike Leonard has been named as a new air personality at WRFD Radio as host of the "Mike Leonard Show" from 3:07 to 4 p.m. daily. Leonard replaces Jerry Dean who has left the station to accept a new position with WCOL Radio.

Before coming to the Columbus area, Mike served as a music personality and production manager for WPTW Radio in Piqua, O.

IN & AROUND TOWN

A guide to performers and performances in the Columbus area this week

LEE KURTY'S A PATIENT NURSE

Rod Warner, WLW-C promotion director, walked up to the receptionist's desk at Grant Hospital Sunday night at 9:30 and told the desk clerk he wanted to take a publicity picture.

"Lee Kurty is in town, and . . ." Rod was halted by the desk clerk who asked:

"Lee who?"

"Kurty," said Rod. "The nurse in the Dr. Kildare show . . . you know, with Richard Chamberlain."

"Oh, Richard Chamberlain," the girl said with an emphasis on the three syllables in "Chamberlain" that has echoed from the mouths of young lovelies throughout this land before.

She went dreamy in the eyes and if her boy friend hadn't been there to take her home she probably would have never snapped herself out of it.

"We'd like to photograph her with your fifth floor charge nurse," Rod pressed and motioned behind him to lithesome Lee, who sat wrapped in a ranch mink coat looking very much like a wholesome Kim Novak.

You could tell that this desk clerk had encountered nuts before. How could Rod expect her to believe that he wanted to take a publicity picture of a girl looking like Kim Novak with a fifth floor charge nurse at Grant Hospital at 9:30 on a cold Sunday night?

"You'll have to see the man in charge of the nurses . . . Mr. Mohr," she said, looking rather skeptical. Lee squirmed because she used to think it was hard to get into the MGM lot.

"Mr. Mohr will be with you in 10 or 15 minutes and let's go now, honey, I'm off work," she said to Rod and her boy friend in the same breath.

Rod sat down and made small talk. He and Lee discussed the Kildaire show and her part as Zoe (pronounced "Zo-ee"), the Florence Nightingale of Blair General Hospital.

Lee tried a joke to break the silence in the lobby.

"A man walks into a hospital with a penguin on his head and the penguin says to the nurse, 'Can you get this man off my feet?'"

If that doesn't sing here it's because you weren't trying to get into Grant Hospital for a publicity picture last Sunday night when anything was funny.

Anyway, Mr. Mohr entered and said he had to call someone else to clear this whole thing. The story evidently went to the board of directors. At any rate, the decision was "no, not tonight, call back in the morning."

Lee had a date with Spook Beckman's "Coffee Club" the next morning so they said "thank you" and left.

"You know," Lee said, walking out the emergency room exit, "I'm kinda glad we didn't go through with all this."

"Why?" asked Rod.

And then the girl who has devoted the prettiest years of her life to the television medical profession made a confession:

"The smell of hospitals makes me feel faint."

IN COLUMBUS PORT

U.S. NAVAL Academy Musician Chief Joseph McCuen (left) looks over a "Glee Club in Concert" program with singing president Midshipman Bruce Lechner before a performance Friday afternoon at Central High. The Annapolis voices performed at Mershon Auditorium that evening as part of their five-day tour to inspire future Naval Officers.

'Prince' At Center

The Gallery Players' adult production for children, "The Peppermint Prince," will open at the Jewish Center Sunday with two performances, 2 and 4 p.m.

The show will also run on Jan. 4 and 9 with same curtain times.

Gordon Gregg, director of the candyland fairy tale, says the cast will be made up of Gallery Players, Gallery Stagecrafters, Gallery Teens and the Junior Creative Theatre.

Make-up and scenery crews are needed and anyone interested in working or making reservations to attend the show should call the Gallery Player office, 231-2731.
